THE WARLOCK OF FIRETOP MOUNTAIN

A fighting fantasy gamebook in which YOU become the hero!

Complete with combat system, monster encounters and score sheet

Part story, part game, this is a book with a difference – one in which YOU become the hero!

Armed with two dice, a pencil and an eraser, you can set off on a perilous quest to find the Warlock's treasure. YOU will need to decide which route to follow, and which monsters to fight in the elaborate combat system given in the book.

You may not survive your first journey. But with experience, skill and luck, each fresh attempt should bring you nearer to your great goal . . .

Interaction

From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia

For other uses, see Interaction \(disambiguation\).

Interaction is a kind of action that occurs as two or more objects have an effect upon one another. The idea of a two-way effect is essential in the concept of interaction, as opposed to a one-way causal effect. A closely related term is interconnectivity, which deals with the interactions of interactions within systems: combinations of many simple interactions can lead to surprising emergent phenomena. Interaction has different tailored meanings in various sciences. All systems are related and interdependent. Every action has a consequence.

Casual examples of interaction outside of science include:

- communication of any sort, for example two or more people talking to each other, or communication among groups, organisations, nations or states: trade, migration, foreign relations, transportation,
- the feedback during the operation of machines such as a computer or tool, for example the interaction between a driver and the position of his or her car on the road: by steering the driver influences this position, by observation this information returns to the driver.

Just what does make me 'me'?

By Marcus du Sautoy

Professor of mathematics at the University of Oxford

Over the last few months I have been on an extraordinary journey to find out what makes me "me".

I have had my brain scanned, tricked, electrocuted, drugged in a plethora of different experiments in my attempt to find out what it is that gives me the feeling that there is someone inside my head.

Science calls it the search for consciousness. I call it the search for "me".

I was not always aware of myself as a human being separate from those around me.

But at what point does this self-awareness kick-in?

A fascinating experiment at University of Portsmouth indicates that it

Saw a guy bike past me wearing an A List Apart t-shirt. Almost yelled out before realizing that would be, well, weird.

Saw Cameron Diaz on her way to the gym. I was wearing the shirt I'd slept in, walking my dog, holding a bag of shit.

interactivity

The reason we suddenly need such a word is that during this century we have for the first time been dominated by non-interactive forms of entertainment: cinema, radio, recorded music and television. Before they came along all entertainment was interactive: theatre, music, sport...

We didn't need a special word for interactivity in the same way that we don't (yet) need a special word for people with only one head.

—Douglas Adams, August 29th 1999
