National Library Week events in Rahway

The Rahway Public Library will celebrate National Library Week, April 17-23, with special programs for all ages.

On Sunday, April 17 at 2:30 p.m. the Happy Times Children's Theatre, under the direction of Caryl Green, will perform "Katie and the Computer" and "The Little Red Hen."

At 3:30 p.m. the new computers in the Adult and Children's Departments will be unveiled. The purchase of this new equipment was made possible by a gift from the Rahway Savings Institution. These computers will be basically for the use of members of the Rahway community. However, on that day, only demonstrations of the computers by the staff will be scheduled.

At 4 p.m., Michael Hartnett, local artist, will present a talk and slide presentation focusing on the arts in Rahway.

Refreshments will be served by the Friends of the Library at the conclusion of both the Children and Adult Programs.

Bingo games for children will be held on Thursday, April 21. From 10:30 to 11 a.m., Shape and Color Bingo may be played by those of all Pre-school ages. Boys and girls who can read may play Book Bingo from 3:15 to 4:15 p.m. Paperback books will be given as prizes for winners of both sessions.

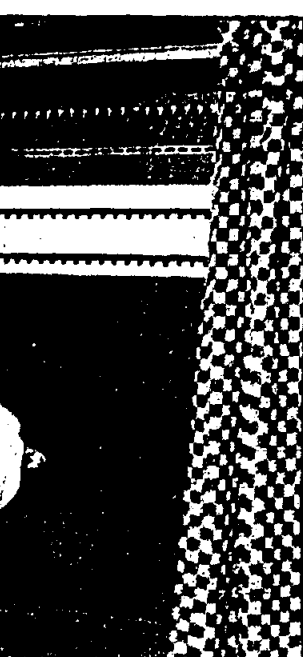

The public is cordially invited to join in these celebrations of library service to the community.

The library has handicapped access to all public service areas. For further information, call 388-0761.

HE'LL STILL BE SERVING . . . The Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders recently honored retiring Rahway Police Chief Theodore Polhamus for 40 years of service to the Rahway Police Department, the last 15 as chief. He joined the Rahway force as a reserve in 1948, became a patrolman in 1959, and Chief in 1973.

Freeholder James J. Fulcomer, at left, stated that: "Although Chief Polhamus is retiring from the Rahway Police Department, he will continue in the law enforcement field as the new Director of the Union County Police Academy." The Chief has served as an instructor at the academy for the past 15 years.

PULLING THE LEVER to cast her vote at Roosevelt School for the school elections is Rose Casuso.

Resource recovery facility info available to area residents

At the request of Rahway representatives on the Union County Utilities Authority (UCUA), documents outlining the design and environmental and health impacts of Union County's proposed resource recovery facility have been placed in Rahway City Hall, Main Street and E. Milton Avenue and in the Rahway Free Public Library, 1175 St. George Avenue.

Treasurer Joseph M. Hartnett said that the documents, which provide complete details of the facility design, technology and impacts on the local environment, are being placed in Rahway City Hall and the library so that information about the proposed facility will be easily accessible to residents of the highest community.

Business as usual at poorly attended council meeting

Residents again failed to show their interest in City government when only three attended Monday night's regular meeting of Rahway's Municipal Council.

Approved a resolution for the mayoral appointment of Arthur Gabel and William McBride as alternate members to the Zoning Board of Adjustment.

Mayor Martin on "Downtown"

Join host, Bob Zeglarski and meet Rahway Mayor Daniel L. Martin, live on Suburban Cablevision's TV-3 "Downtown," Wednesday, April 20, at 6:30 p.m.

Viewers are given the opportunity to call in with their questions, air their views, and discuss issues concerning their community.

The council also set two meeting dates with the Board of Education for possible cuts in the board's budget defeated by voters in the schools election on April 5. Meetings are scheduled for April 21 and April 25 at 7:30 p.m. at City Hall. The budget must be submitted to the county superintendent's office by April 28.

Board of Ed Goals Committee to meet

The Rahway Board of Education District Goals Review Committee will meet on Thursday, April 21, at 7:30 p.m. in the Rizzio Room (105) at the Intermediate School.

The committee will discuss proposed goals for the public schools. The meeting is open to the public.

Approved a resolution awarding bids for paper products, washroom and garage maintenance supplies.

Approved a resolution amending quarterly rate schedules for industrial wastes.

Approved a resolution for the reappointment of Martin P. Spangle as constable for a term expiring on April 12, 1991.

Sheld urges support for Senate garbage bill

by Pat DiMaggio

Rahway Third Ward Councilman Max Sheld met with state officials on March 30 to "see what could be done to lessen the shock of the cost of solid waste disposal" in Rahway.

Fourth Ward Councilman Harvey Williams and Sheld attended a meeting with Senate President John Russo, Senator Raymond Lesniak, representing Rahway, and Assemblyman Tom Deverin, also representing Rahway.

The purpose of the meeting was to discuss the solid waste crisis in New Jersey and suggestions of relief from high cost disposal rates. "Our state representatives were very sympathetic and stated that they would do all that they could not only for Rahway, but for the rest of the state," said Sheld.

In a letter to the Department of Environmental Protection, Russo said the issue of paying for solid waste disposal continues to be one of New Jersey's citizens' major concerns, particularly in Union County where residents are paying the highest garbage disposal rates in the state.

Russo said the Legislature is developing a financial assistance program and that he has sponsored legislation of $100 million in grants to ease the trash crisis. "Communities, particularly in Northern New Jersey, are about to collapse under this onerous financial burden," said Russo in his letter to the DEP. "Garbage rate shock will produce some of the largest property tax increases ever this year, even by New Jersey standards. New Jerseyans are paying $2.3 billion more in property taxes today than they were in 1982 and they have reached their breaking point."

Sheld said that two pieces of legislation are now pending to help alleviate the cost of garbage collection. The Senate is proposing a grant program and the Assembly is proposing a package consisting of loans at lowered interest rates. "We in Rahway believe that the Assembly version of loans only postpones the inevitable and that it will be worse in the future because not only will we have to pay it back, but pay it back with interest," said Sheld. "It is for that reason that I urge our state representatives to pursue the Senate version rather than the Assembly version."

The Assembly-sponsored bill is ACR-97 and the Senate-sponsored bill is SCR-21. "I urge all residents in Rahway to write to the Senate and the Assembly asking that SCR-21 be enacted and thus grant our citizens some measure of relief," said Sheld.

Municipal Council appoints special officers

by Pat DiMaggio

Rahway's Municipal Council appointed special officers for the City at a meeting held on April 11.

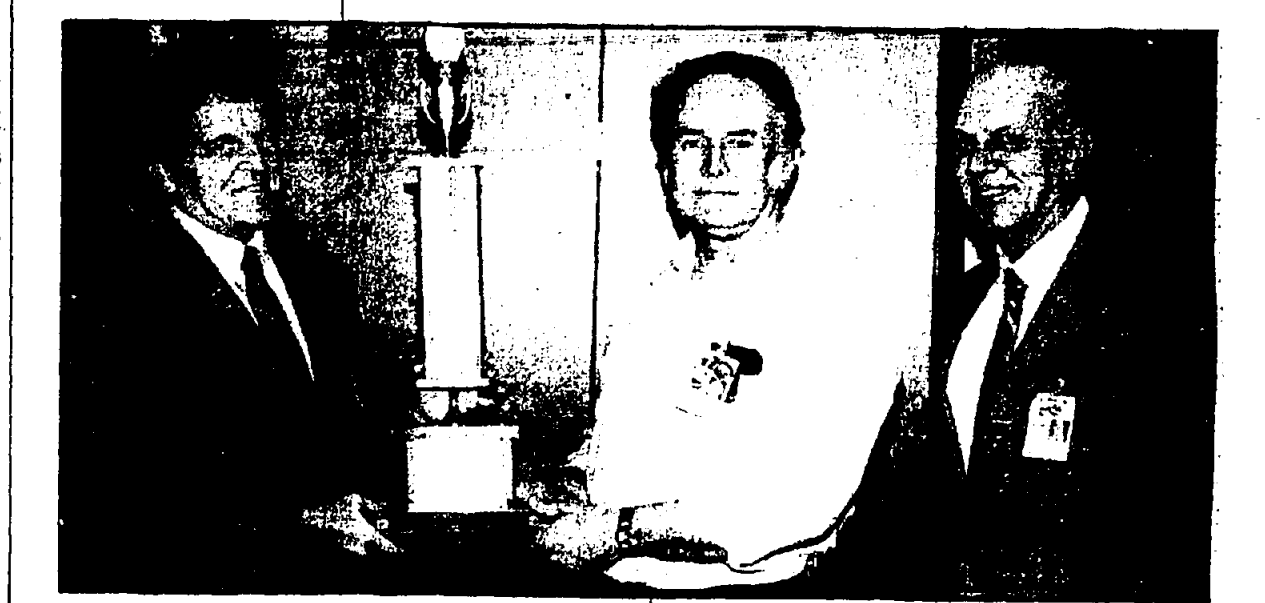

The following appointments, recommended by the Chief of Police, are for the 1988 year and became effective March 1: Class II Special Officers — Martin Spangle, Parking Authority, Municipal Court Agent; Chester Bridges, Municipal Court Agent.

Class I Special Officers — Theodore Littell, Housing Authority; Martin G. Spangle, Harry C. Spangle, Dorothy A. Spangle and Lanier Carson, Parking Authority; Raymond N. Jones and John E. Barron, Traffic Maintenance; Anthony V. Busacca, Emergency Management.

NET RESULT . . . Rahway resident Marc Bryant was a key contributor to the success of the St. Peter's Prep (Jersey City) basketball team this winter. The center led the team in points scored, shots blocked and rebounds. Prep finished third in the highly competitive South Hudson Division and qualified for the state tournament. Marc is pictured with Dave Settembre, head coach at the Jesuit school.

SAFETY AWARD . . . Rahway Hospital employee Edward Jansen, center, Plant Services Supervisor, received the Hospital Safety Award from the Hospital Safety Committee for his intuitive and spontaneous action in regard to a fire that occurred in a hospital corridor on February 1. According to Robert E. Polhamus, right, Chairman, Safety Committee, Jansen was notified of a smoke condition near the Fire Pump Equipment room and upon immediate inspection he was "greeted" by a billow of thick, black smoke. He observed flames emitting from the Fire Pump Electrical Panel and immediately procured a fire extinguisher from within the room and extinguished the fire. John L. Yoder, left, President of Rahway Hospital, presented Jansen with the award on March 18.

Rahway Savings donates $20,000 to Rahway Hospital MICU

The Rahway Savings Institution recently donated $20,000 to the Rahway Hospital Mobile Intensive Care Unit (MICU) for the purchase of a replacement for Medic 9, one of the two vehicles operated by the hospital for on-site advanced life support in incidents of sudden illness or trauma. This critical service is in keeping with the objective of Rahway Hospital to provide the finest, most comprehensive medical services to the community. MICU service is also a continuing concern of the Rahway Savings Institution, which, two years ago, provided the funding for the duplicate vehicle, Medic 10. When it recently became apparent that due to high mileage and heavy usage Medic 10 should be retired, Rahway Savings immediately responded to the need.

Thomas Grubbi, President of Rahway Savings, presented MICU Coordinator Terry McCarthy with the $20,000 donation at Rahway Savings recently and commented, "We at Rahway Savings are very happy to support this important service. Ours is a community based organization and our efforts are directed at projects which benefit local citizens and our fair city."

At the presentation, McCarthy explained MICU services. "Our vehicles literally bring an emergency room to homes and the scenes of accidents on all of our equipment in top of condition."

PARAMEDIC Jill Greenfield explains the use of the laryngoscope, a piece of intubation equipment used to maintain an airway, to Kenneth Totten of Rahway Savings.

The MICU is on call for critical service twenty-four hours a day, seven days a week and is operated by highly trained paramedics who have completed a minimum of one year's experience in Basic Life Support (BLS) as an Emergency Medical Technician and a two year training period of course work and practical experience in Advanced Life Support (ALS).

Some of the advanced medical procedures that the paramedics perform include cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR), blood pressure monitoring, cardiac monitoring, cardiac defibrillation, intravenous therapy and airway management, the use of which includes the use of adjunct ventilation devices and endotracheal intubation.

Next to the telemetry is the EKG LIFE-PAK 5 Cardiac Monitor, which is used to measure the rate and rhythm of the heart.

Members of the community will have the opportunity to tour the vehicle, view the equipment and ask the

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

An open letter to all Rahway PTA members:

This is to explain to you the problems with the April 5th school election in Rahway and to assure you that the PTA's themselves are not under attack.

During the week of March 21, an inquiry was made at City Hall regarding the conducting of a raffle by the PTA on election day and the PTA people were informed they could do so.

On March 31, many of the school children of Rahway brought home with them flyers about this raffle which cast a different light on the situation. The flyers, which in their own words told parents to deposit their free entry forms "in person, after you vote," made it clear that this raffle was inducing people to vote by offering something of value in return; that is, a free entry to win gift certificates with monetary value.

I and other city officials then became concerned that this raffle had reached the point of violating the laws of this State which prohibit offering anything of value in order to try to get someone to vote. The matter was referred to the City's legal department, which researched it over the Easter weekend and rendered a firm opinion on Monday, April 4, that this raffle was a criminal violation of the law.

That same day, April 4, school officials were notified of the City's position that this raffle was illegal with the intent that it should be stopped. On election day itself, April 5, we learned that the raffle was continuing based on the school attorney's opinion that it was not illegal. The City's attorney further researched the matter and advised us in the strongest terms that they felt the school attorney was wrong, that the raffle was illegal, and that, under the law, the matter would be referred to the Union County Prosecutor for a determination.

It was my belief that our position had to be announced before the polls closed to ensure that this issue did not become involved with the results of the election, but rather remained a separate issue to be decided on its own merits. Therefore, I announced our position to the news media at 8:40 p.m. on Election Day and I stand by that decision.

Throughout this entire matter we have made it clear to all concerned that we do not place any blame on the PTA or its members. We believed, and continue to believe, that the PTA did not have any bad intentions. We do, however, strongly disagree with the school officials who allowed this situation to continue after they were notified of the potential for criminal violations of the law. It is the school officials, as those who permitted the raffle information to be disseminated in the schools and who are legally responsible for the conduct of school election and for the polling places, who are accountable, not the PTAs.

As the chief elected officer of our community, I have a duty to preserve the values and principles of our society as embodied in the laws which govern all of us. Our laws establish that voting is a precious right which should never be compromised by any inducements other than the privilege of exercising this right.

Although we are all dismayed by the low turnout in school elections, this does not change the fact that they are serious elections, no less important than governmental elections.

As a parent myself, I hope that, even if a free raffle were found to be technically legal, we would all agree that about the educational message which has been given to our children, even if unintended, that is, that their parents should come out to vote to get a free chance to win a gift certificate to buy them toys. As the children themselves could read on the flyers they carried home, "Think of the toys you could purchase for your children!"

Finally, we are not seeking to get anyone into trouble by challenging this raffle. But I hope to raise the level of consciousness of our entire community to debate this issue and to thoughtfully examine what was allowed to happen and why. I am confident you and others will understand what we are doing and will support the principles we are standing up for.

Thank you for allowing me to express my views.

Daniel L. Martin

RAHWAY COULD USE AN APARTMENT HOUSE

One again the question of allowing construction of an apartment house in Rahway is going to be heard, according to information received by Common Council last week from Mayor Barzoo.

Plans are under way for an 80-family apartment building and an estimated 200 apartments to be housed in buildings proposed to be erected on the former Stritz property.

The majority of Rahway residents agree with the belief expressed by the Mayor who feels that the city would benefit by having at least one new apartment house. When the building is completed, it is expected that about 200 people will be housed in the new structure. The project has been approved by the Board of Adjustment and the Board of Health.

Proponents of the project are being sought here is given by the fact that more persons applying for apartments than could be accommodated by the structure in St. George avenue was built recently. Renovated structures which have been made into multiple family units within the past year also have waiting lists.

The old argument that apartment dwellers were of no benefit to a community and didn't pay their way has long since been disproved. People here who own homes, nearly their rent they are paying the landlord's taxes. They help the merchants by their purchases of many items and while many of them buy some articles out of town, nearly all purchase their food in the city.

An apartment unit or two would help Rahway by increasing the tax base and by bringing some desirable new residents to the city. Apartment buildings are in keeping with the modern trend and there is no reason why Rahway should not have a few of these developments.

We hope that the city officials who will decide this issue when the plans are presented, will adopt a "no apartment" policy at least until they weigh all angles of the matter.

Rahway 65 Years Ago
 From The Rahway News-Record, October 22, 1934

There are lots of apples this year, plenty of work to be done but no greenbacks.

Common Council of the Rahway Engine Company No. 3 on Tuesday.

The Gas Company are having pipes laid in Hartz street with the intention of erecting street lamps. While they are about it they might as well run through St. George avenue up as far as Mr. Ralph Mason's residence where they will be doing it.

Sunday was regular March day. The wind blew with much violence during the night, blowing dust in all directions and making it very unpleasant. The children's chestnut woods was visited by quite a number of children during the day and perhaps the chestnuts had had fallen.

Remember the fair and festival now being held at St. Mary's Church in Cranford.

All the proceeds received will be sent to National Commander John "Jake" Miller who is trying to raise for all Legionnaires one million dollars. Post 328 will donate its last installment before June 1st.

Senior volunteerism to be celebrated

On April 20, the Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) of Union County will be part of a nationwide celebration honoring RSVP volunteers throughout the U.S. and United Kingdom. A balloon will be released for each volunteer registered at 2 p.m.

In Union County, this Catholic Community Service-sponsored program will have a low flying airplane traveling over Union County, with one of the best records in the state, defeating its first season with a banquet at Lincoln Gardens, St. George and Jacques avenue, Saturday night. Clifton Smith is coach of the team.

"Our Advisory Council," stated JoAnn Croteau, RSVP Director, "felt that raising 800 balloons in Elizabeth might be a hazard to the air traffic at Newark Airport, so the banner seemed like a great alternative."

RSVP volunteers are being encouraged to watch the skies between 1 and 2 p.m., and to call if they spot it. Union County RSVP has over 800 volunteers working throughout the county in many areas.

Anyone interested in becoming involved with the program may call the RSVP office at 351-0070 for more information.

TVer to stress volunteerism

Union County's cable television program for seniors, "Vintage Views," will focus in April on the growing need for volunteer services and the satisfaction volunteers enjoy, according to William H. Elbridge, Union County Freeholder and liaison to the Advisory Council on Aging.

Volunteers provide essential services not otherwise available to senior citizens," Elbridge said. "These services include help with taxes, health insurance and household repairs."

The program, which is produced by the Division on Aging of the Union County Department of Human Services, is hosted by Lou Covello of the division. His guests for the volunteer services show will be Ray Molnar, Department Director, Senior Adult Services of Catholic Community Services, and Arch Nutall, a local officer of the Telephone Pioneers, a self-servicing volunteer group of active and retired telephone employees.

The guests will discuss how their organizations are meeting the challenge of volunteerism and how viewers can get help and how to volunteer. In the Rahway Clark area, the show will air on both the Atom Tabloid and the Rahway News Record/Clark Patriot.

Kiwanis, Builders Club members paint cafeteria at Rahway Day Care Center

On Saturday, March 26, members of the Kiwanis Club of Rahway and the Builders Club of the Intermediate School in Rahway were on hand to paint the cafeteria at the Rahway Day Care Center in the old Columbian School.

Robin Shipley, Builder's Club advisor, reported that the students were very pleased to be involved with the painting project. She noted that her crew included Amy Hennessey, Lauren Shipley, Lisa Miteronda, Amber Faryna, Stacey Munsey, Theresa Hulnik, Justin Santangelo and Sam Shipley.

Judy Munsey, Director of the Rahway Day Care Center, said she was delighted that Kiwanis and the Builders Club were willing to take on the painting project. She commented that the rooms look sparkling clean and bright. Kiwanis Club members on hand to supervise and help with the painting included Phil Prasser, Bob Bridgman, Ralph Manfredi, Alex Medviga, Art Lundgren, Bob O'Brien and Bob Weber. The Kiwanis Club of Rahway sponsors the Builders Club at the Intermediate School. McDermott Paint and Wallpaper donated some of the paint used for this worthwhile project.

Calendar and memory wizardry

William Miskowitz, the author of "Book of Dates" and "Calendar Magic" and also a supplemental workbook, is offering a two-session course, "Calendar and Memory Wizardry" at the Davison Regional Adult School at the Davison Brearley Regional High School in Kenilworth on Monday evenings, April 18 and April 25 from 7 to 9:30 p.m.

In this course, Miskowitz begins with a brief history of the calendar and then gives instructions on the development and use of several items such as errand lists, telephone numbers, license plate numbers, etc.

Next, he will introduce a formula which he uses to find the day of the week or date for any event, past, present or future for thousands of years. Here, the number-letter association is used to remember the numerical values for centuries, months and years.

The formula uses basic math, involving addition, subtraction, multiplication and division and is taught in such a way to make it interesting and intriguing. After working with the formula and finding the day of the week for such dates as July 4, 1776 (Independence Day), December 7, 1941 (Pearl Harbor Day) and February 12, 1809 (Abraham Lincoln's birthday), Miskowitz shows how easy it is to find the day of the week for any date in the years 1927, 1988 and 1989 in a matter of seconds. At first, you will refer to the charts, but after committing to memory the math values which are very easily learned, you will be able to do it very readily without this help.

In the next step in the program, Miskowitz will show how to find the New Monday Holiday Dates, such as Washington's Birthday, Memorial Day and Columbus Day. Also included are Mothers' Day, Fathers' Day, Labor Day, Election Day, Thanksgiving Day, etc. for any year in any century. Math enthusiasts, or anyone interested in improving their math capability, will find these chapters very helpful and practical.

The program continues with finding the dates connected with the Easter Season, such as the date for the Paschal Full Moon, which determines the date for Easter Sunday, then Ash Wednesday, Palm Sunday, Good Friday, Ascension Thursday and Pentecost. The grand finale is reserved for finding the day of the week for the years 4000 and beyond. The last page shows the methods for finding the day of the week for the day of the week for the year 4000 and beyond. The last page shows the methods for finding the day of the week for the day of the week for the year 4000 and beyond.

Students in a pilot class at one of the regional high schools who are using the Calendar Magic Text and Workbook, have found them to be interesting, fun and very rewarding, resulting in a marked improvement in their memory, concentration and math ability. After guiding his students through the first few chapters of the book, the instructor remarked, "I have never taught a subject in the past 25 years that was received with more enthusiasm or participation — I highly recommend it for all students who desire to improve their skills."

Miskowitz also shows how the association technique can be applied to various aspects of our daily lives, such as, remembering a 20-item errand list, in or out of sequence. Also, he will show how this system can be used in a trick with a deck of playing cards. He will remove 10 cards from a deck of 52 cards, and after showing the remaining 42 cards, one at a time, he will show how to determine the 10 cards you did not see. A very impressive demonstration and difficult to believe it is possible.

Recently an editorial appeared in "Games Magazine," revealing that experts have found that the brain, just like any other part of the body, improves with exercise and use. The mental gymnastics required in doing the exercises and quizzes in the Calendar Magic Books can do a great deal to spark and wake up a sluggish or dormant memory. Miskowitz is very eager to prove this system really works and invites teachers and students to enroll in the program to be convinced. The course fee is $7 and the cost of the two books is $16. For further information, call Nancyanne Kopp at 376-300 (Ext. 276) during the day or William Miskowitz at 388-6817 (evenings).

RAY'S ROUND By Ray Hoagland

Cocher Billy Dolan's Rahway Indians won their first game of the baseball season with a 10 to 0 win over the Hilltoppers of Summit in a non-conference game last week. Linden Tigers recently scored a 3 to 2 win over Rahway at Ted Cooper Field. Late in the game Bill Dolan's Indians loaded the bases with none out in the sixth, but scored only one run. Frank Jones lost another heart-breaker allowing only six hits. He also hit a double.

RHS senior right-hander Frank Jones had his best game of his high school career but dropped a 2-0 decision to the Raiders of Scotch Plains. Jones struck out 13 and walked three. This was the opening contest of the season for both teams as was a Watching Conference game.

The Spartans of Immaculata defeated the ALJ Crusaders 9 to 6 in a Mountain Valley Conference game. The Spartans led 6 to 0 at the end of the third inning, then added two more in the sixth but the Clark team rallied for three runs in the last of the seventh as Mike Mulberry and John Poznanski each drove in a run. Another run scored on an error. Poznanski led Johnson with a three-for-four day but hit and drove in two RBIs.

Boonton Bears defeated the Johnson Crusaders 6-5 in a boys' lacrosse game. It was the Clark team's first loss of the season. Boonton won the game in the final 30 seconds. Mark Klurman, Eric Paprocki, Bill Magee, Nick Medvedich and Todd Burger scored for Johnson.

In a boys' tennis match, Johnson Regional was a 3 to 2 winner over the Panthers of Roselle Park. Johnson's winners were: Singles—Bill Condoso, Jerry McDeade and Dave Bongiovanni. Johnson lost both doubles matches.

In a girls' volleyball team of Arthur L. Johnson Regional lost in the finals of the annual Tournament to the Columbia girls team by the score of 15-6, 8-15, and 15-12. The Lady Crusaders gained the final by beating Westfield 15-7. Randi Sheps led the Clark school which has a season record of 3 and 1 and is ranked third in the top ten.

The tournament was held at Columbia High School in Maplewood and was won by the Cougars for their 13th straight title.

In a girls' softball game, Westfield defeated Johnson 9 to 0.

In a baseball game, Cranford Cougars defeated the Crusaders of Clark 3 to 1. Kenny King of the Crusaders gave up five hits.

UNDEFEATED... The Clark Soccer Club's indoor soccer team came in first place at the Club's indoor tournament which was held March 6. The team was also undefeated and came in first place at the Kenilworth indoor tournament this past January. The team included: Bottom row: L-R: Keith Jurick, Nicholas Spagnuolo, Paul Silva, Dennis Bowden, and Bobby Hallock. Top row: Joey Guarino, Conny Segro, Ryan Grady, and Tommy Samecki.

Weight lifting can be harmful says American Heart Assn.

"No pain, no gain," a common weight lifting slogan, can be a dangerous theory, according to the American Heart Association (AHA). Kennedy also suggests that weight machines, when properly used, can be safe for mass and strength building. He says that weight machine users should use weights of 20 pounds or less and increase the frequency of duration of the blood pressure of patients who wish to begin an exercise program in order to see if they are fit for dynamics, and are also have a treadmill stress test as the first step of their programs.

Weight lifting, especially free weights, can produce a sharp and sudden rise in a person's blood pressure. Some weight lifters have complained of headaches, and even professional weight lifters have experienced signs of cerebral hemorrhages.

"Part of the problem," says Kennedy, "is that many weight lifting instructors aren't aware of the risks. Weight lifting could cause harm to a person who may not be aware of the potential of increasing his blood pressure. In said, weight lifting does not provide much aerobic value. Weight lifting is a static or isometric exercise which means that only a few muscles move and the less movement in exercising, the less oxygen the body demands. Kennedy says, "Improvements in cardiovascular fitness appear to result from regular dynamic exercises in which large movements by most of our muscles increase our need for oxygen. This type of exercise should be performed for 15-30 minutes at least three times a week."

Physicians are monitoring the blood pressure of patients who wish to begin an exercise program in order to see if they are fit for dynamics, and are also have a treadmill stress test as the first step of their programs.

"There are many ways to improve muscle mass tone without the degree of intense exercise," says Kennedy. "For example, small ten pound weights can be carried by joggers. Kennedy also suggests that weight machines, when properly used, can be safe for mass and strength building. ### Jump Rope for Heart introduced locally

Rope jumping may be the answer to people's lack of time to endure a thorough fitness routine, says the American Heart Association. The AHA-Rahway/Clark Unit hopes to get young area residents accustomed to this healthy idea by introducing them to the AHA's Jump Rope For Heart program.

Already, Rahway Intermediate, Gover Cleveland, Franklin, Madison, Roosevelt, and St. Mary's Schools, all of Rahway, are in the process of raising funds for the American Heart Association, through involvement in the program.

Mrs. Jeanne Riccio, R.N., "Jump Rope." Chairwoman for the Unit, explains, "Jumping rope is an outstanding exercise benefiting the cardiovascular system. It quickens the pace of the heart and allows blood to circulate more freely through the body."

"Jump Rope For Heart is an event designed by the American Heart Association to capitalize on these benefits and provide a wonderful source of friendly competition for the participants," says Riccio. The funds collected from the program help support the research, community services and educational programs of the AHA.

"We're very happy to have the participation of these schools," says Mrs. Riccio. "It's not only a lot of fun, it promotes cardiovascular awareness as part of an individual's regular routine." For more information on a Jump Rope For Heart event in your area, call the local Unit of the American Heart Association at 376-3636.

TO BE HONORED... Emily Peri Kingsley, Emmy Award-winning writer for "Seaside Street," together with her husband Charles, and her son, Jason, Mrs. Kingsley will be honored with the prestigious Association for Retarded Citizens (ARC) Unity Award Distinguished Service Award at the gala spring Candlelight Ball on Saturday, April 16, at 7 p.m., at LAF, Fair, Floure 22 East, Mountaintown.

Crusis drove up and had to take the coffee pot for an easy course of calcium. It can also enhance flavor.

Quick smoking. American Heart Association. Call 1-800-368-6777.

REACHING OUT... The current bungalow gets its name from the city of Bengal in India, where such houses were popular among Europeans.

LONG BEFORE THE DINERS AND BOWLING ALLEYS ... Cedar Brook Farm, Plainfield's oldest (271 years) and one of New Jersey's most historic homes, will be completely redecorated and opened to the public from April 24 to May 30 as a "designer showhouse" to benefit the Muhlenberg Regional Medical Center. The special exposition will feature 28 specially designed rooms and areas in historic themes, newly landscaped gardens, an art gallery, boutique and luncheon pavilion. The building's west wing was constructed in the year 1717, when "East Jersey" was mostly woods and fields. The house is located at Cedar Brook Road and Brook Lane, off Walchong Avenue, at the edge of Plainfield's business district.

City/county officials address Rahway Dems

Numerous City Officials and County Register Jeanne Rajoppi recently addressed the Rahway Democratic Club at the American Legion Hall, covering all aspects of potential tax increases, their impacts and alternatives.

City Council President Harvey Williams said garbage collection costs were the largest single item impacting on the budget, and spoke of his meeting with Senate President John Russo seeking additional state aid to minimize tax increases. He said, resource recovery is moving along well and urged the Freeholders not to disrupt that effort.

Williams introduced Chester Holmes, who was endorsed by the 4th Ward Democratic Club as his successor when he steps down from the Council.

Councilman-at-Large Vincent Addona, who served as Council Liaison to the Board of Education, praised the Finance Committee members for their efforts to trim that budget, but noted the Board rejected their recommendations.

Councilman-at-Large James Cadigan remarked that, if the city's entire Police Department were removed from the City Budget, it would still go up over 2%, as Council has only 30% of the Budget where cuts can be made. He added that it hurts the community when the Board gives 8% raises to administrators and teachers, while Council only has enough money to grant 3% or 4% raises to municipal employees including police and firemen.

Councilman-at-Large Walter McLeod spoke on problems regarding fall leaf pick-ups and urged residents to put leaves out to curbside house, and public works will endeavor to pick them up for temporary storage. Packing them in plastic bags, he said, prohibits garbage trucks from taking them because the plastic is not biodegradable.

City Chairman Alex Shipley said there is a great need to educate residents that Mayor Martin and Council have limited ability to reduce taxes since 70% of the municipal budget is mandated by State law.

Shipley also noted that the County screening unit had selected Walter Boright, Gerry Green and James Welch as Freeholder candidates.

Mayor Daniel L. Martin discussed citizen complaints about taxes, noting that Rahway provides full services, including garbage pickup and a paid Fire Department, and that home values reflect these facts. It was pointed out that municipal programs would be curtailed or eliminated if sufficient State aid is not forthcoming from the over $1 billion surplus that the Governor has accumulated since his refusal to roll back tax increases he created early in his administration.

County Register Rajoppi noted that through new procedures she instituted and the general good of the economy, the Register's Office was able to turn over almost $3 million last year to the County to lessen the tax burden. She said that as a former Mayor and Freeholder she knows how valuable that is in times like these, and takes pride in that achievement.

Hospital, Merck plan half-day health fair

Medical technology can help to lengthen a person's life span, but a happy, healthy long life requires that a senior citizen keeps abreast of the latest medical research and learns how to apply it to his/her life.

In recognition of the special needs of seniors, Rahway Hospital and Merck & Co., Inc., are co-sponsoring a half-day health fair with the theme "To Your Good Health." The fair is a free program for seniors, providing valuable information on the most recent advances in health care. It will take place Saturday, April 23, at the Rahway Intermediate School from 9 a.m.-1 p.m.

After a continental breakfast, three topical issues of great concern to seniors will be addressed by expert professionals from the community. Dietician Gerri Dedrick, R.D., will give a lecture titled, "You Are What You Eat: The Cholesterol Connection."

"Stroke" is a topic that will be addressed by Rosario Guarino, M.D. and Harry Murphy, M.D., will discuss "Stress Management for Seniors."

The speakers will be introduced by John L. Yoder, President of Rahway Hospital, and Jean Case, M.D., Associate Corporate Medical Director for Merck.

In addition to the lectures, seniors will also have the opportunity to observe and participate in demonstrations of techniques and mechanical aids that can enhance the quality of their lives.

Hearing aids, CPR, first aid, the Heimlich Maneuver and techniques to detect skin and breast cancer will be shown at various booths at the fair.

Body Recall, a system of gentle exercise and movement designed for adults over fifty, will be demonstrated by instructor Patricia Picard.

Also, those who wish to have their cholesterol and blood pressure levels checked will have the opportunity to do so. Pre-registration for this community health education project is not necessary. Further information about the program can be obtained by calling the Rahway Hospital Community Relations Department at 499-6137.

ADVANCES IN BANKING ... Carlos Garay, right, a member of the Kiwanis Club of Rahway, is pictured with Robert T. Donnelly, Vice President of the National State Bank. At a recent general membership meeting of the club, Donnelly explained the customer convenience offered by automatic teller machines, not the least of which being their 24-hour availability. He reported that use of electronic funds transfer is becoming widespread, especially by the larger corporations. The Kiwanis Club of Rahway, celebrating its 65th anniversary, meets on Wednesdays at 12:15 at the Columbian Club in Rahway.
