

IFF: Very well, I shall take you there.

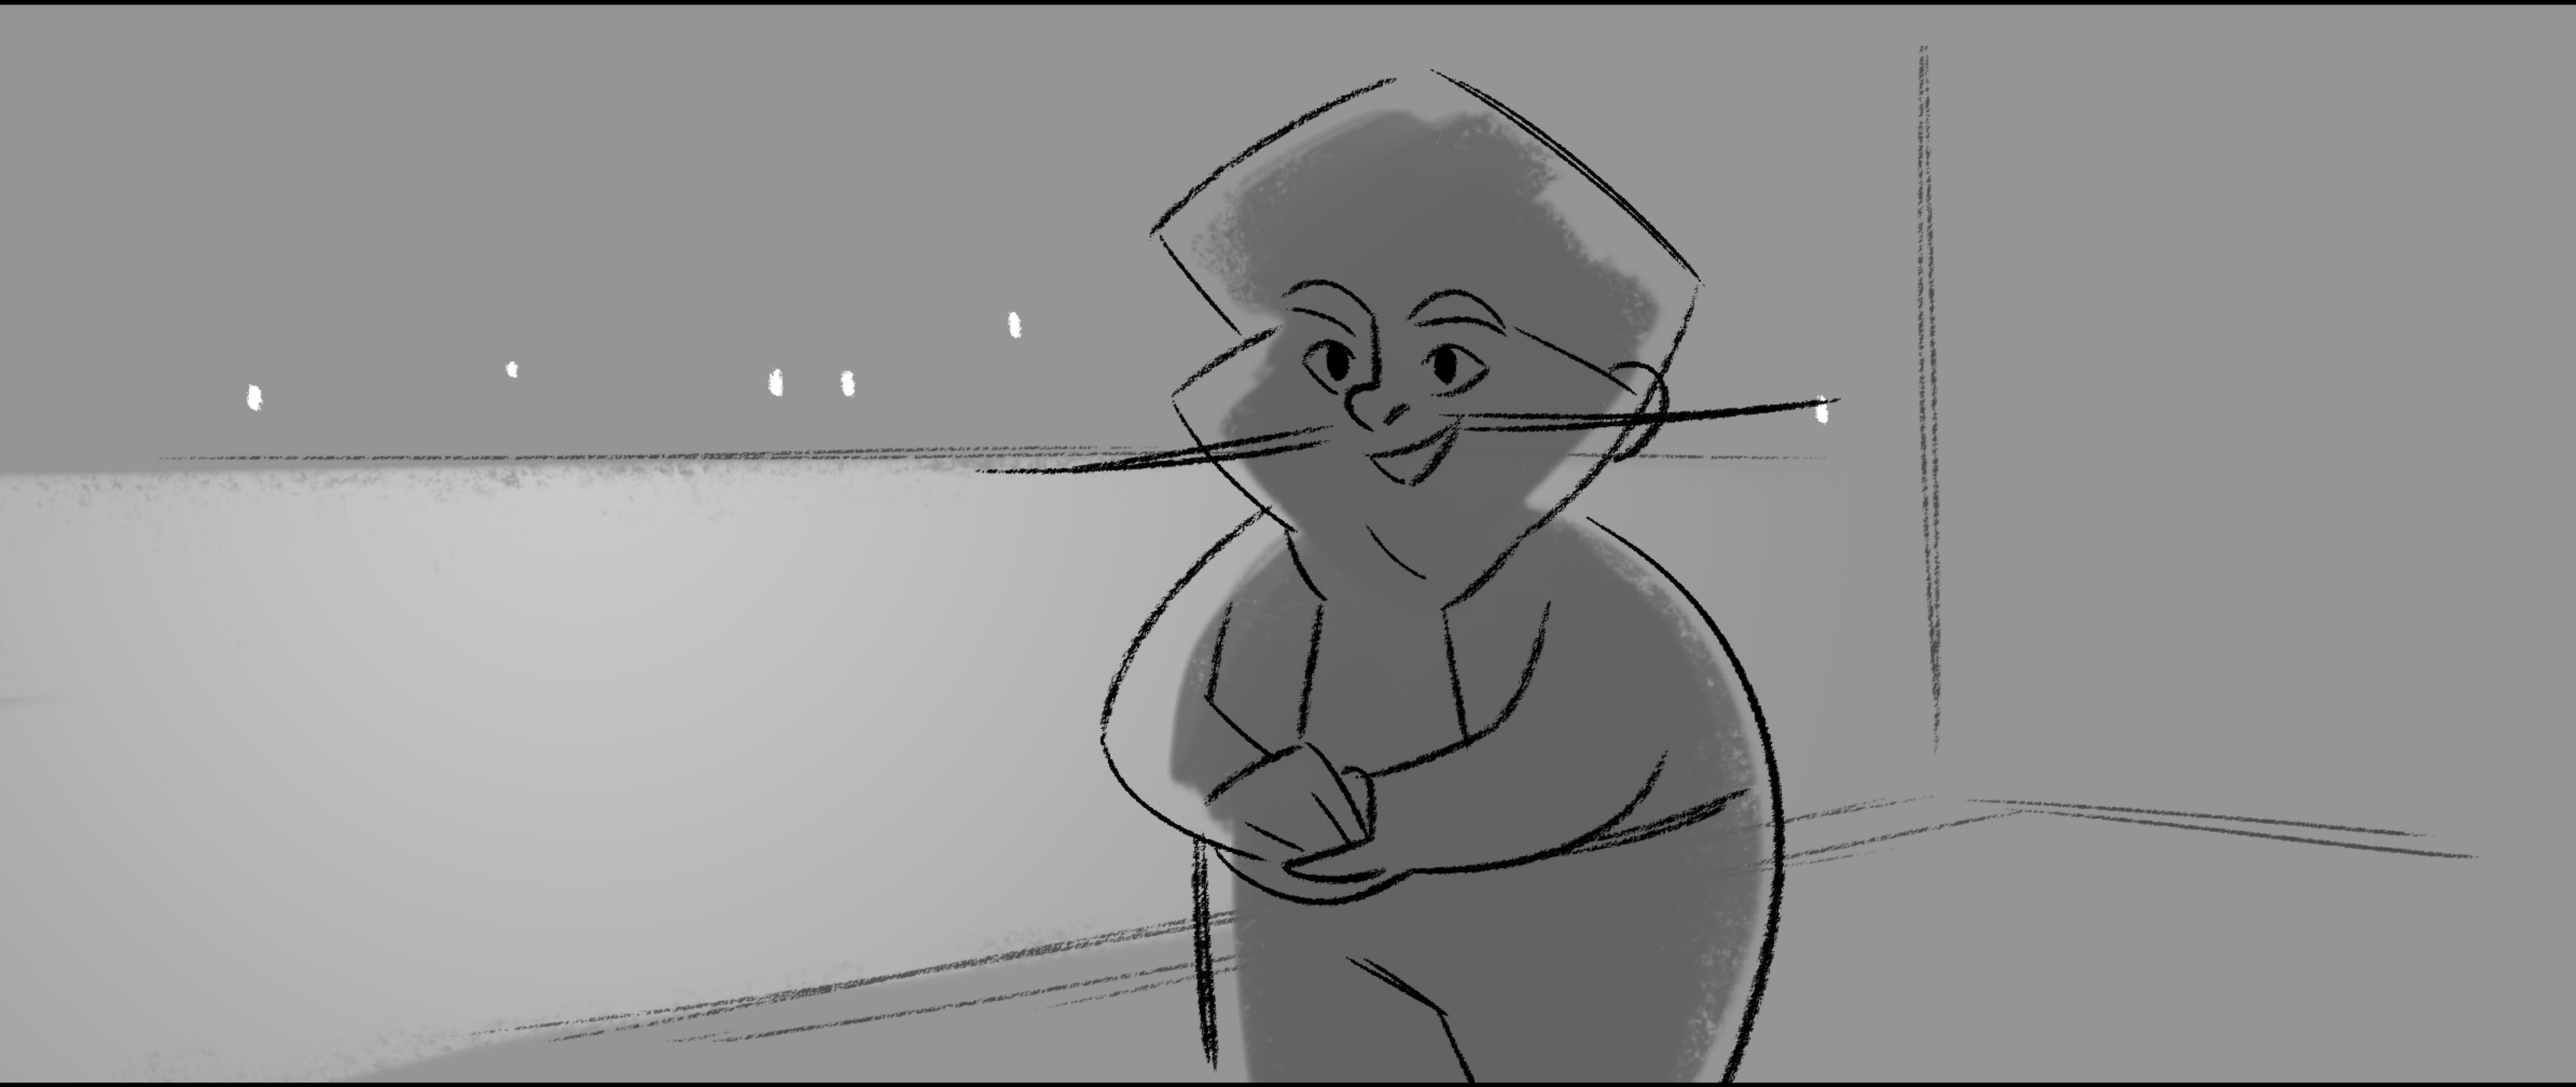

IFF: Very well, I shall take you there.

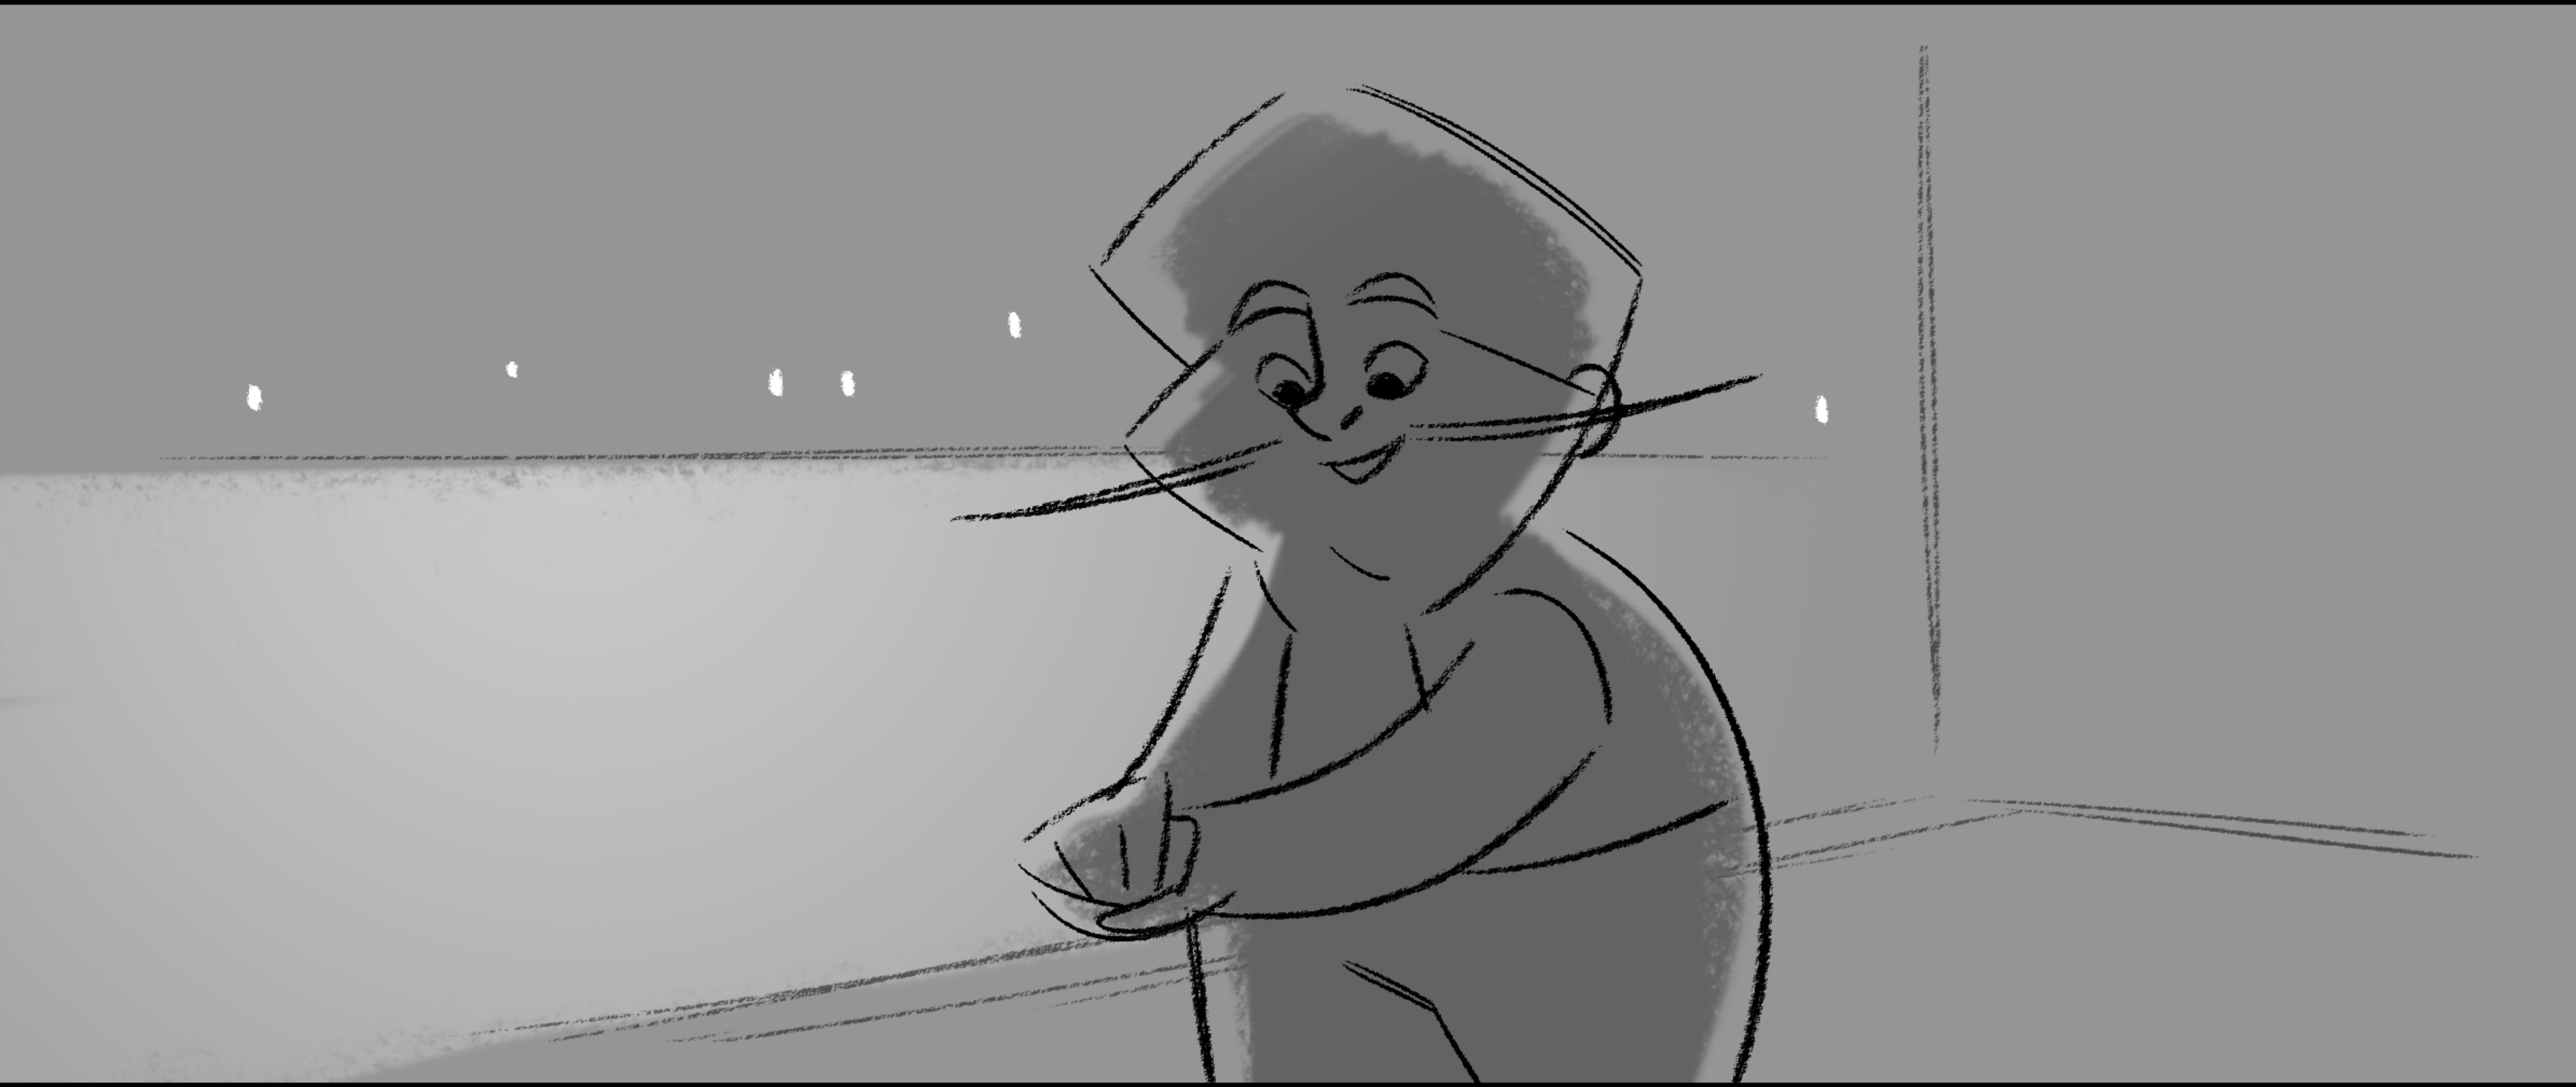

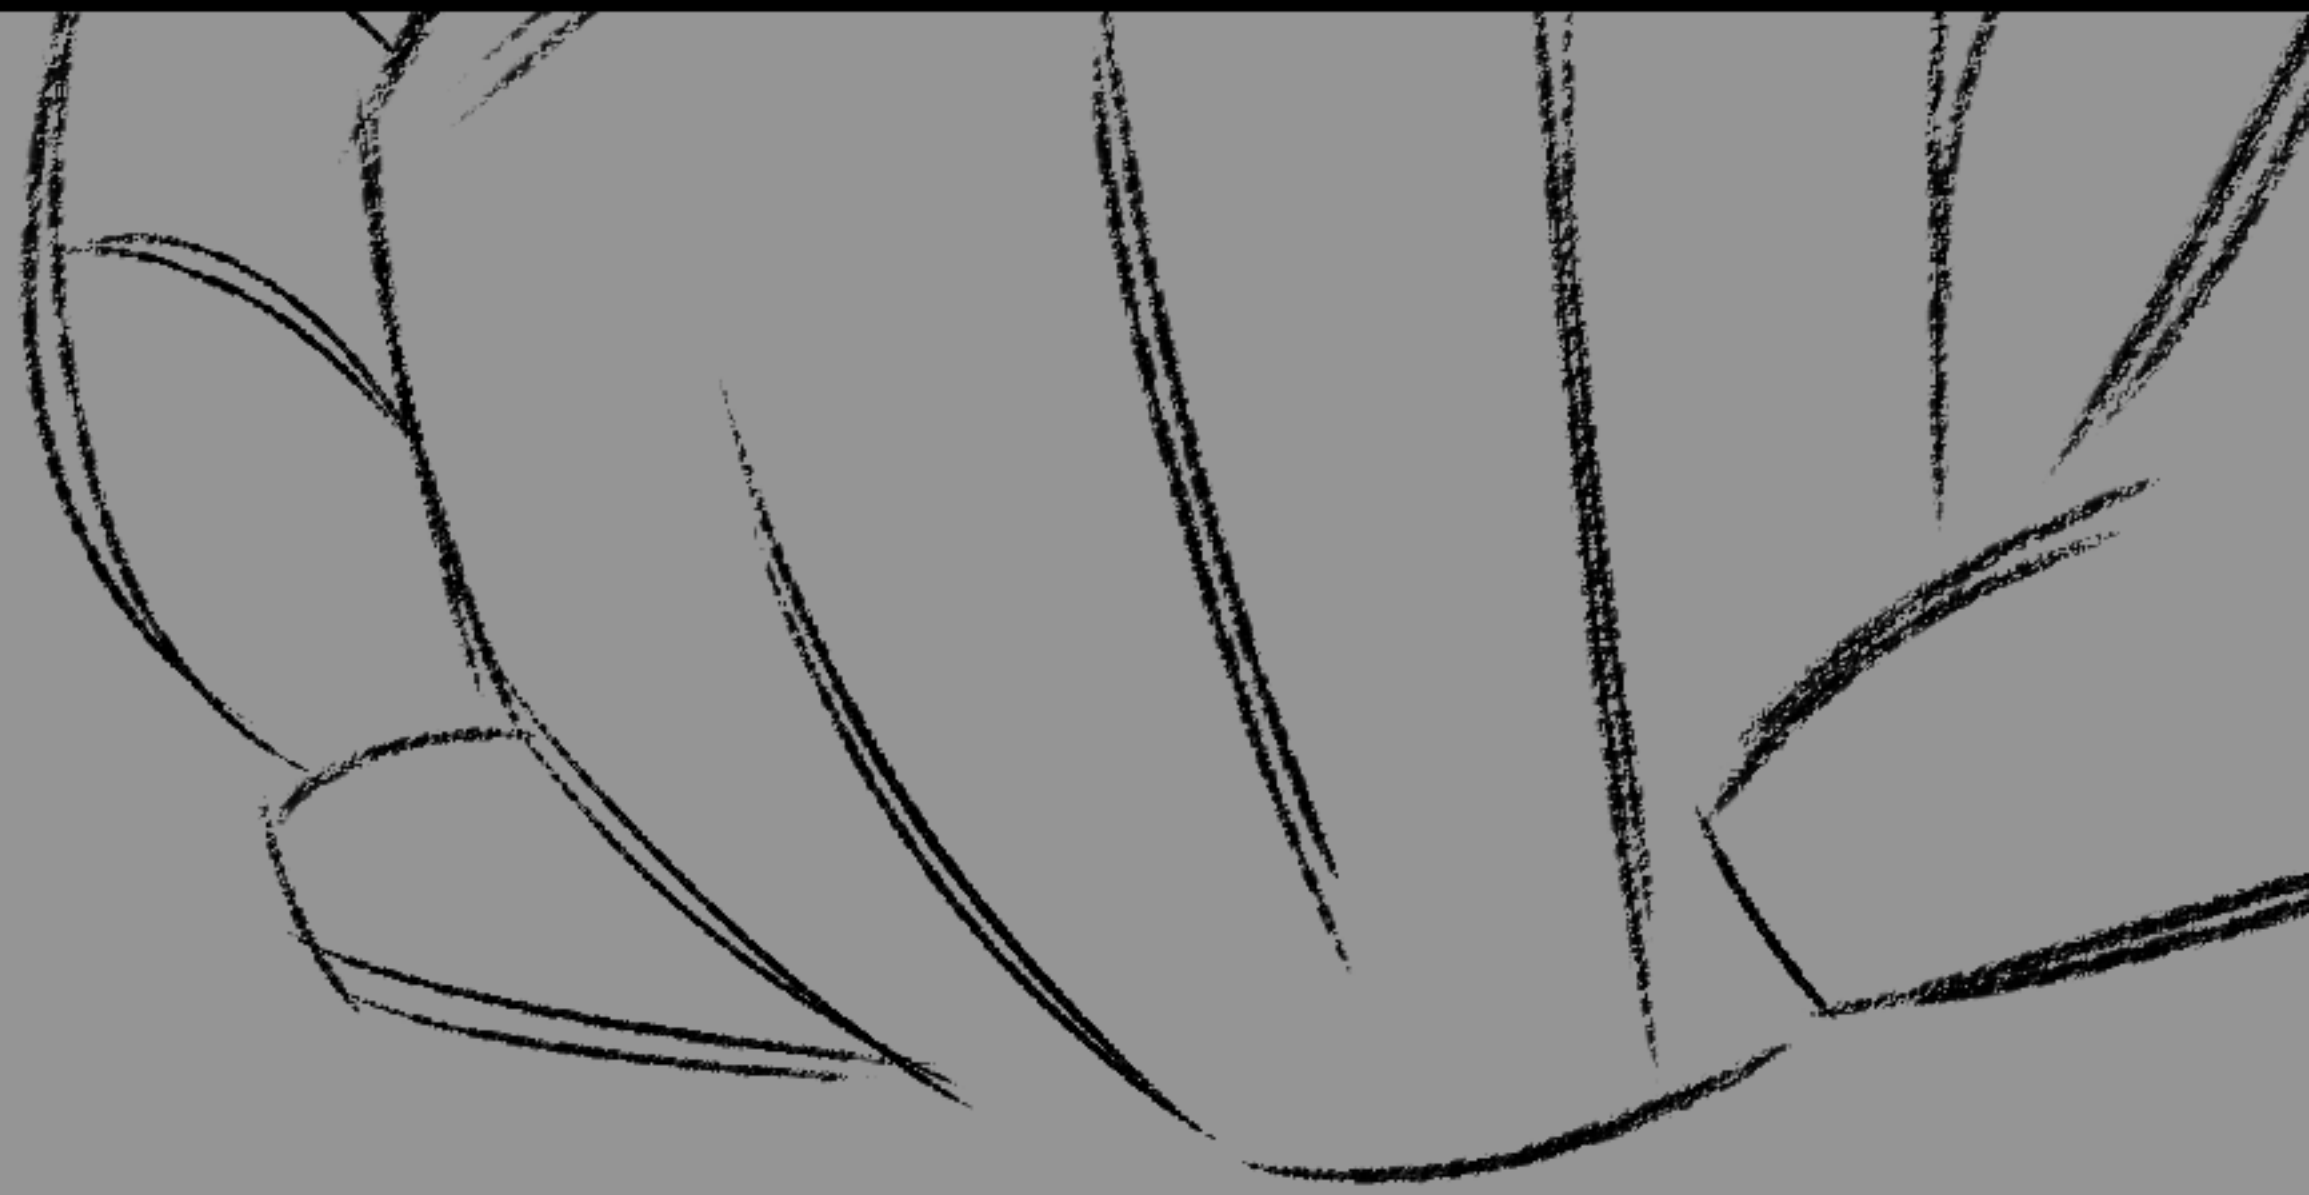

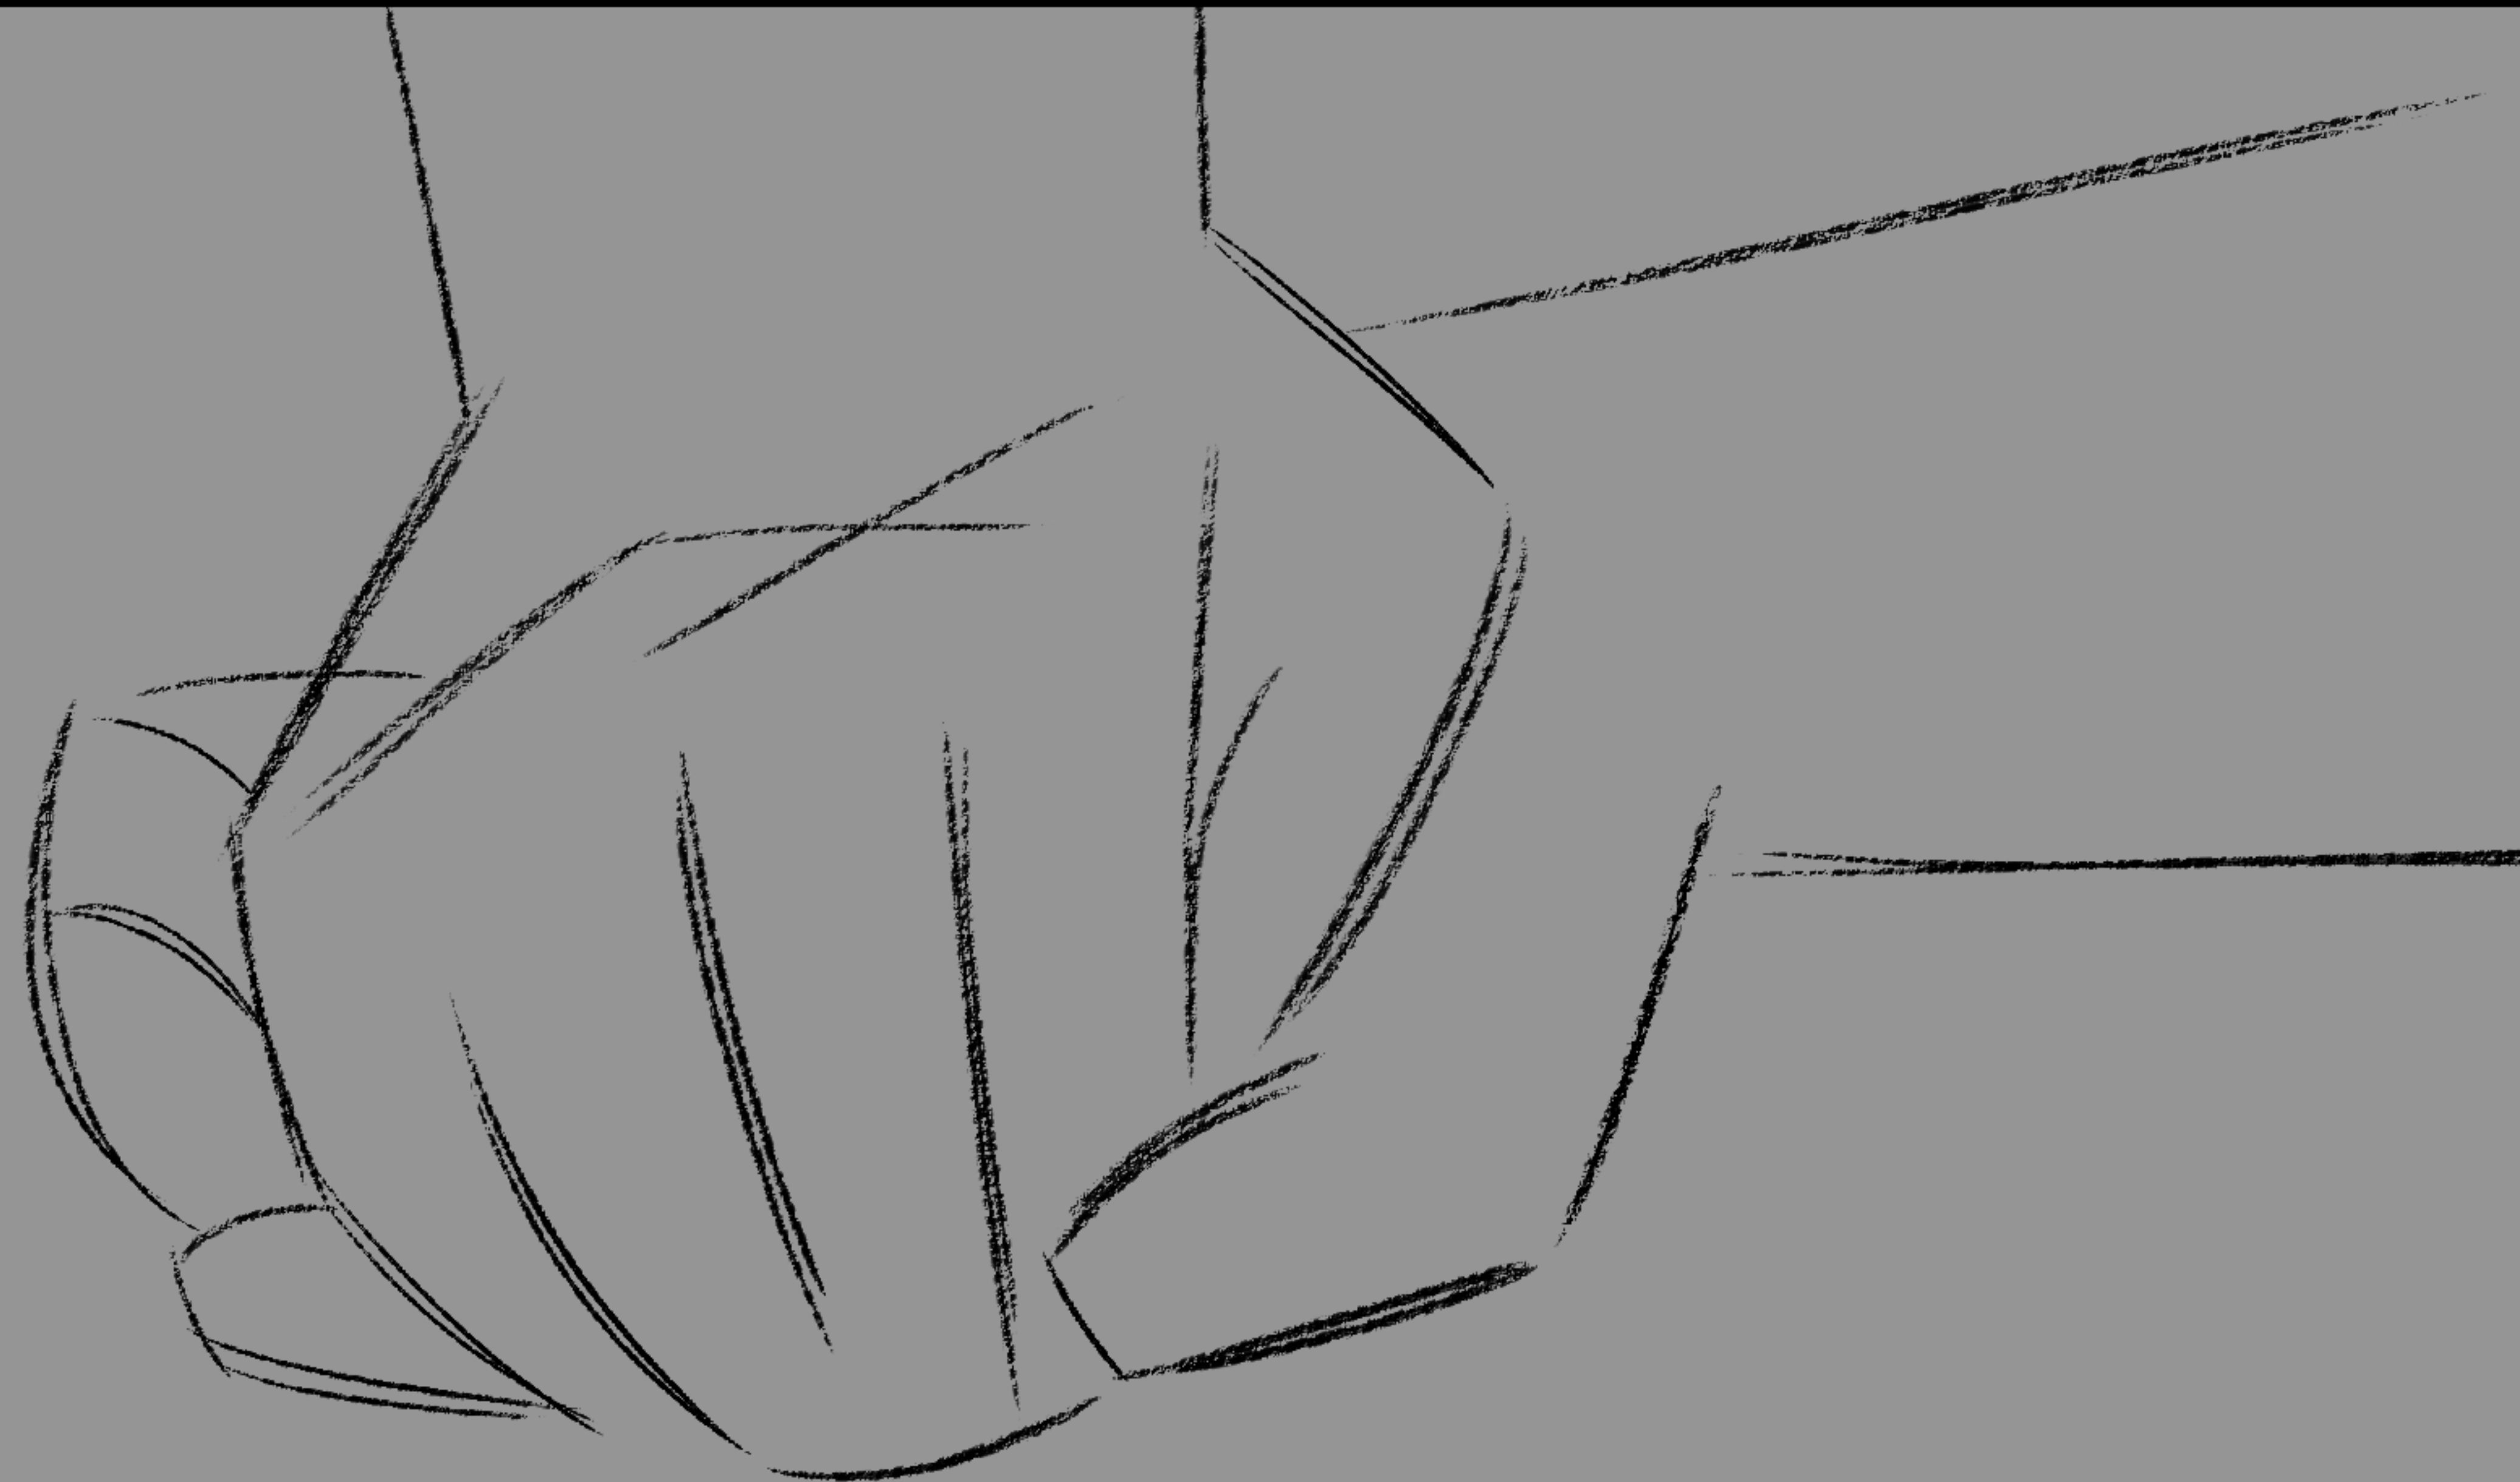

IFF: So take a look,

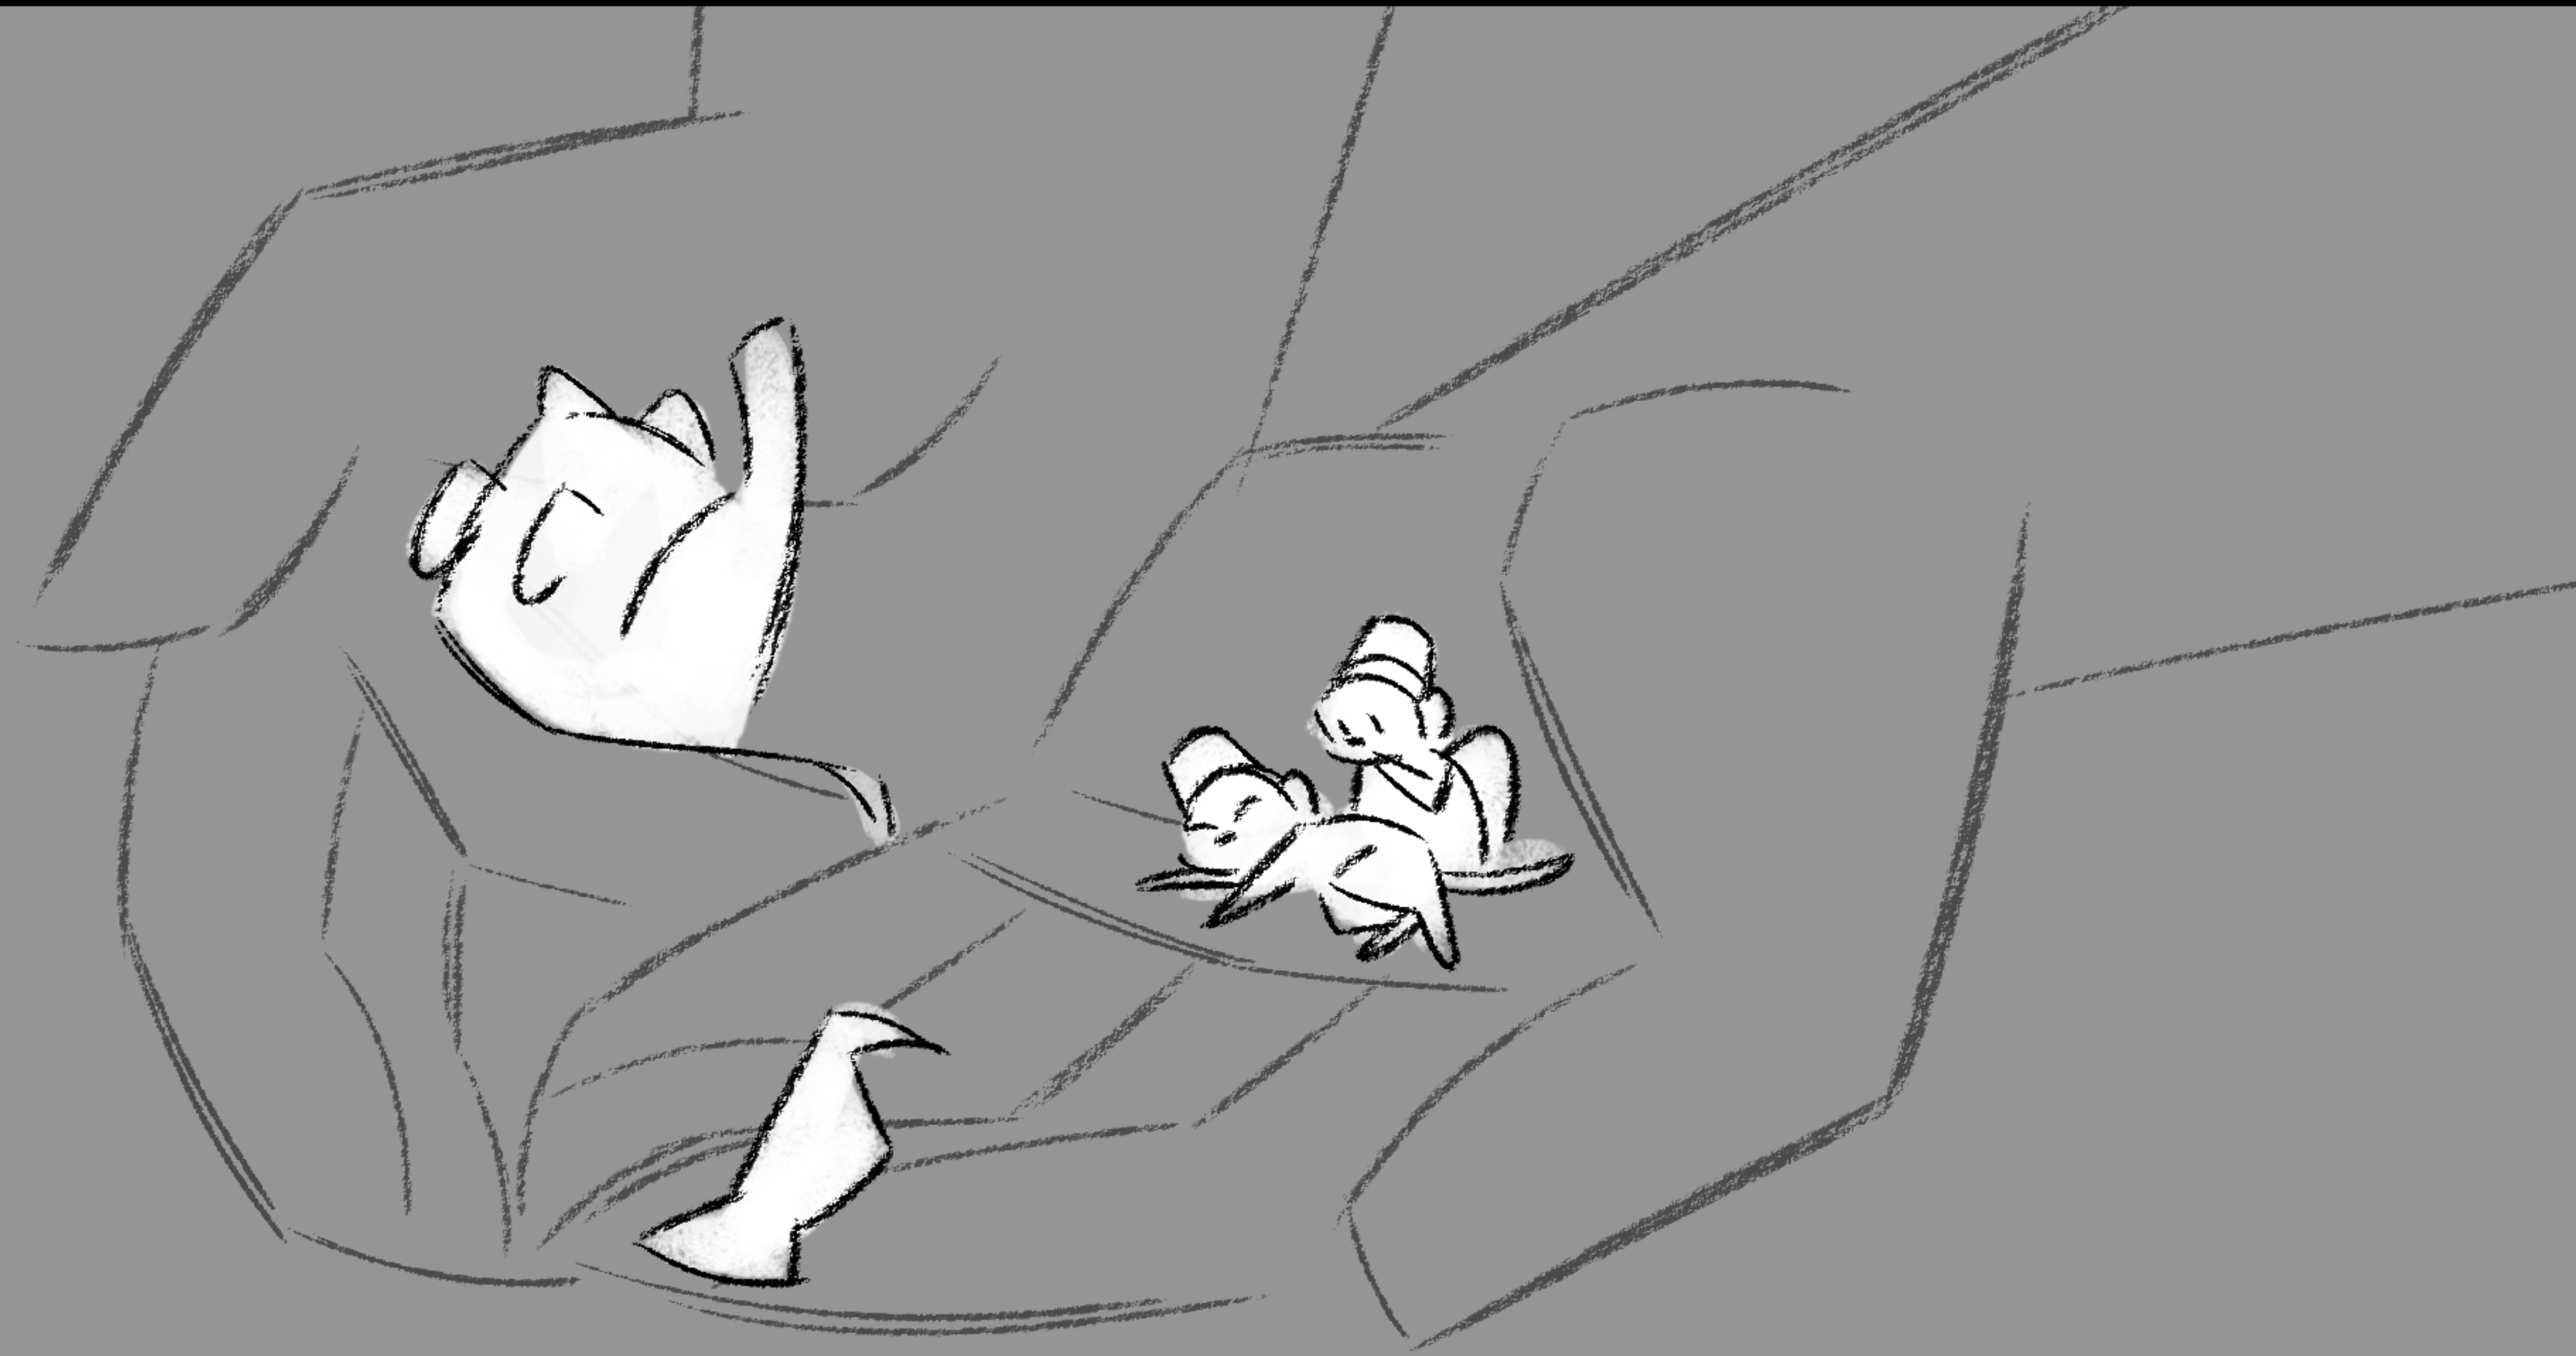

or I should say, a gander,

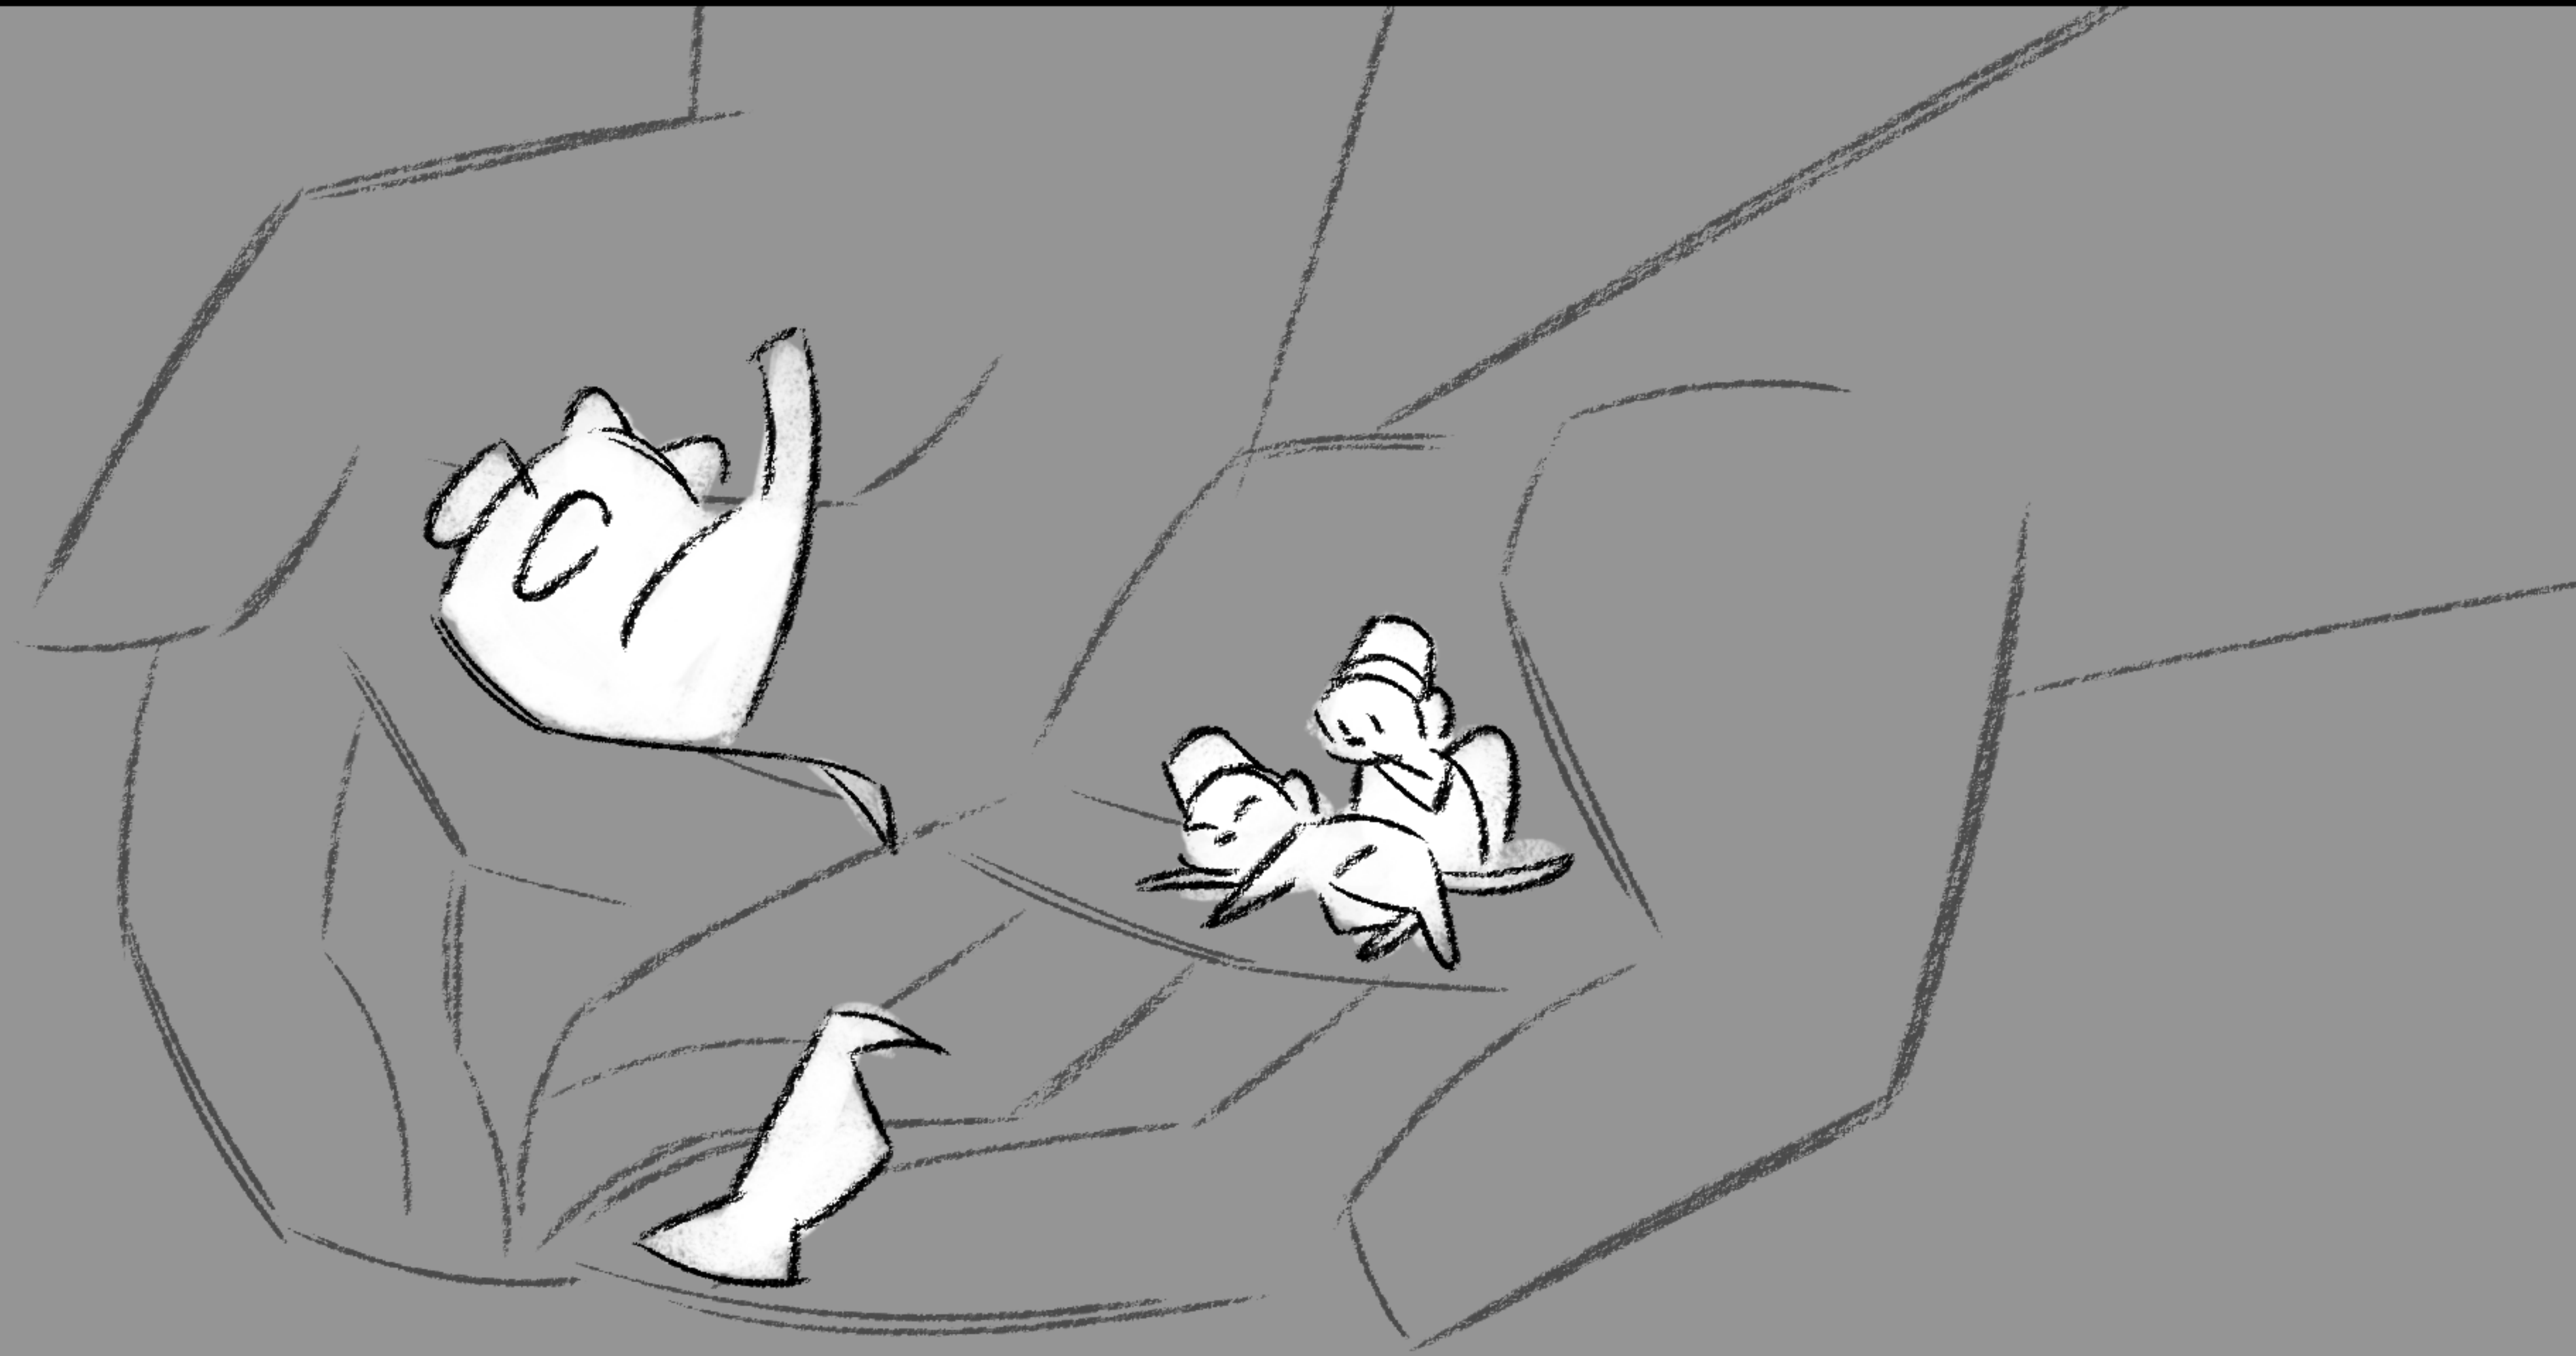

at the enclosed.

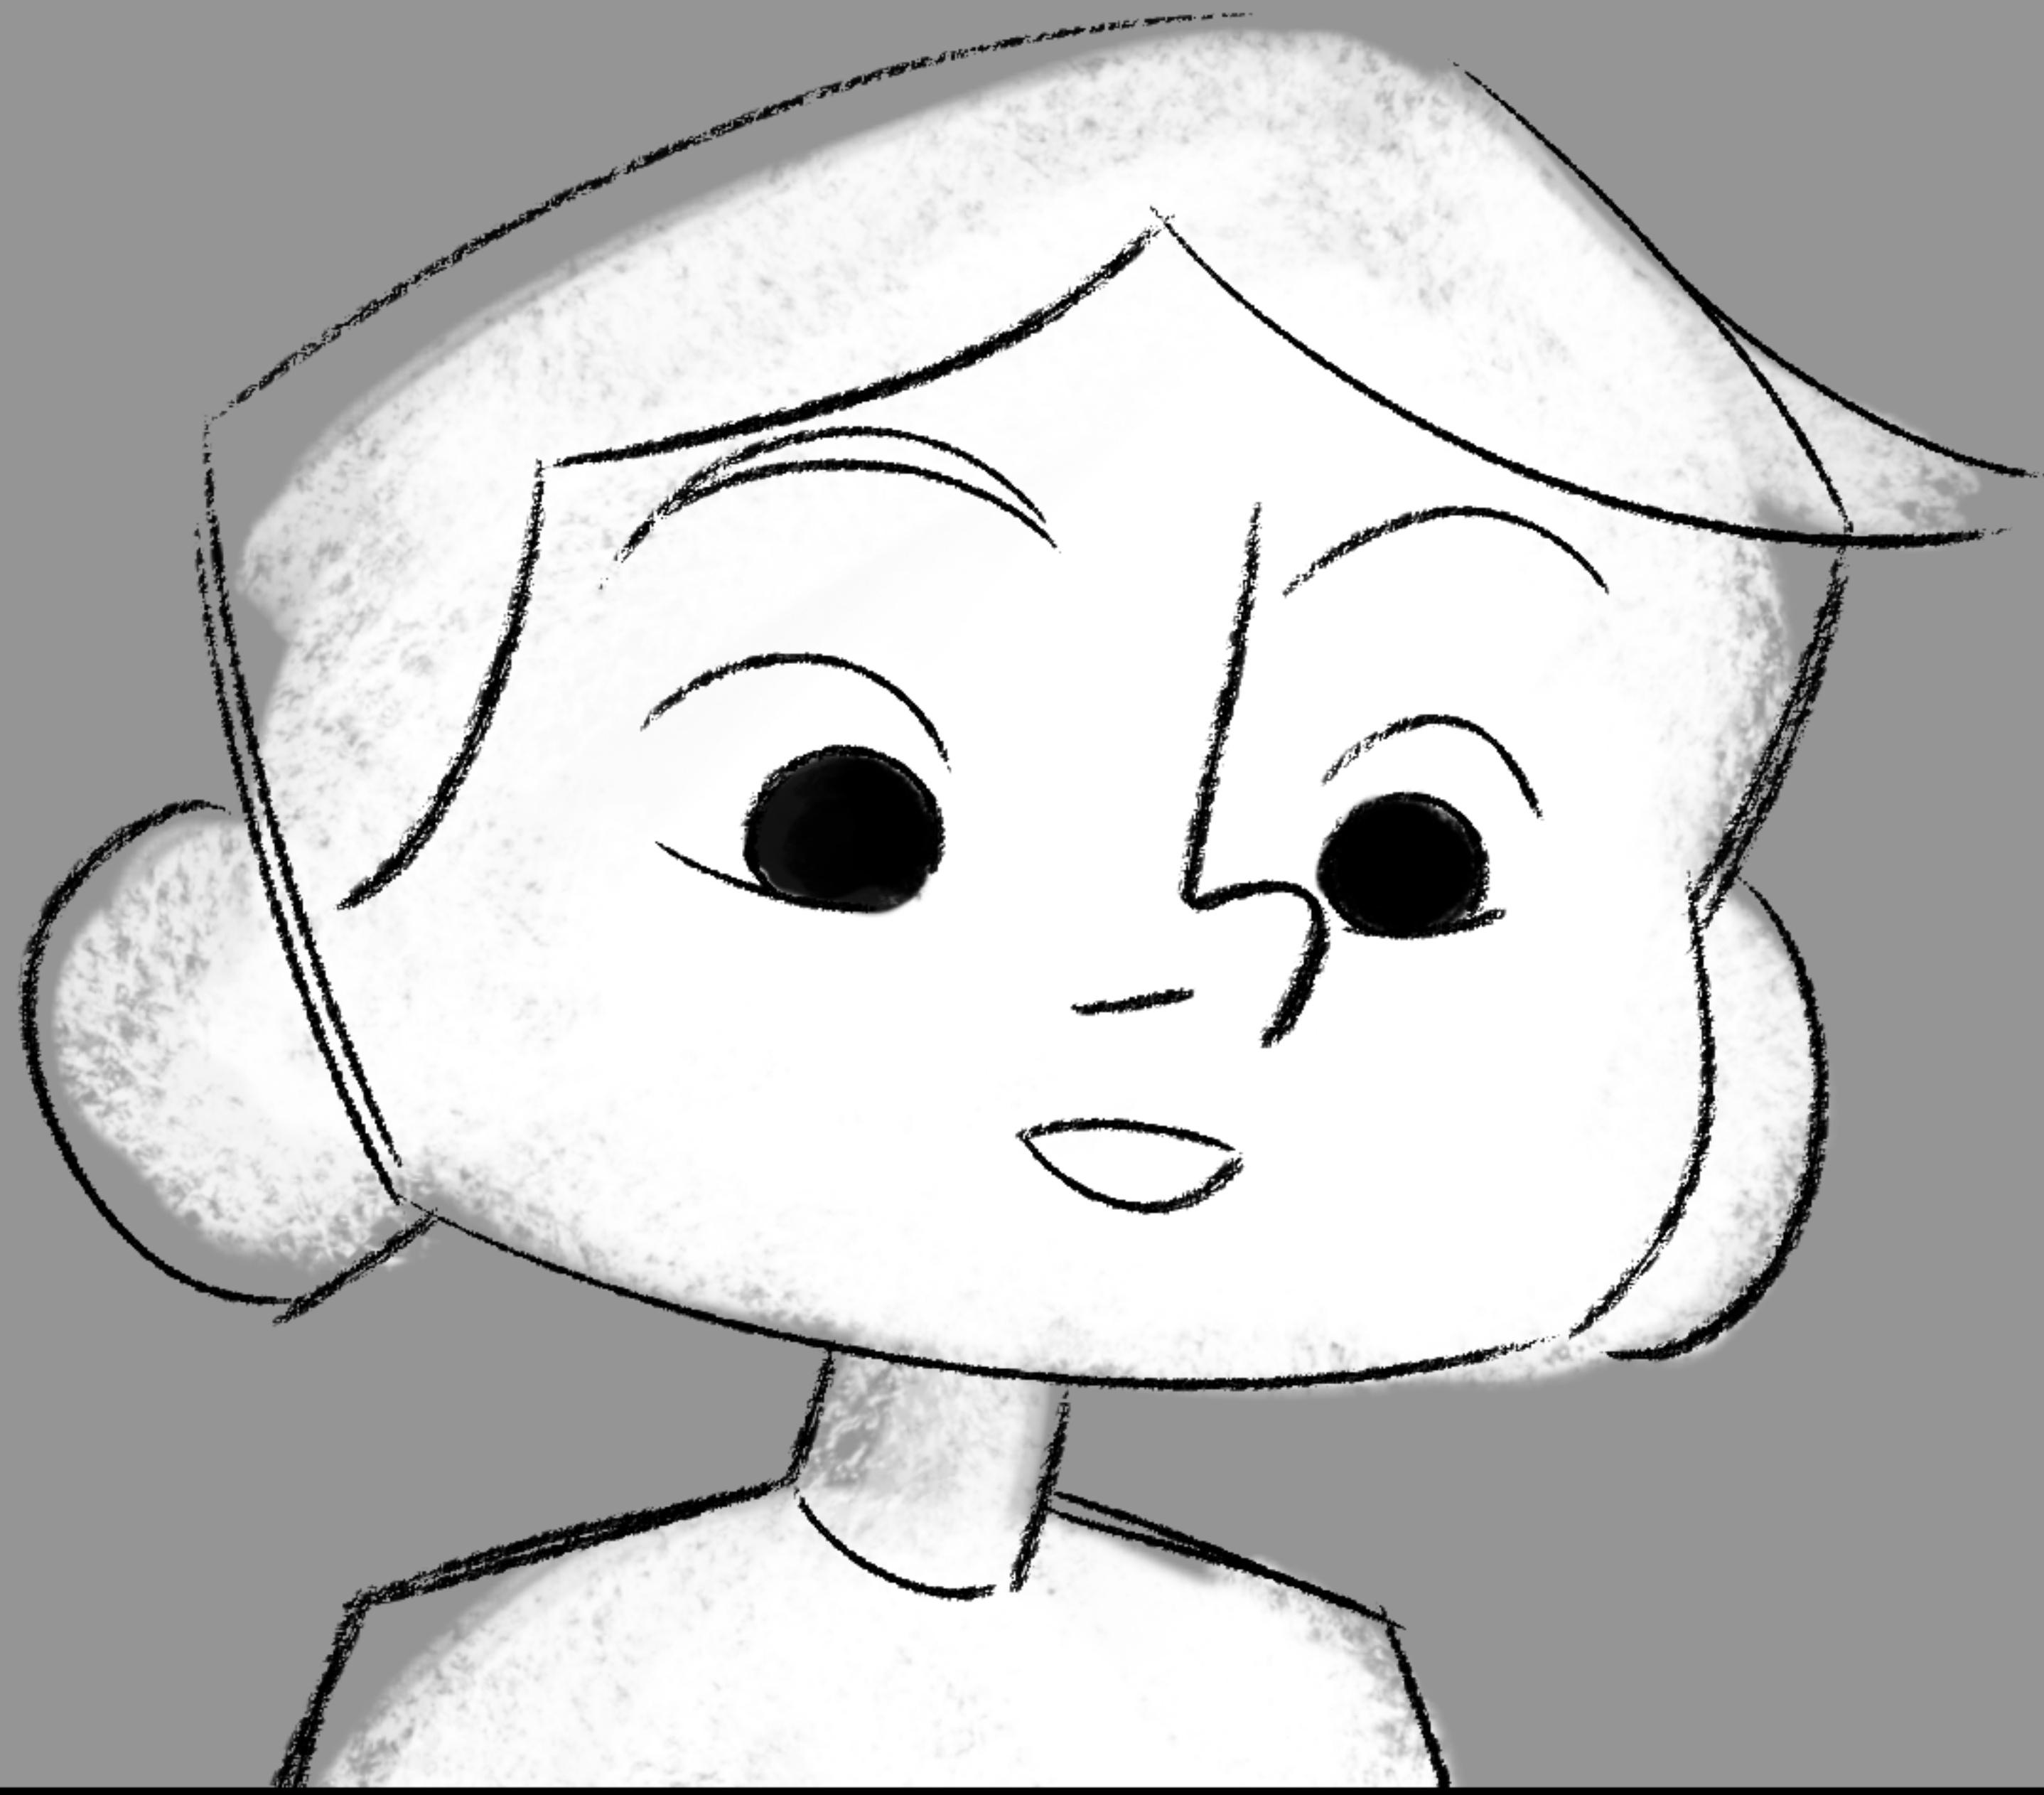

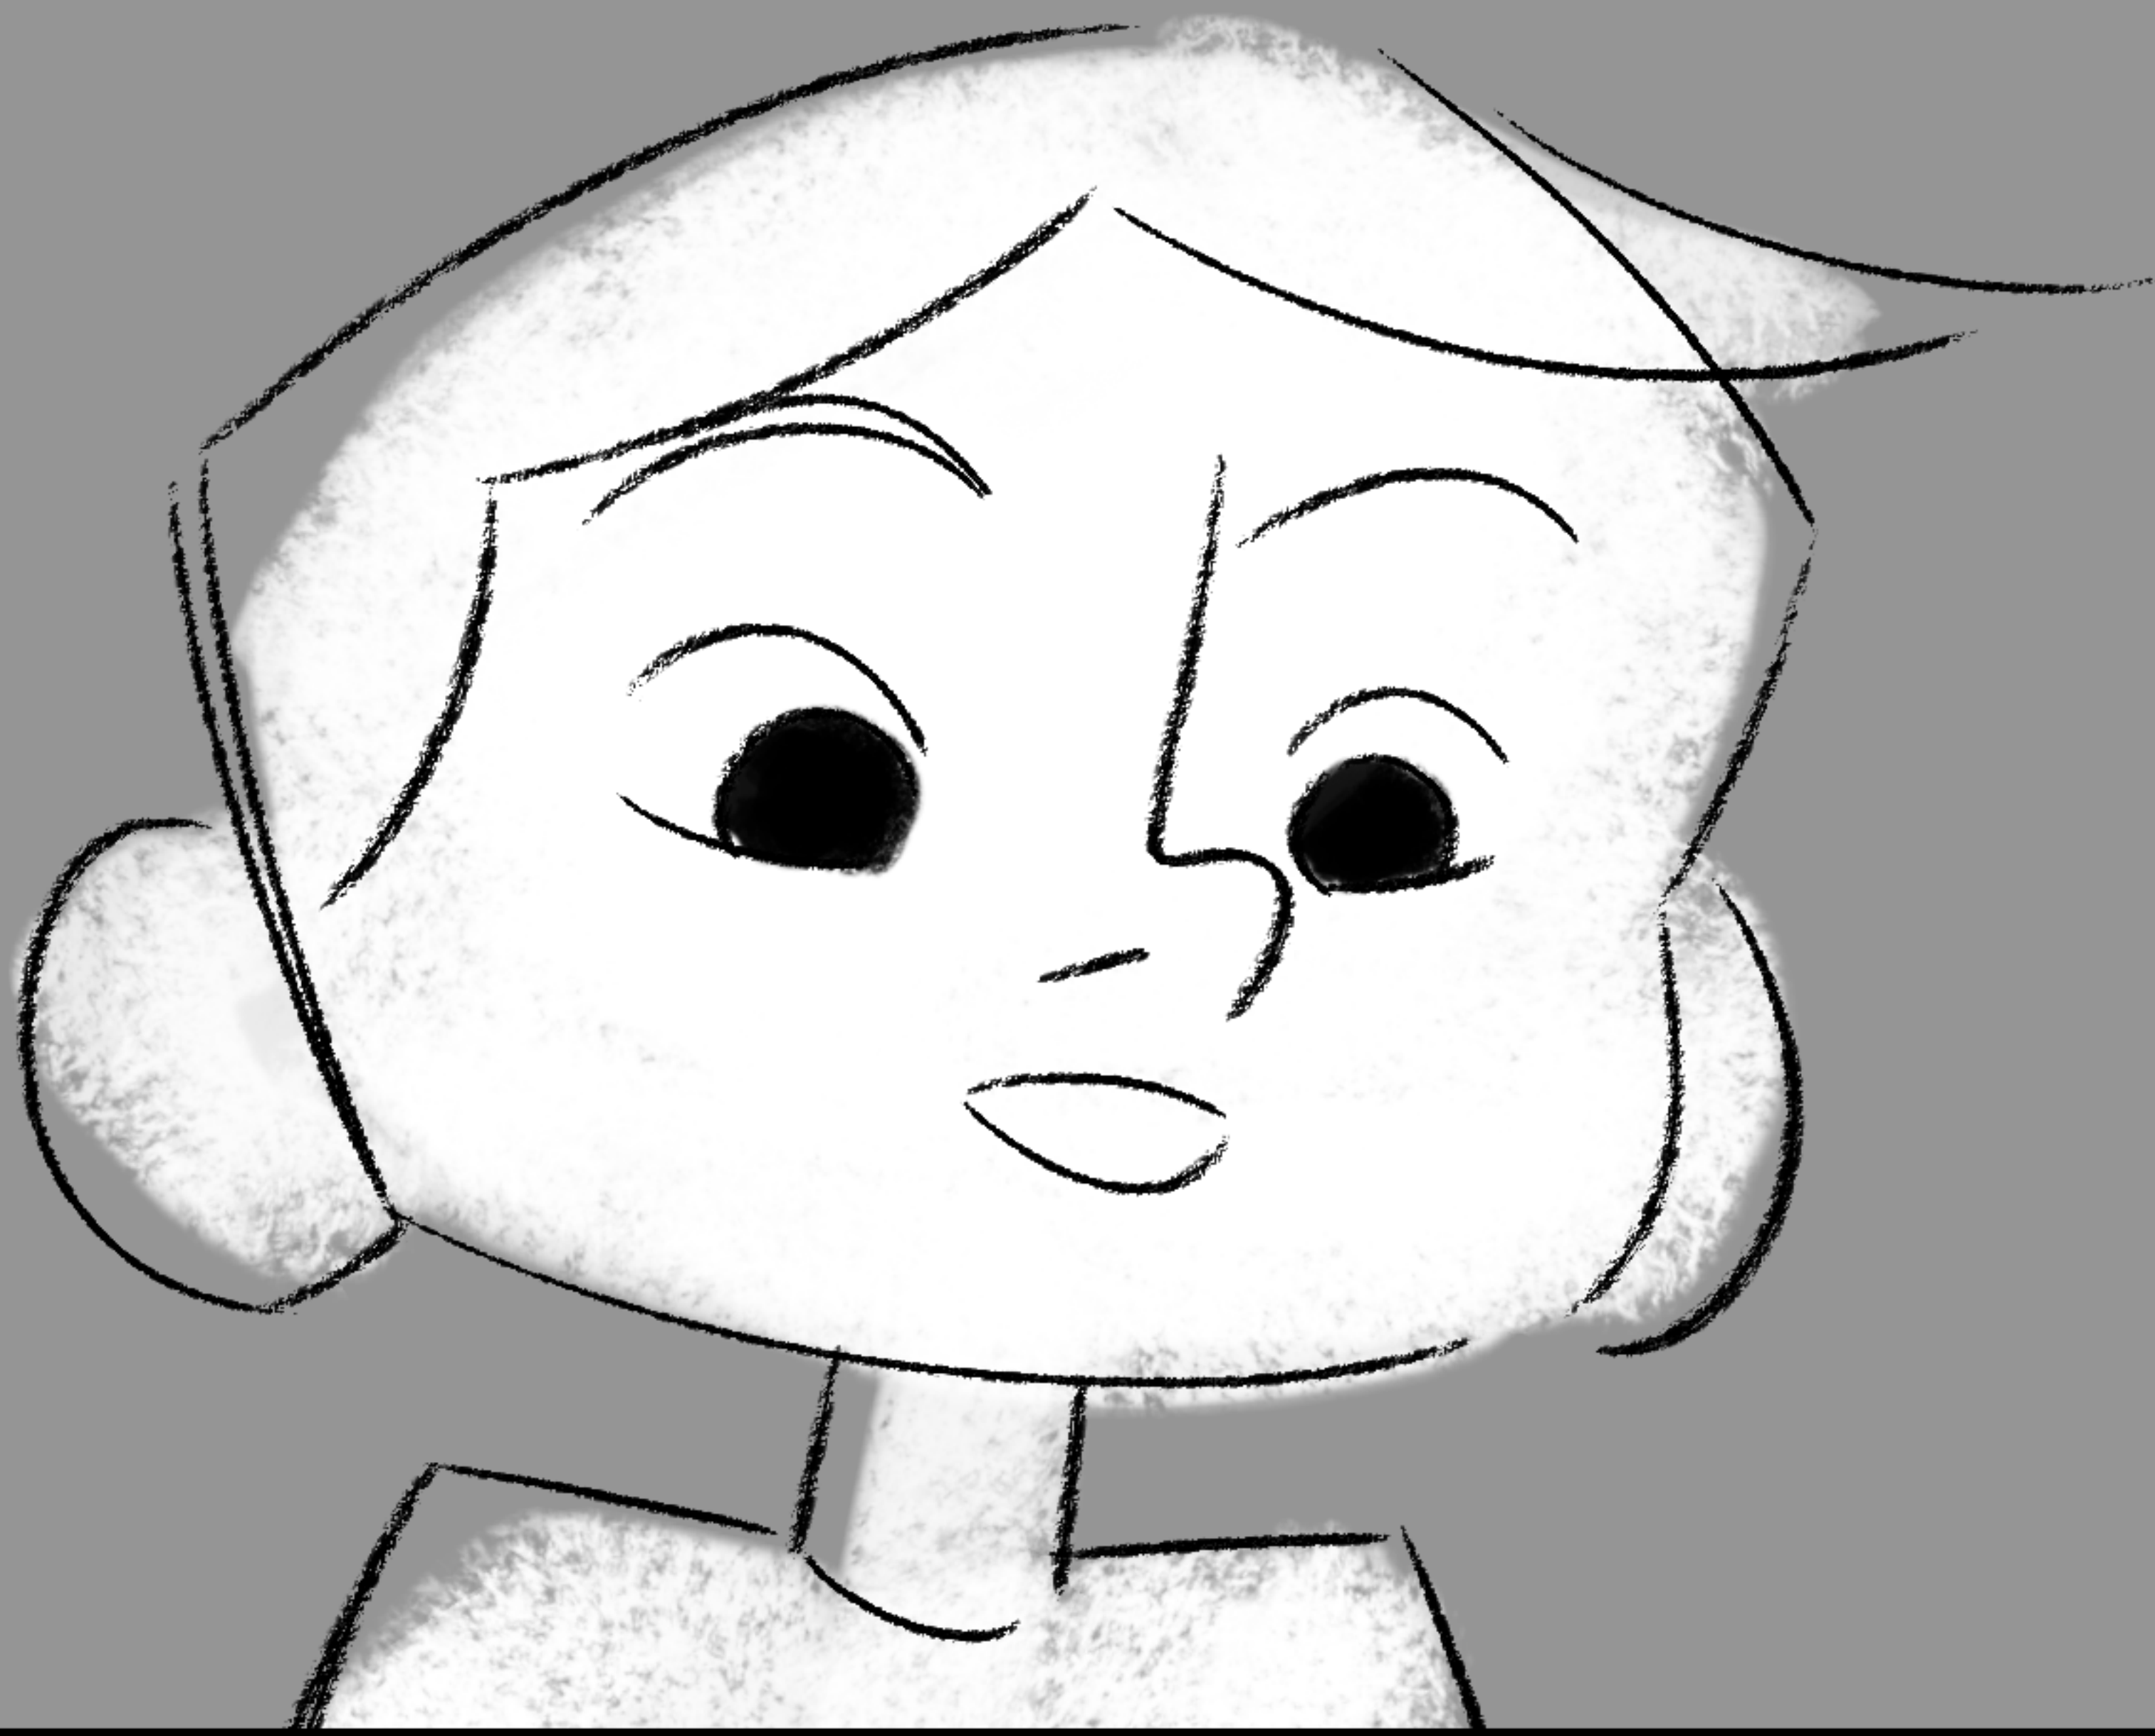

What's your pleasure?

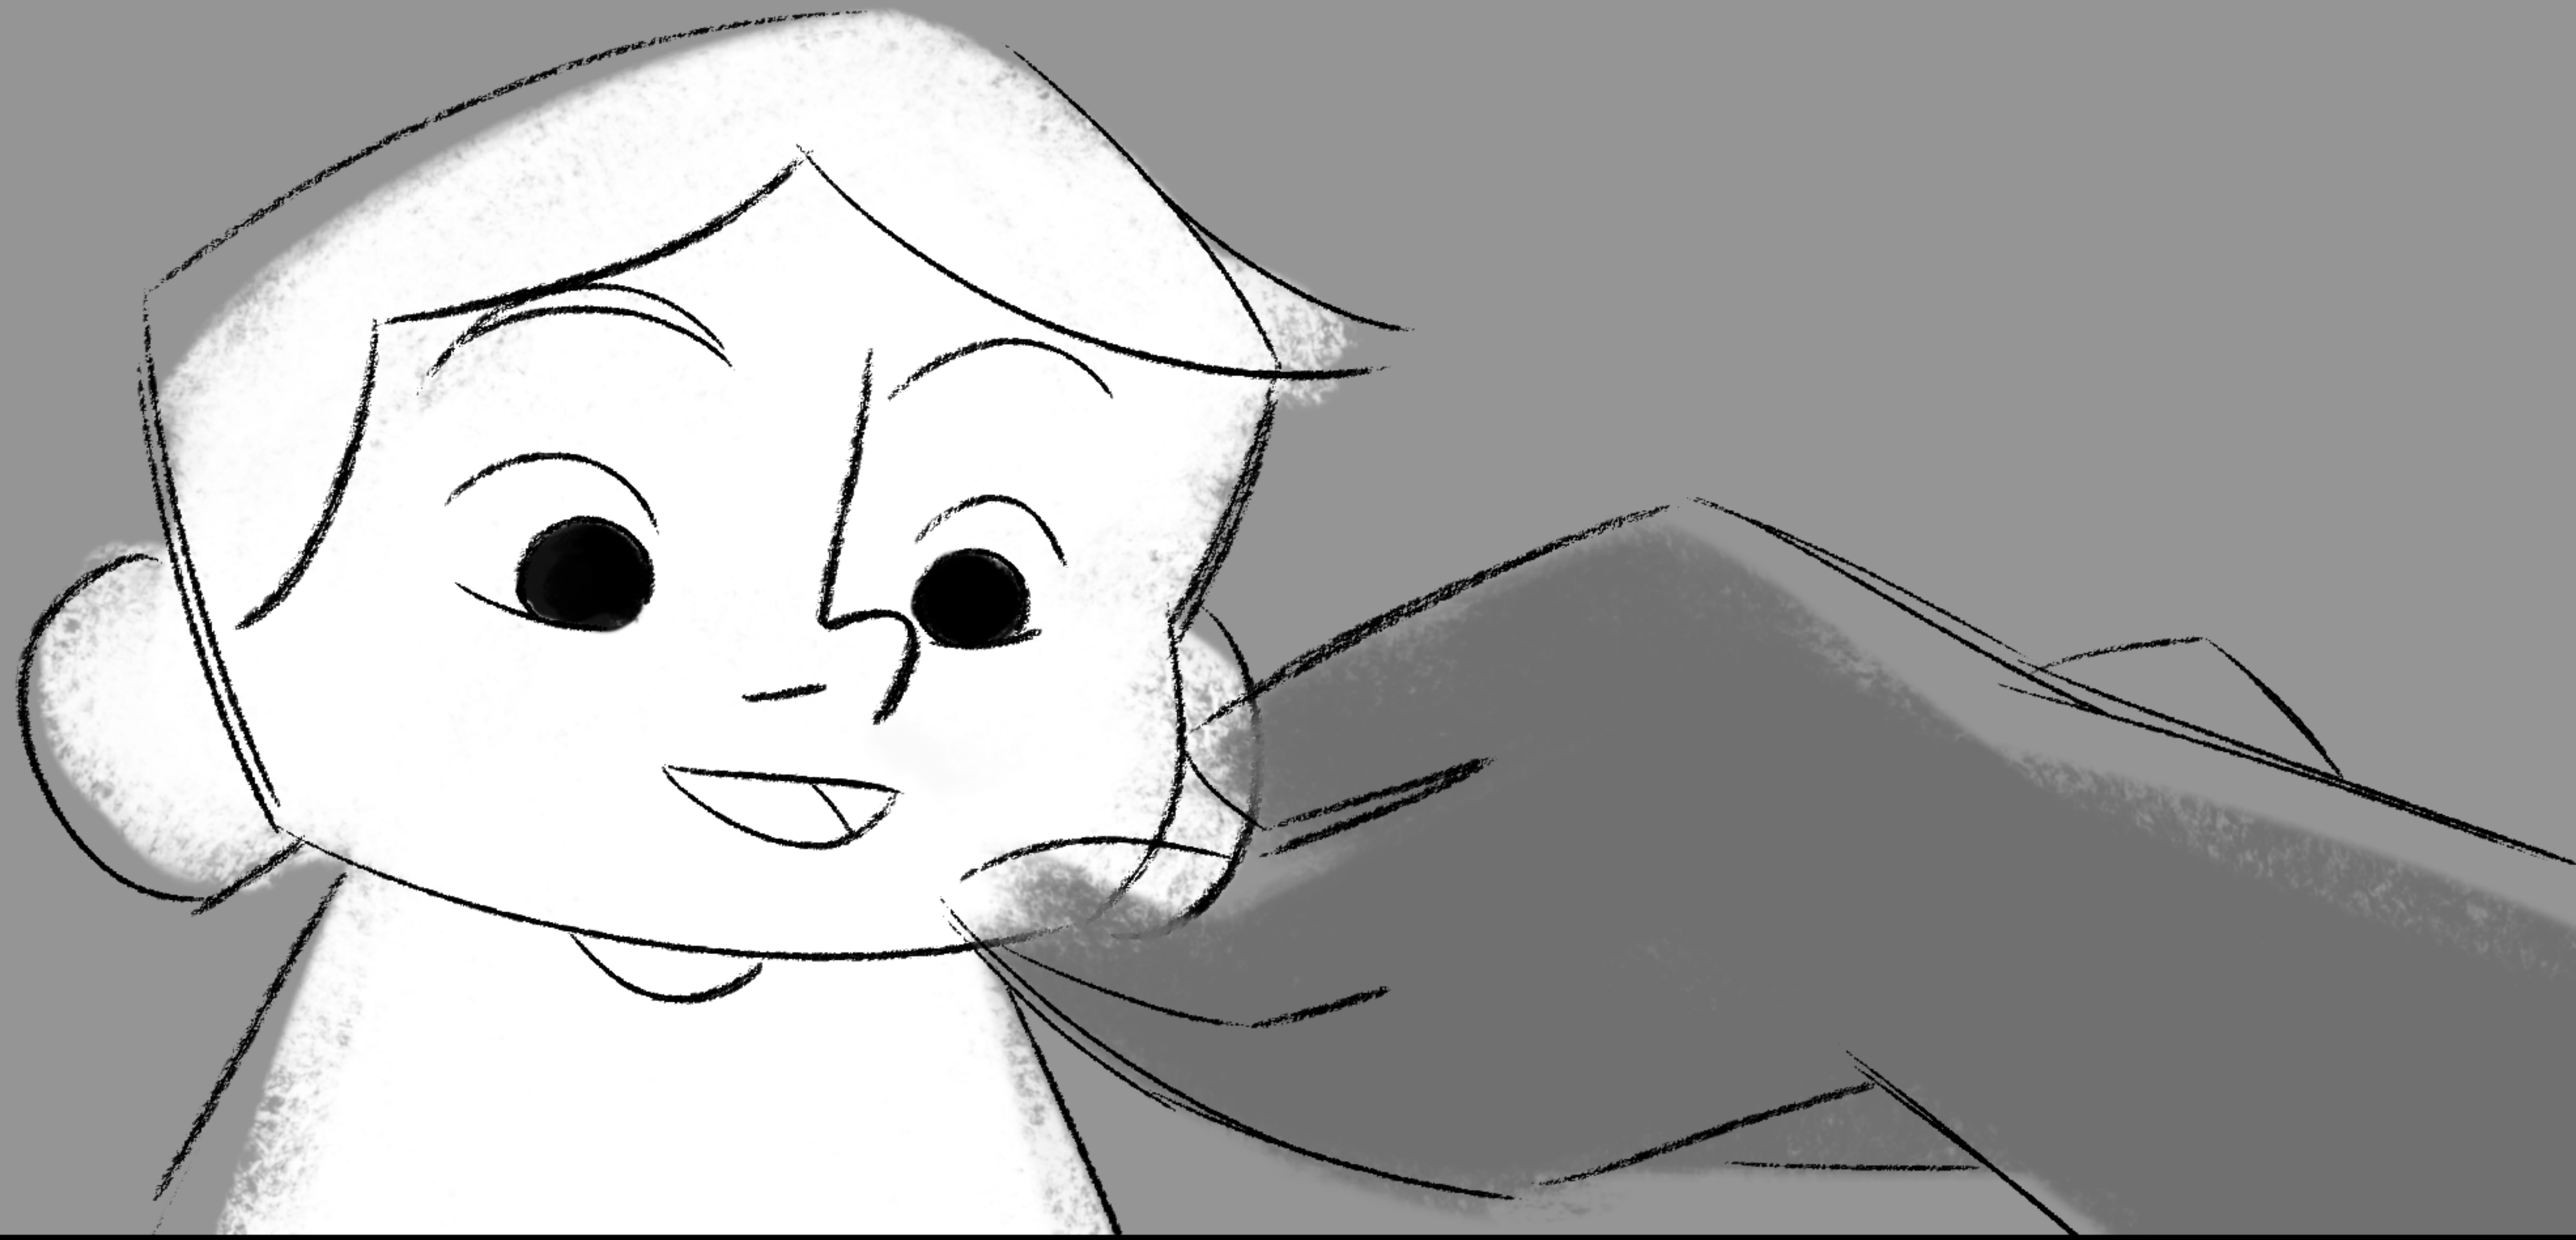

Select, choose!

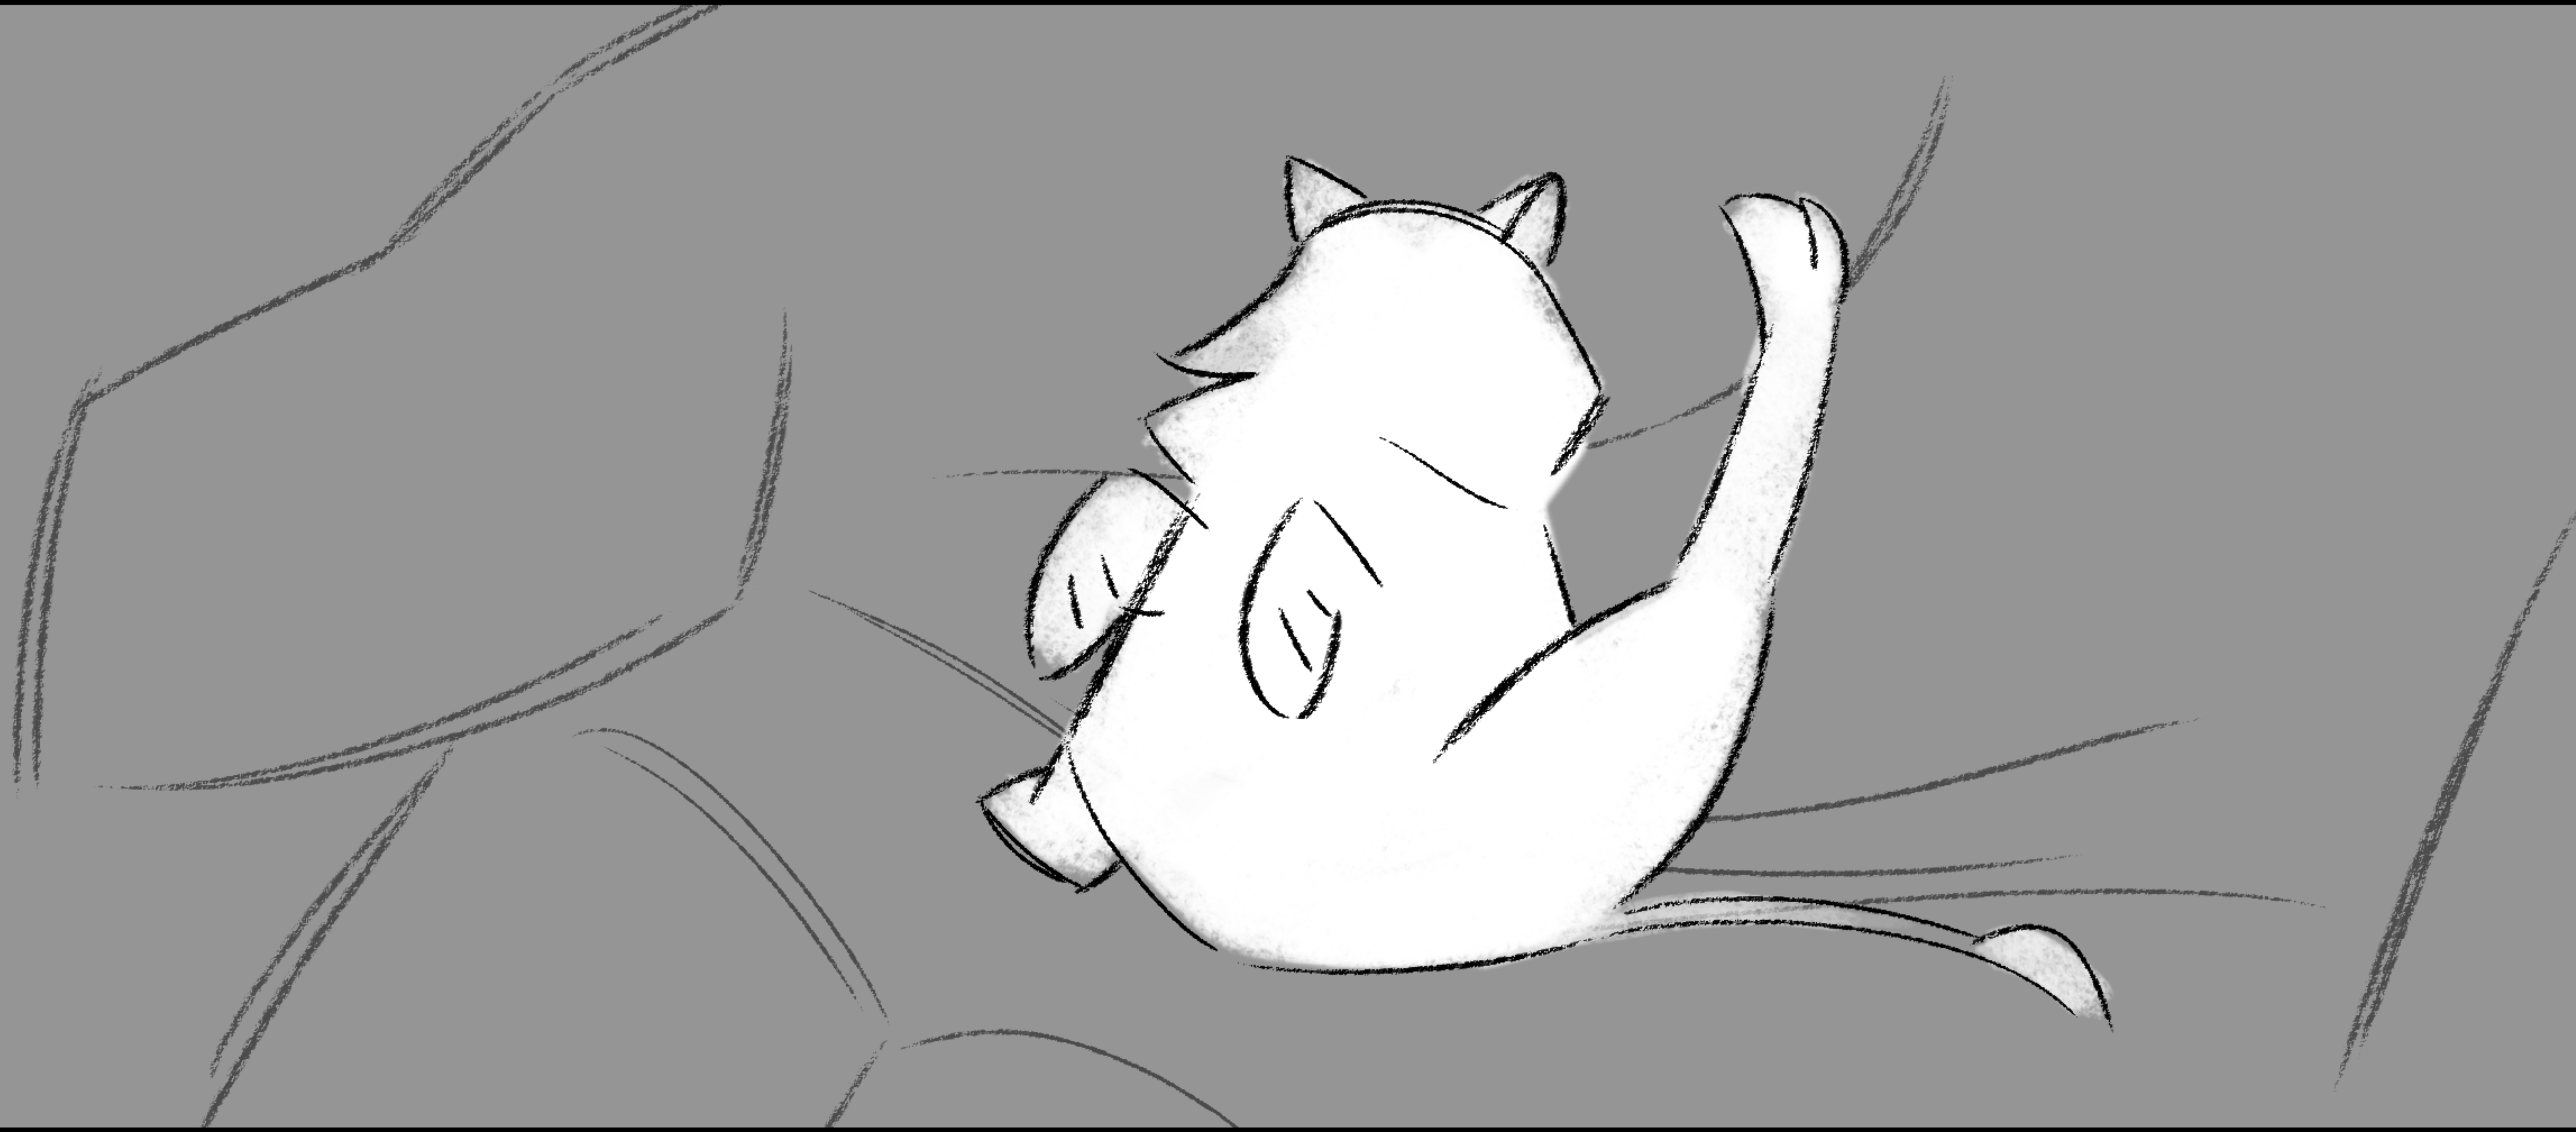

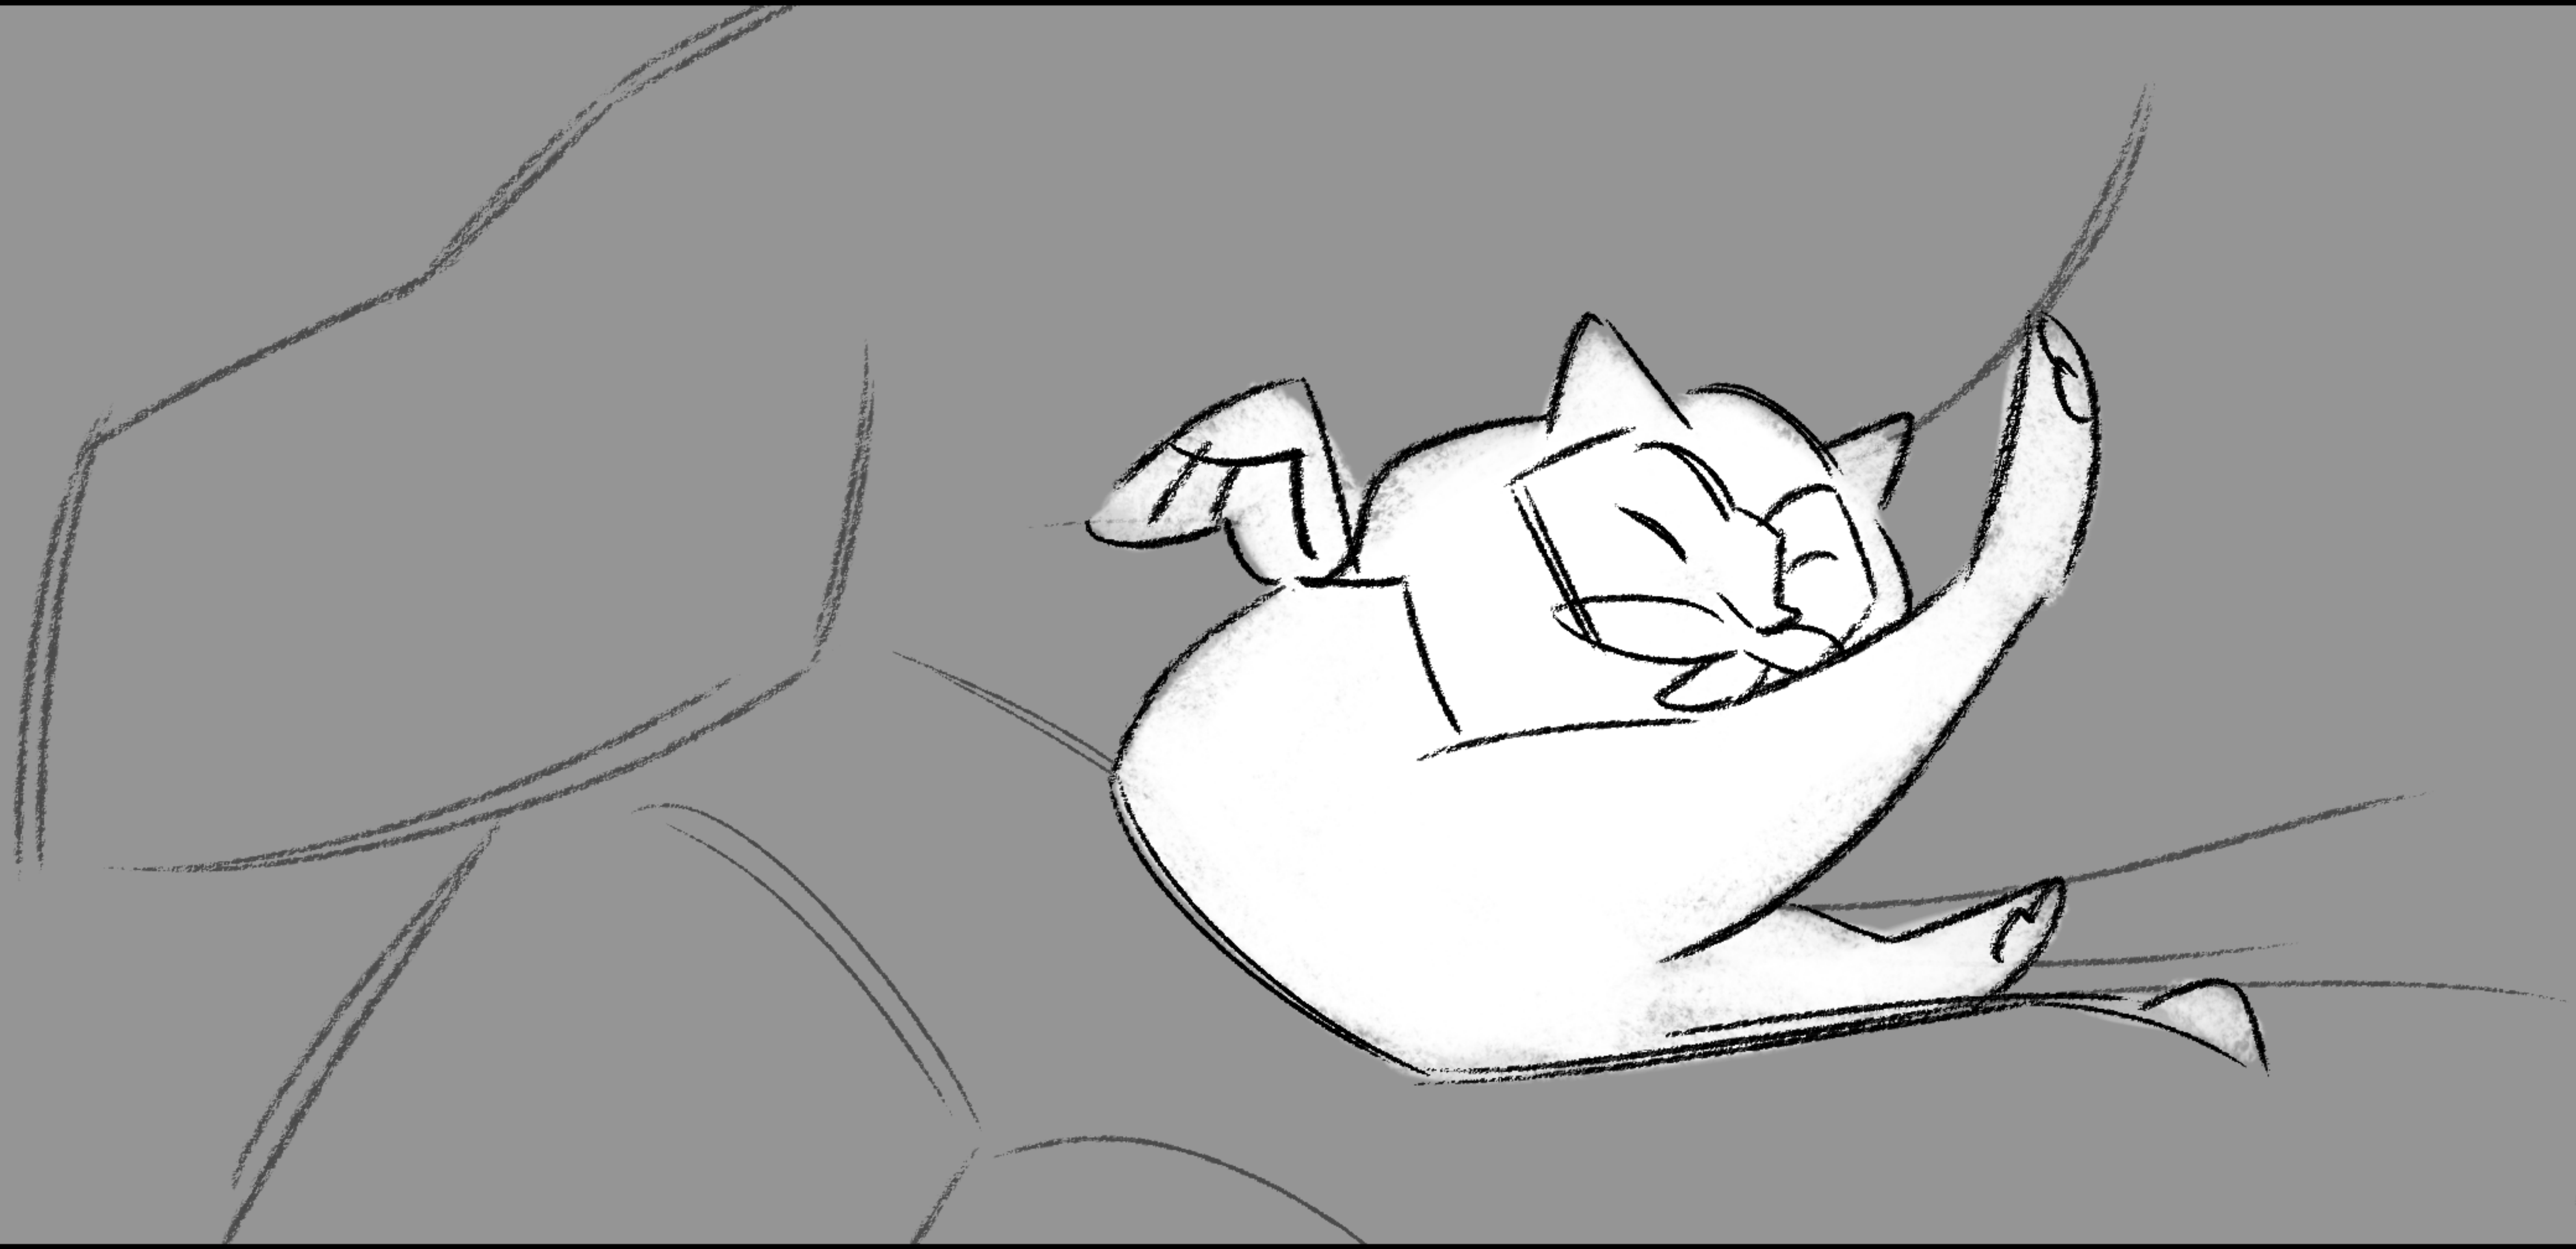

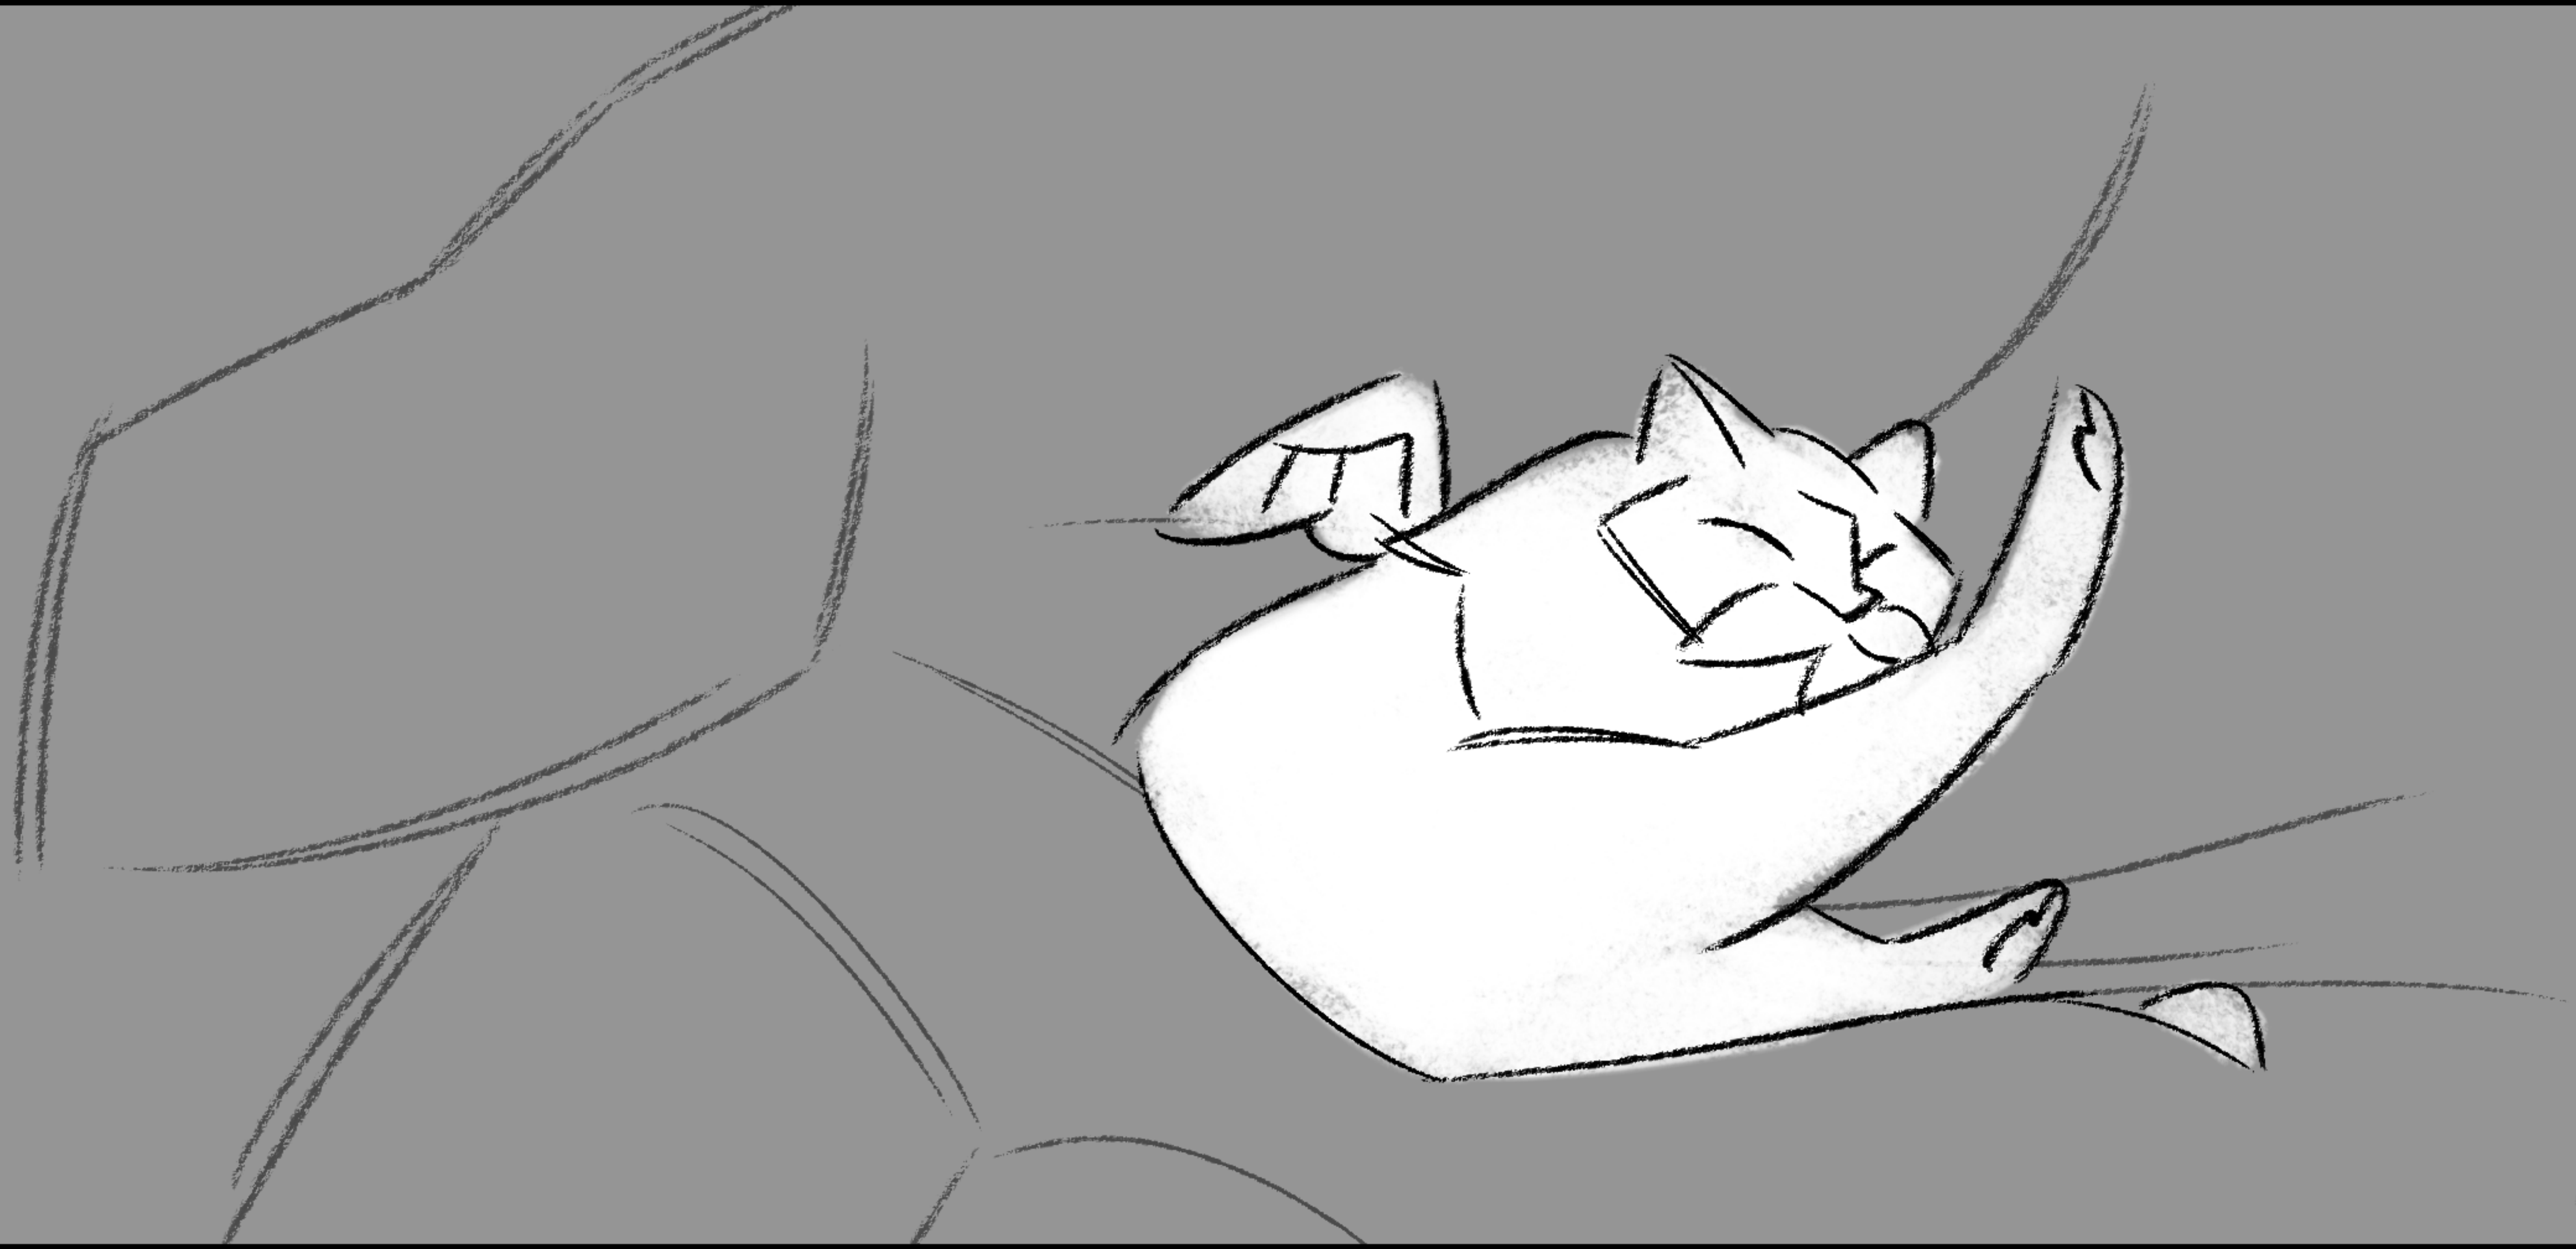

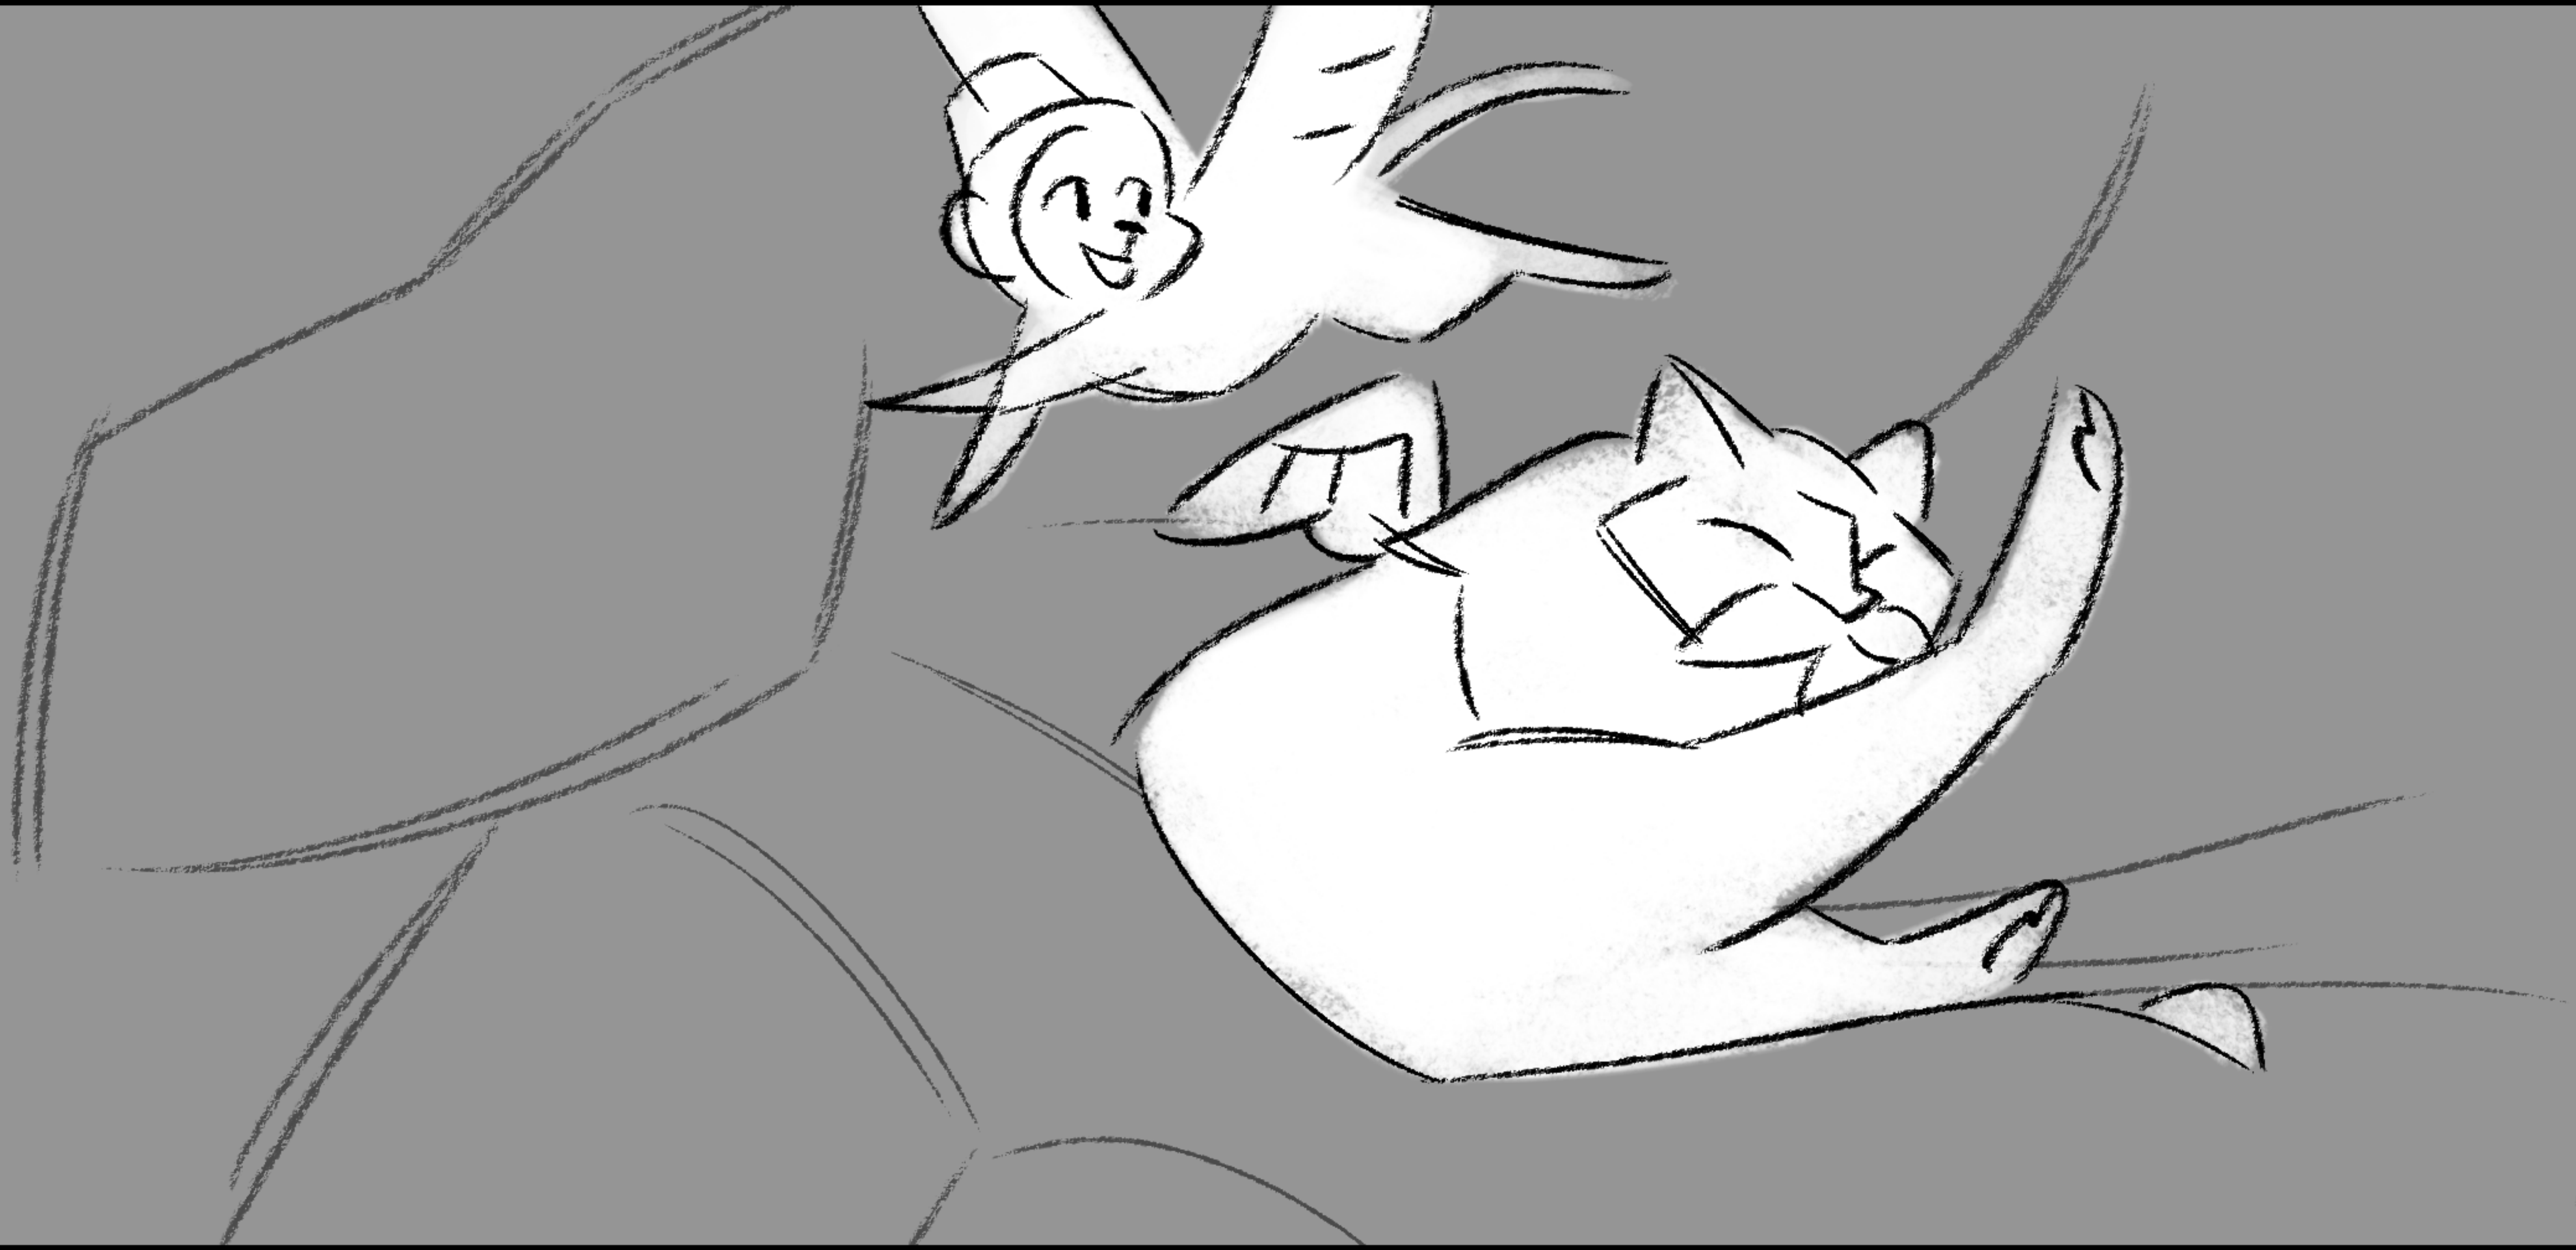

HAROUN: Ugh!

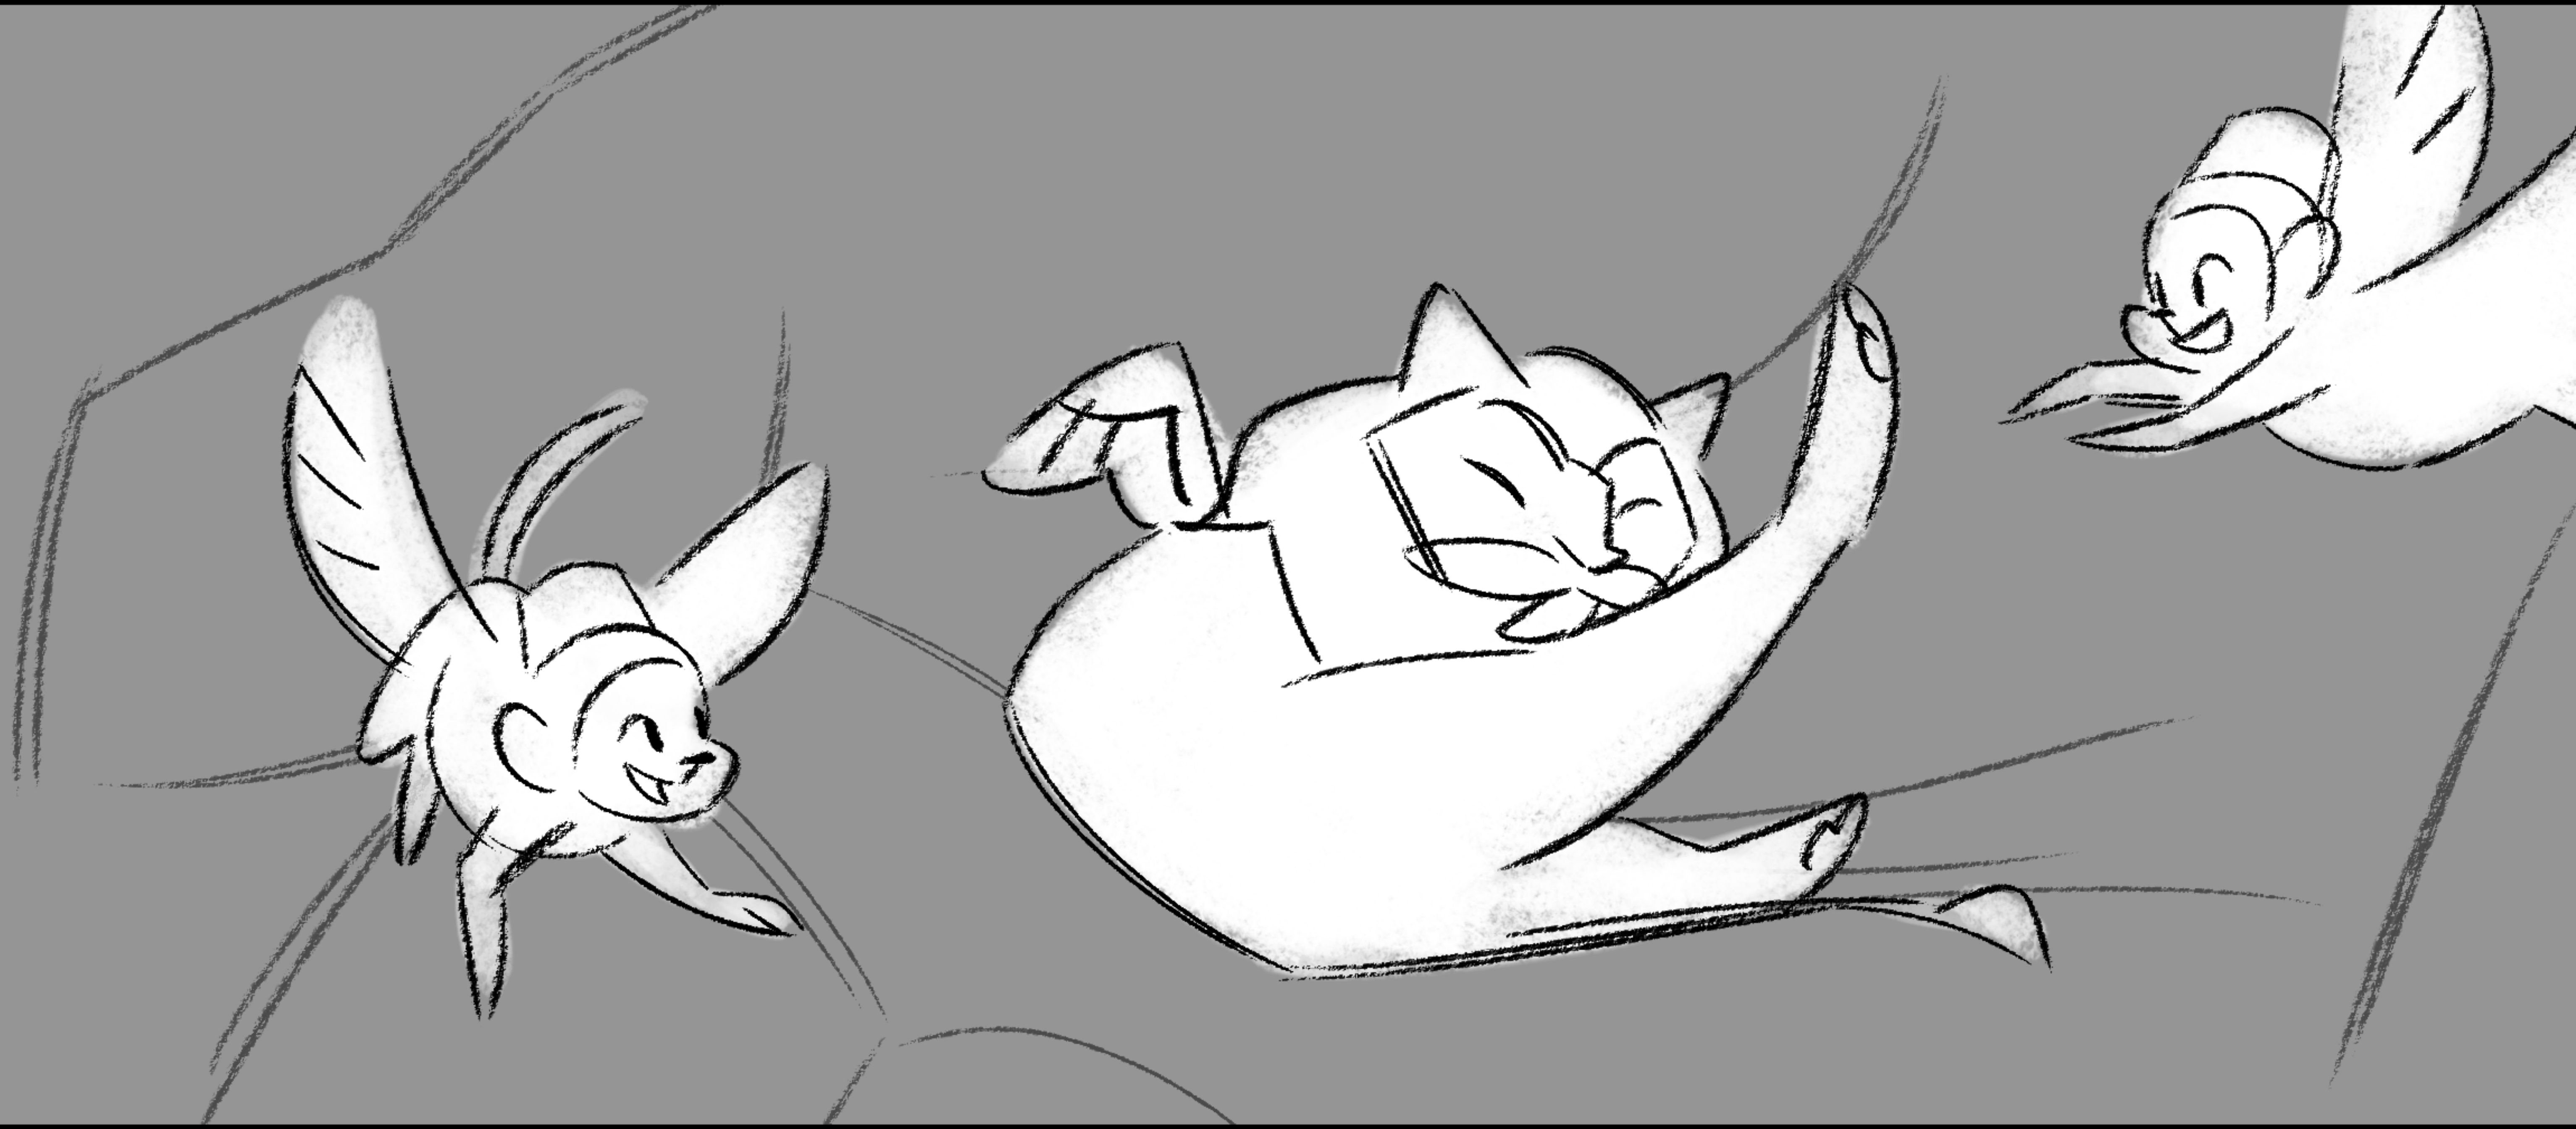

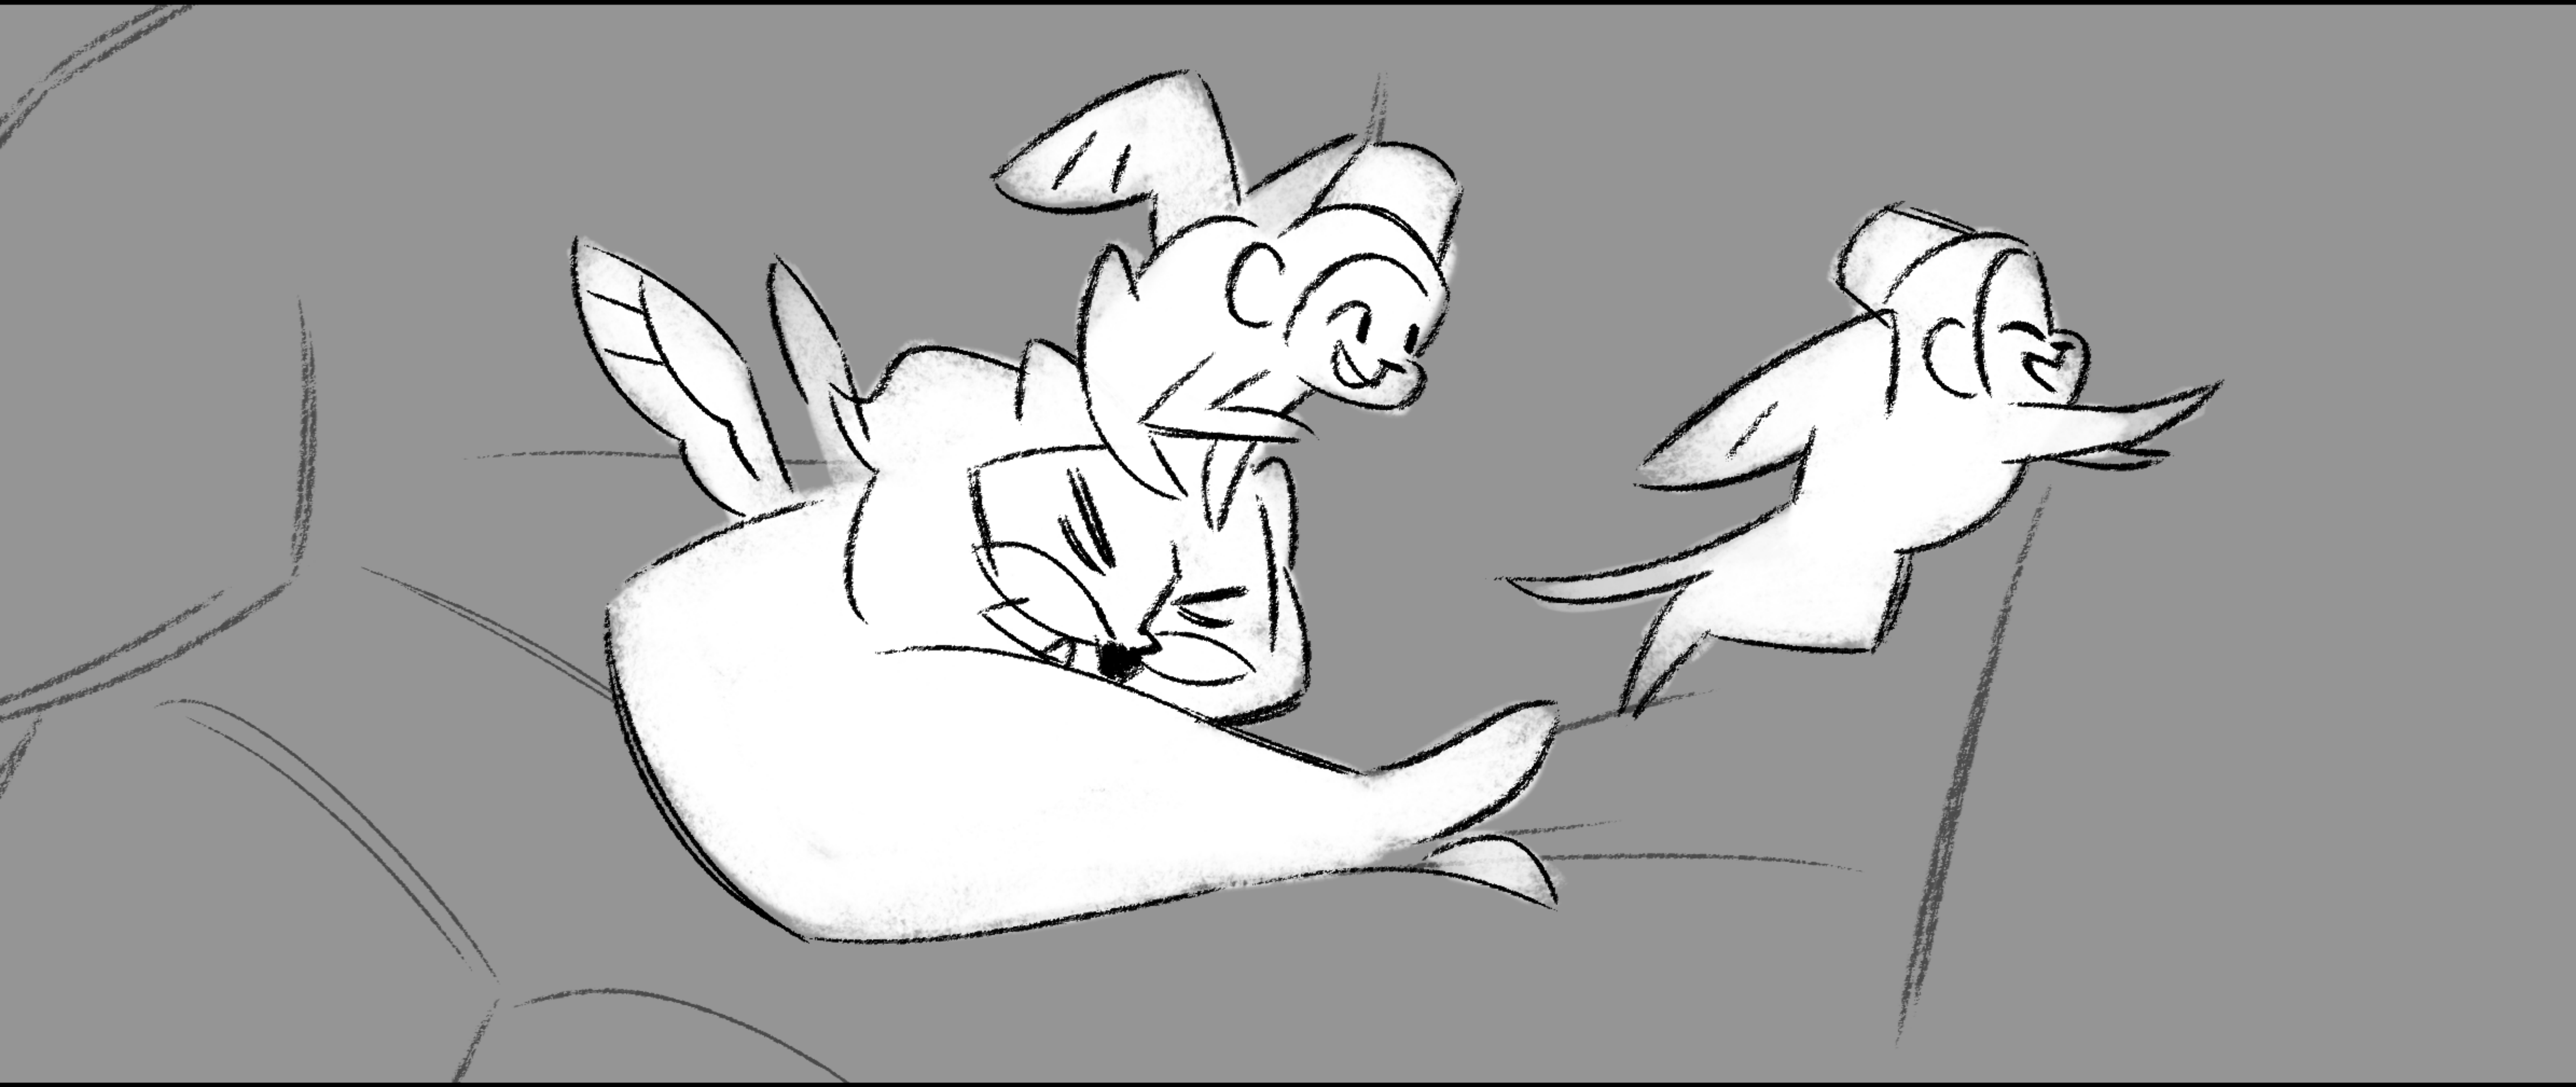

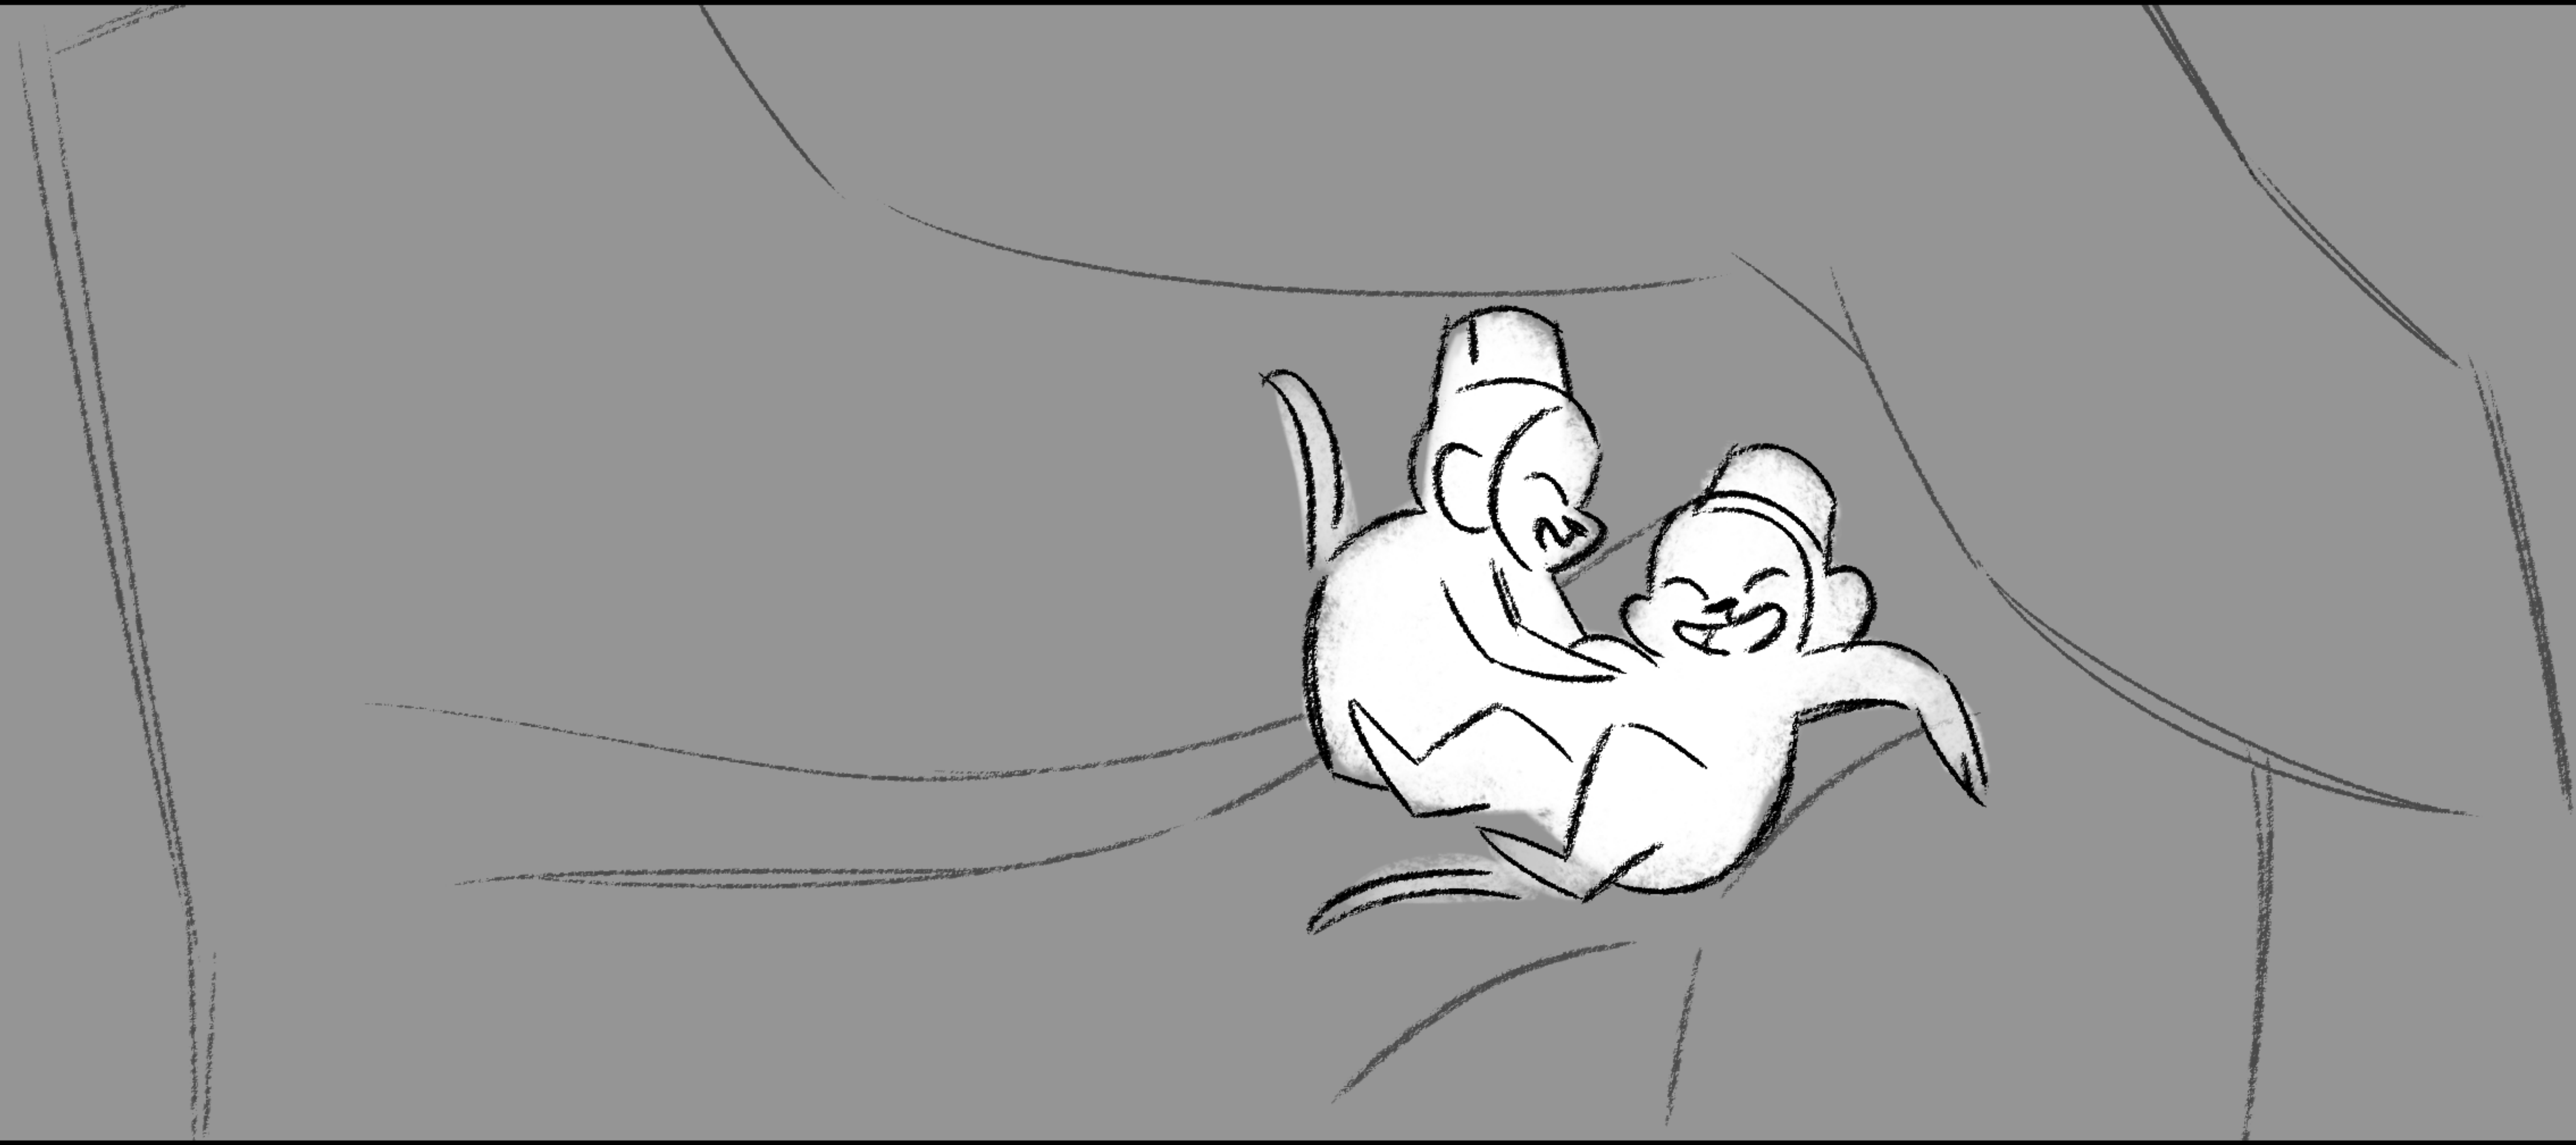

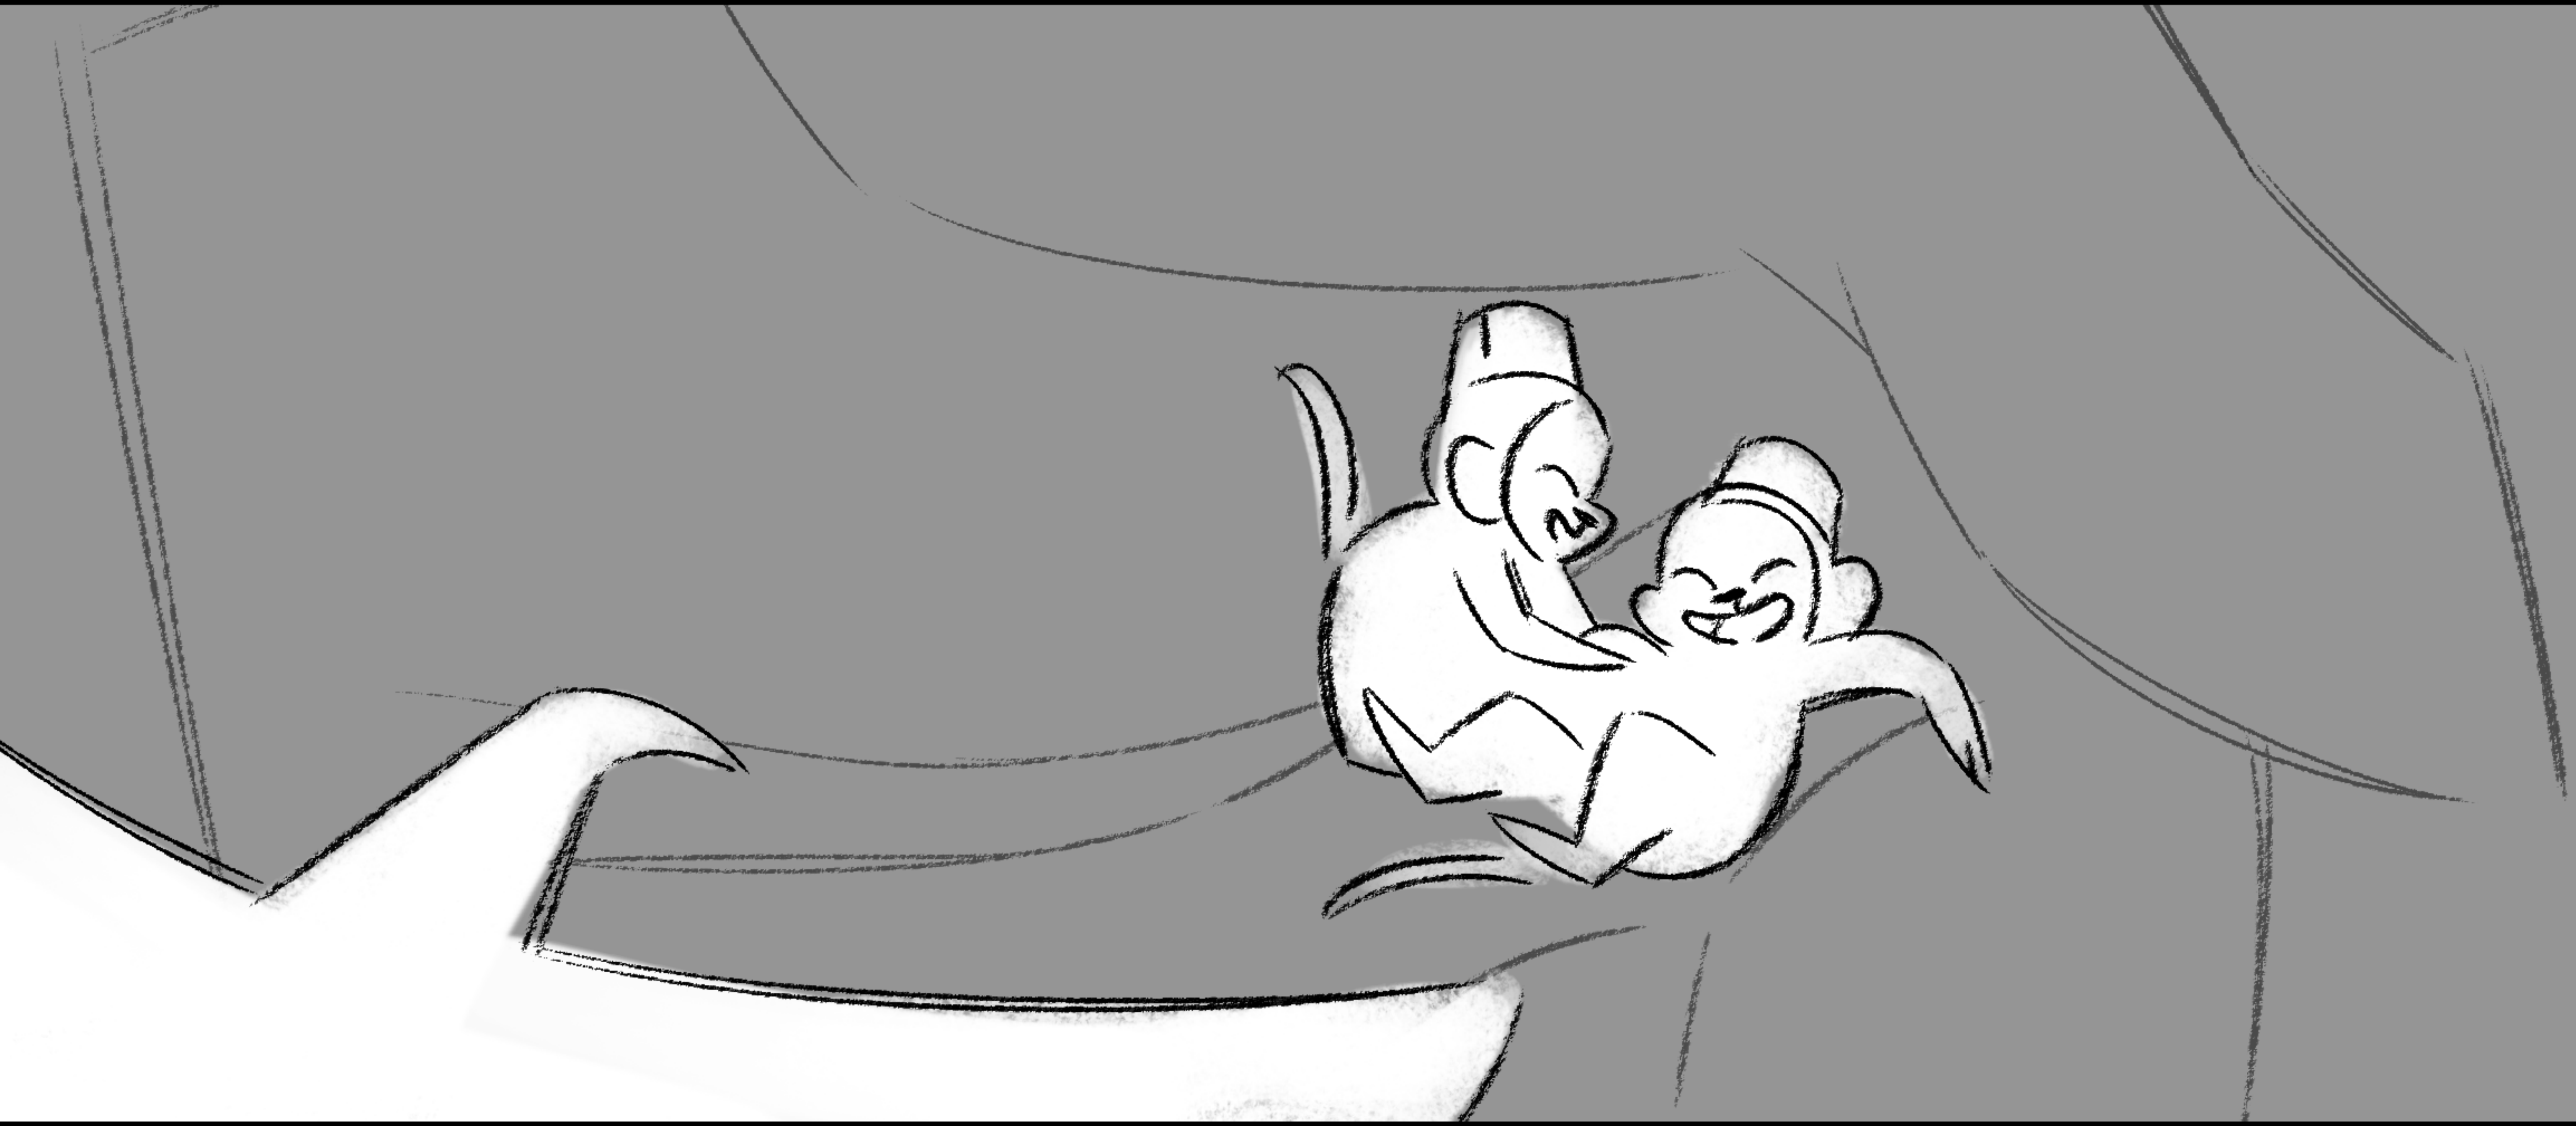

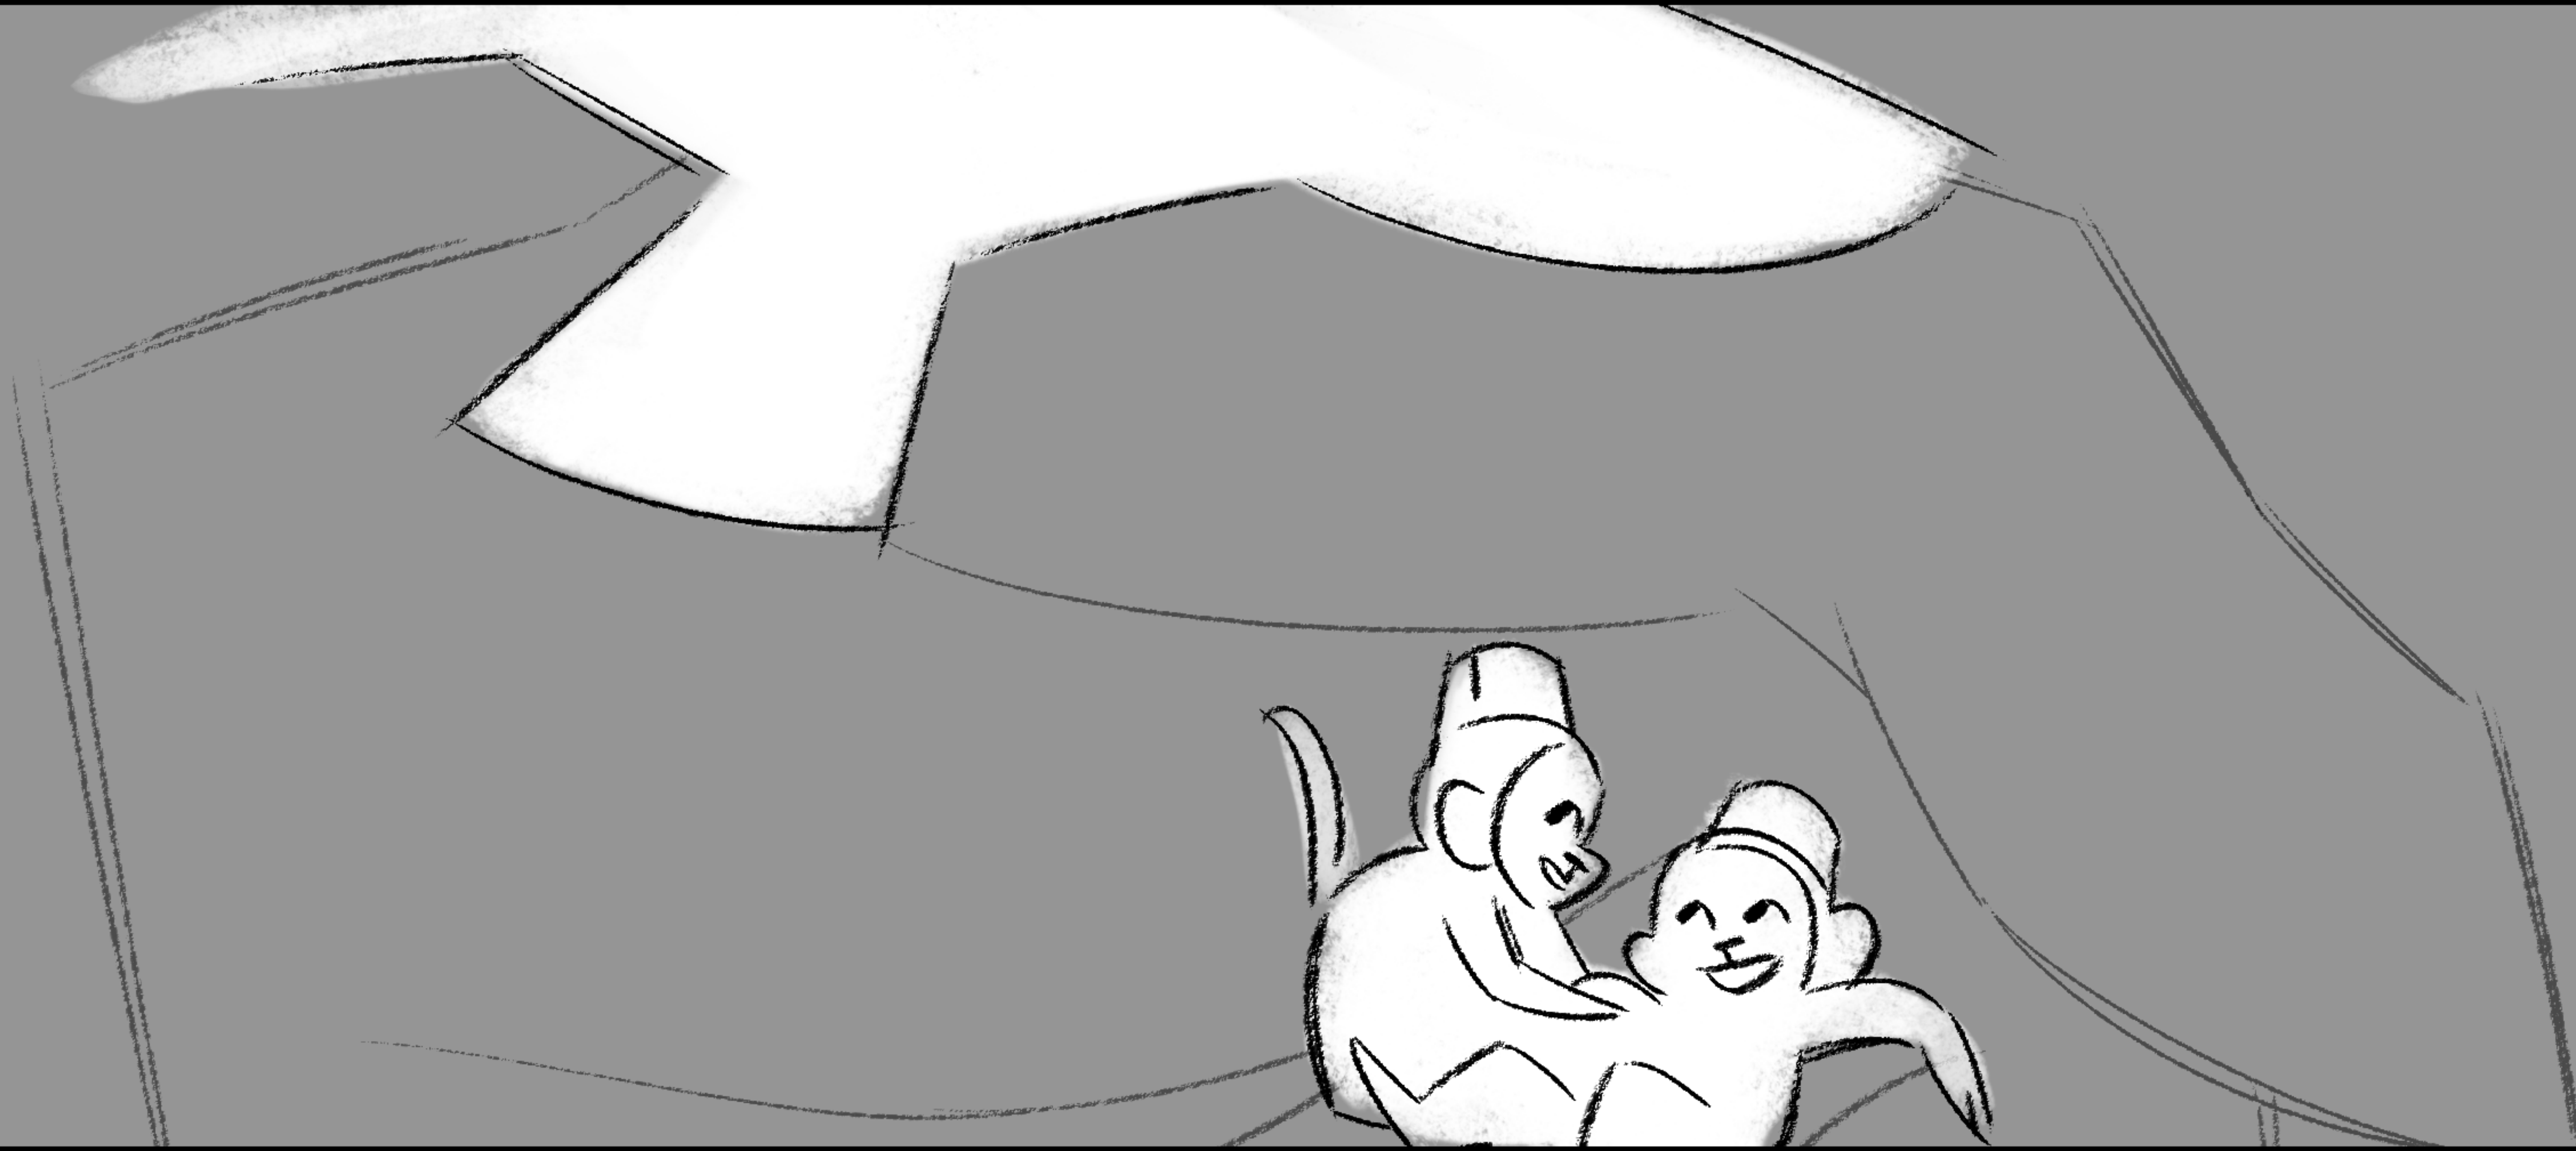

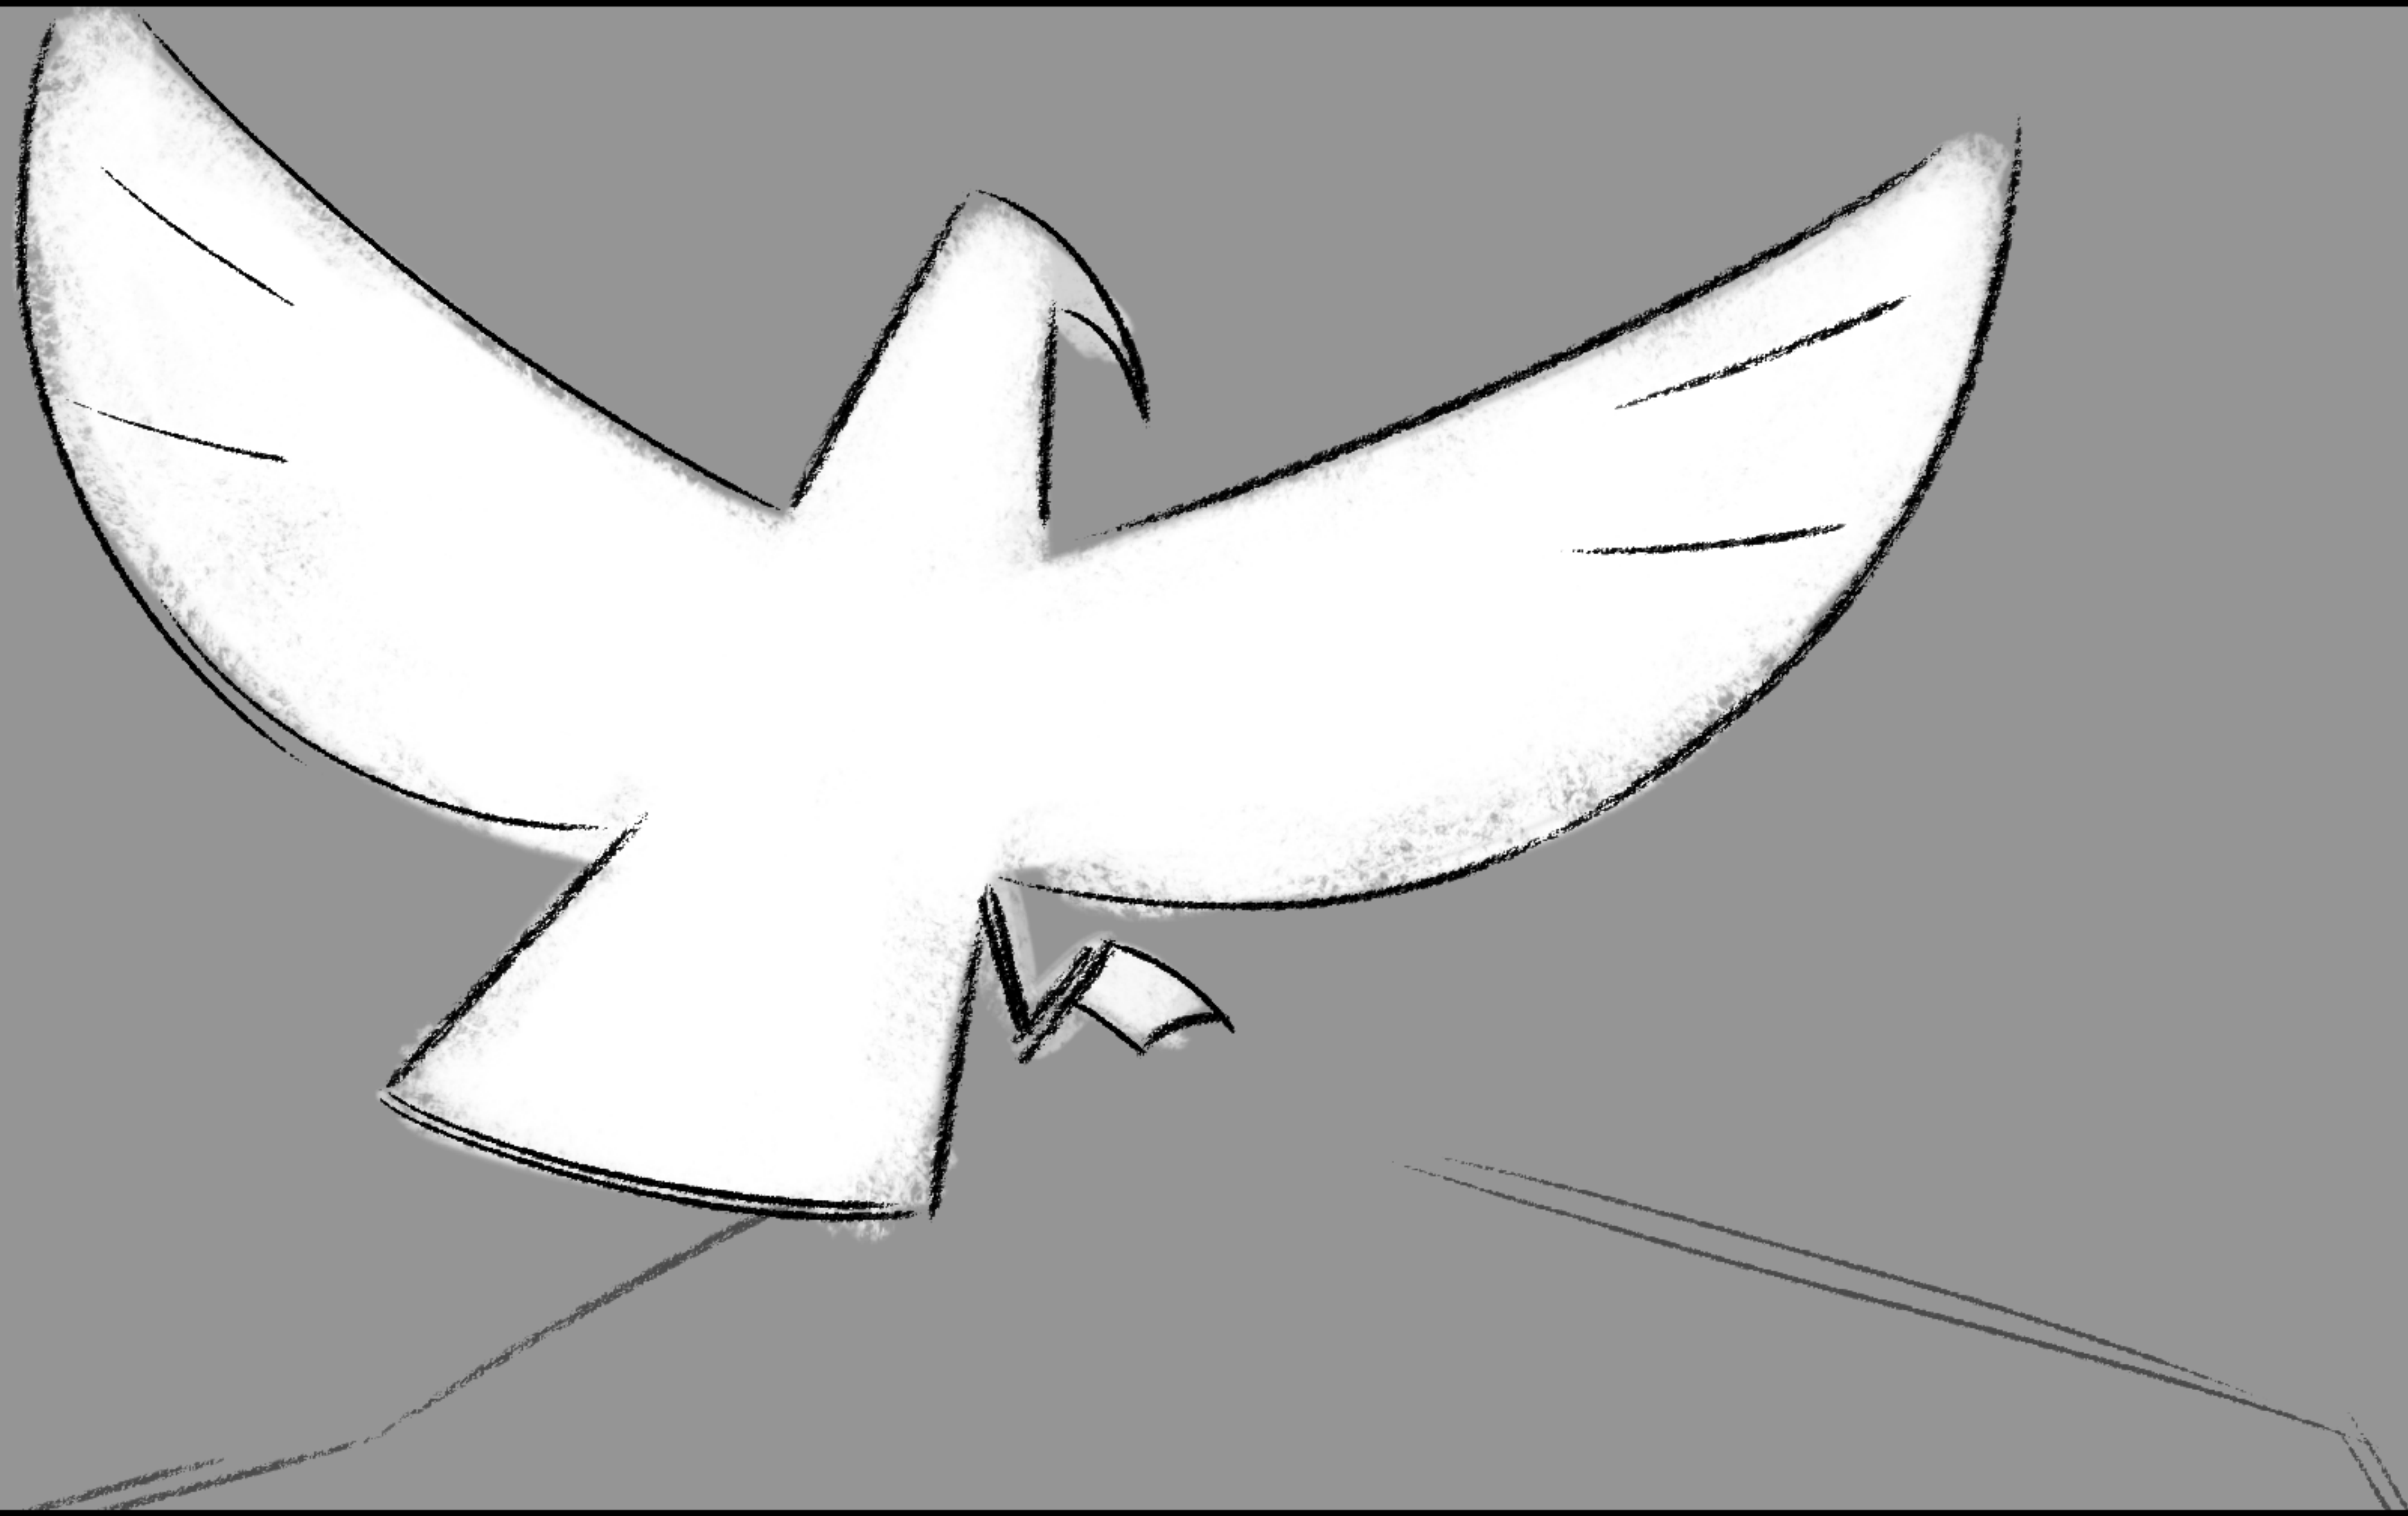

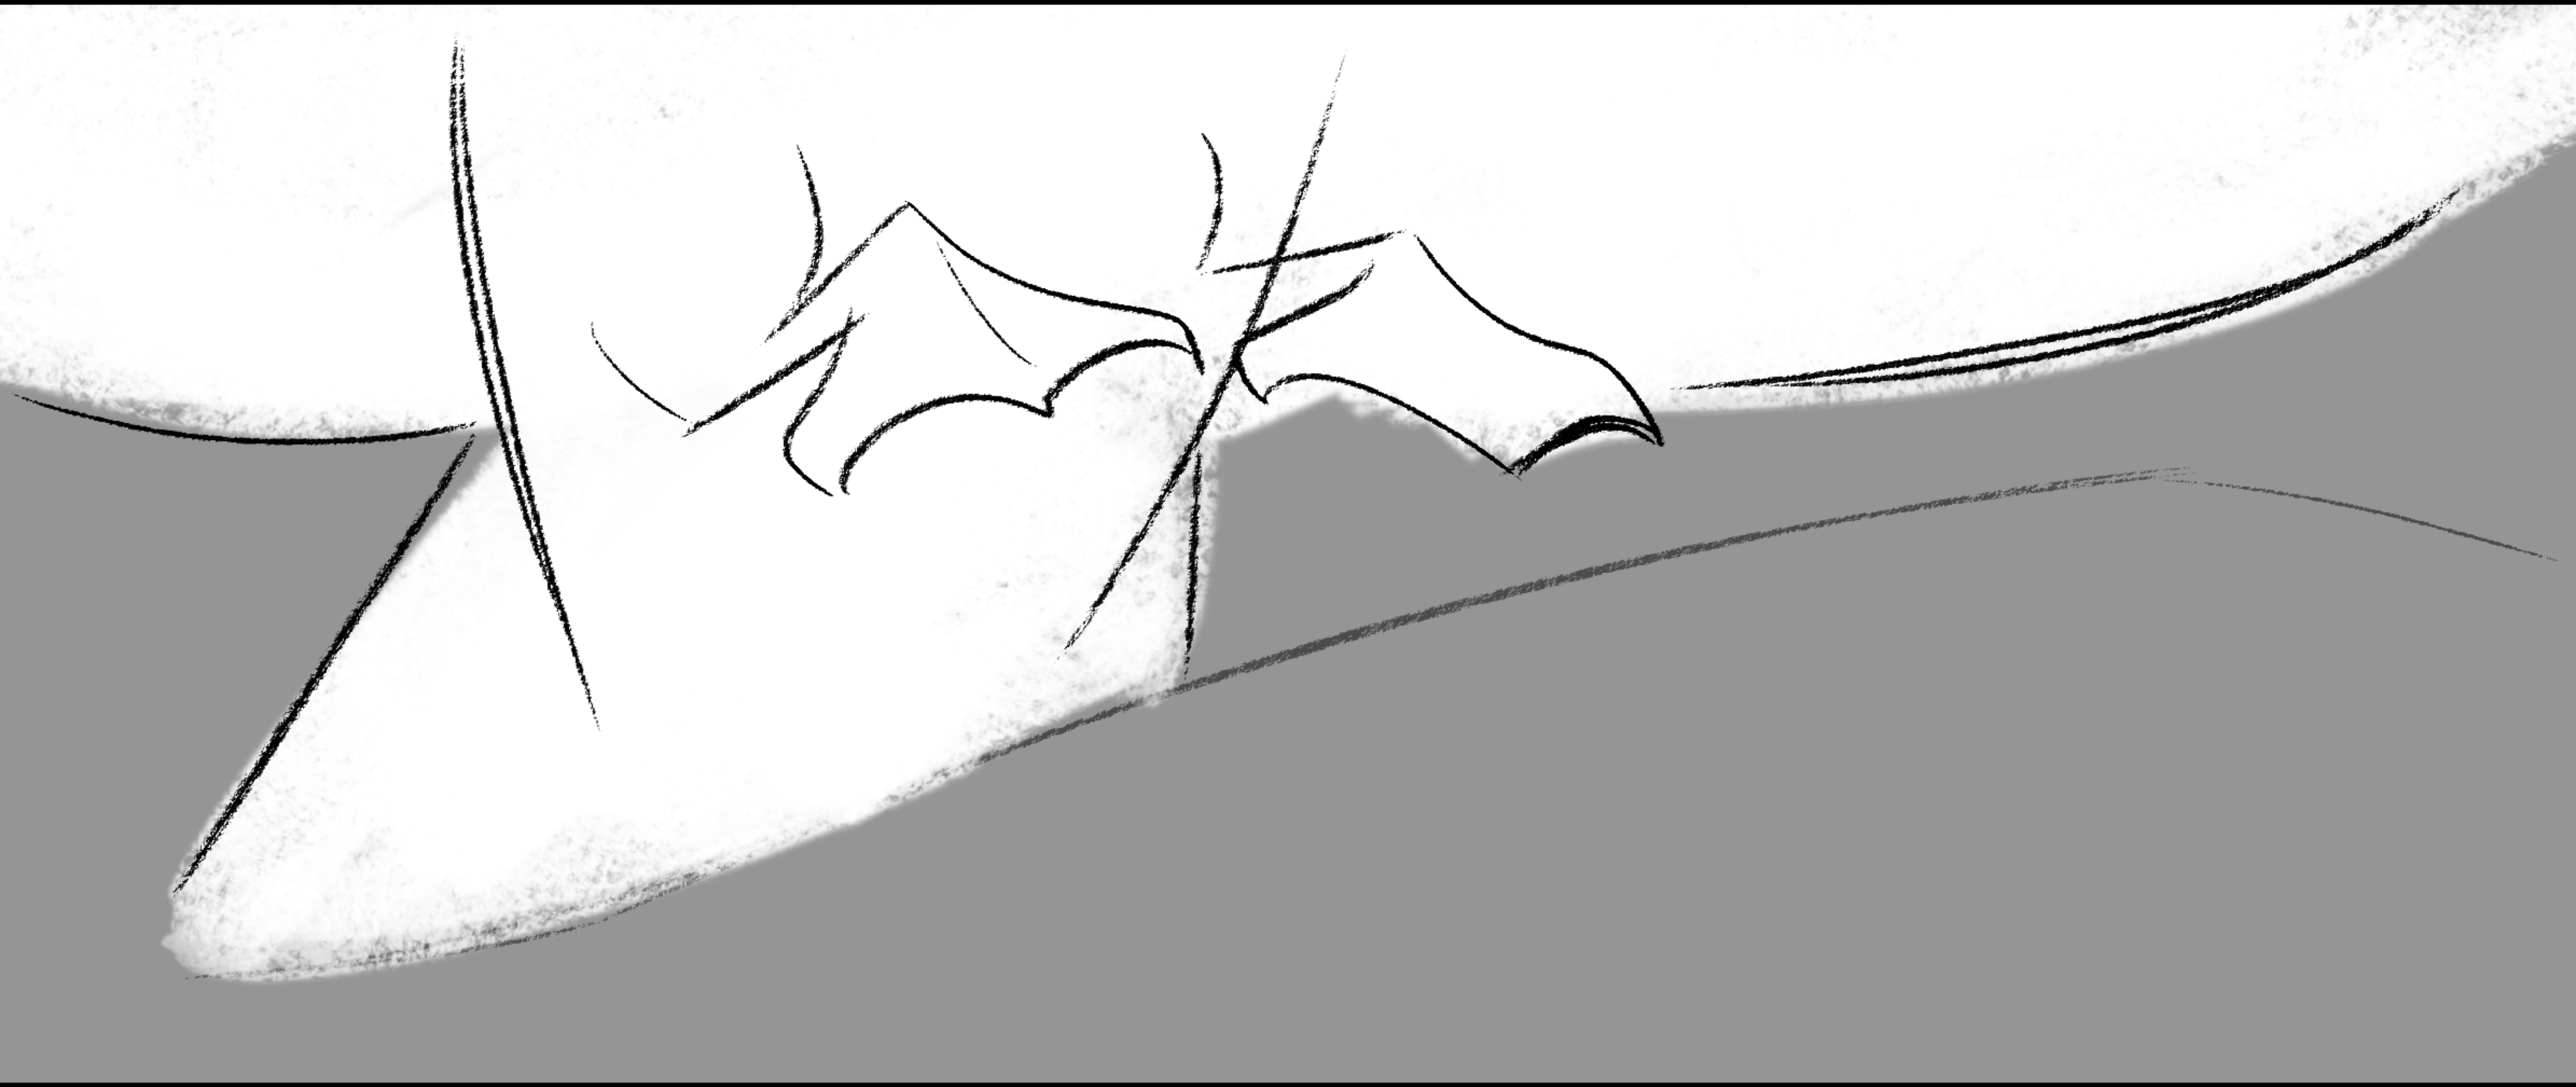

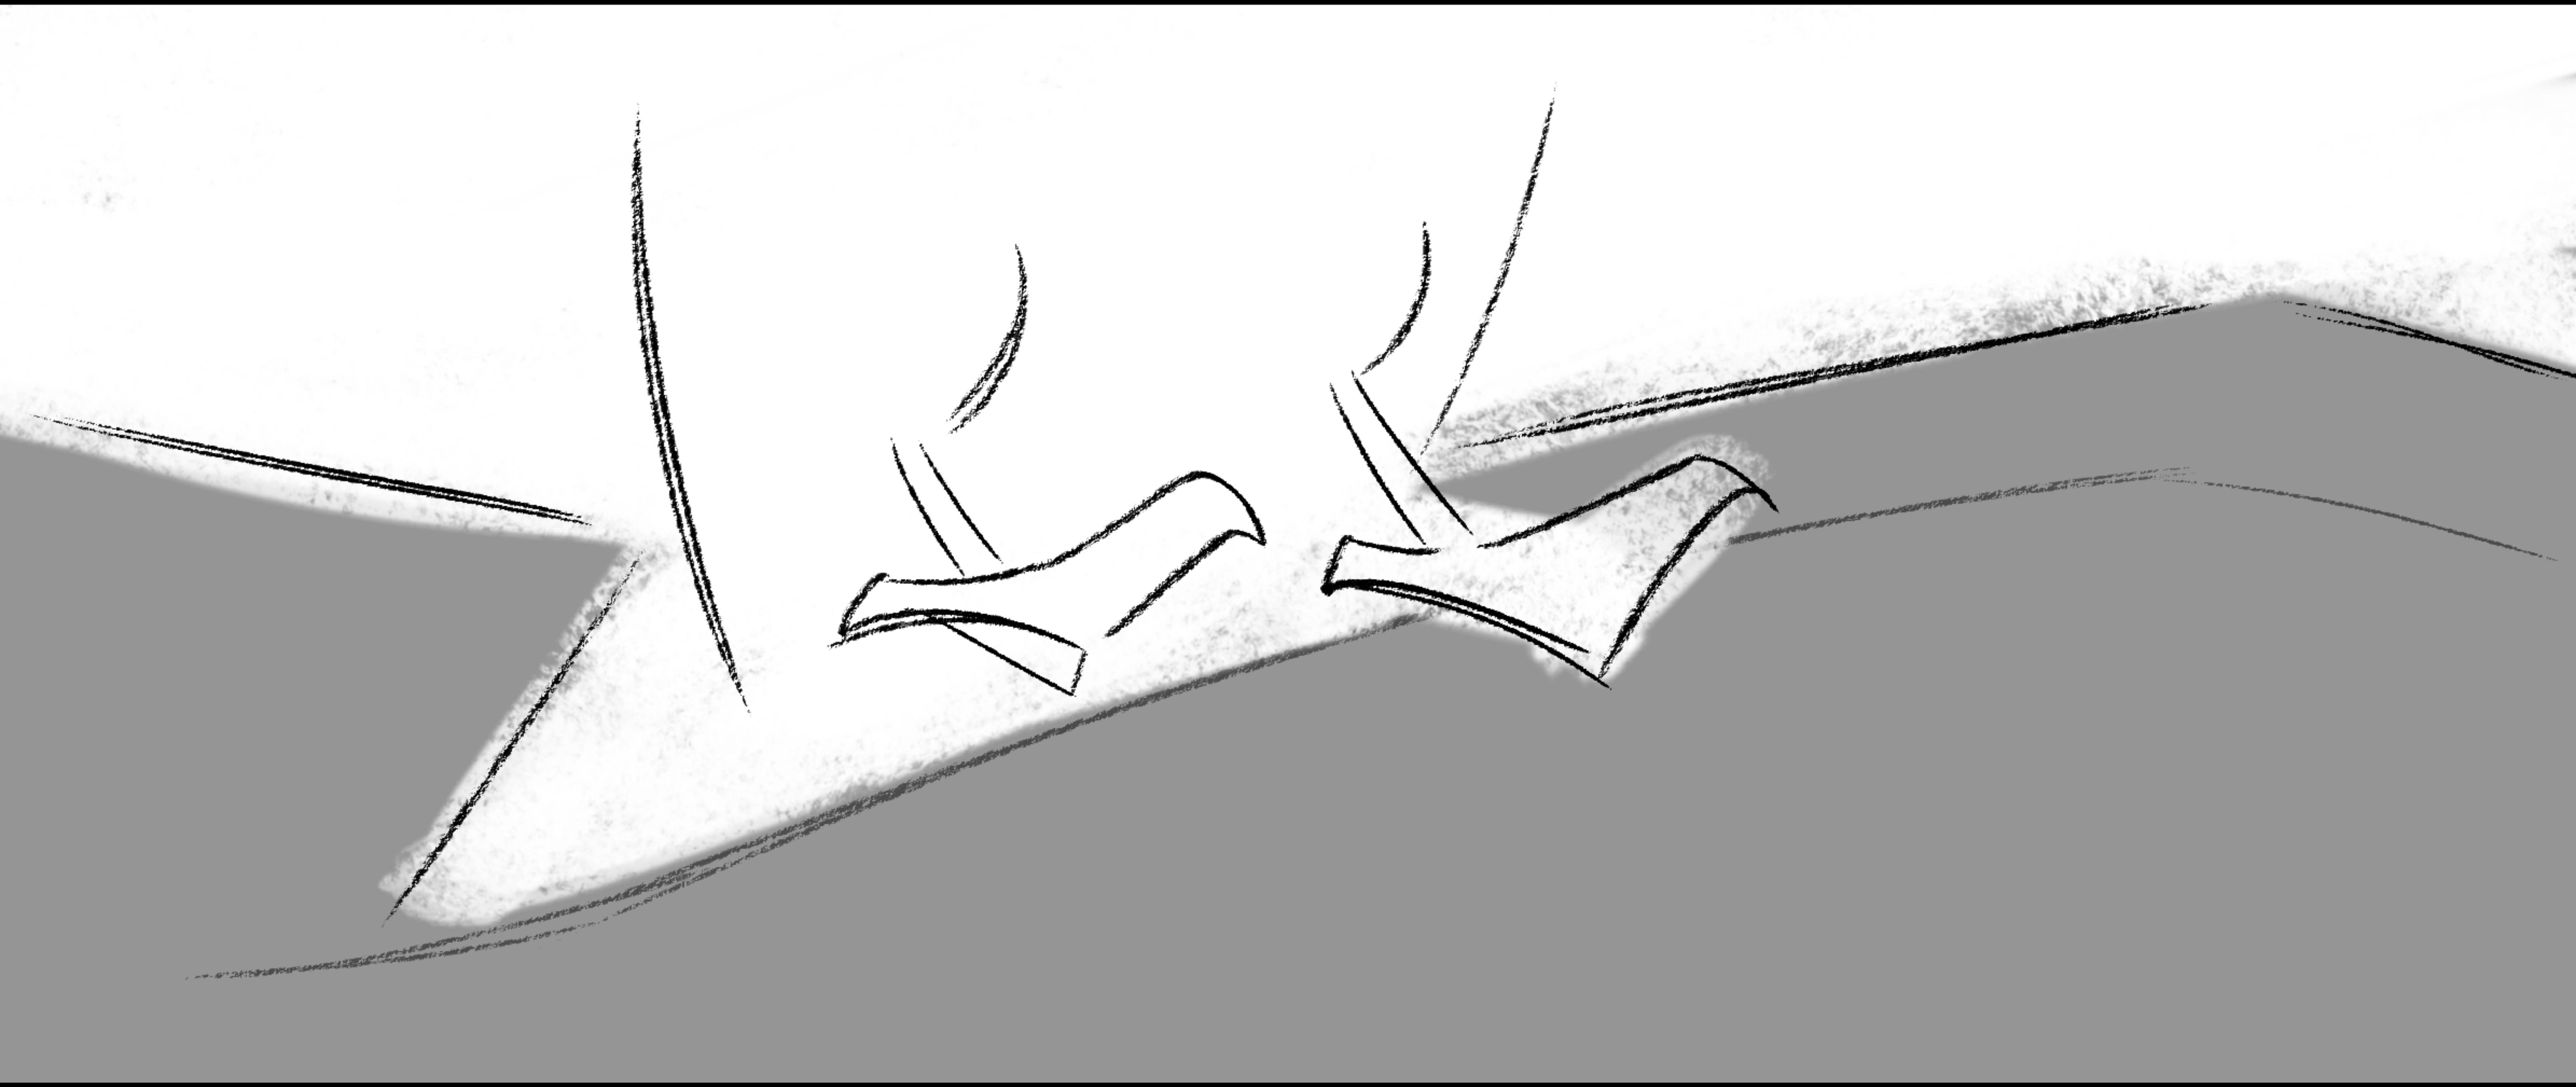

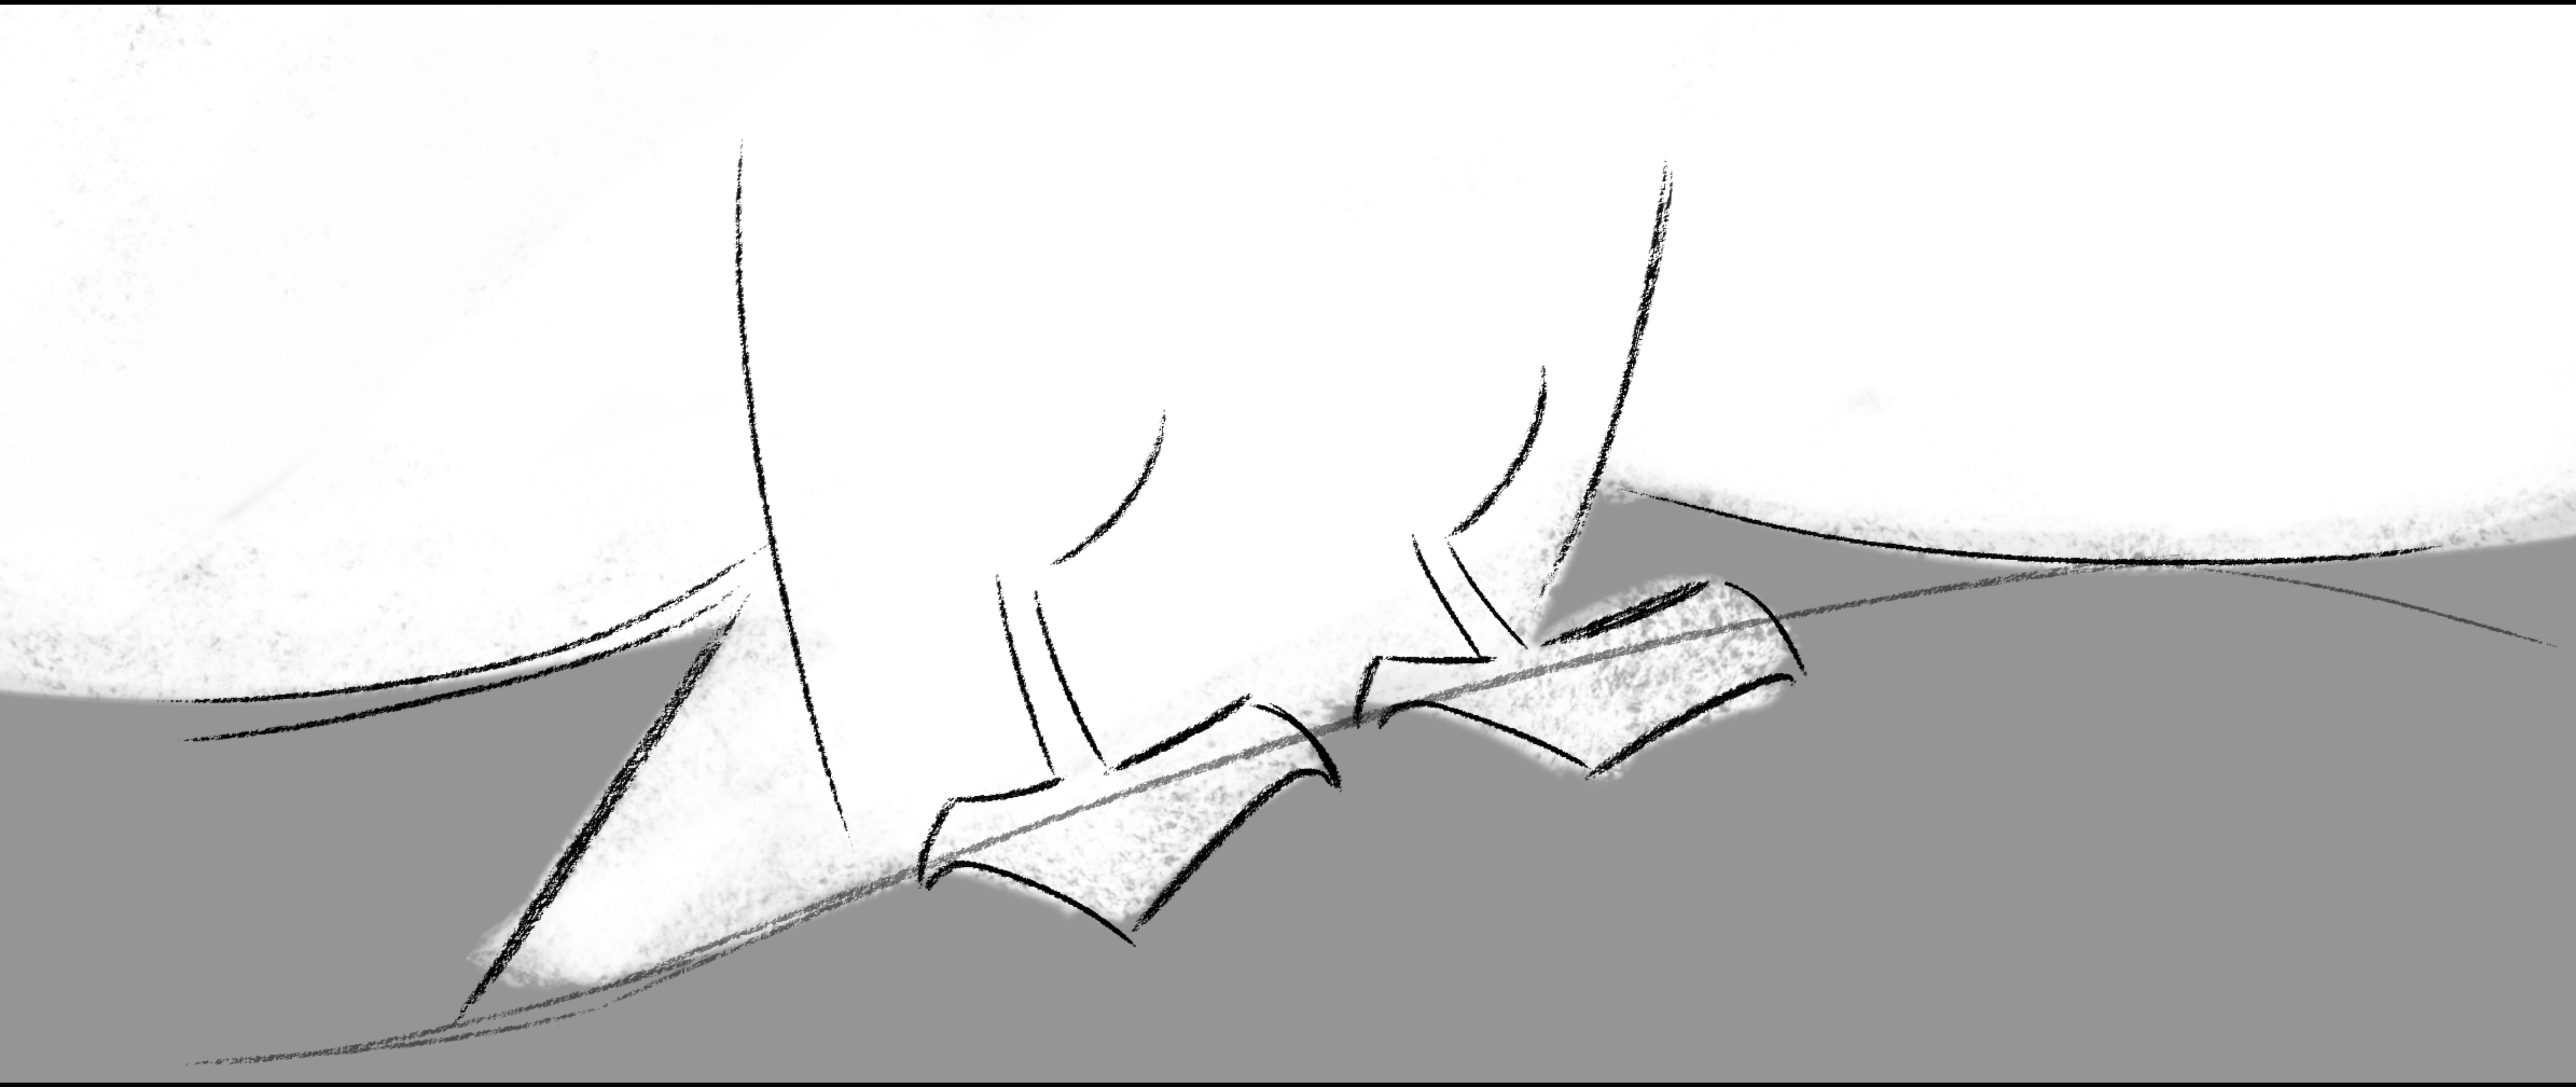

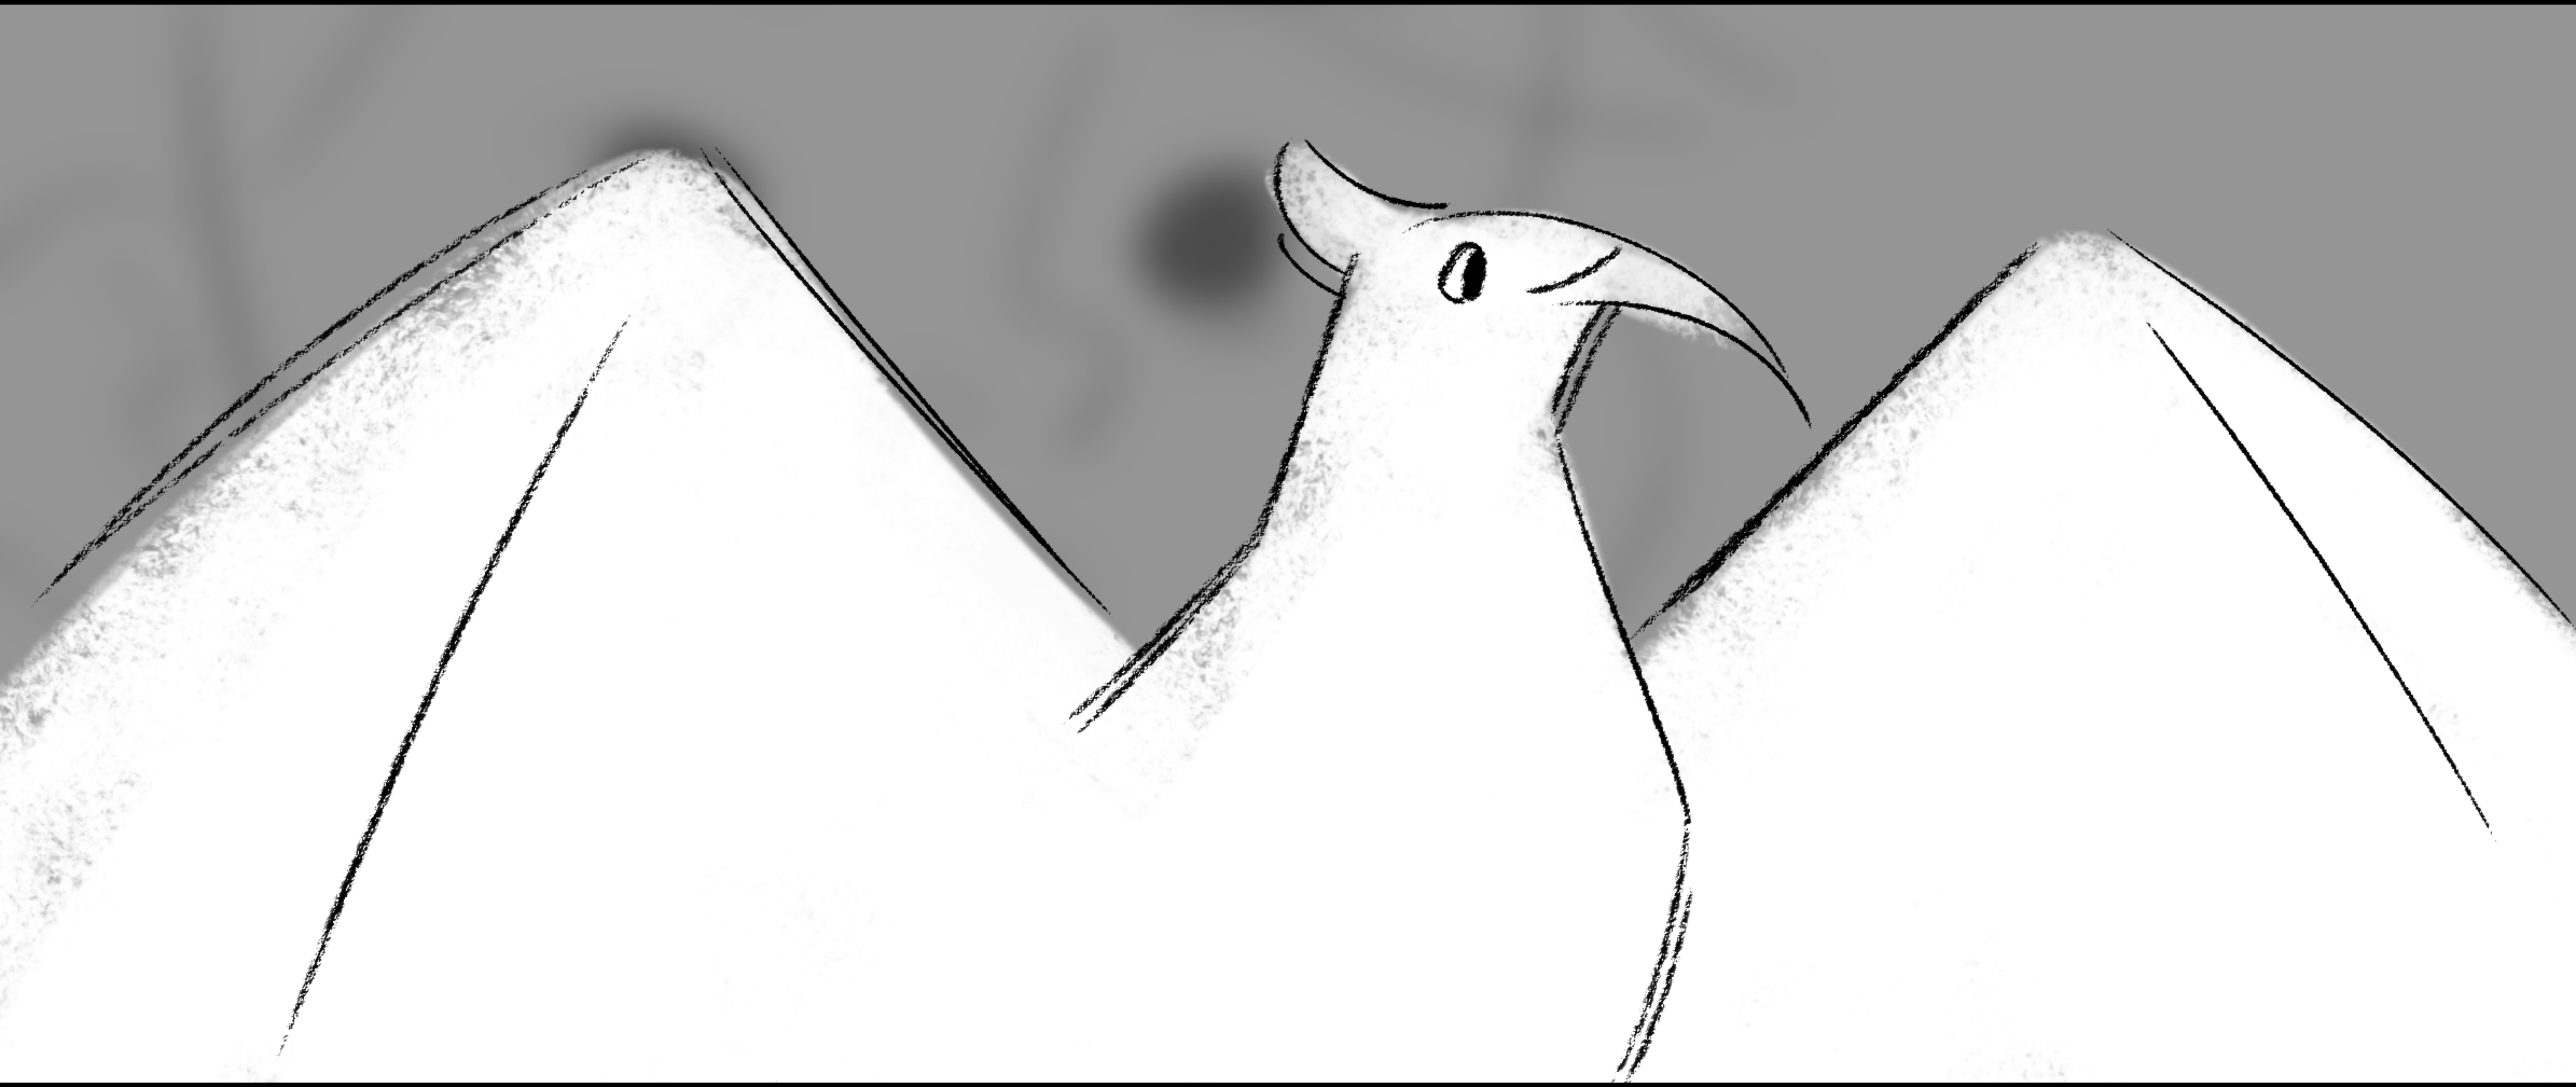

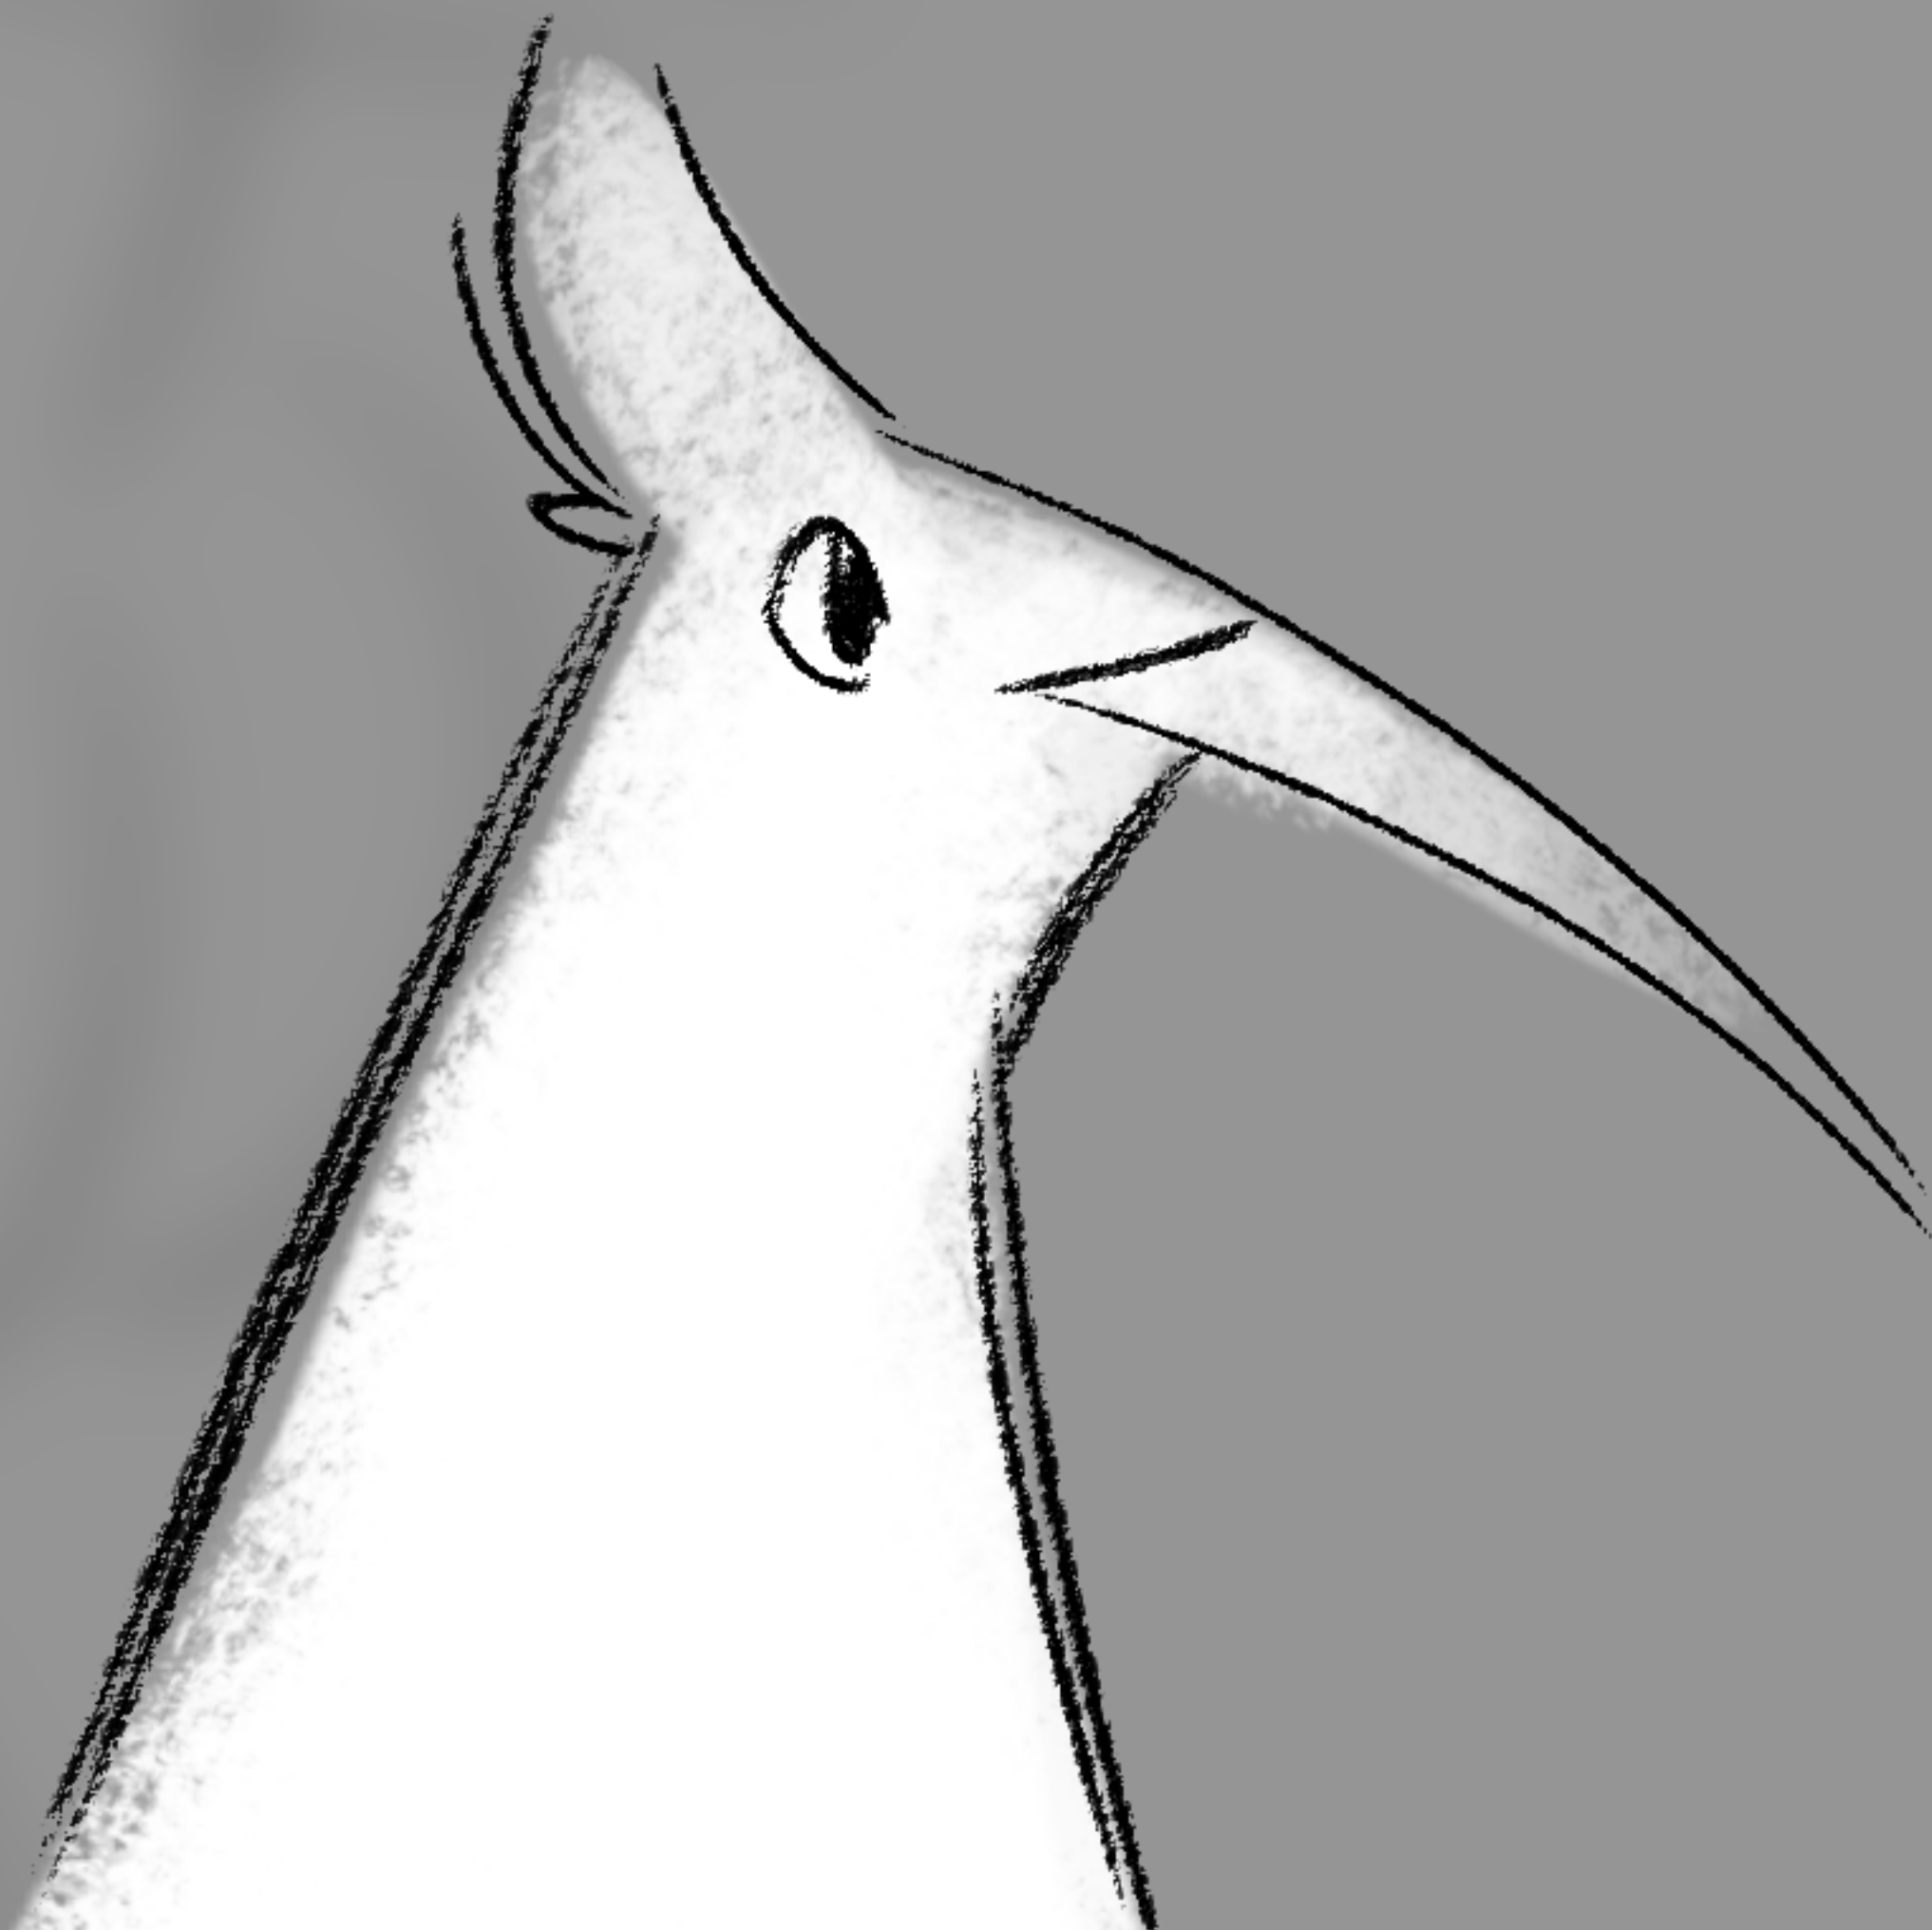

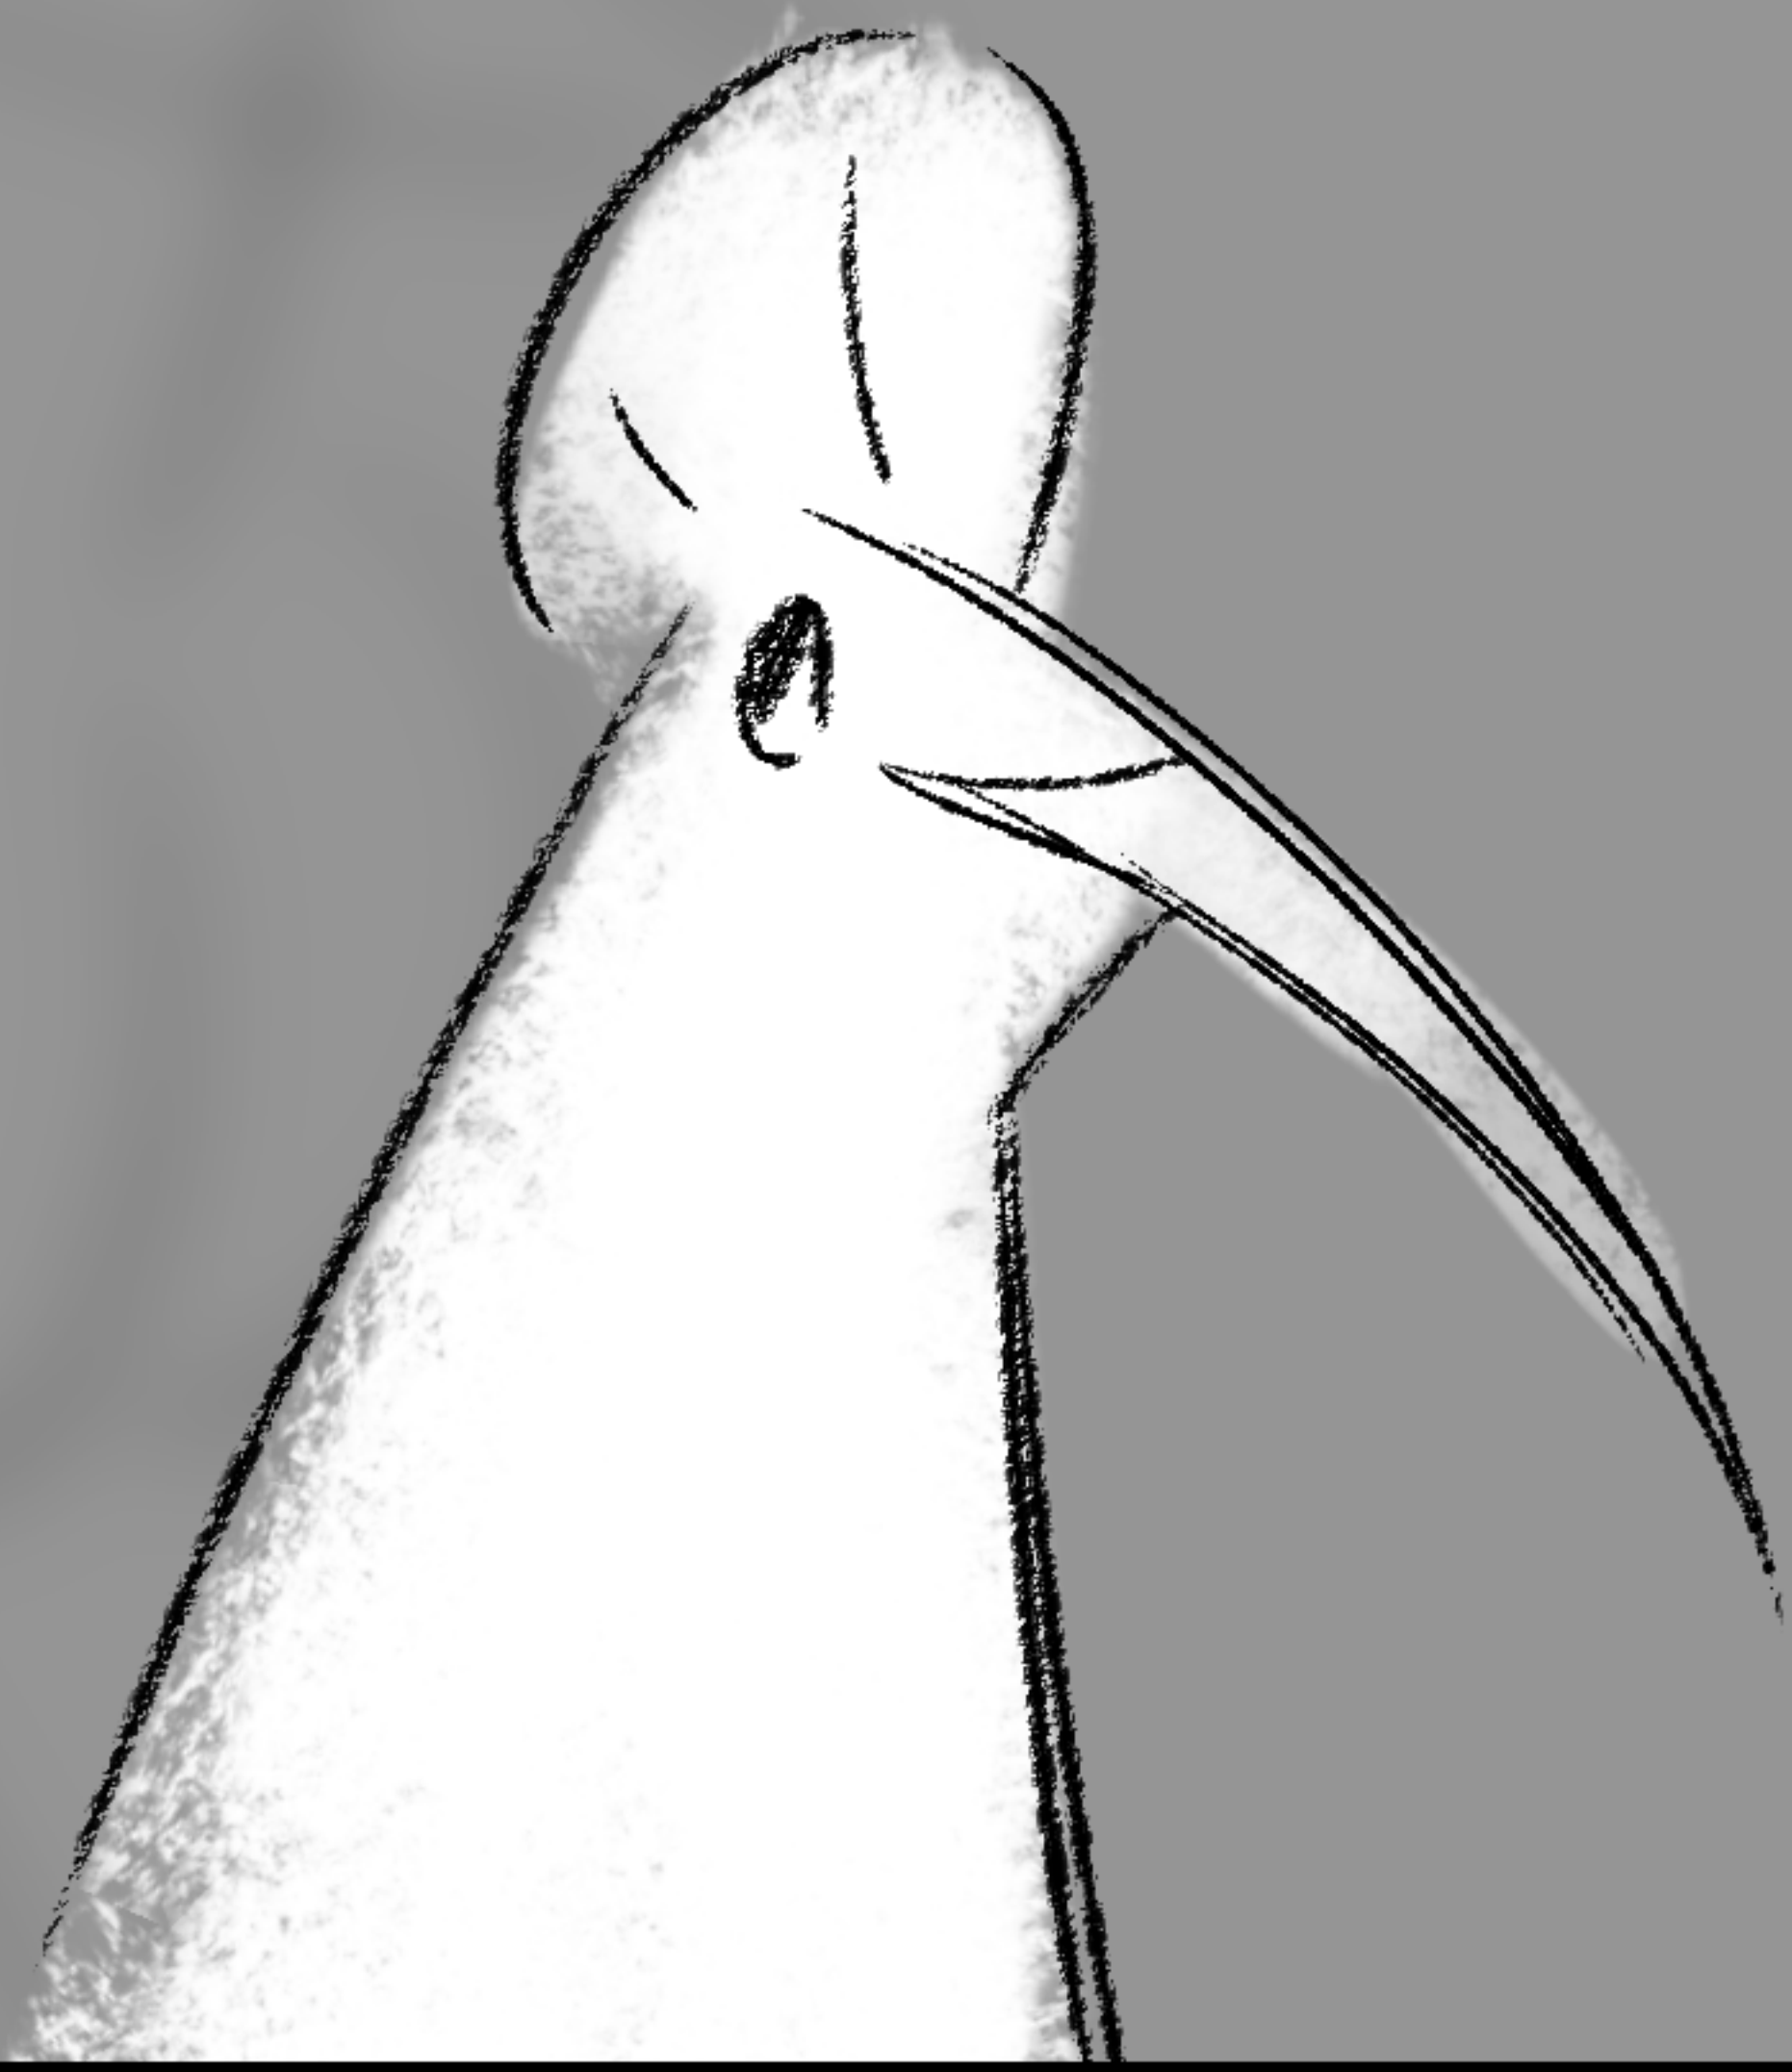

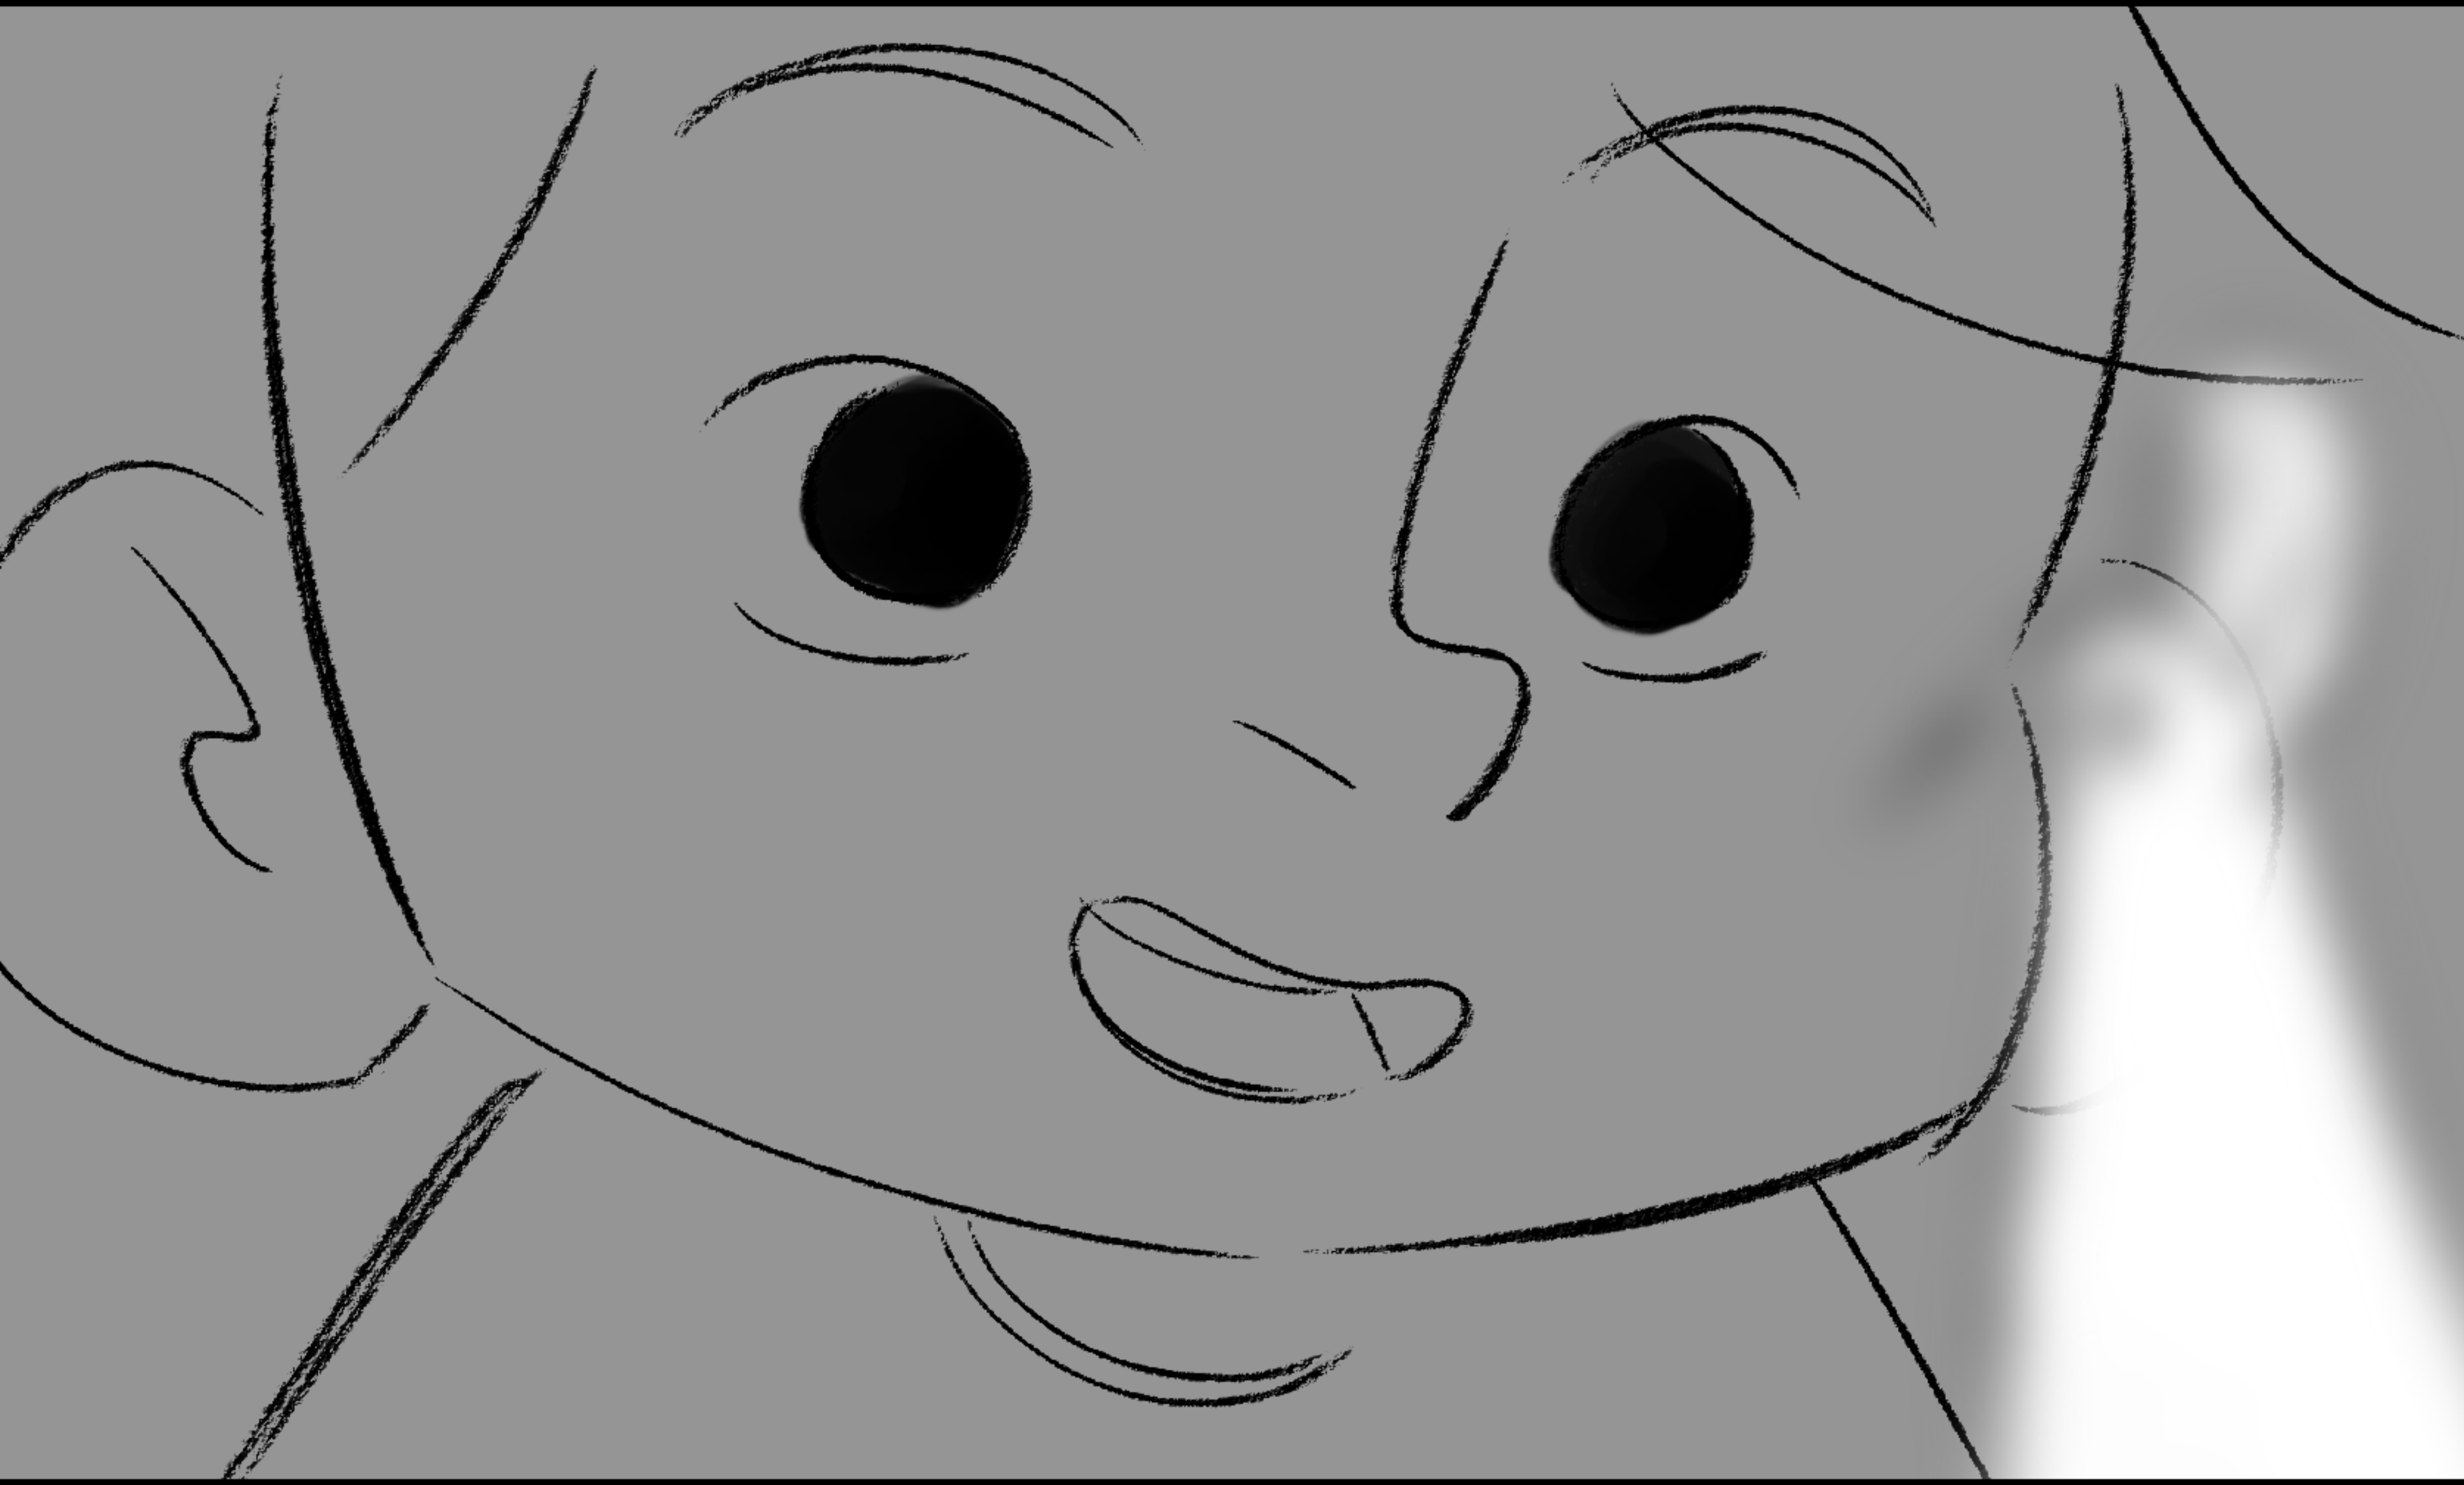

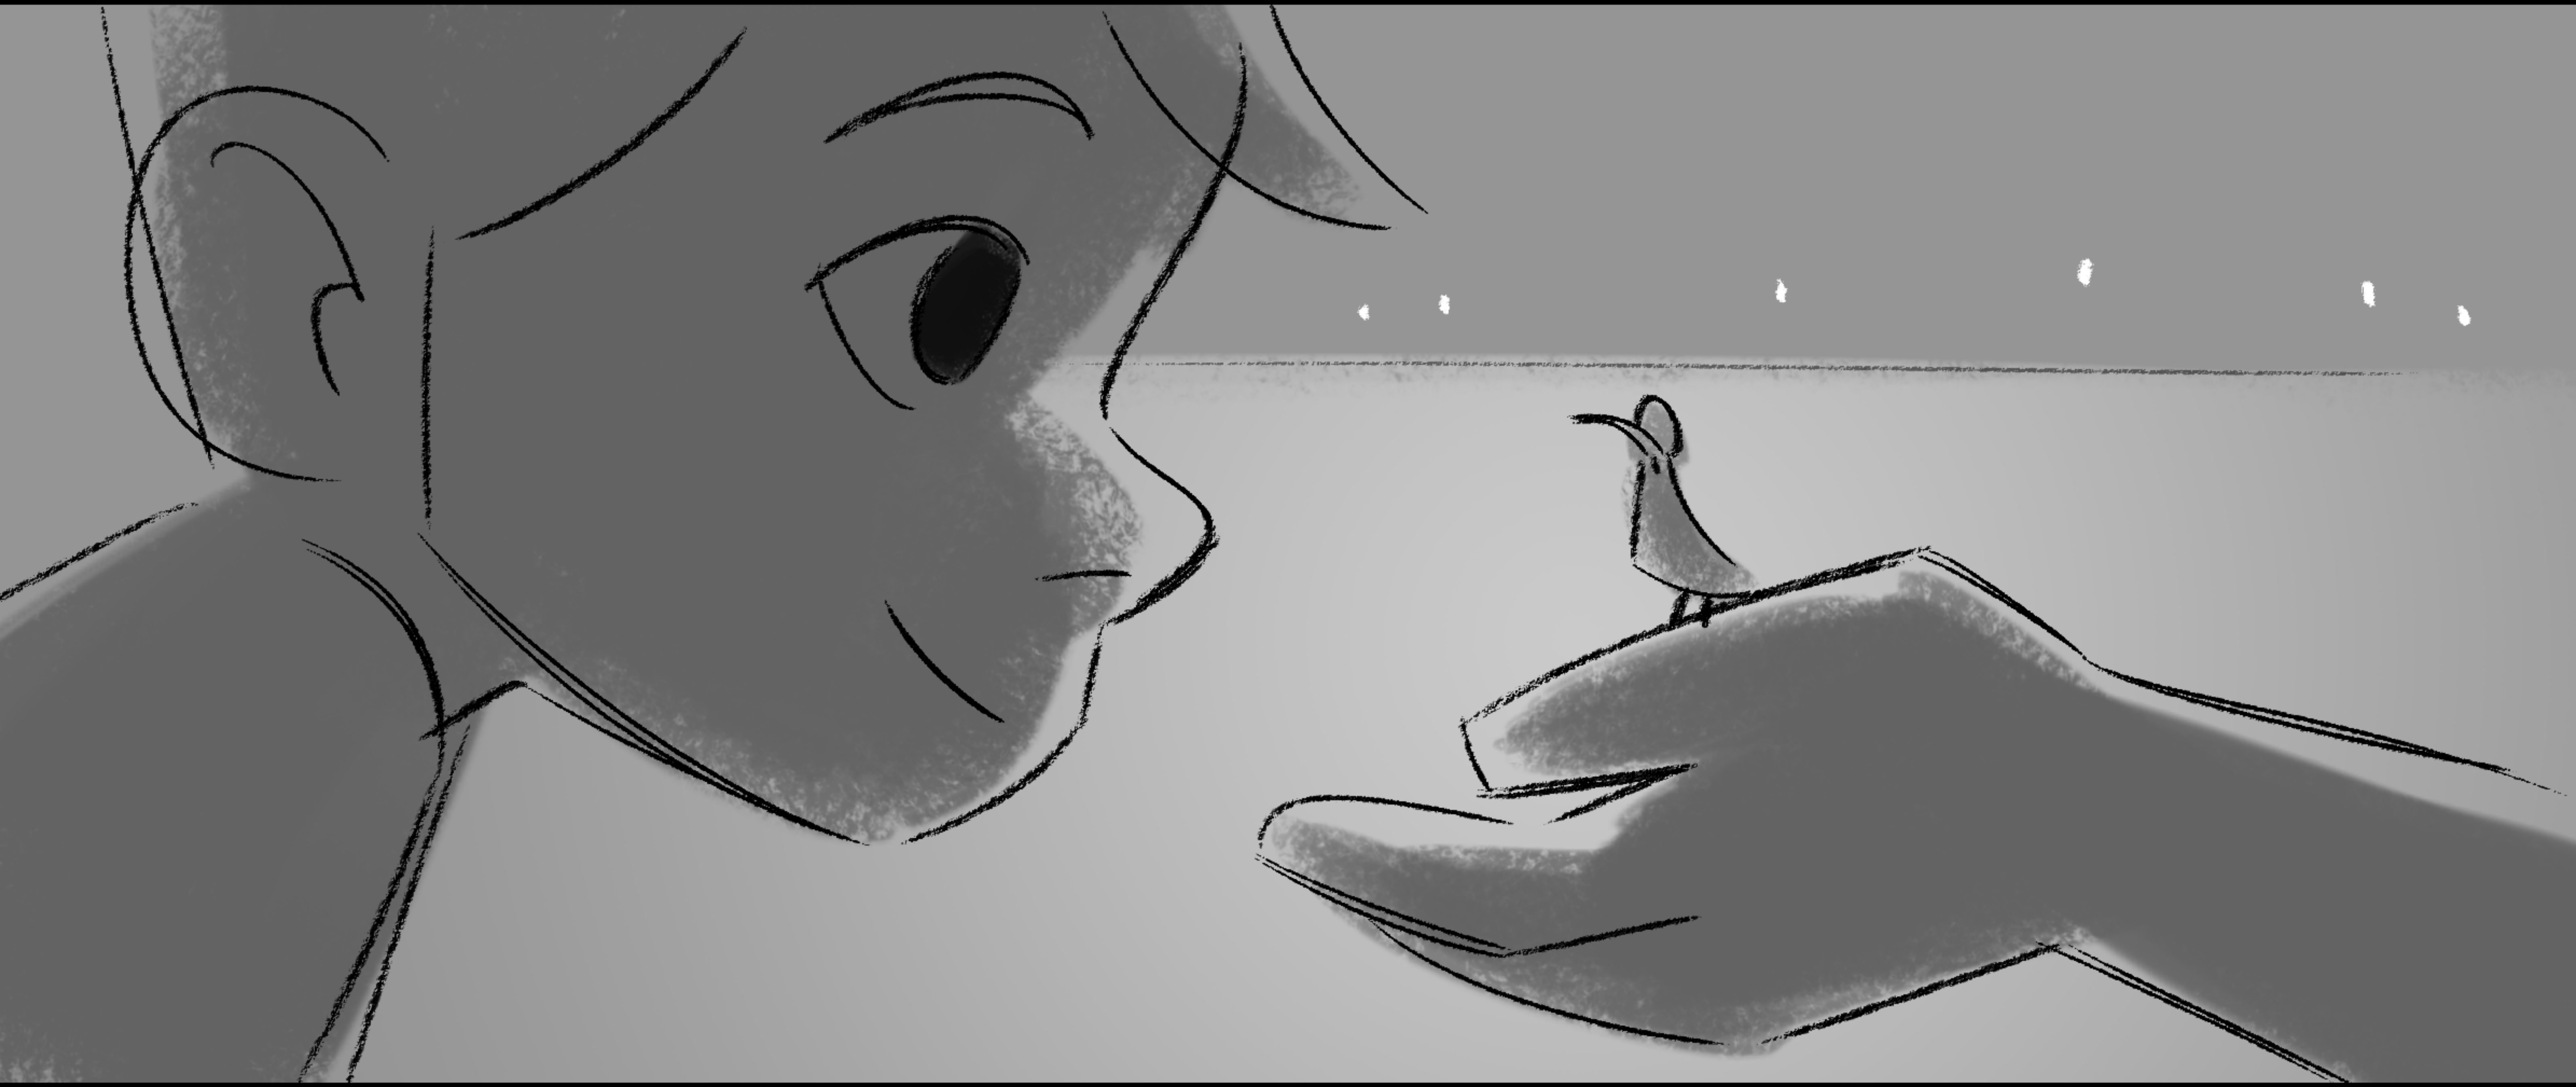

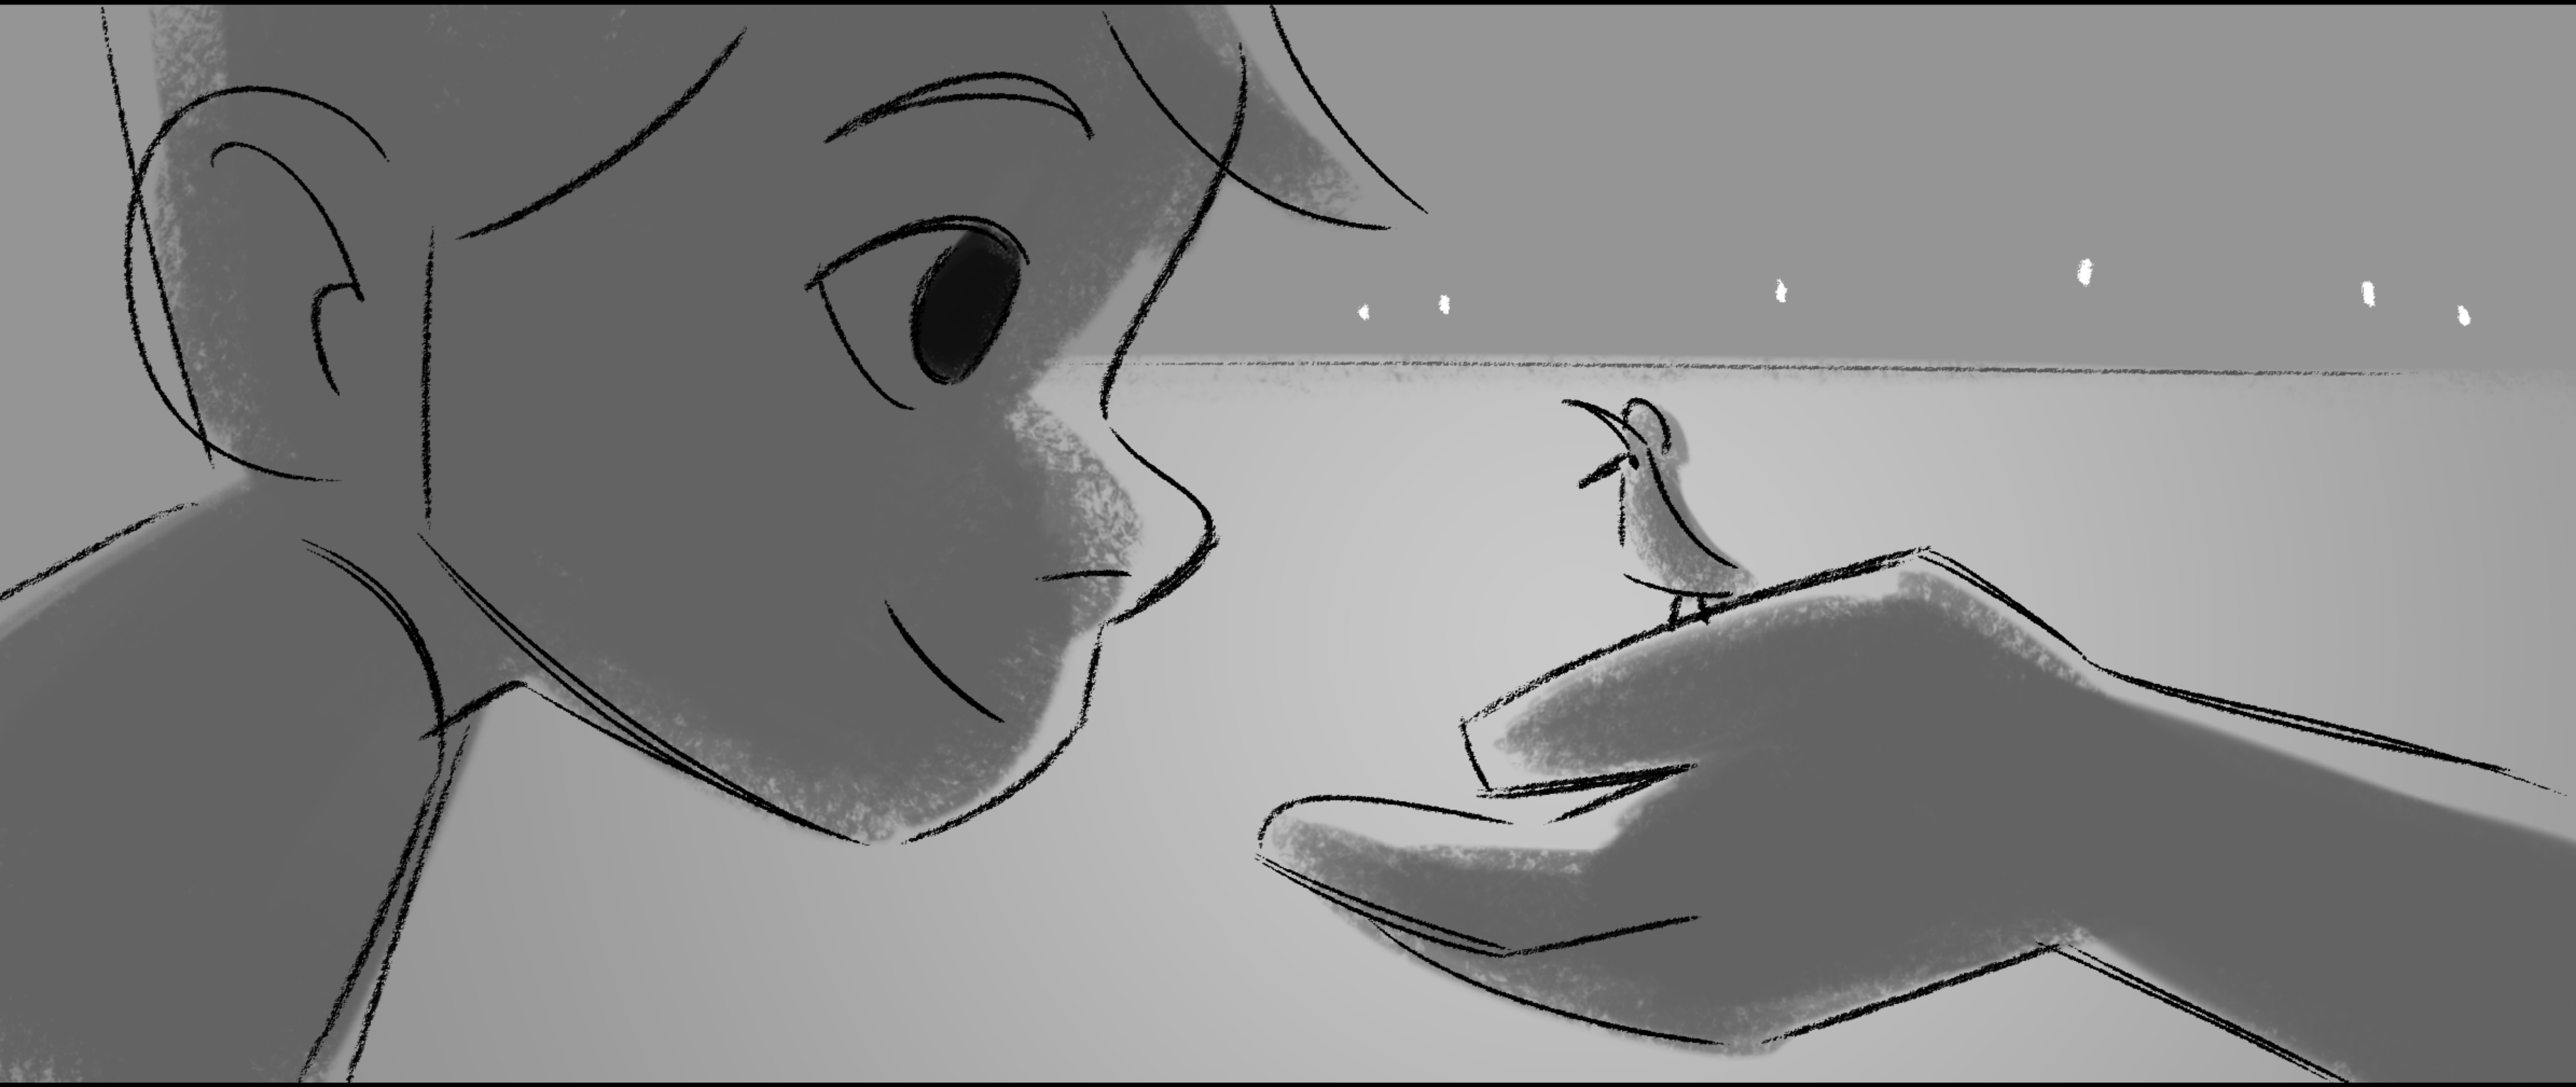

HAROUN: Woah.

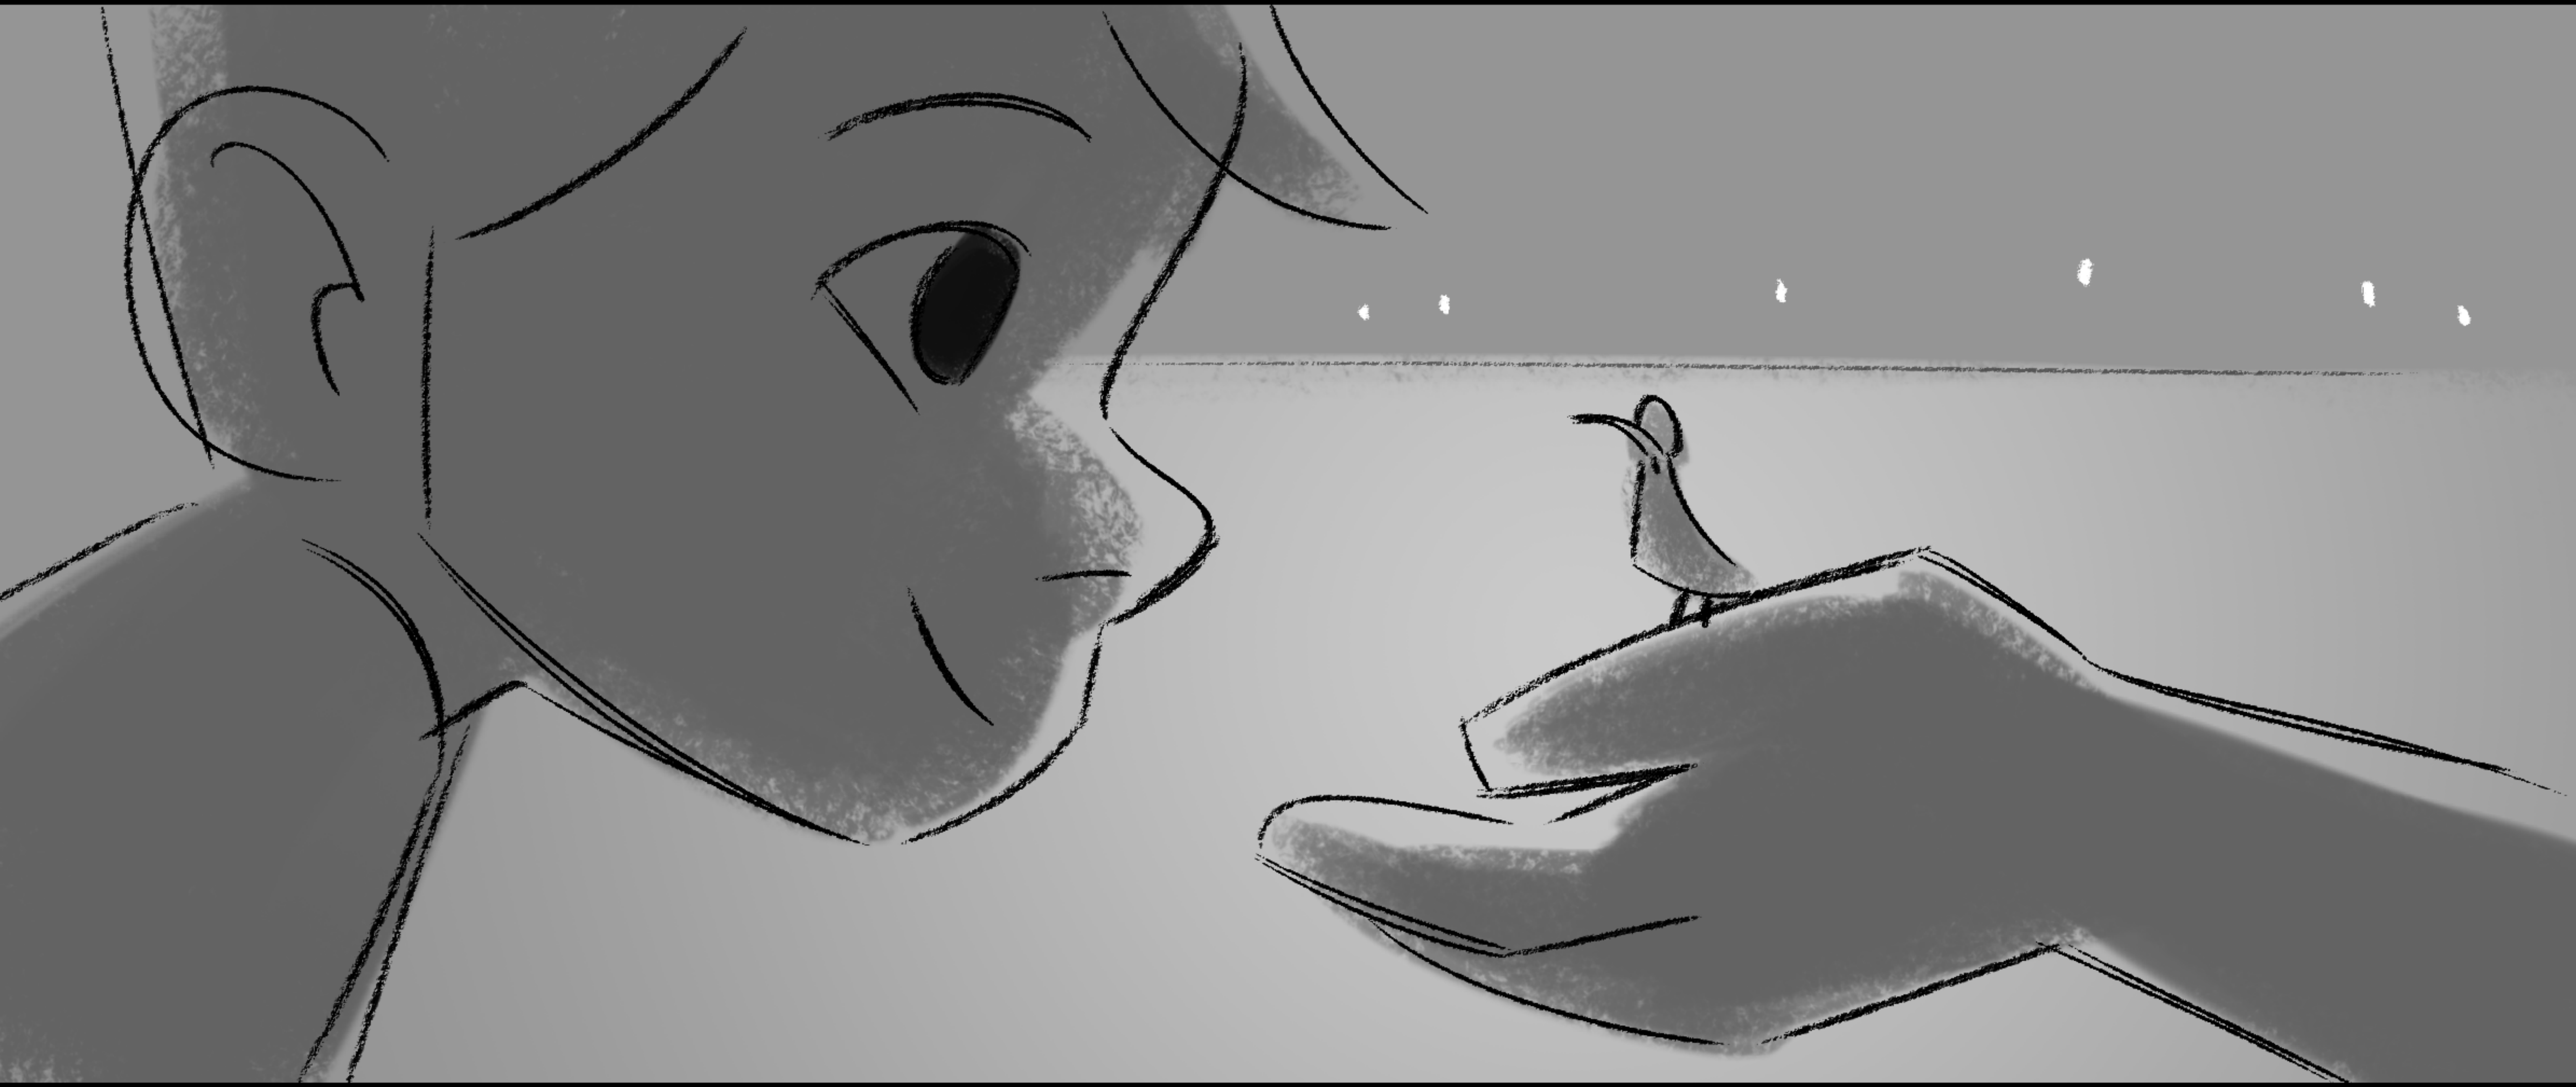

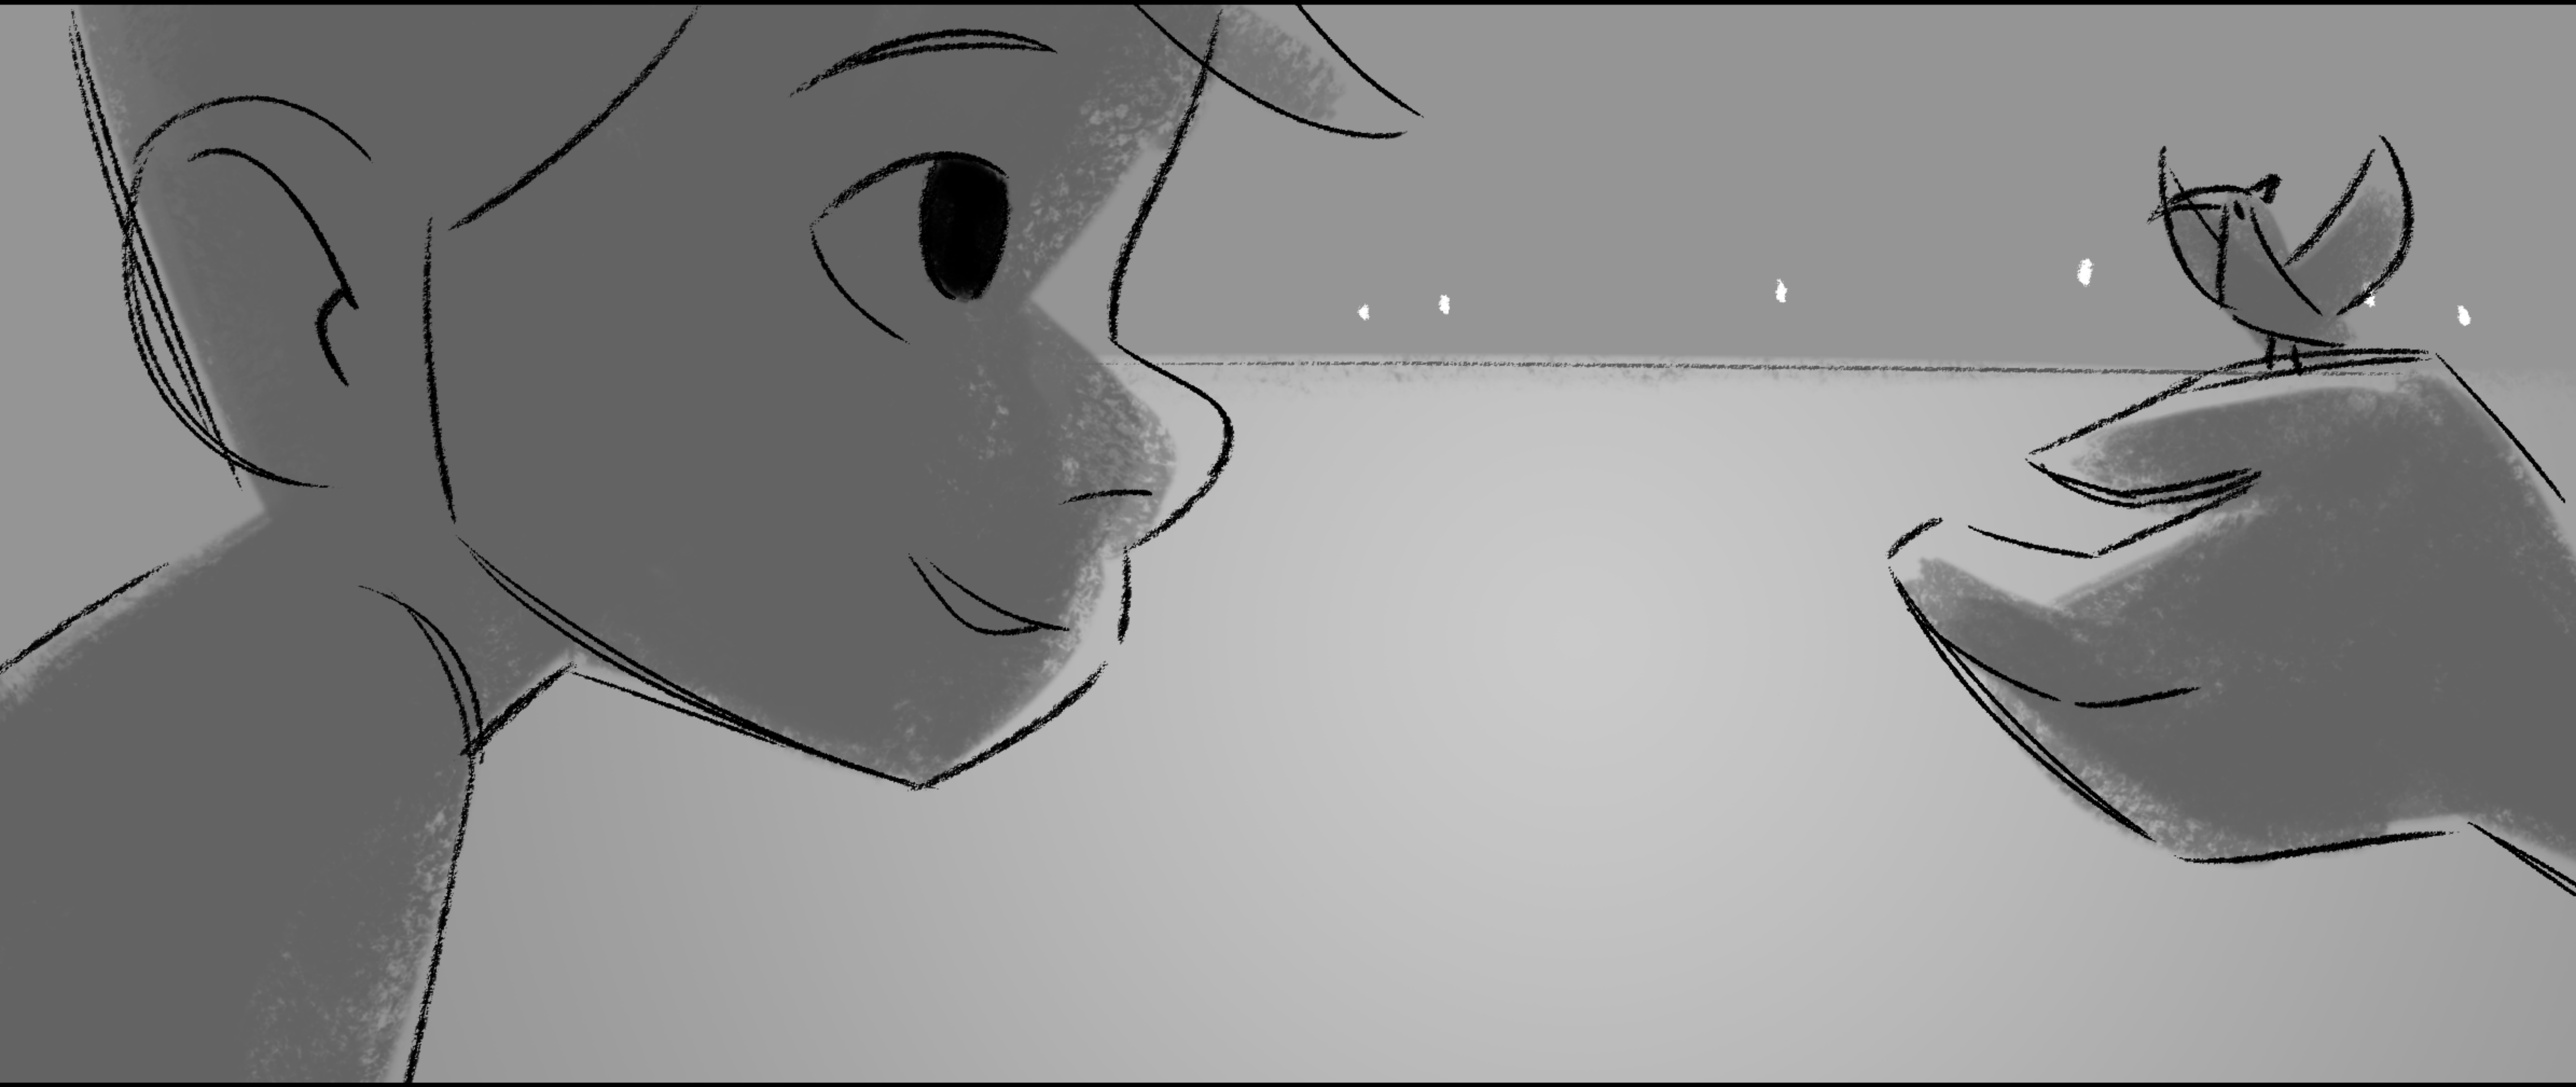

That one.

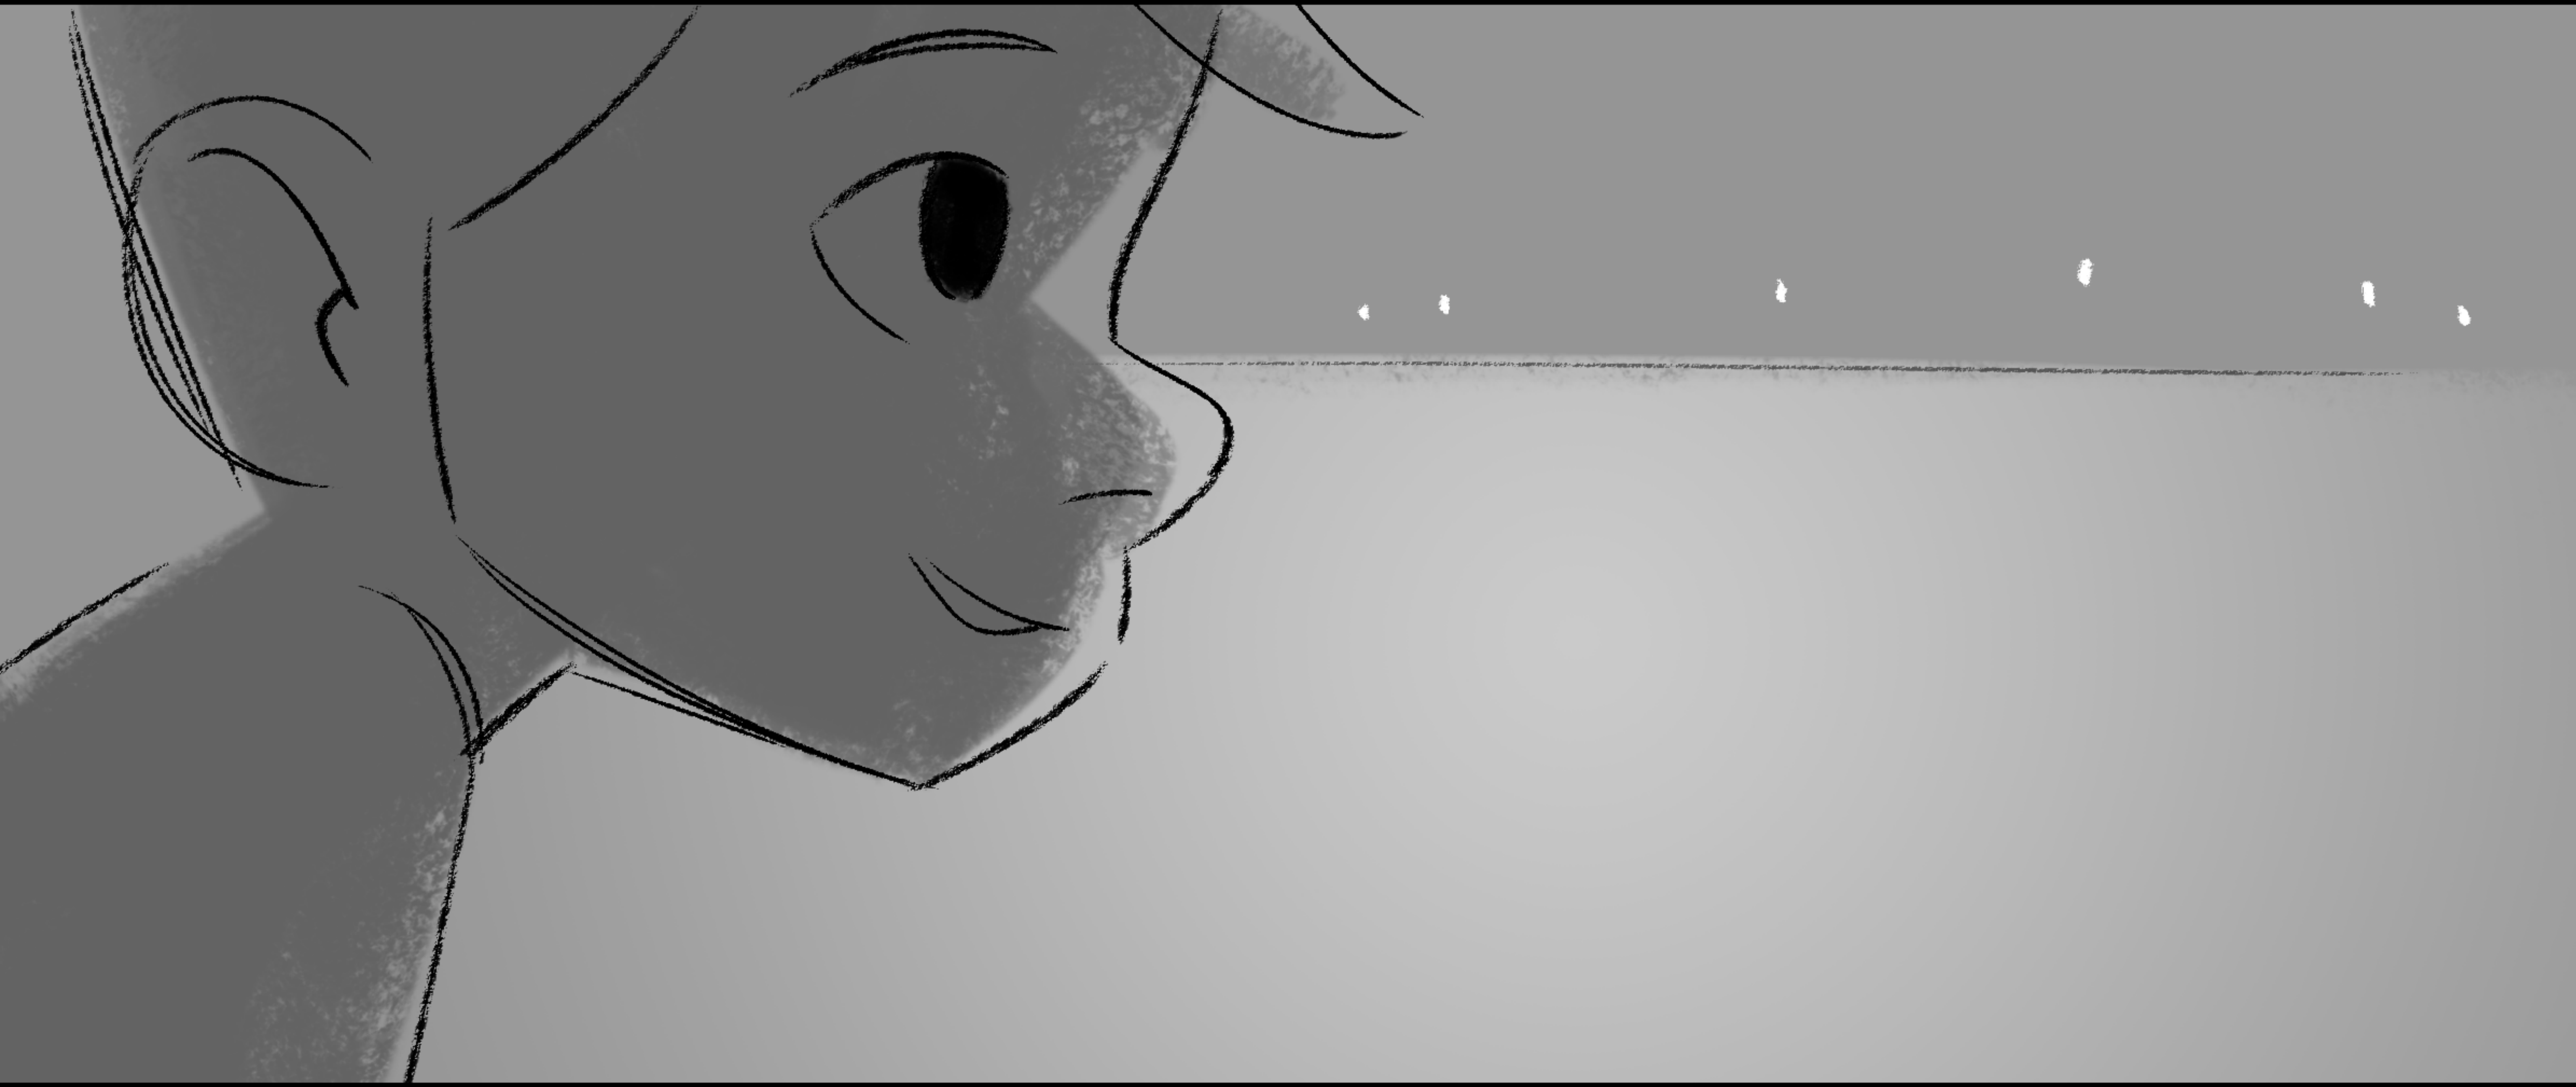

HOOPOE: HOOT HOOT!

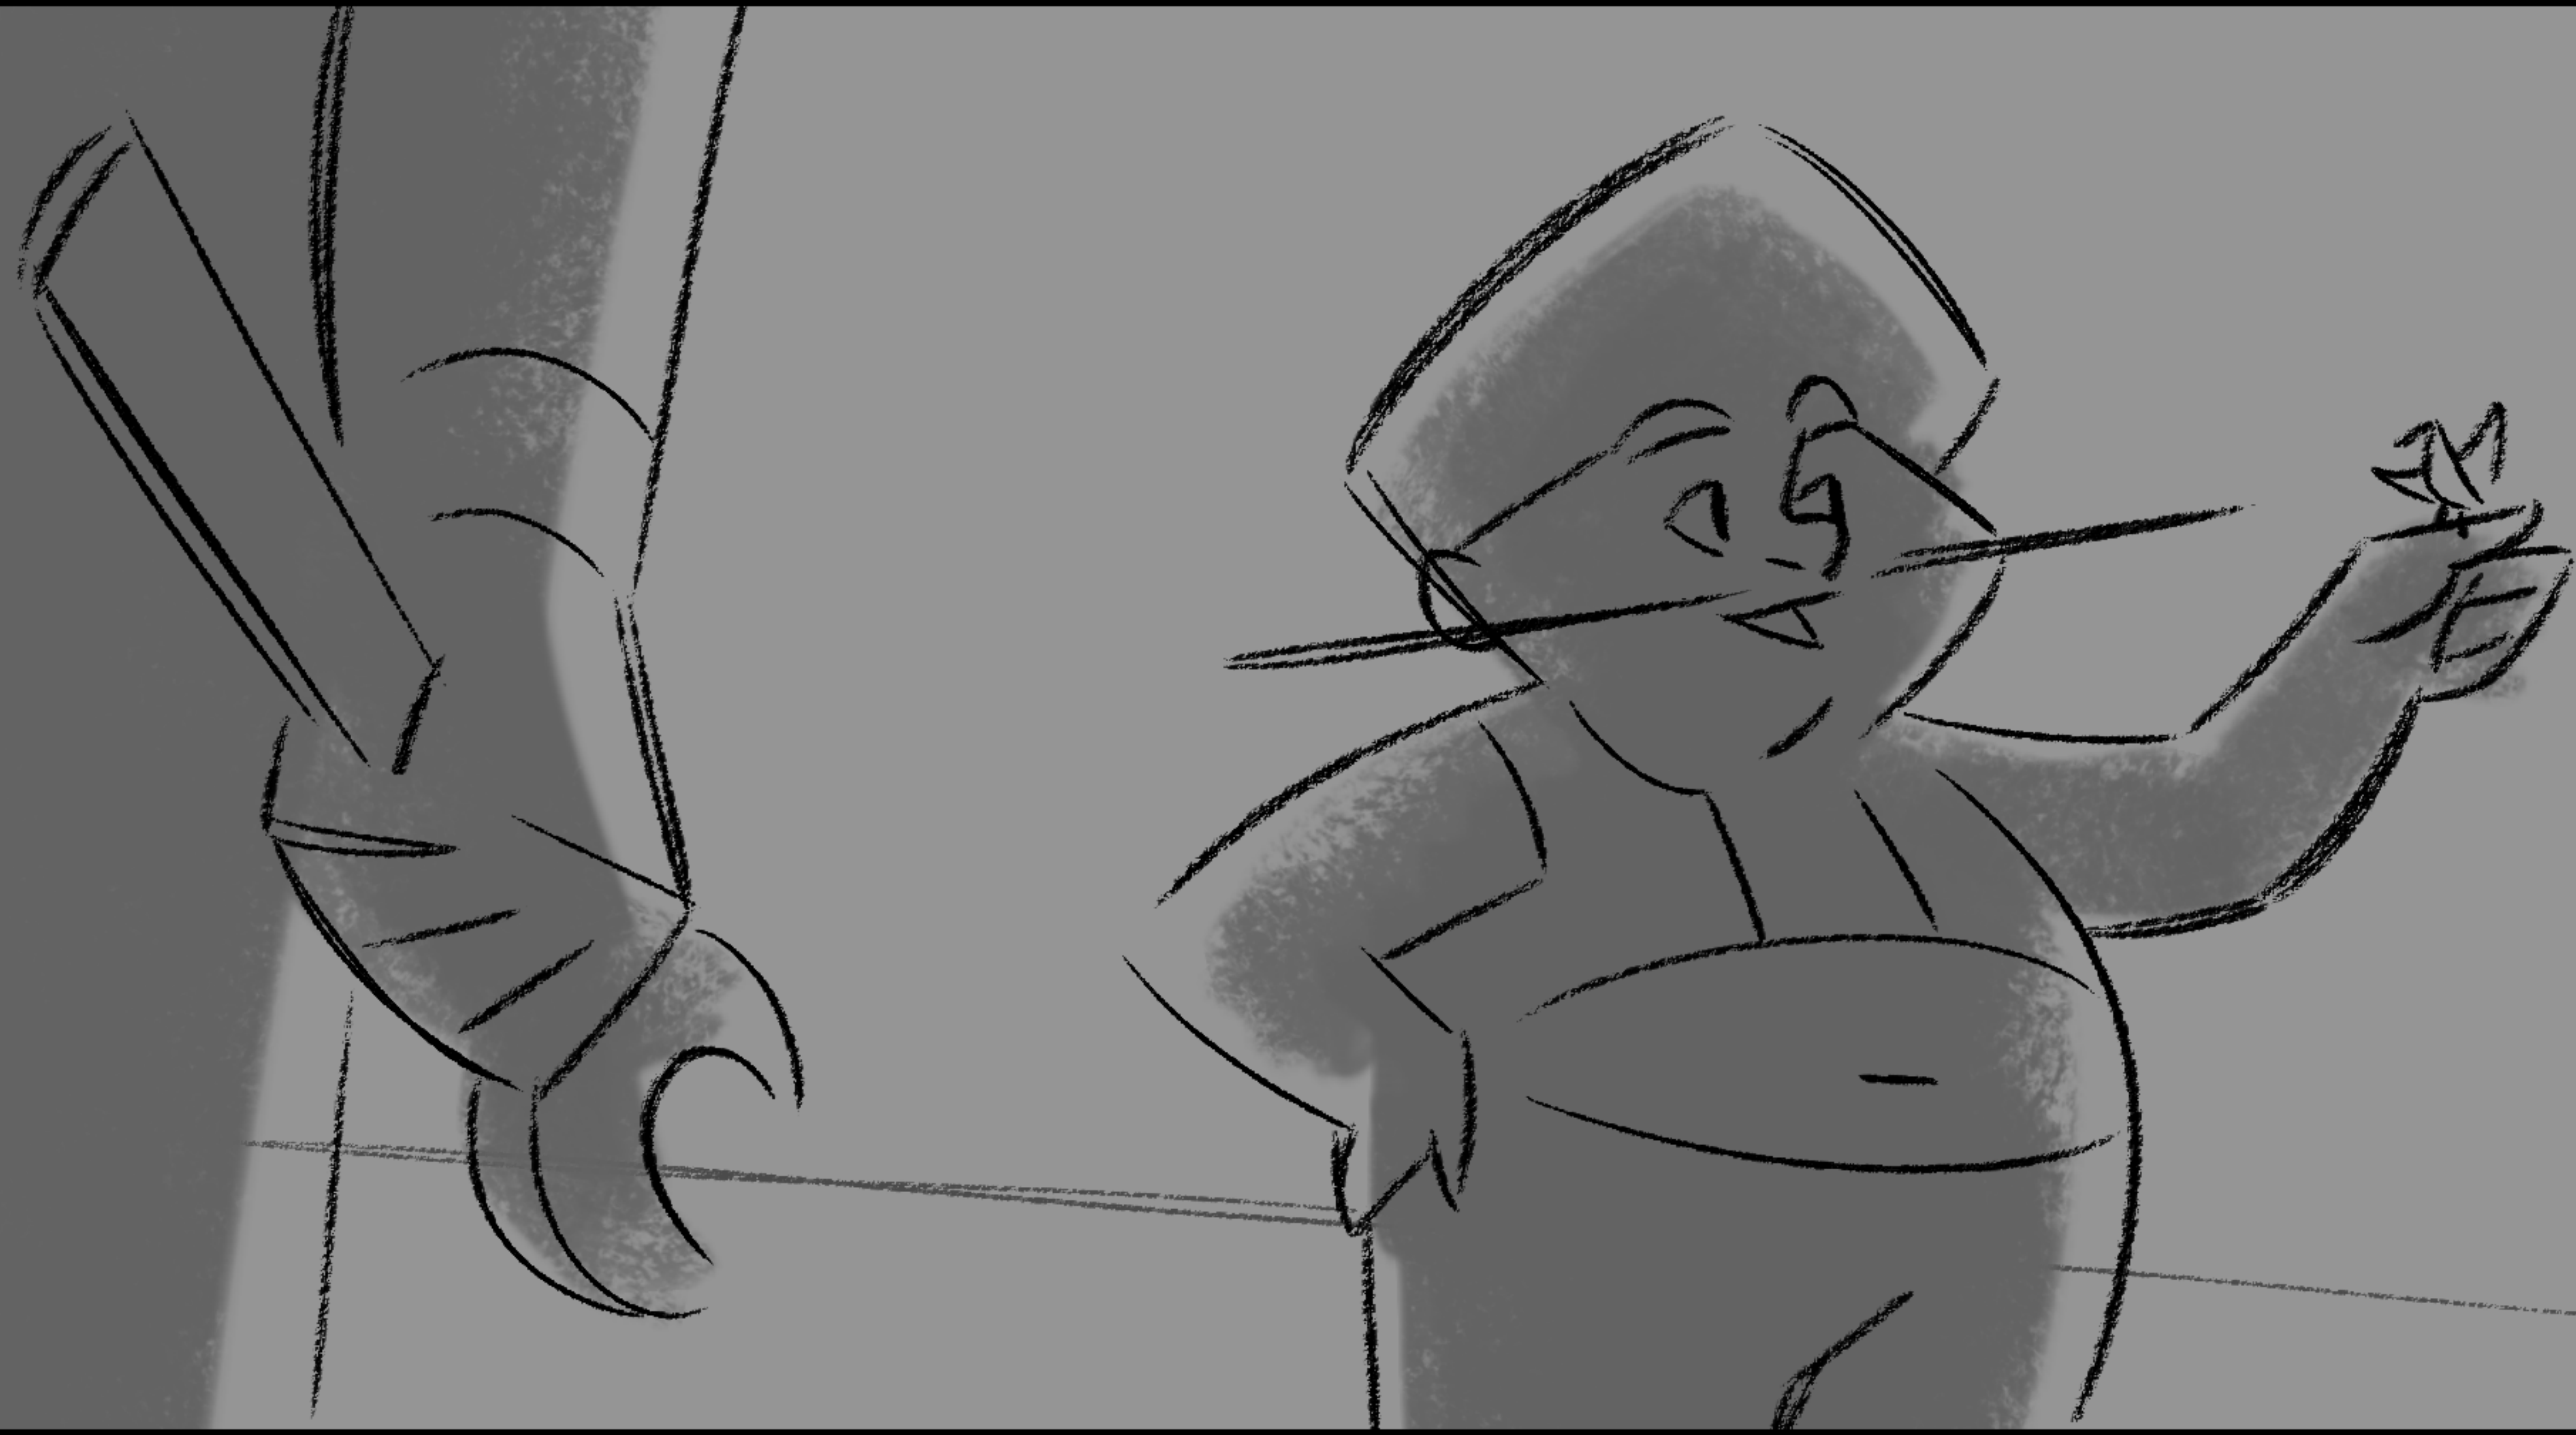

IFF: Sooo, it's the hoopoe for us.

Perhaps you know, disconnecter thief, that in the old stories the hoopoe is the bird that leads all other birds through many dangerous places to their ultimate goal.

O.S.: SPLASH

HAROUN: What did you do that for?

IFF: Certainly not because I know more about such matters than you.

Dear me, no.

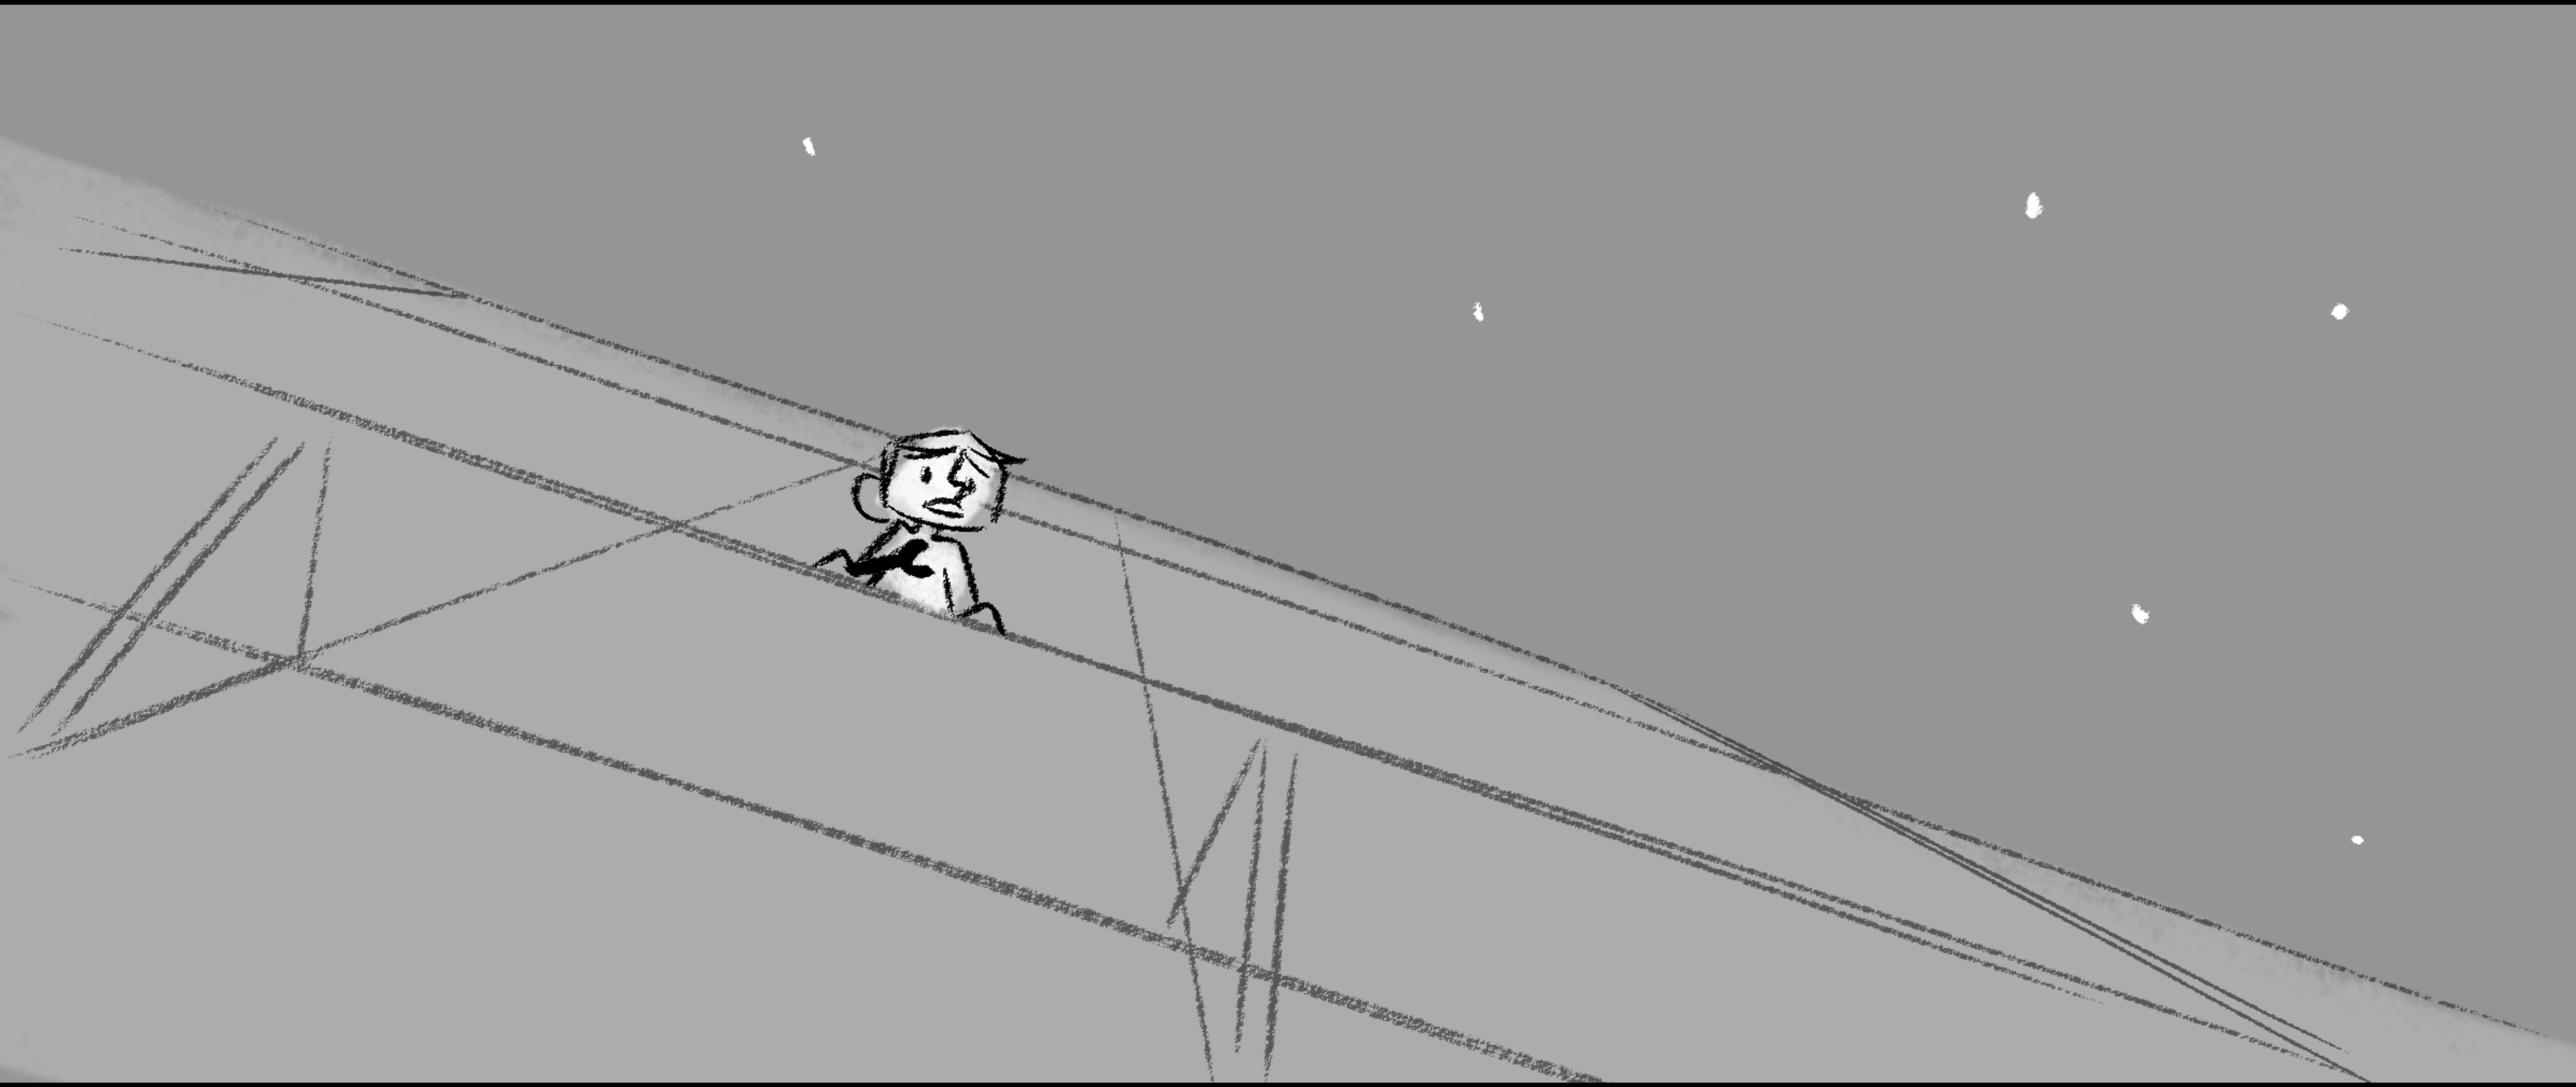

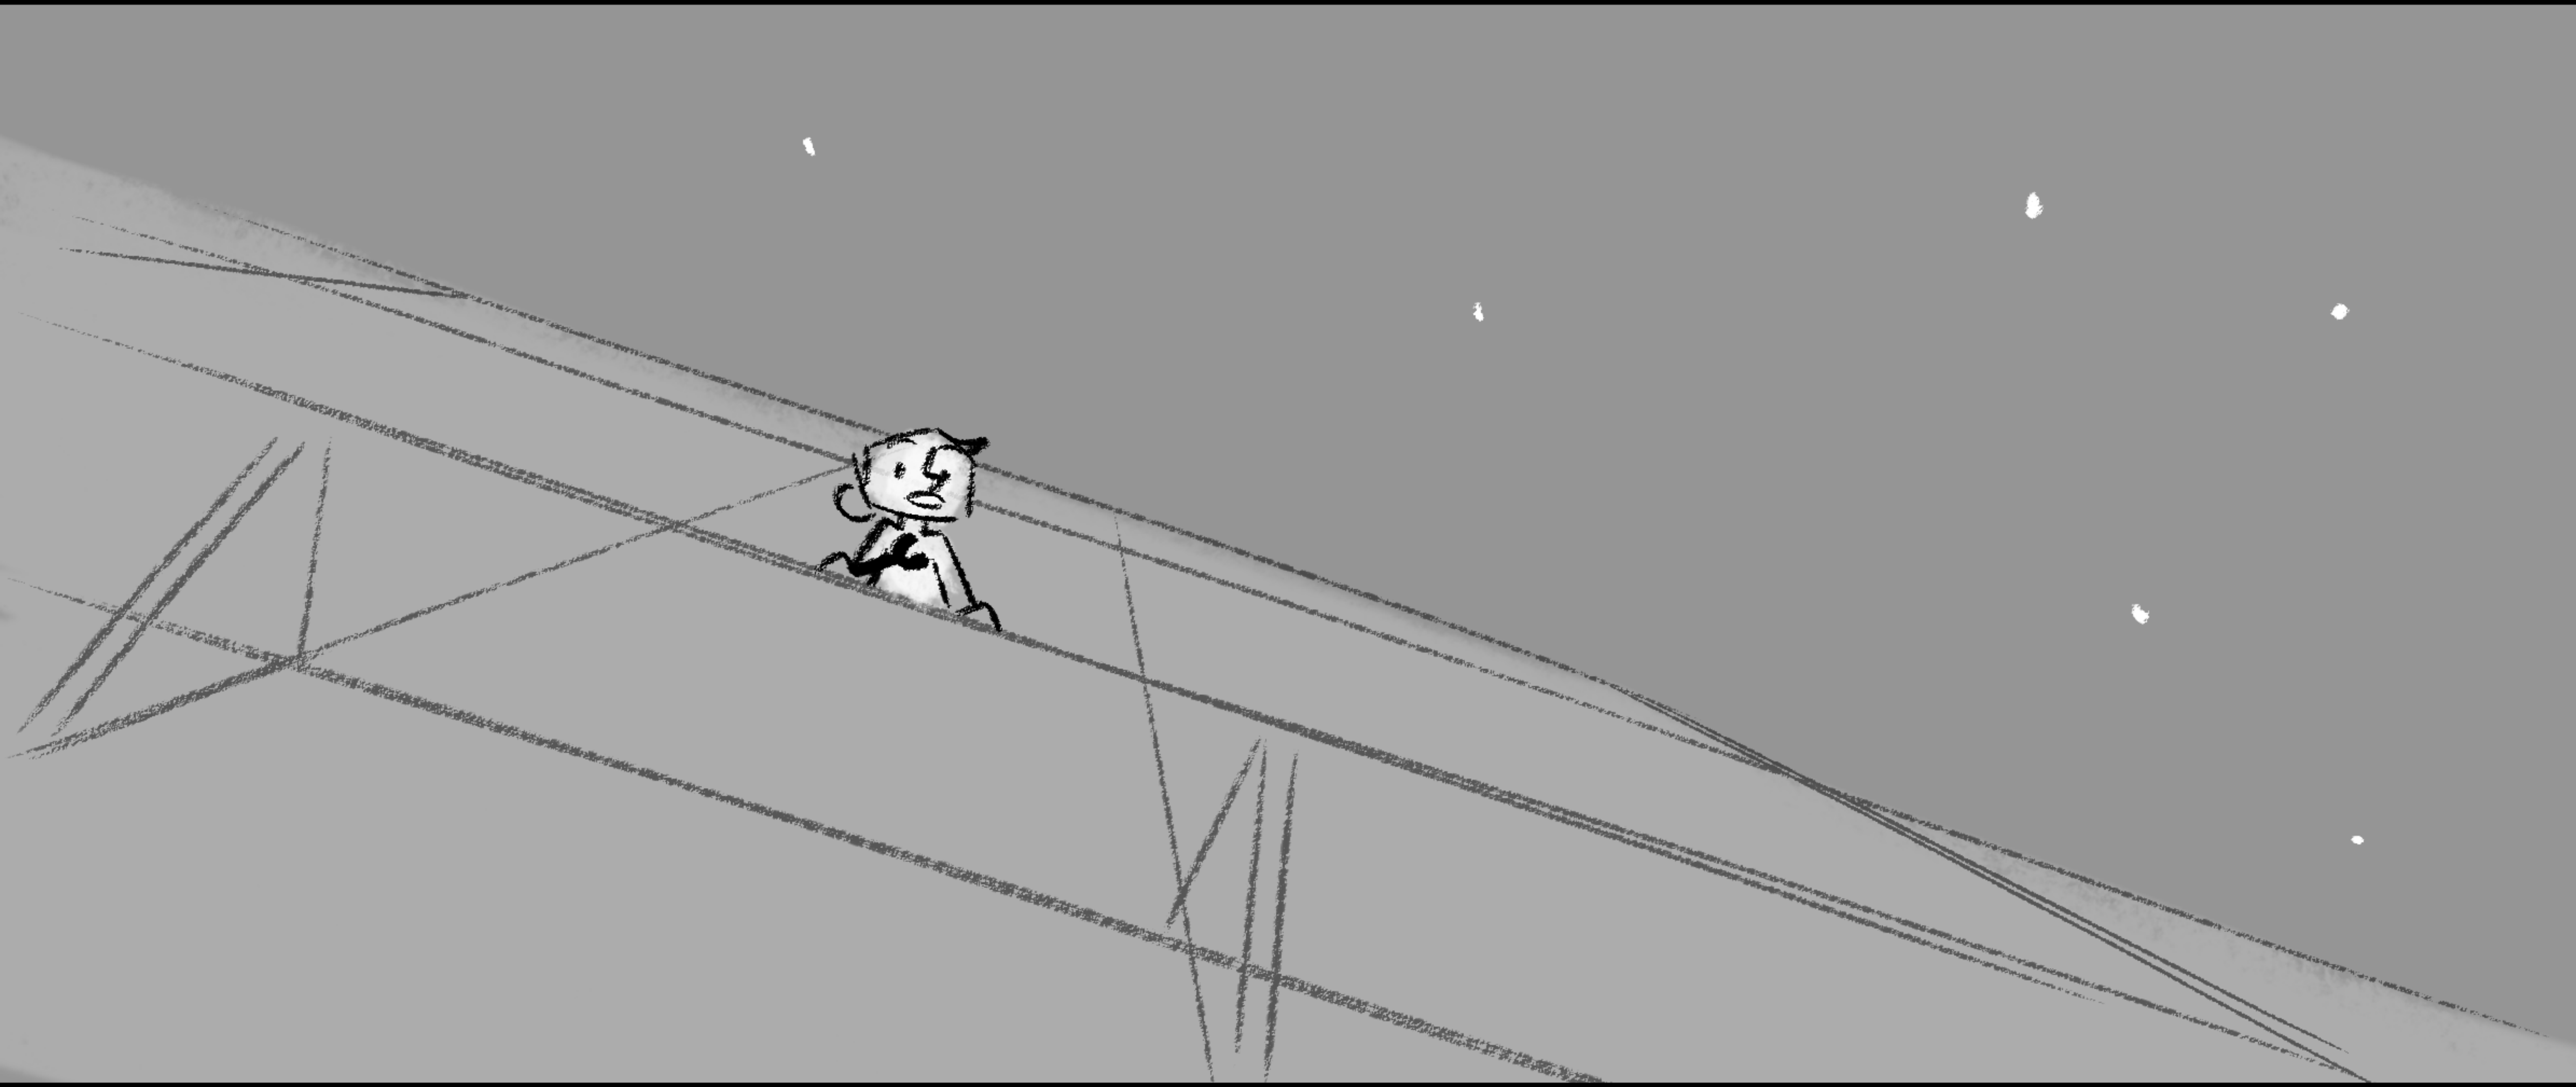

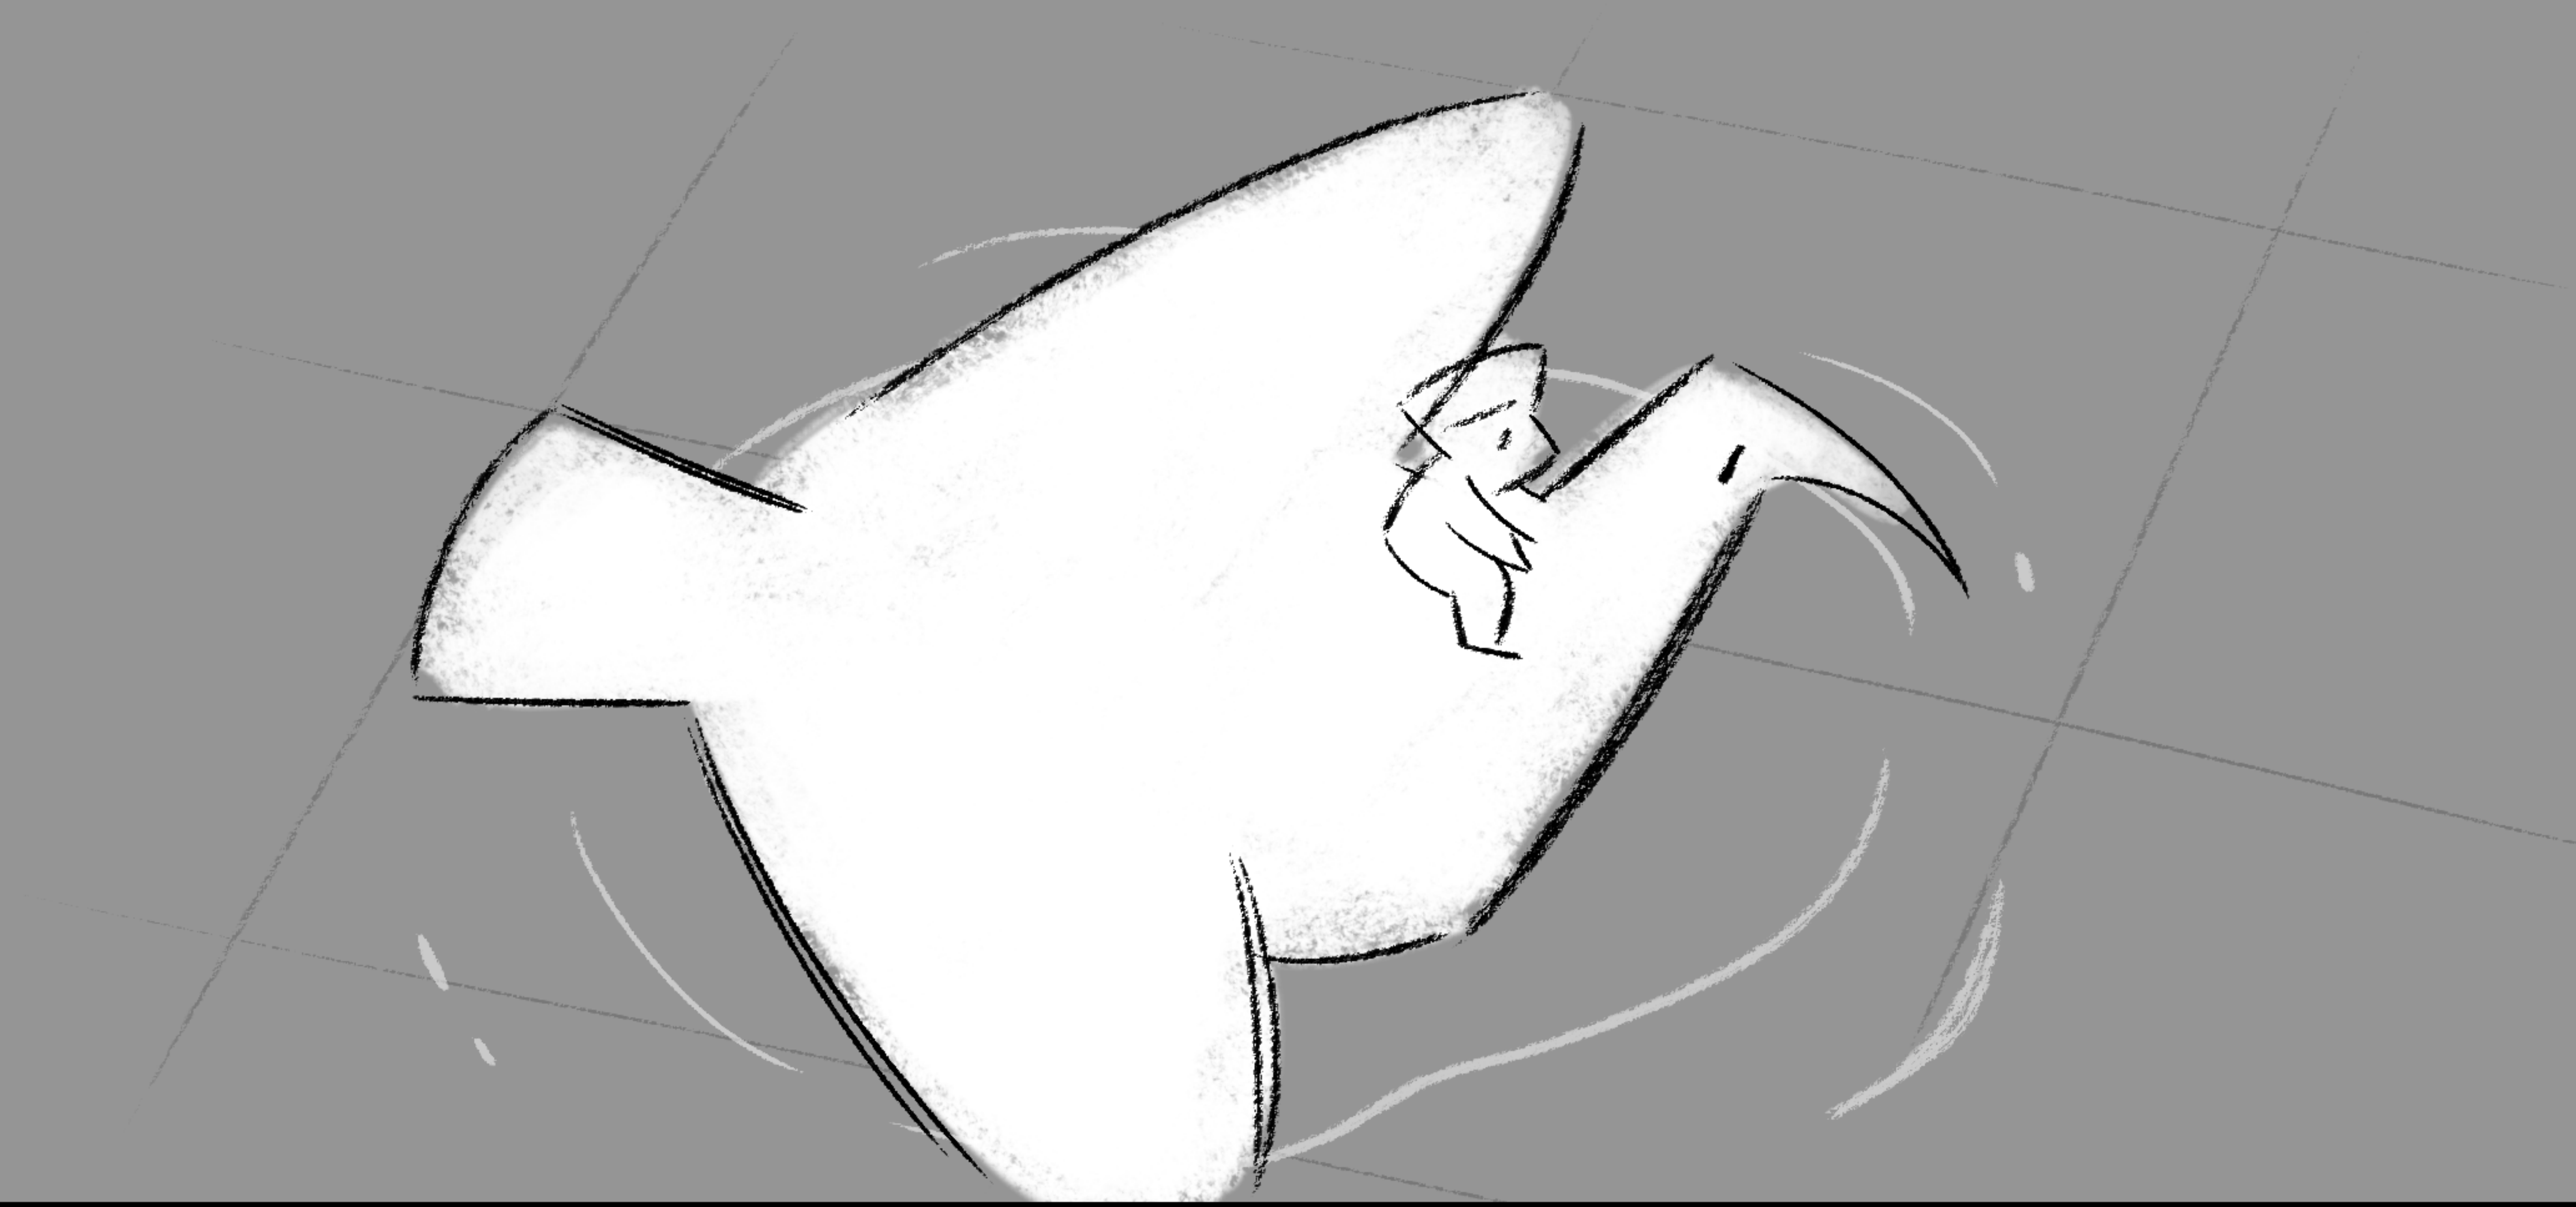

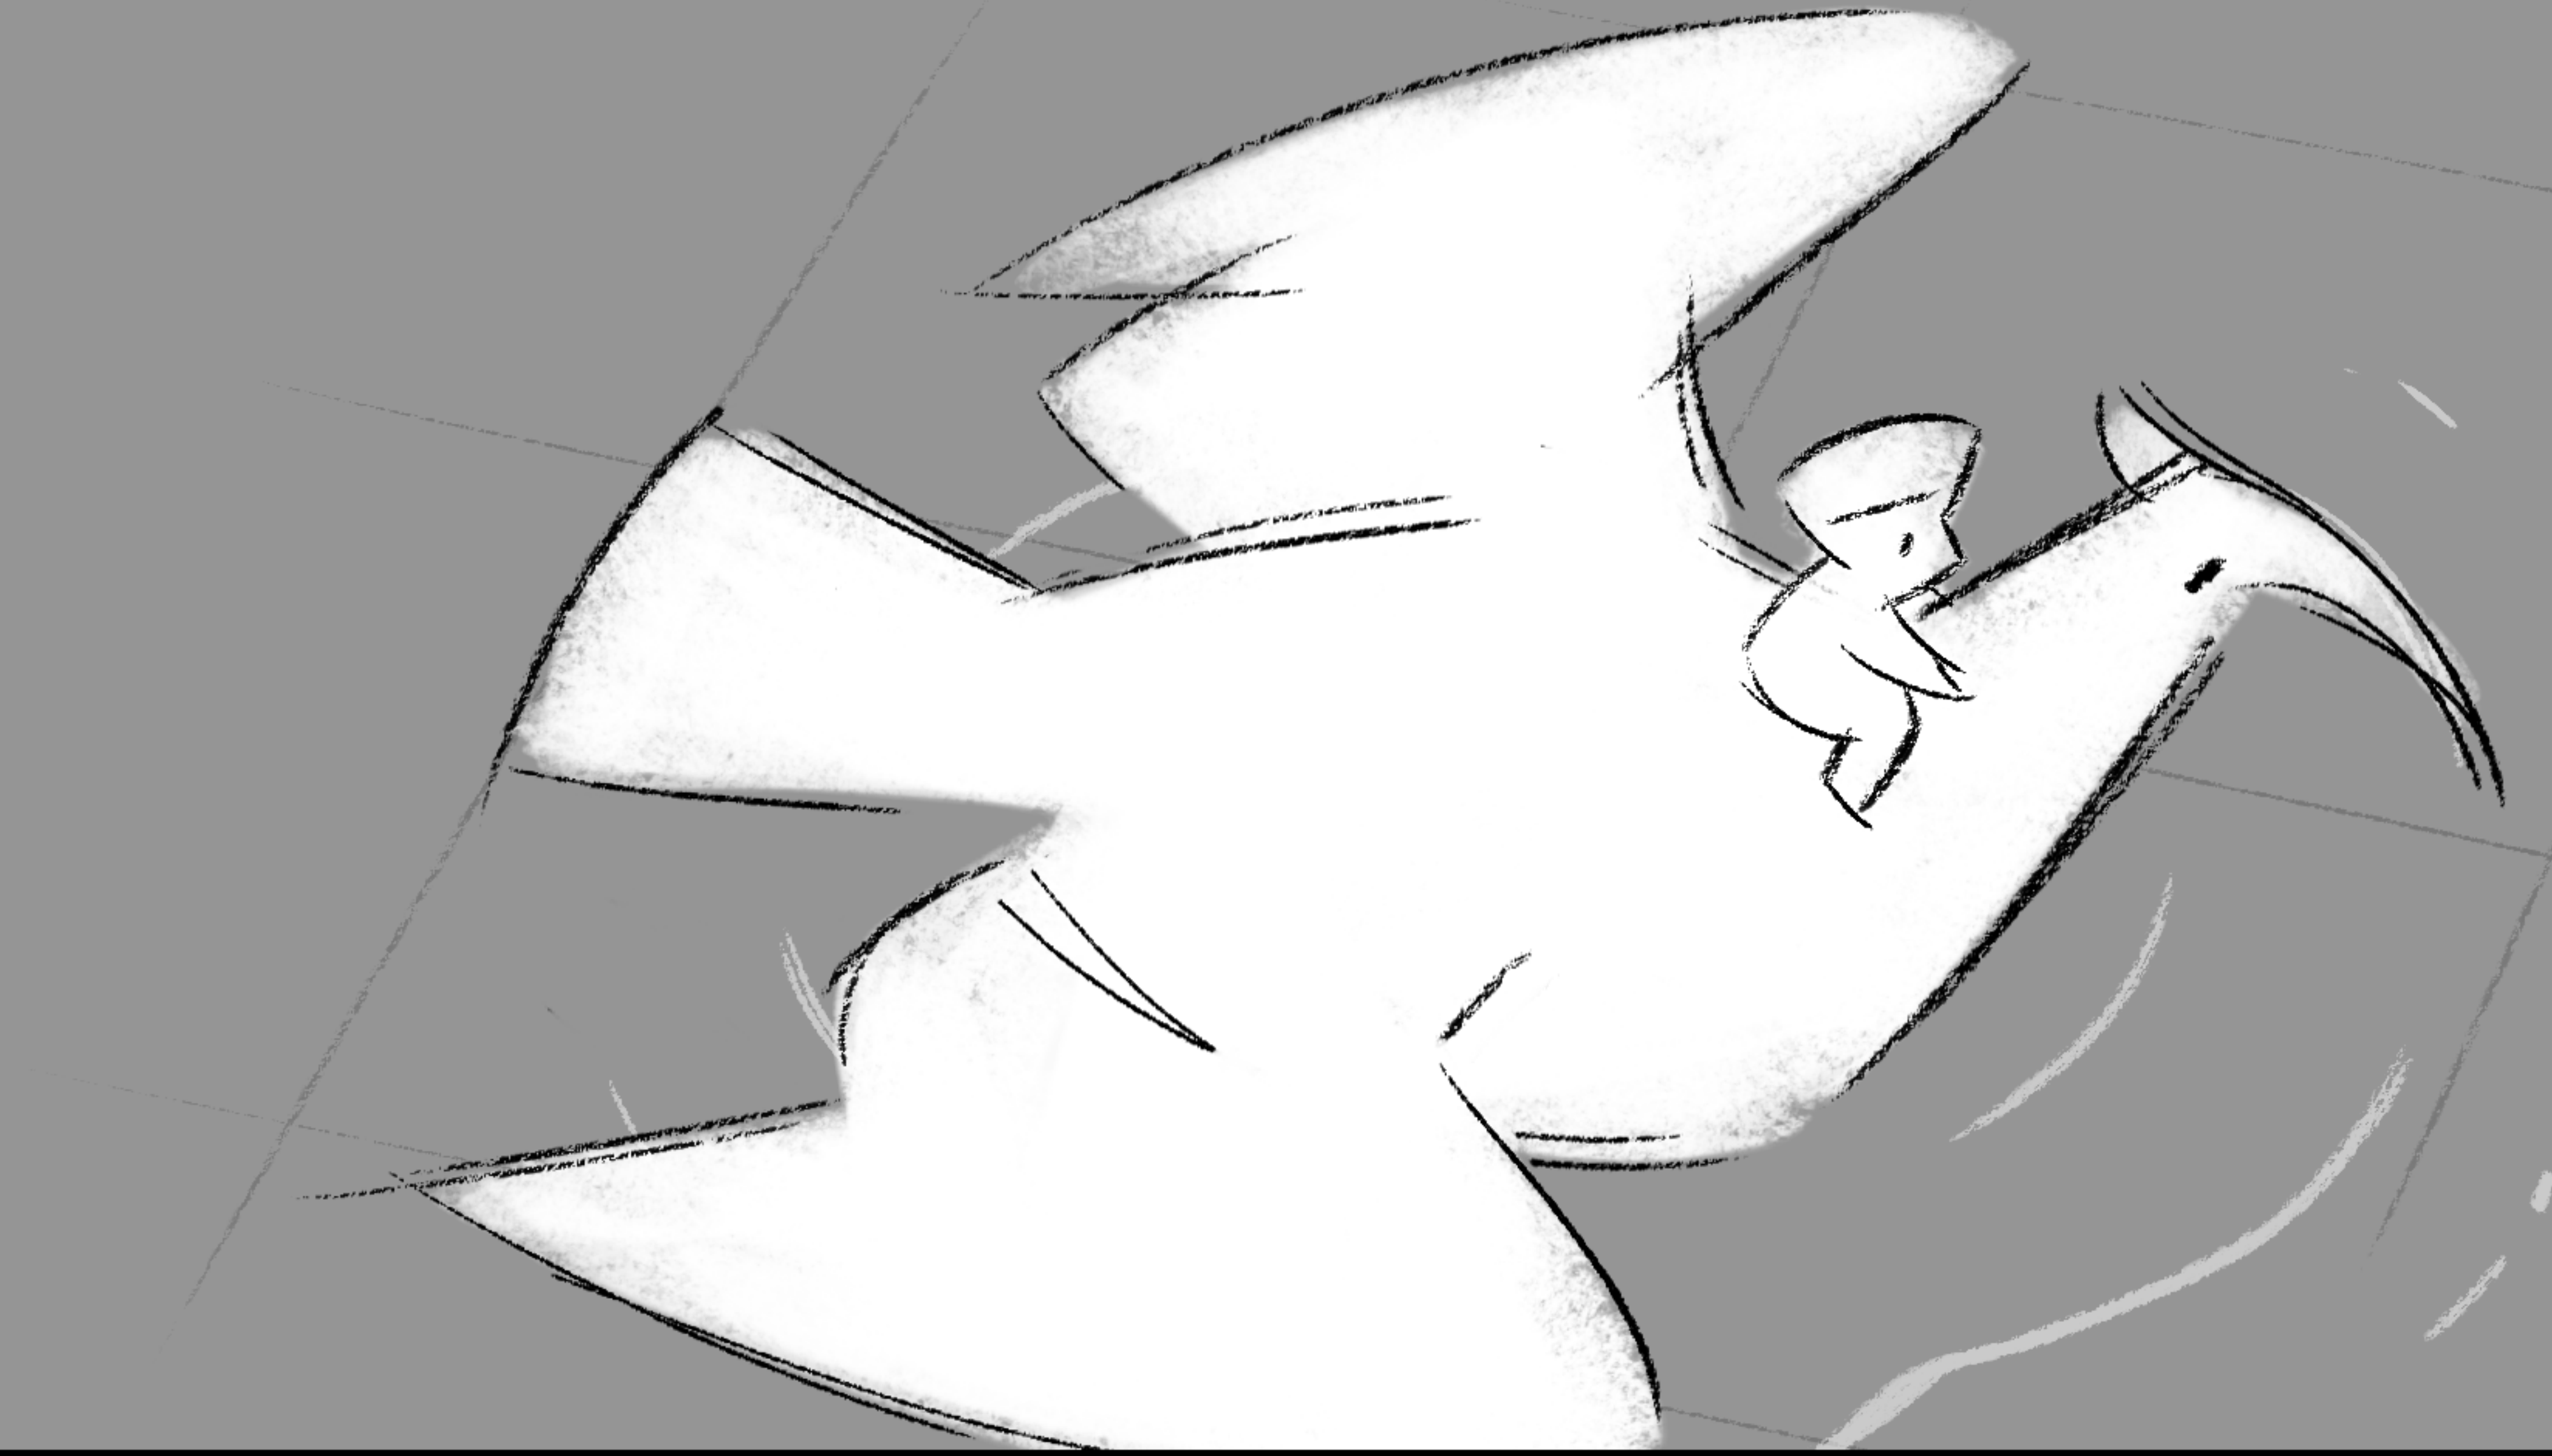

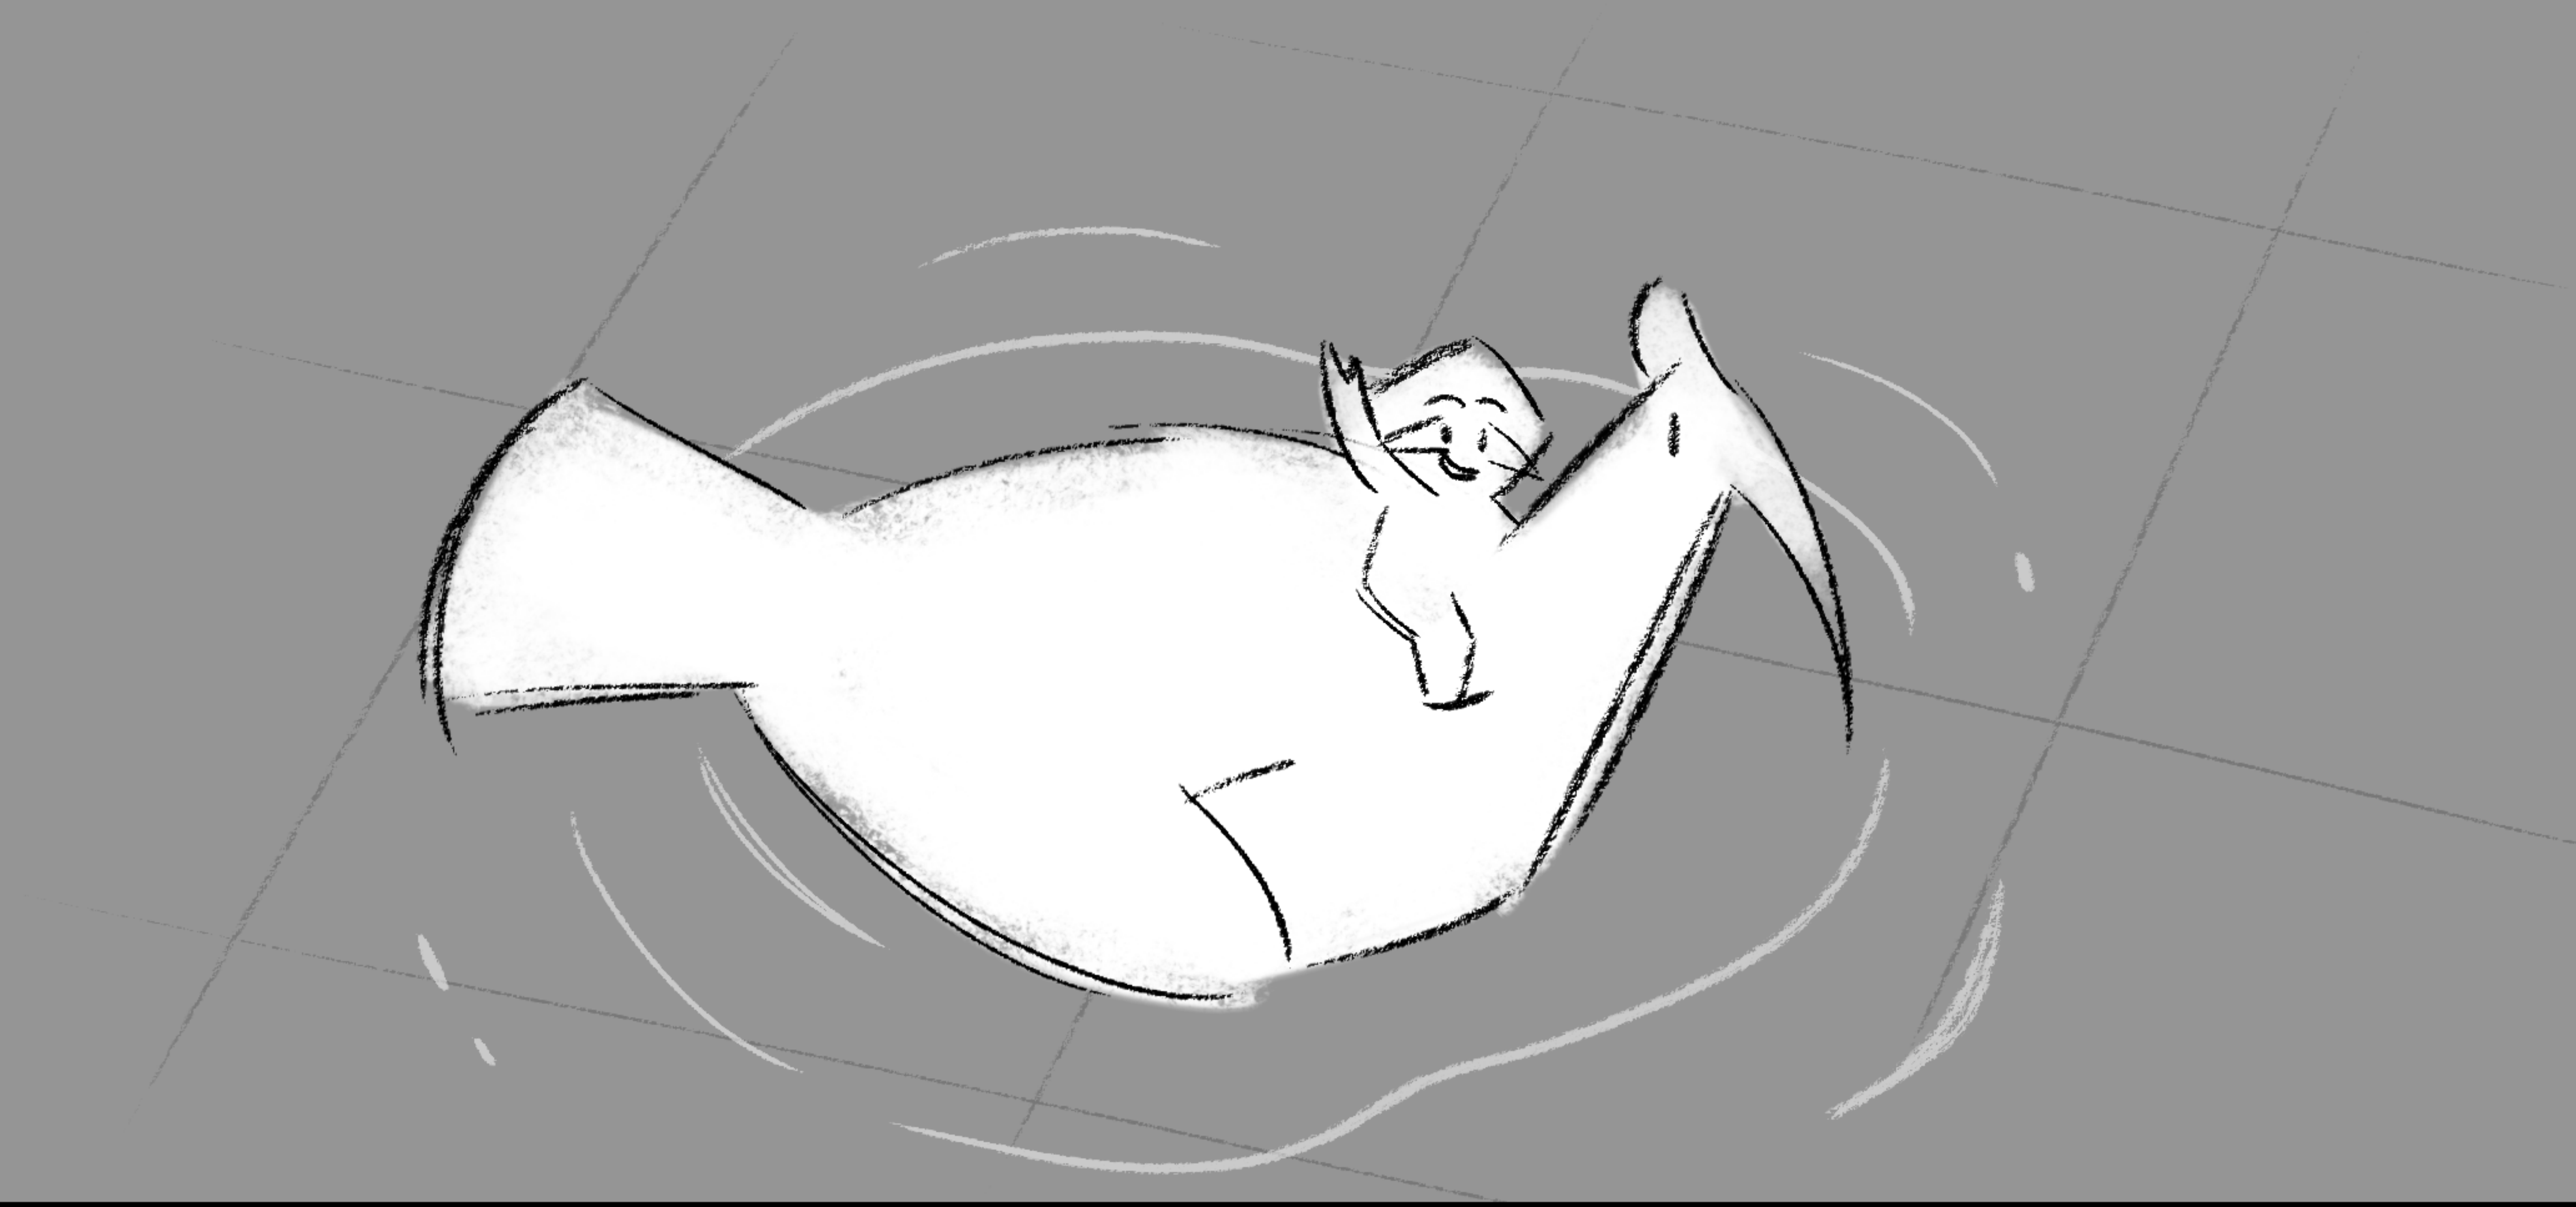

O.S.: THUMP

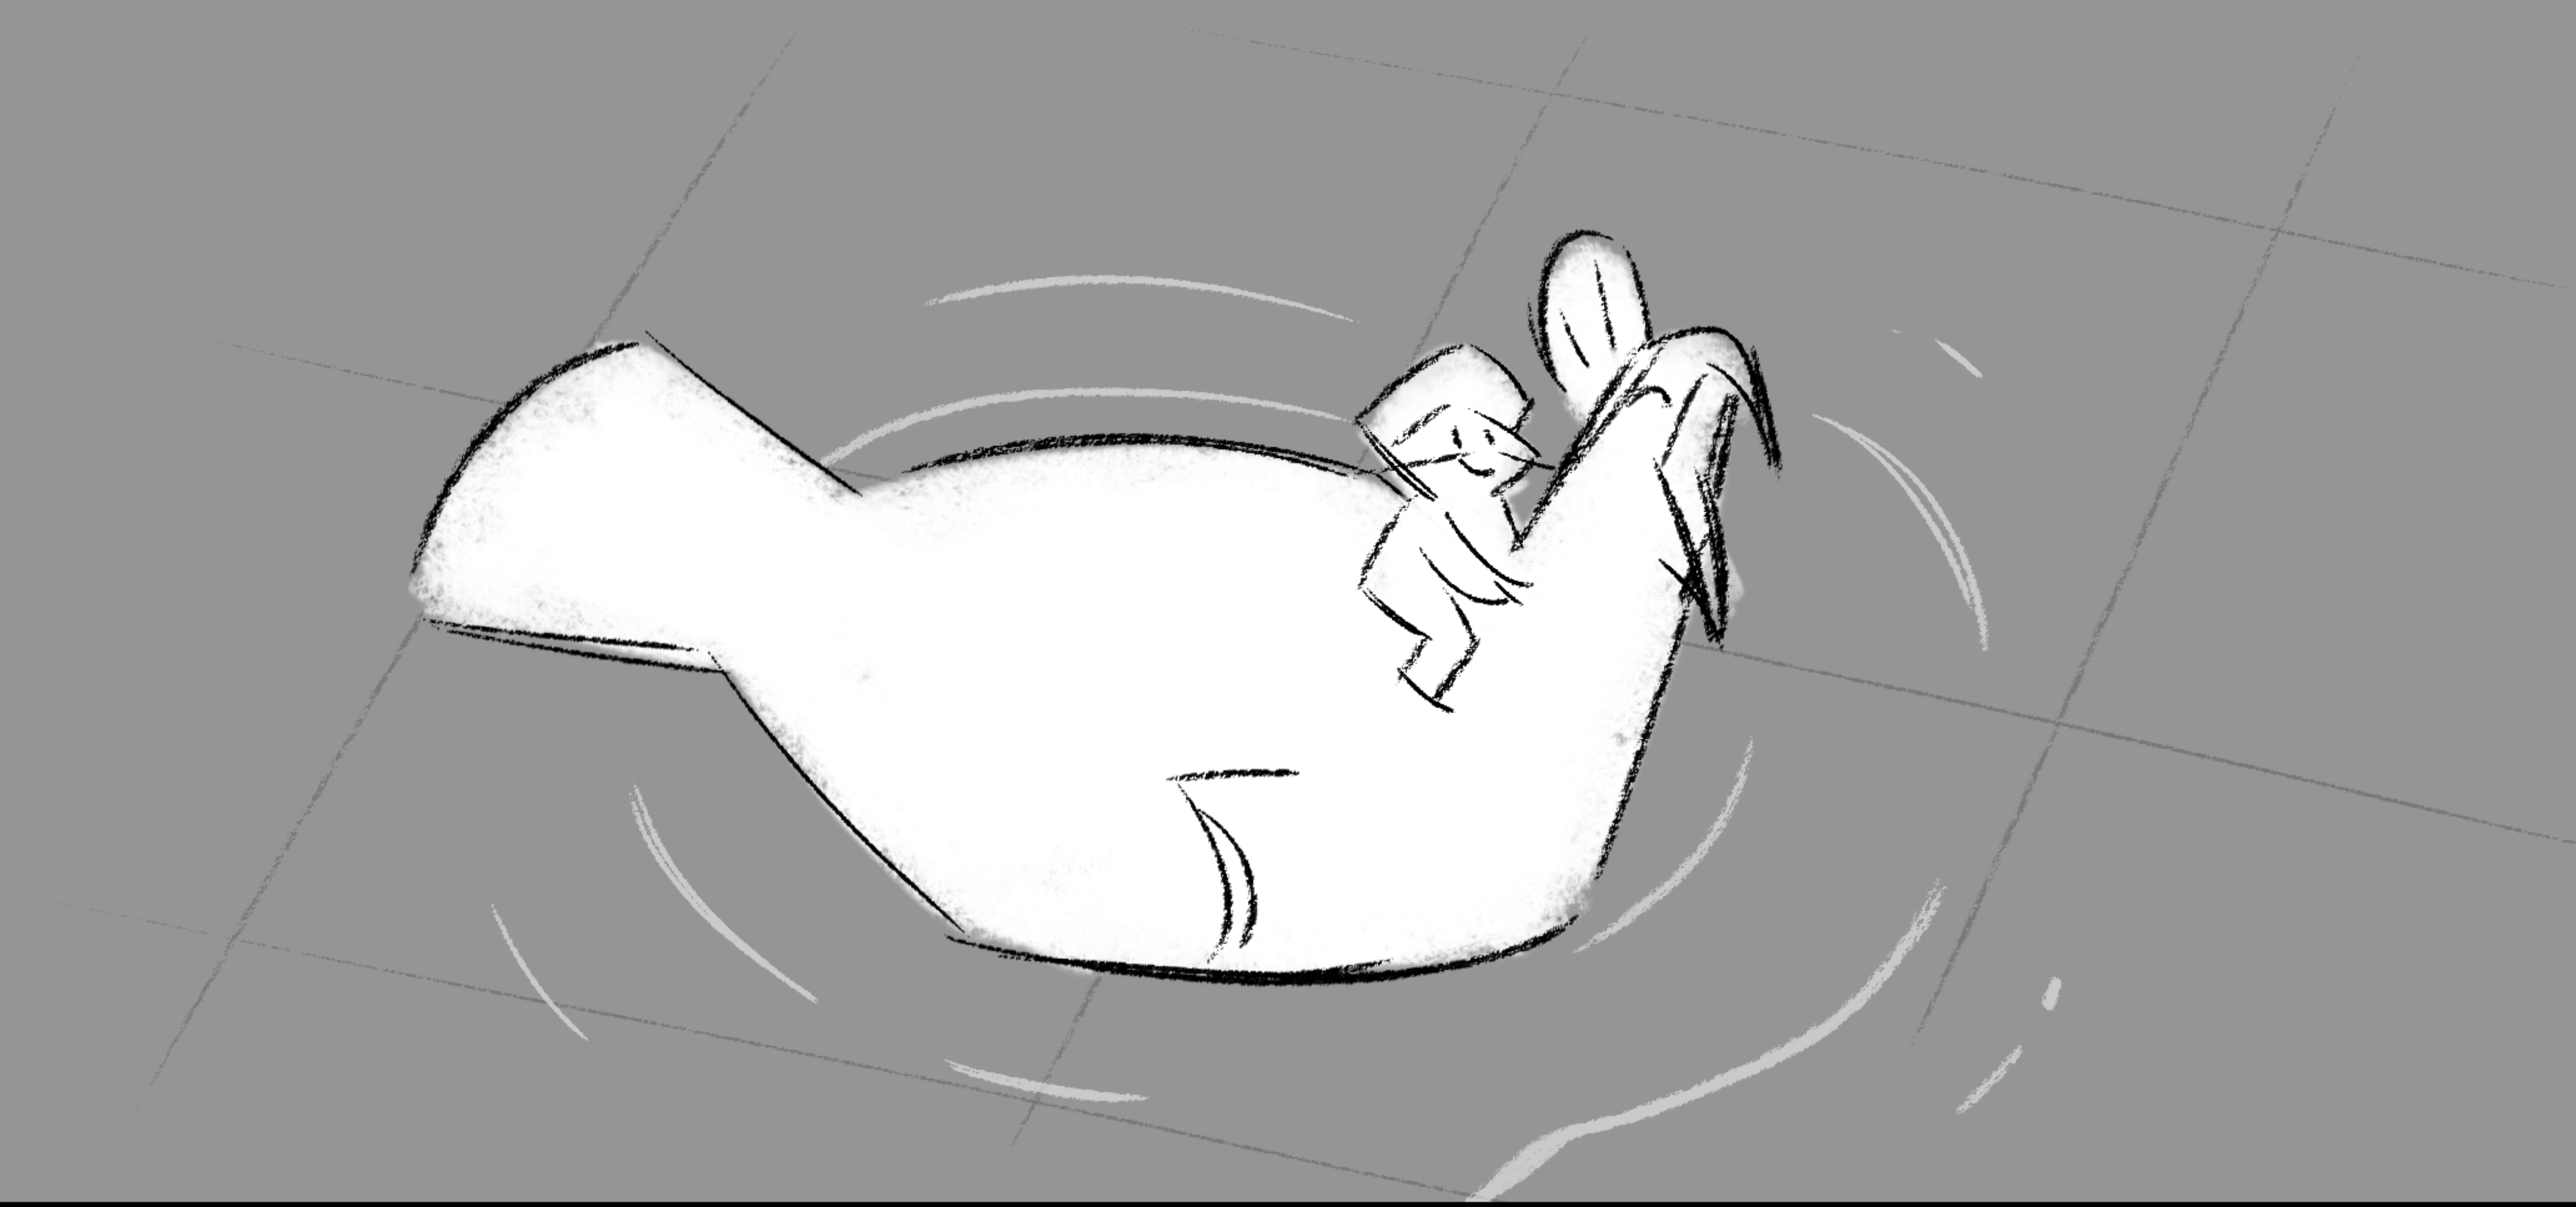

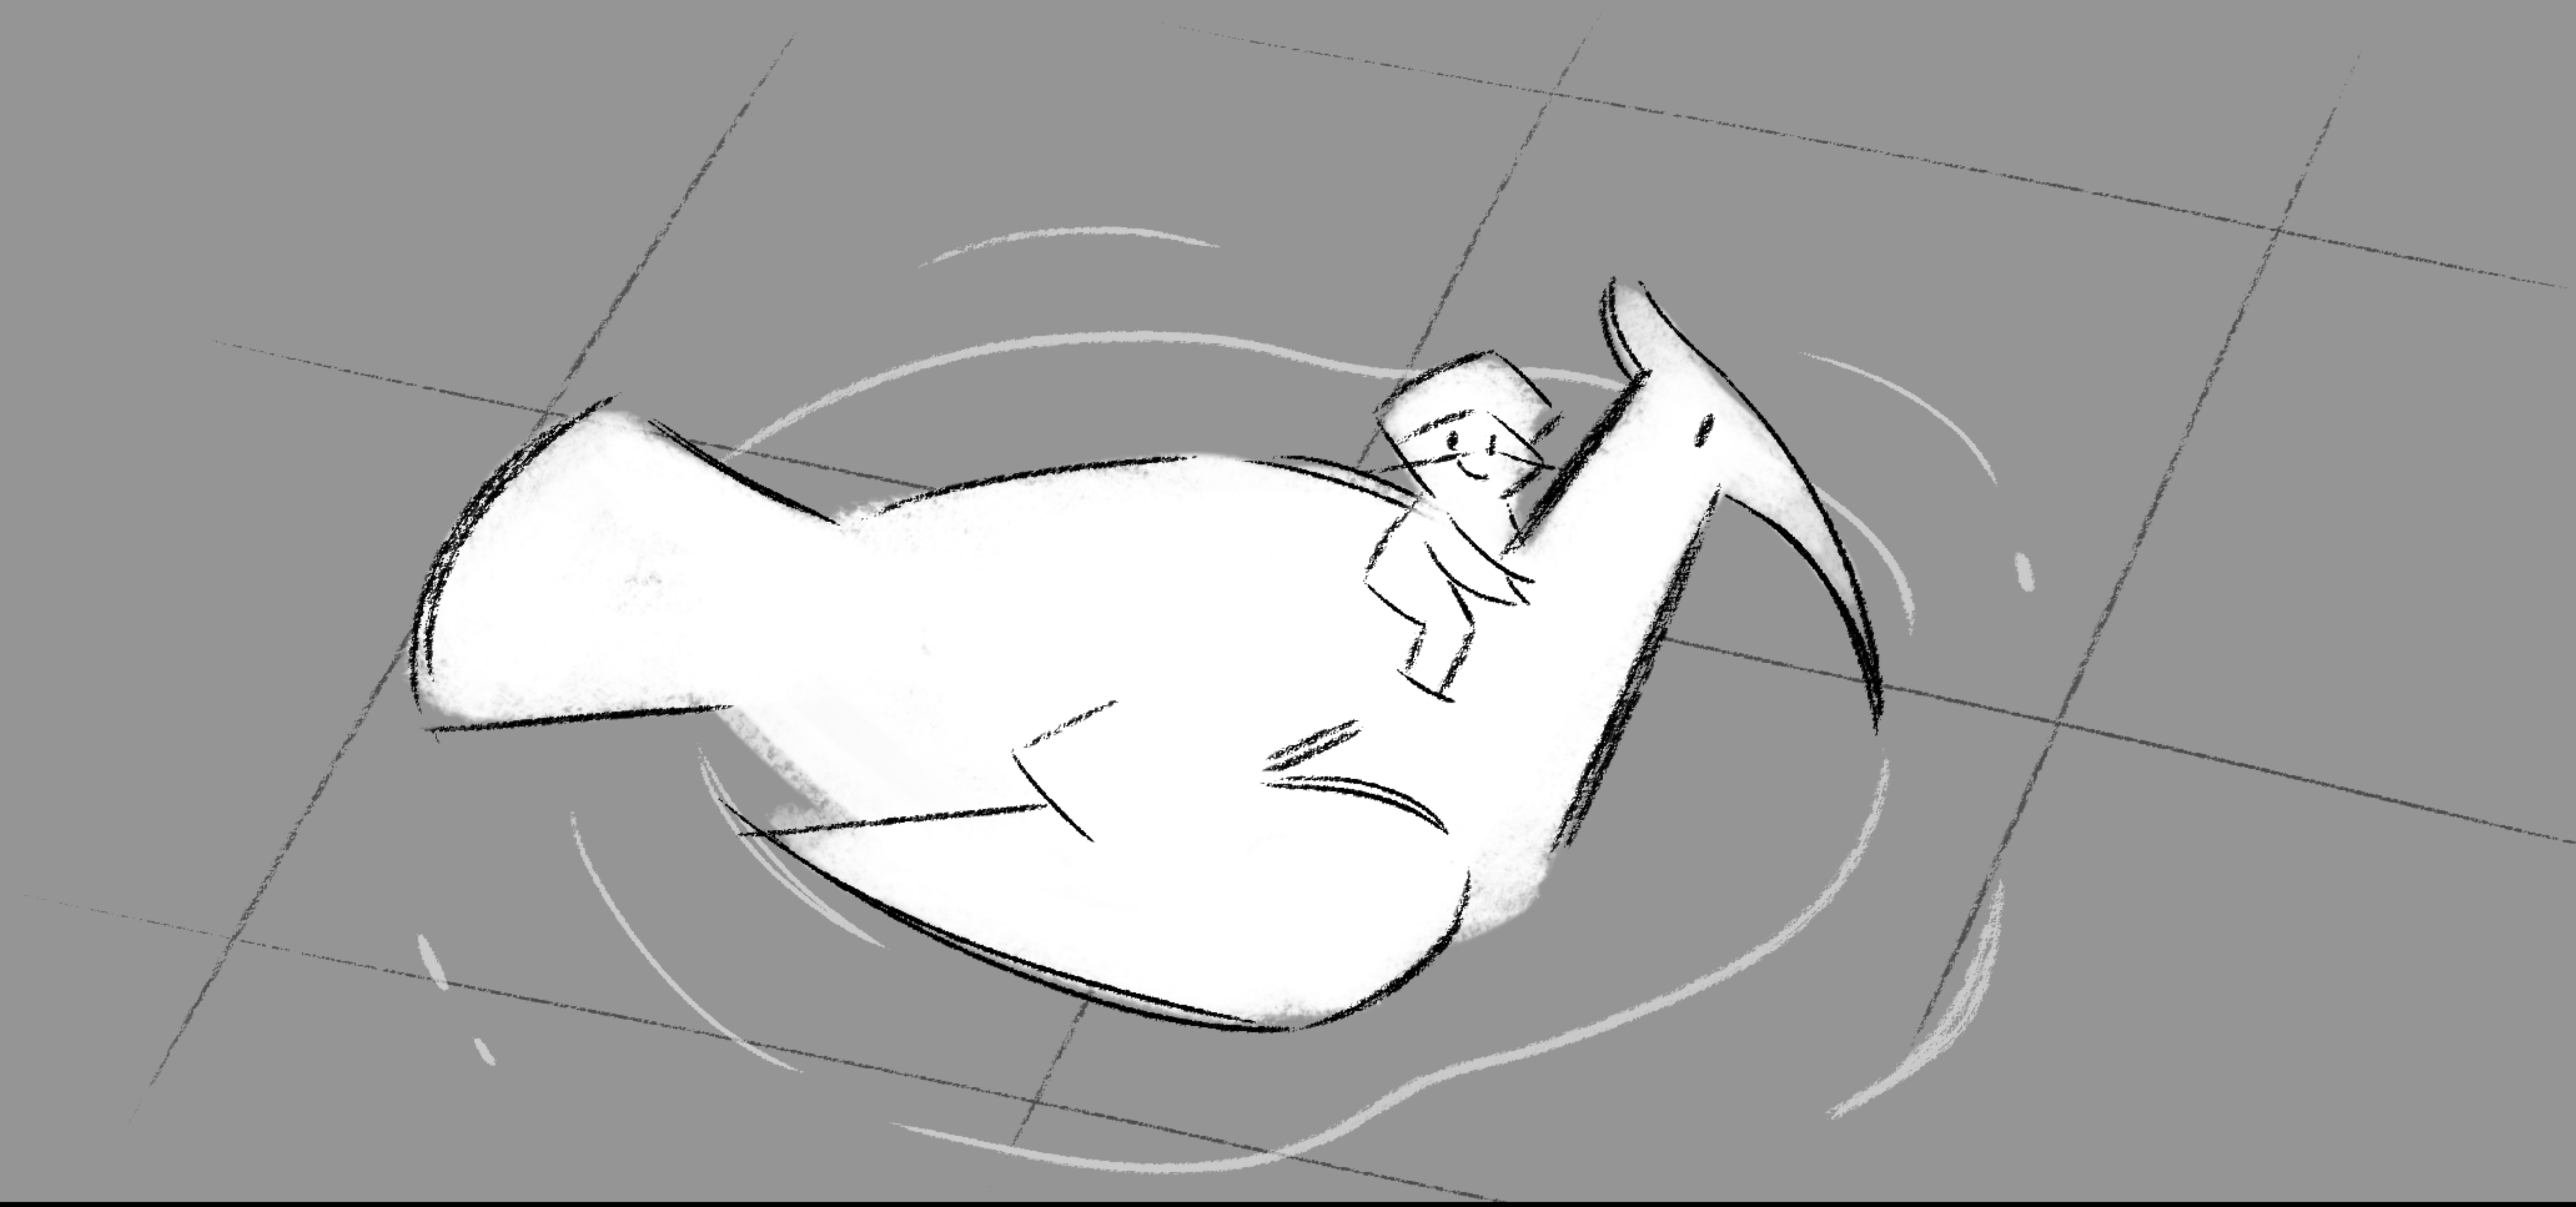

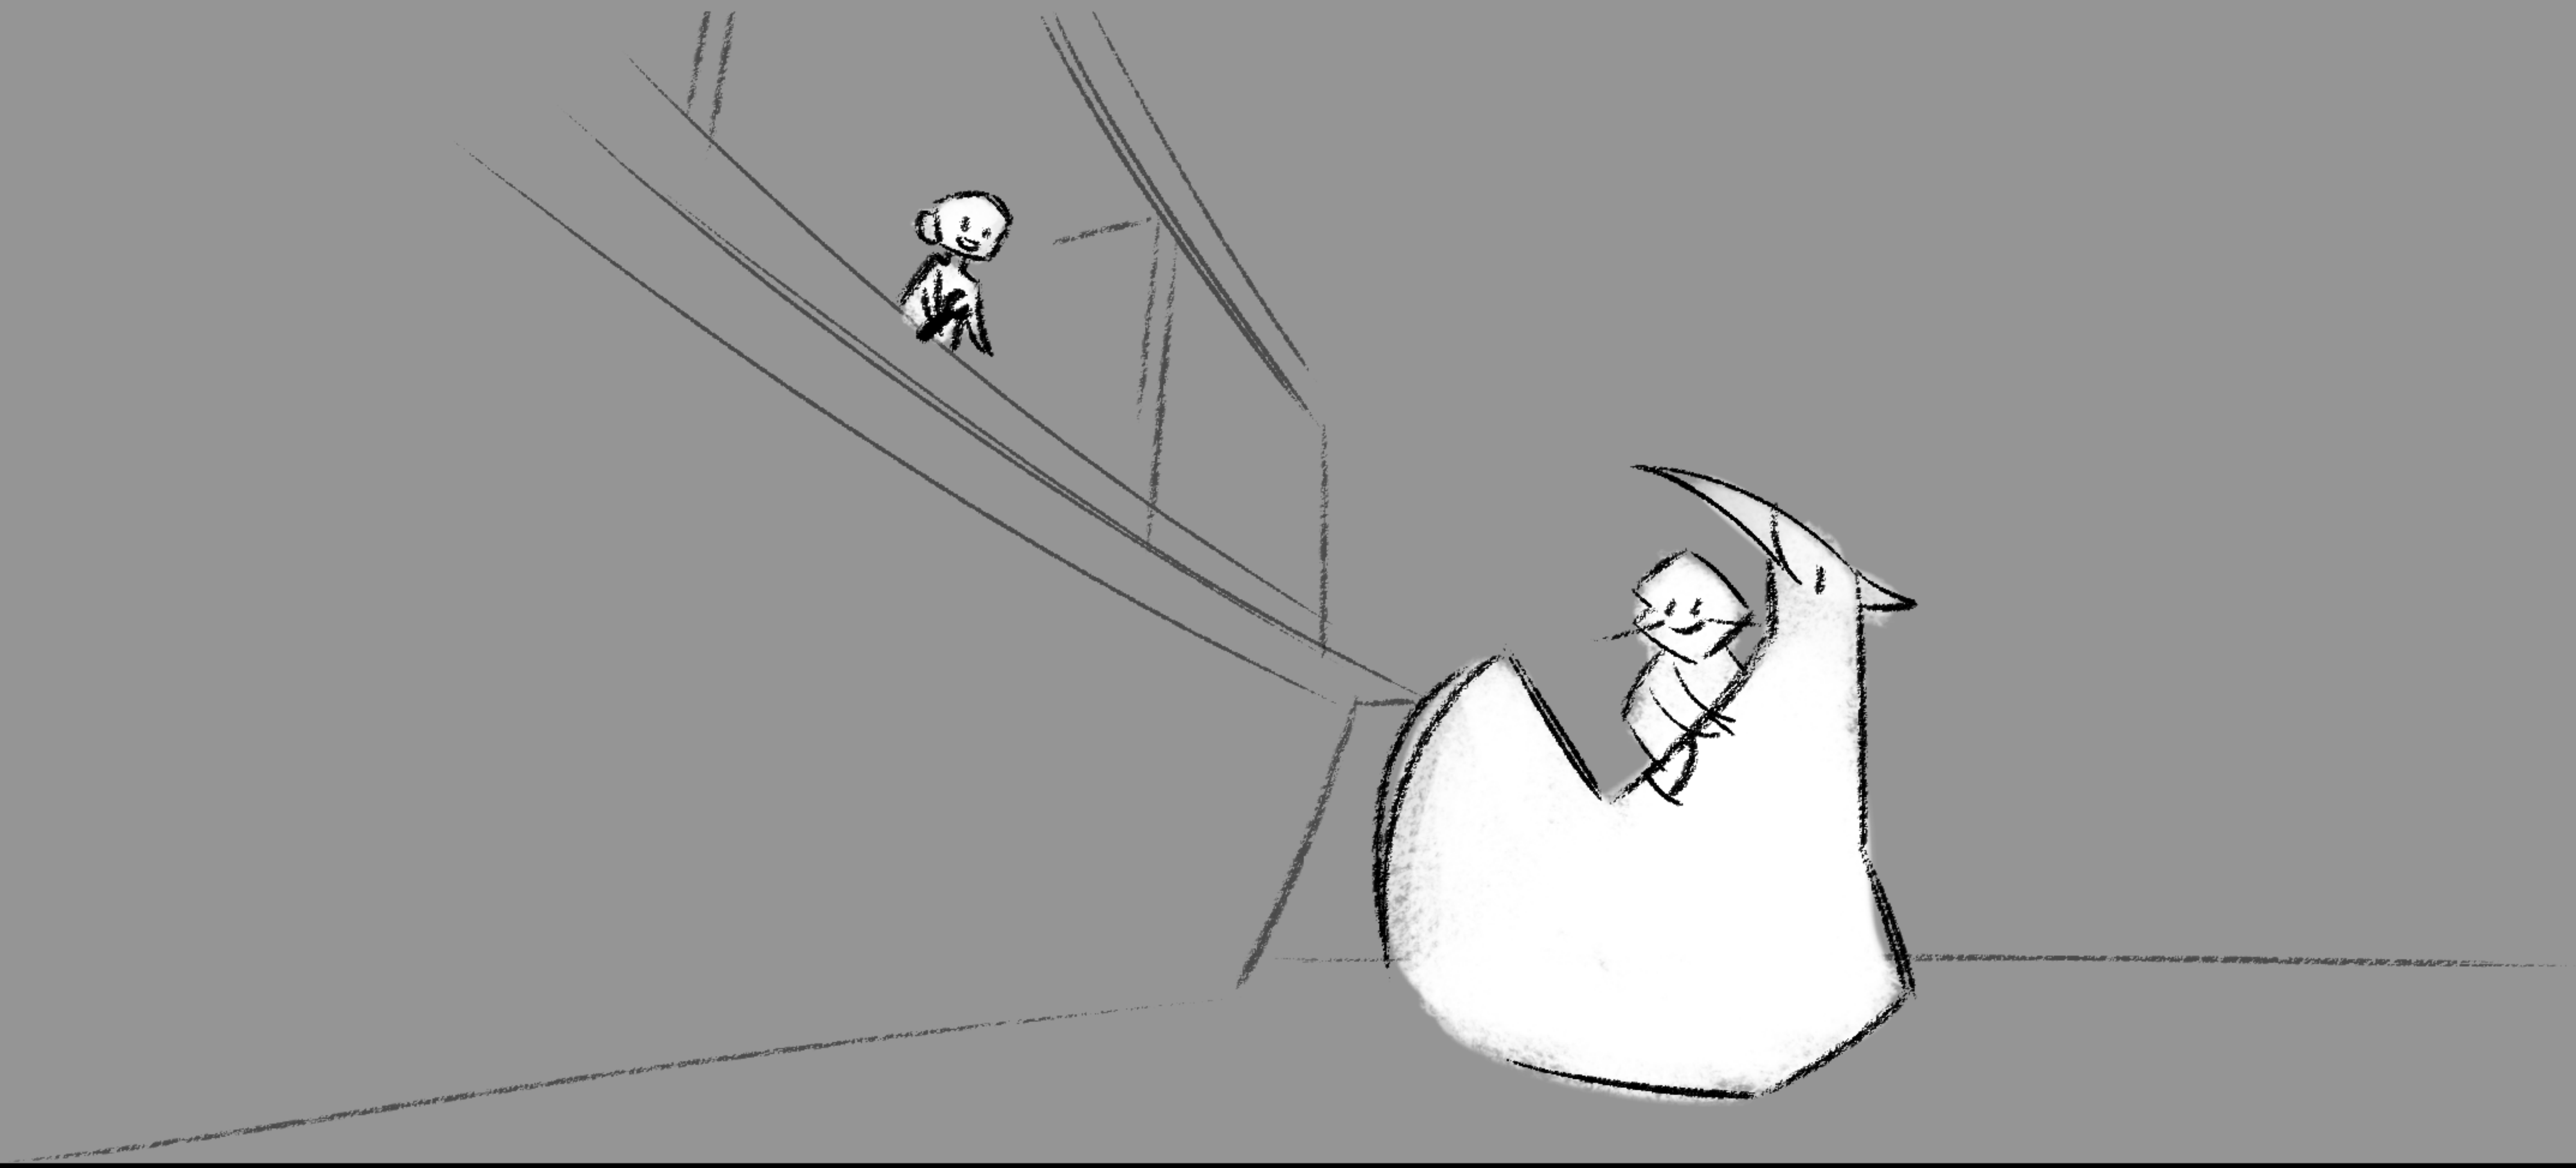

IFF: Come on, thieflet!

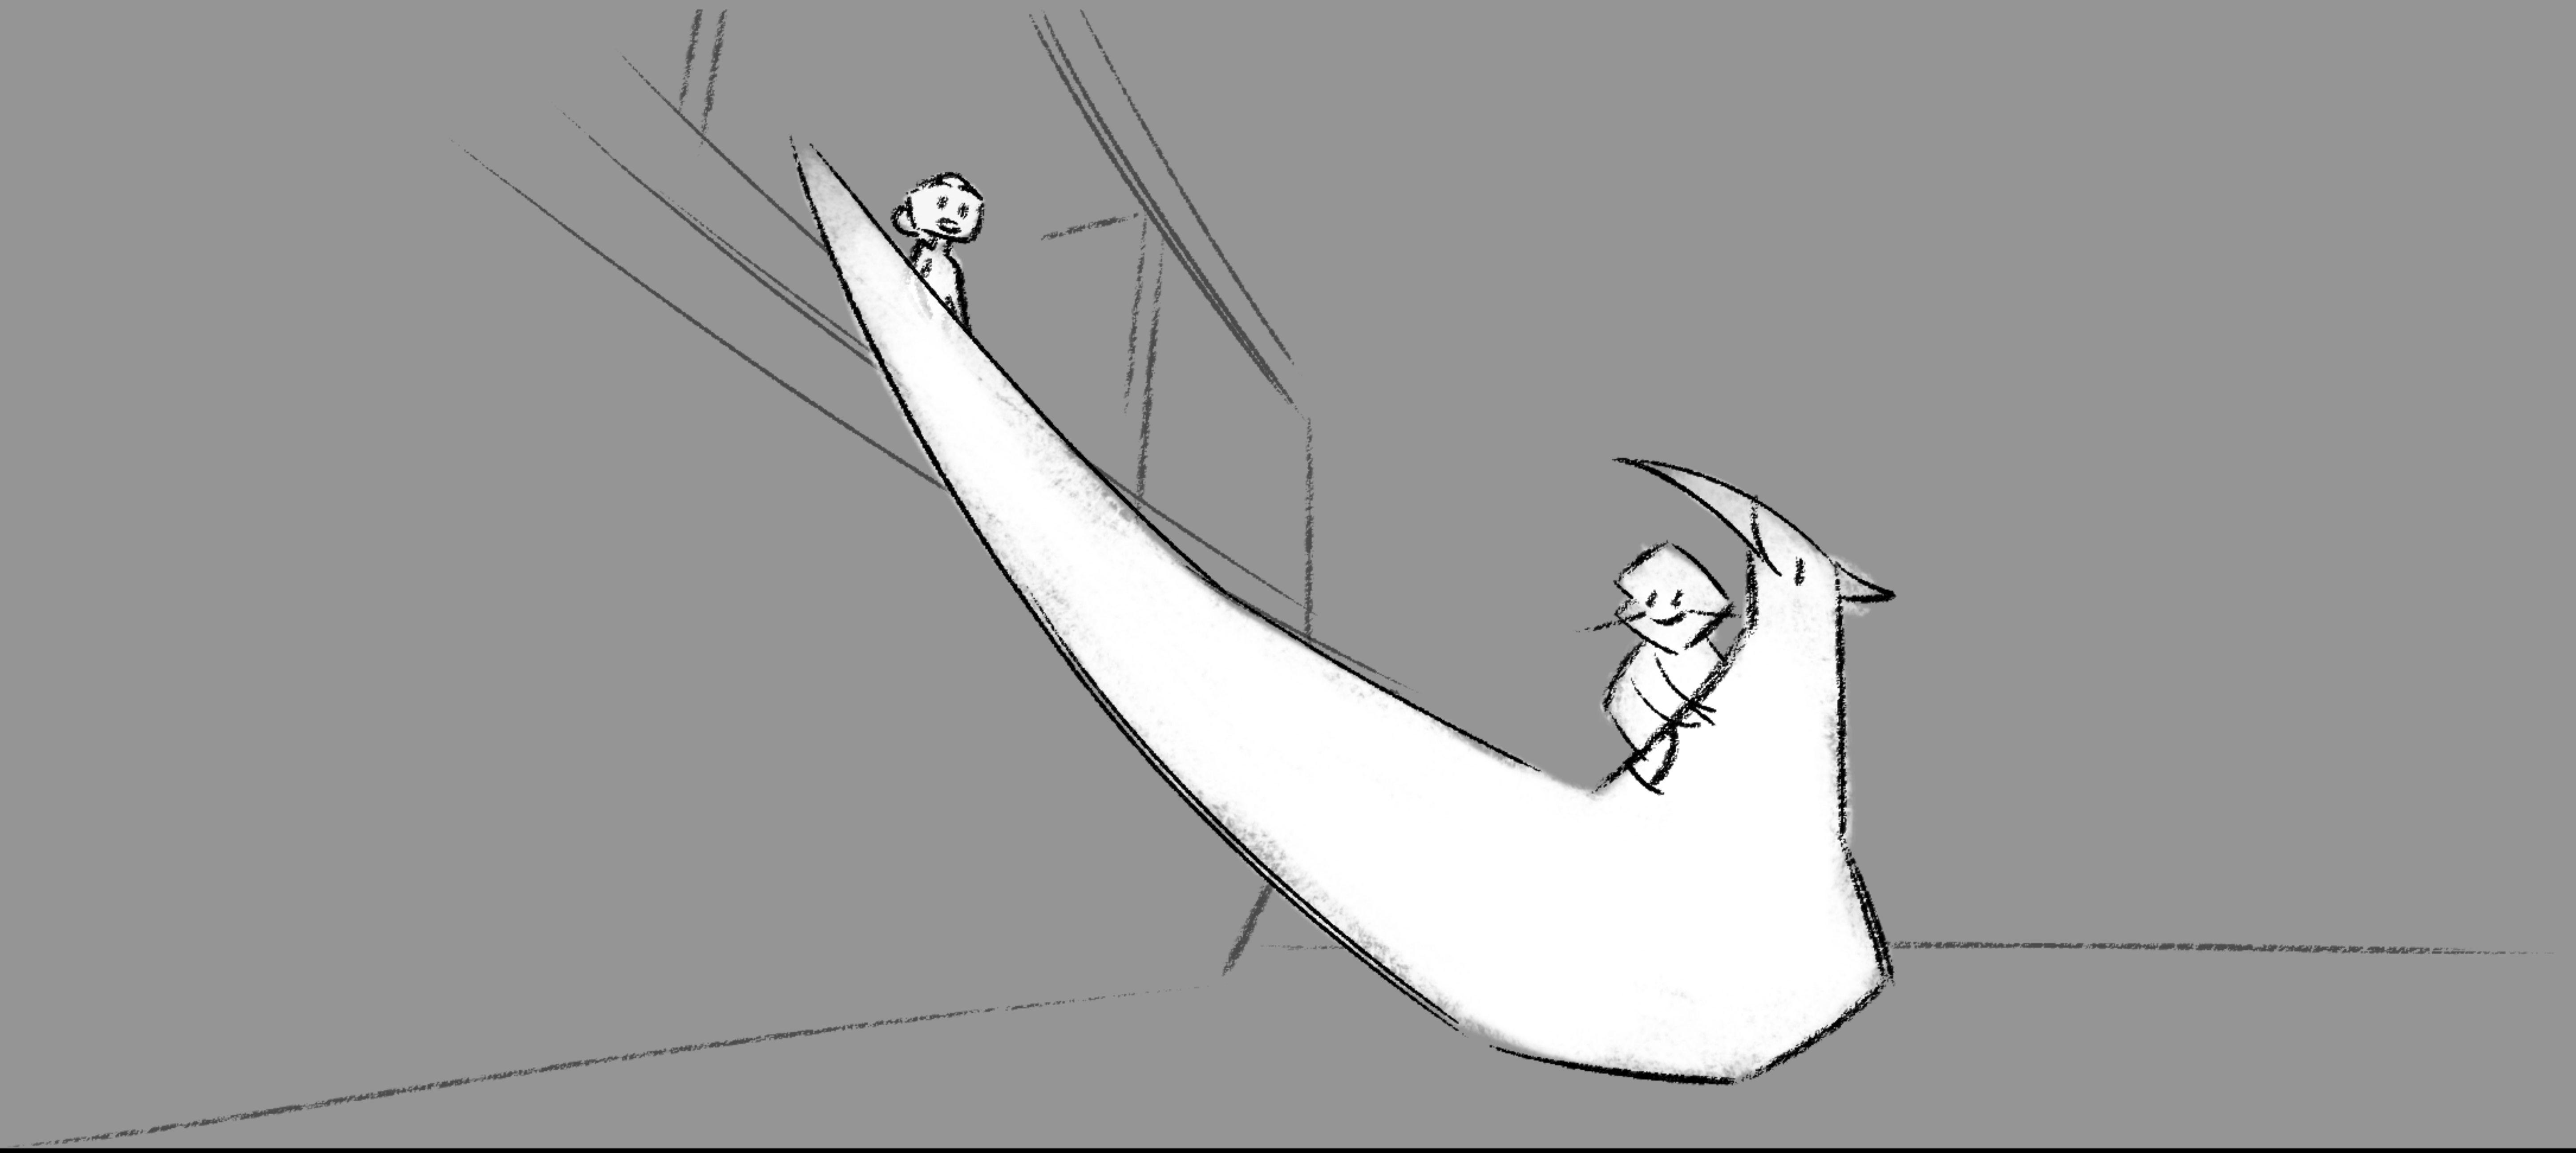

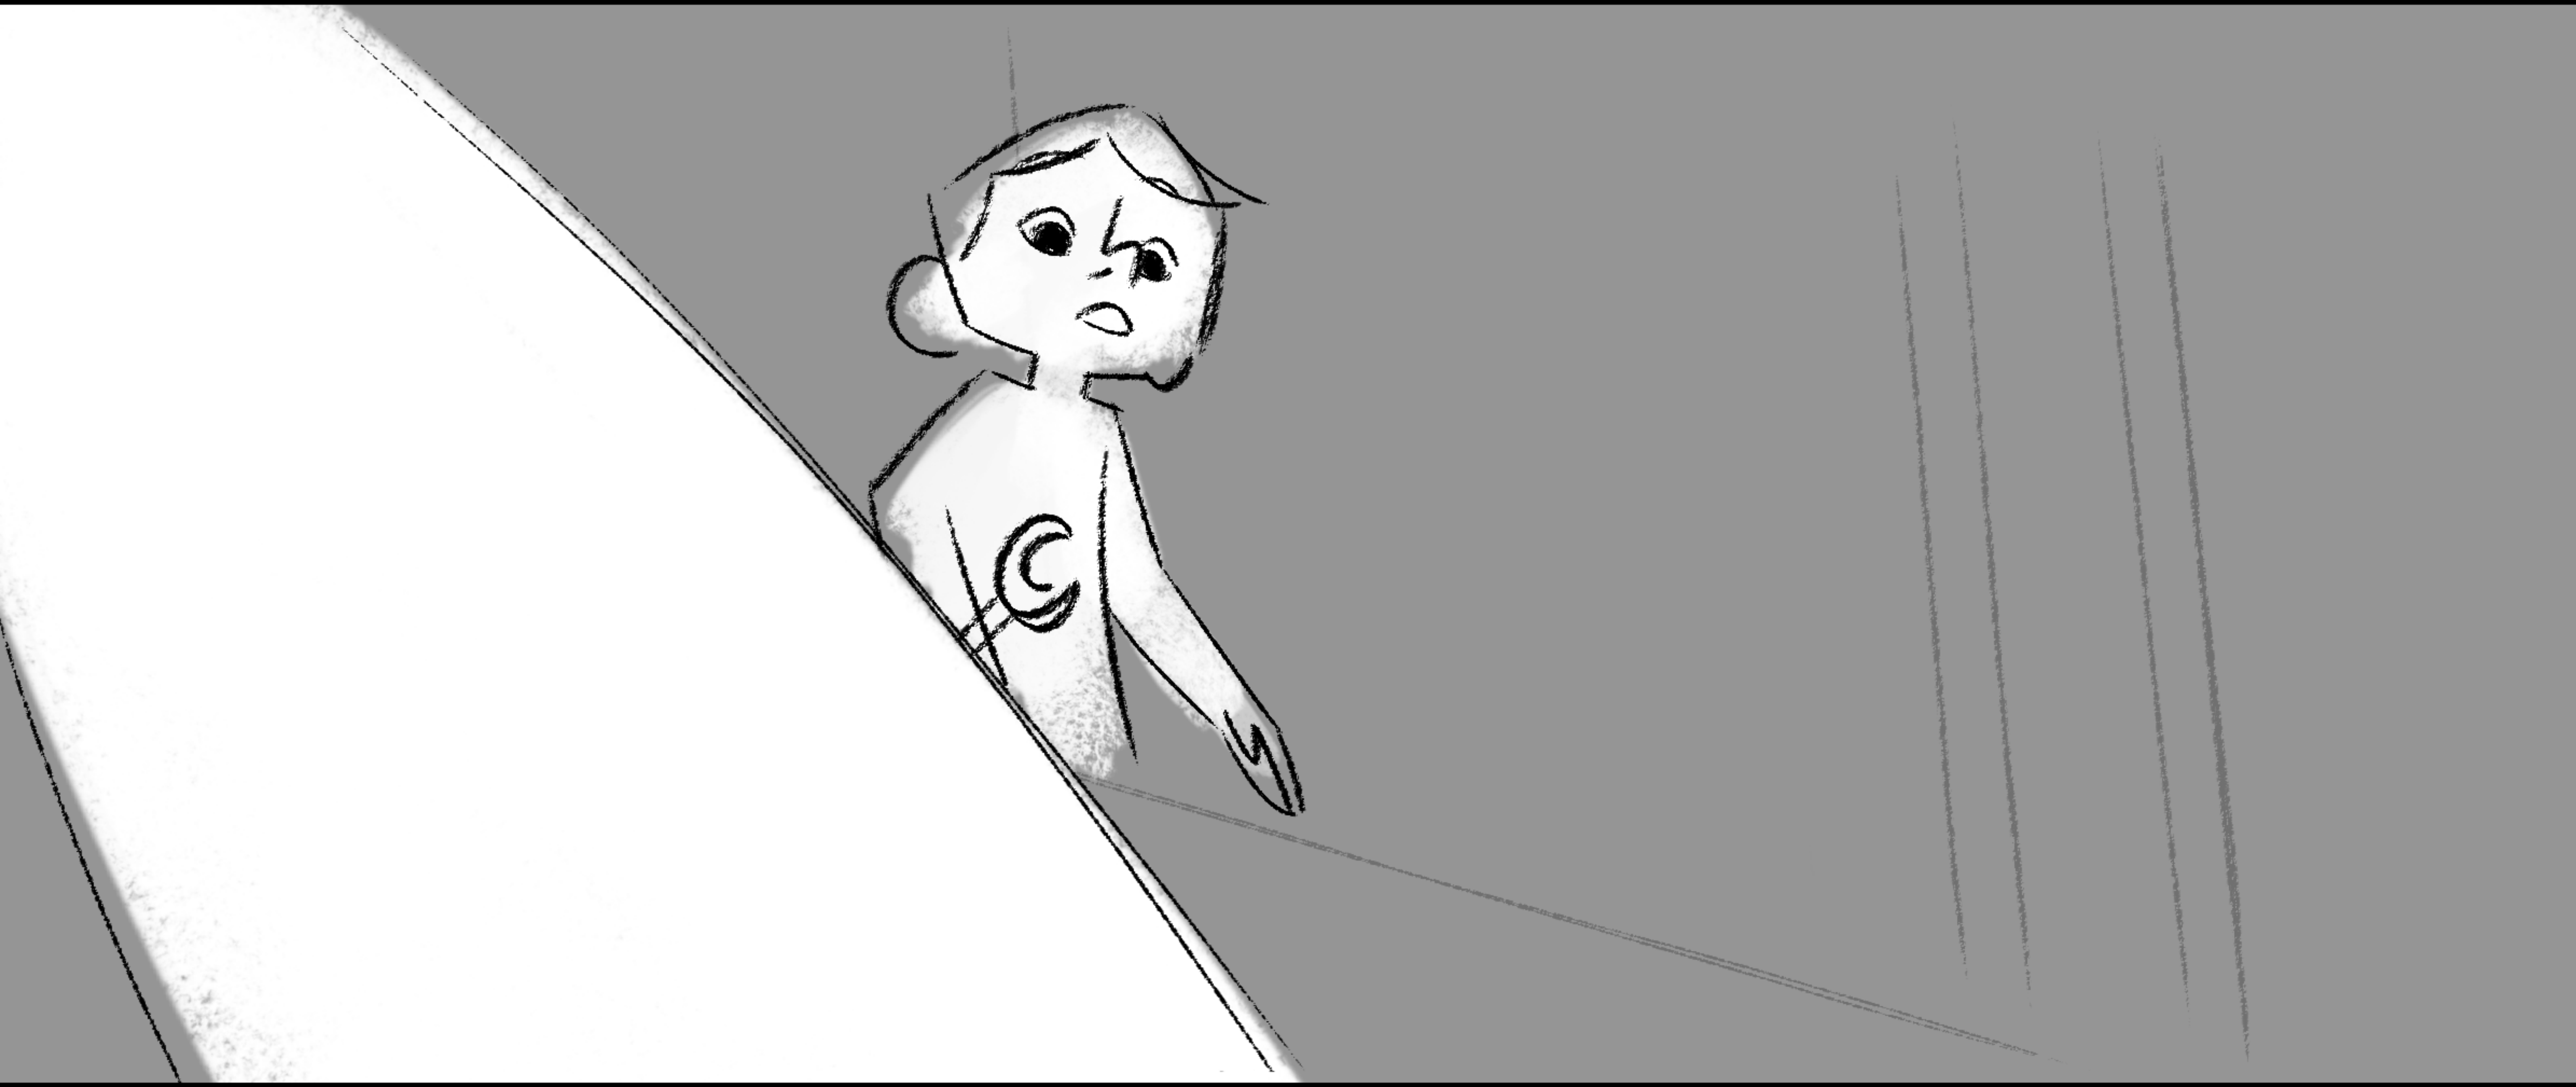

HOOPOE: HOOT HOOT!

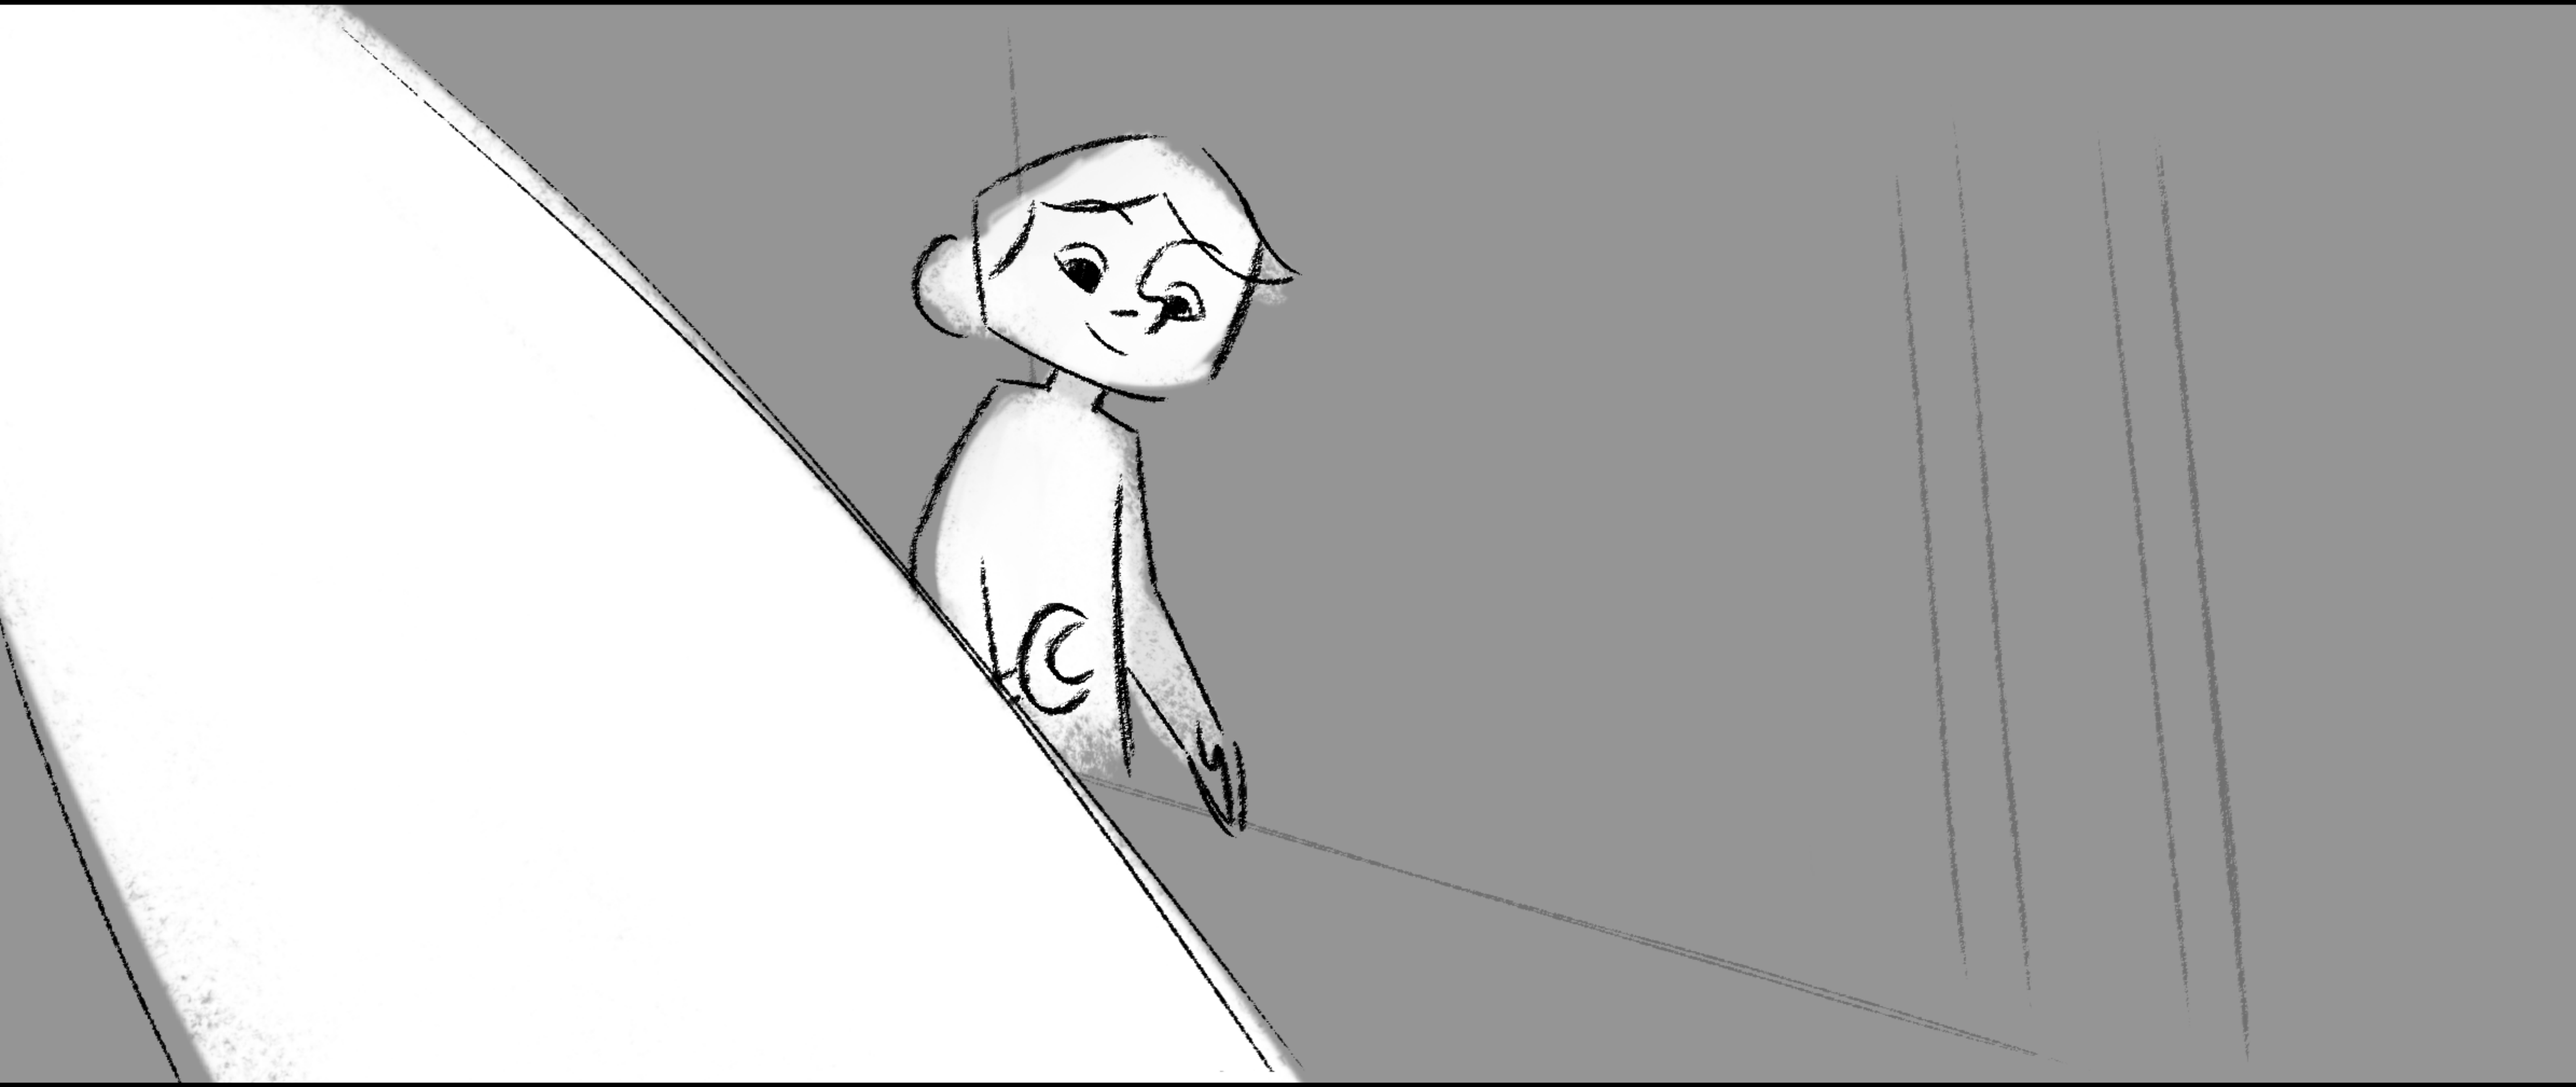

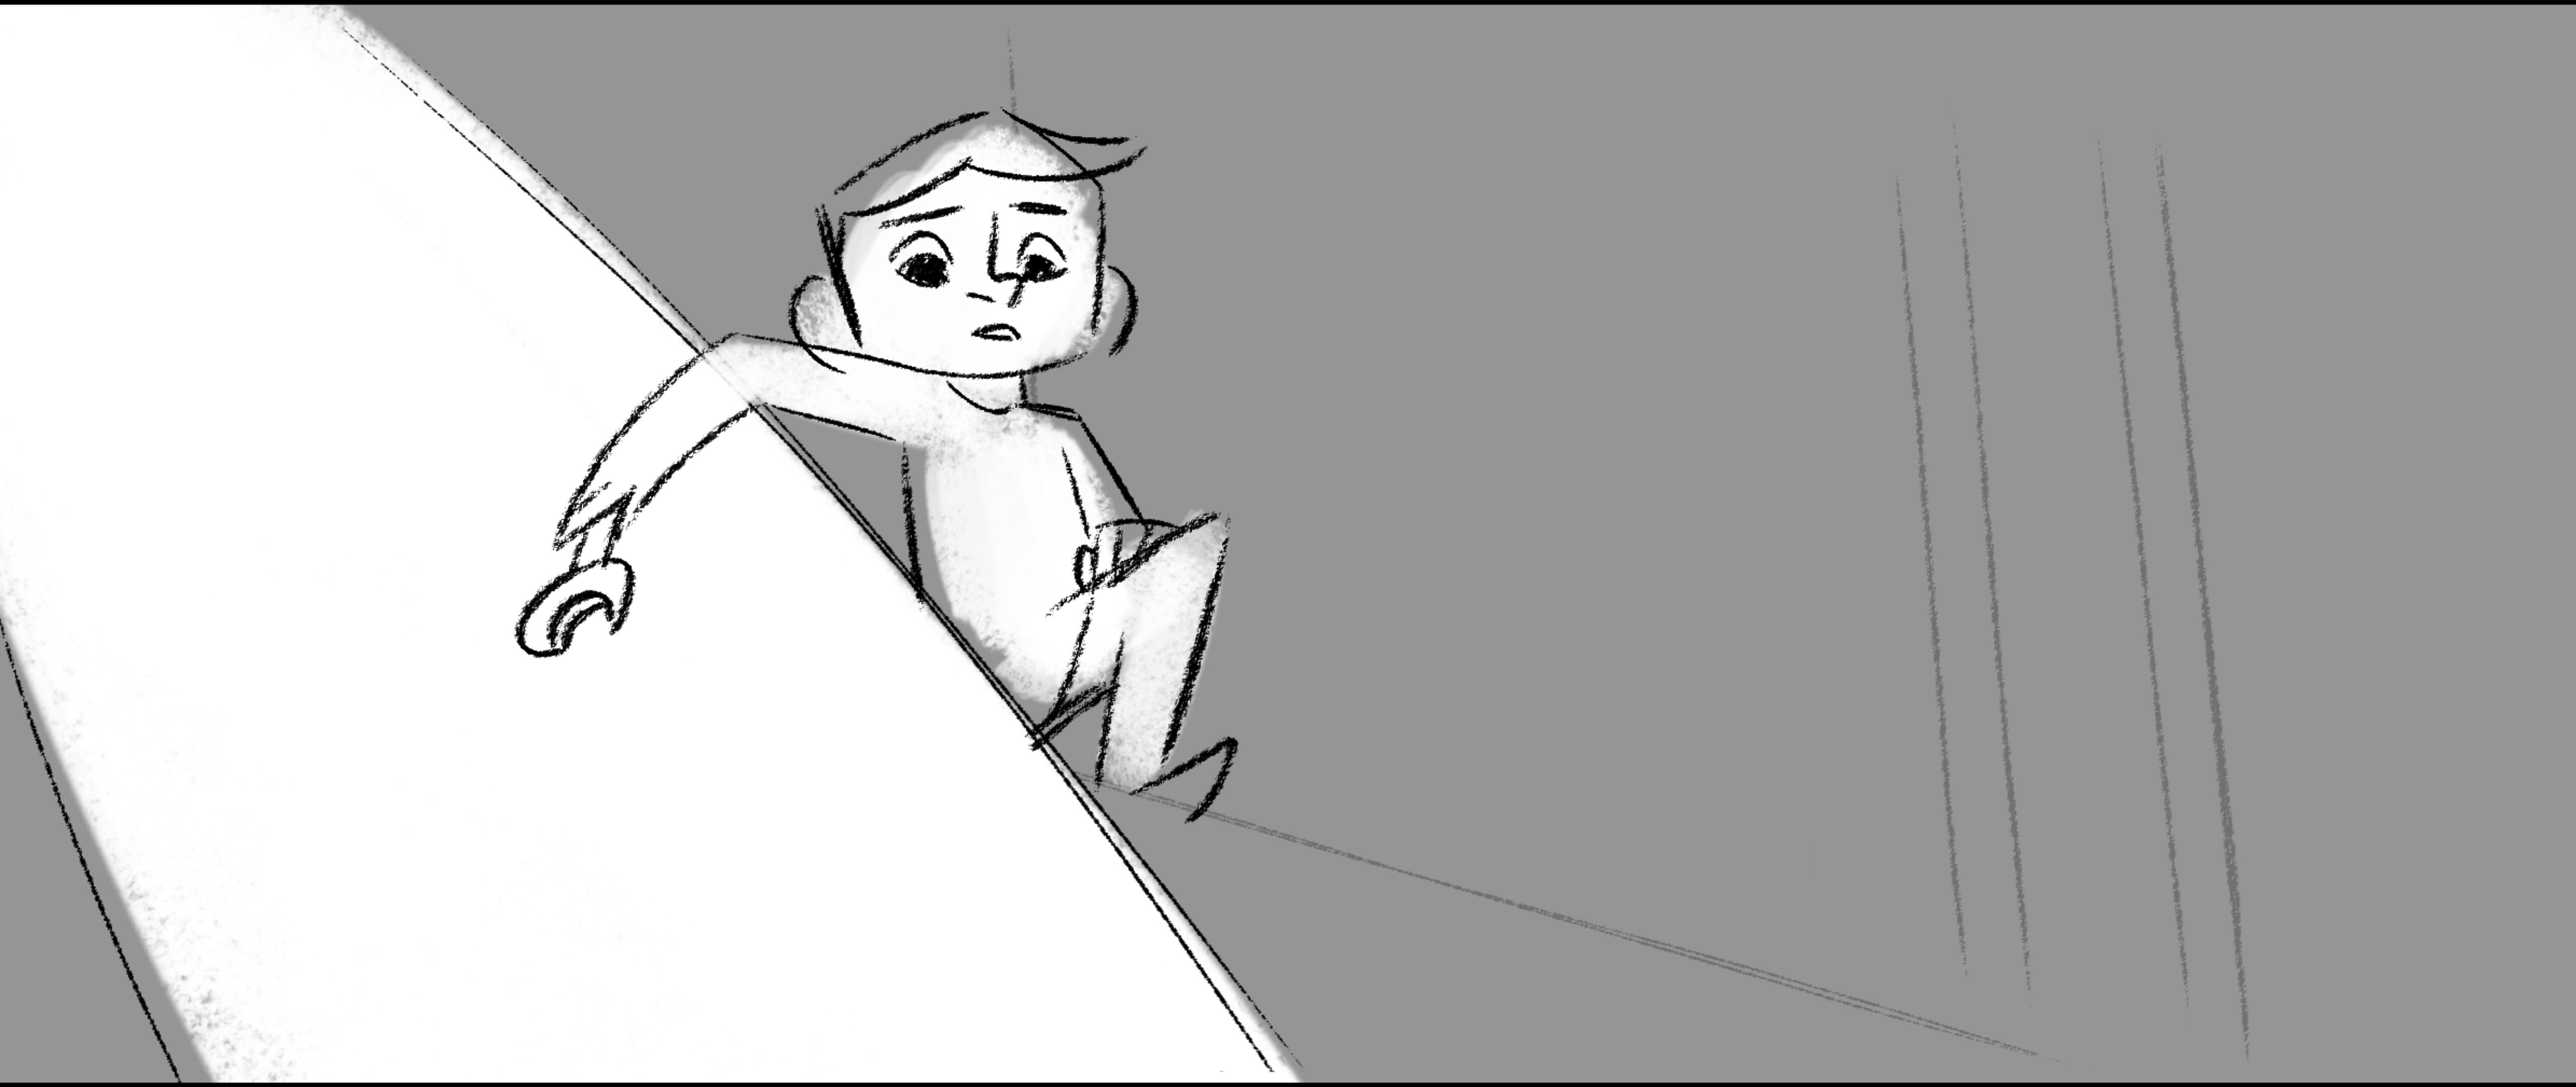

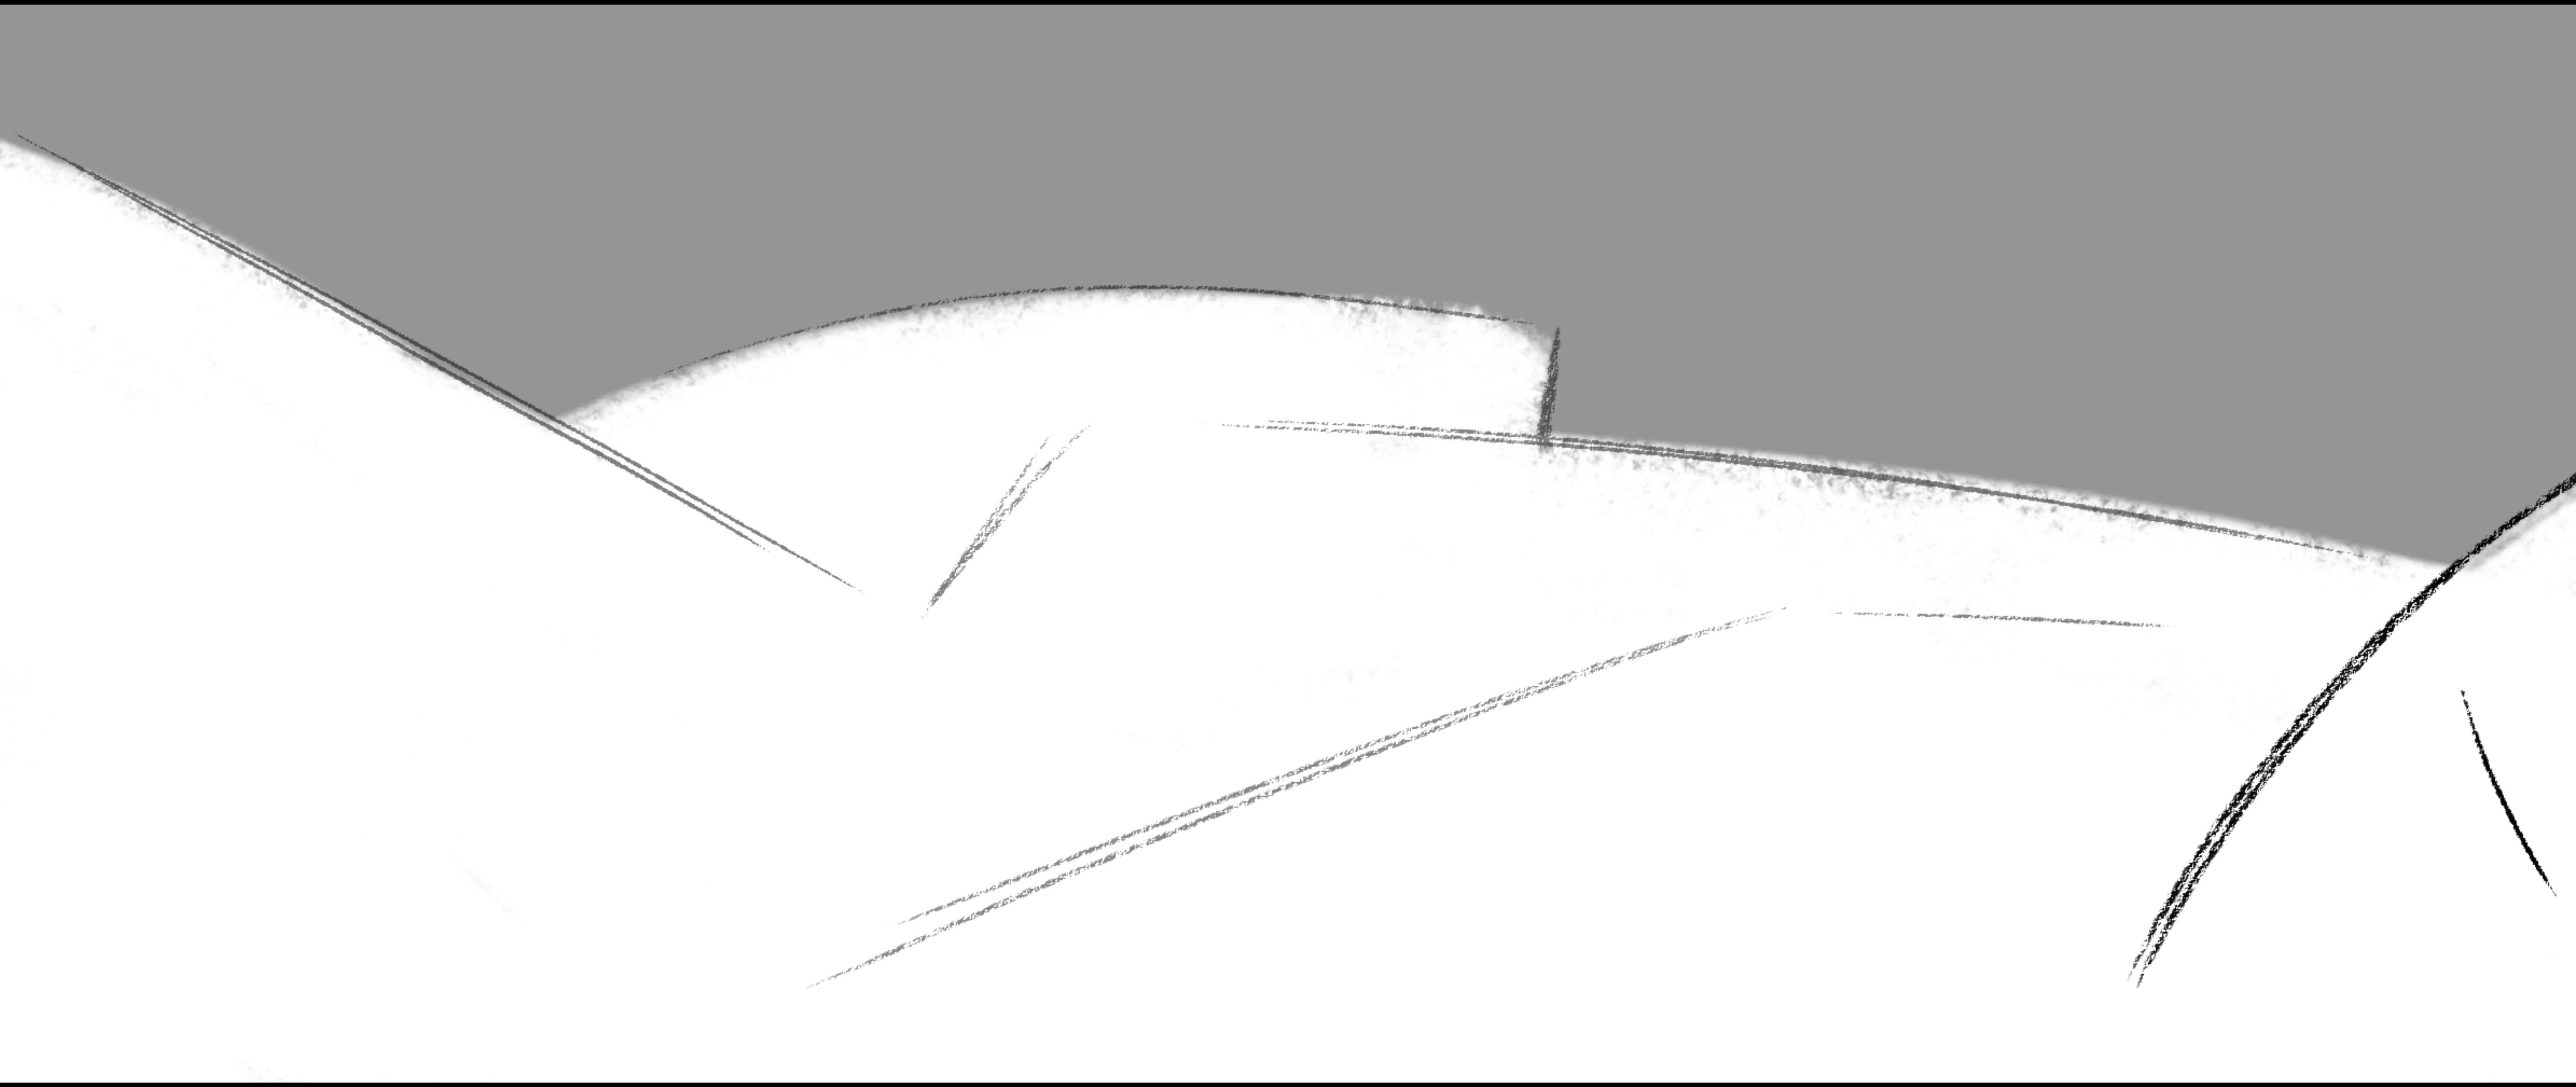

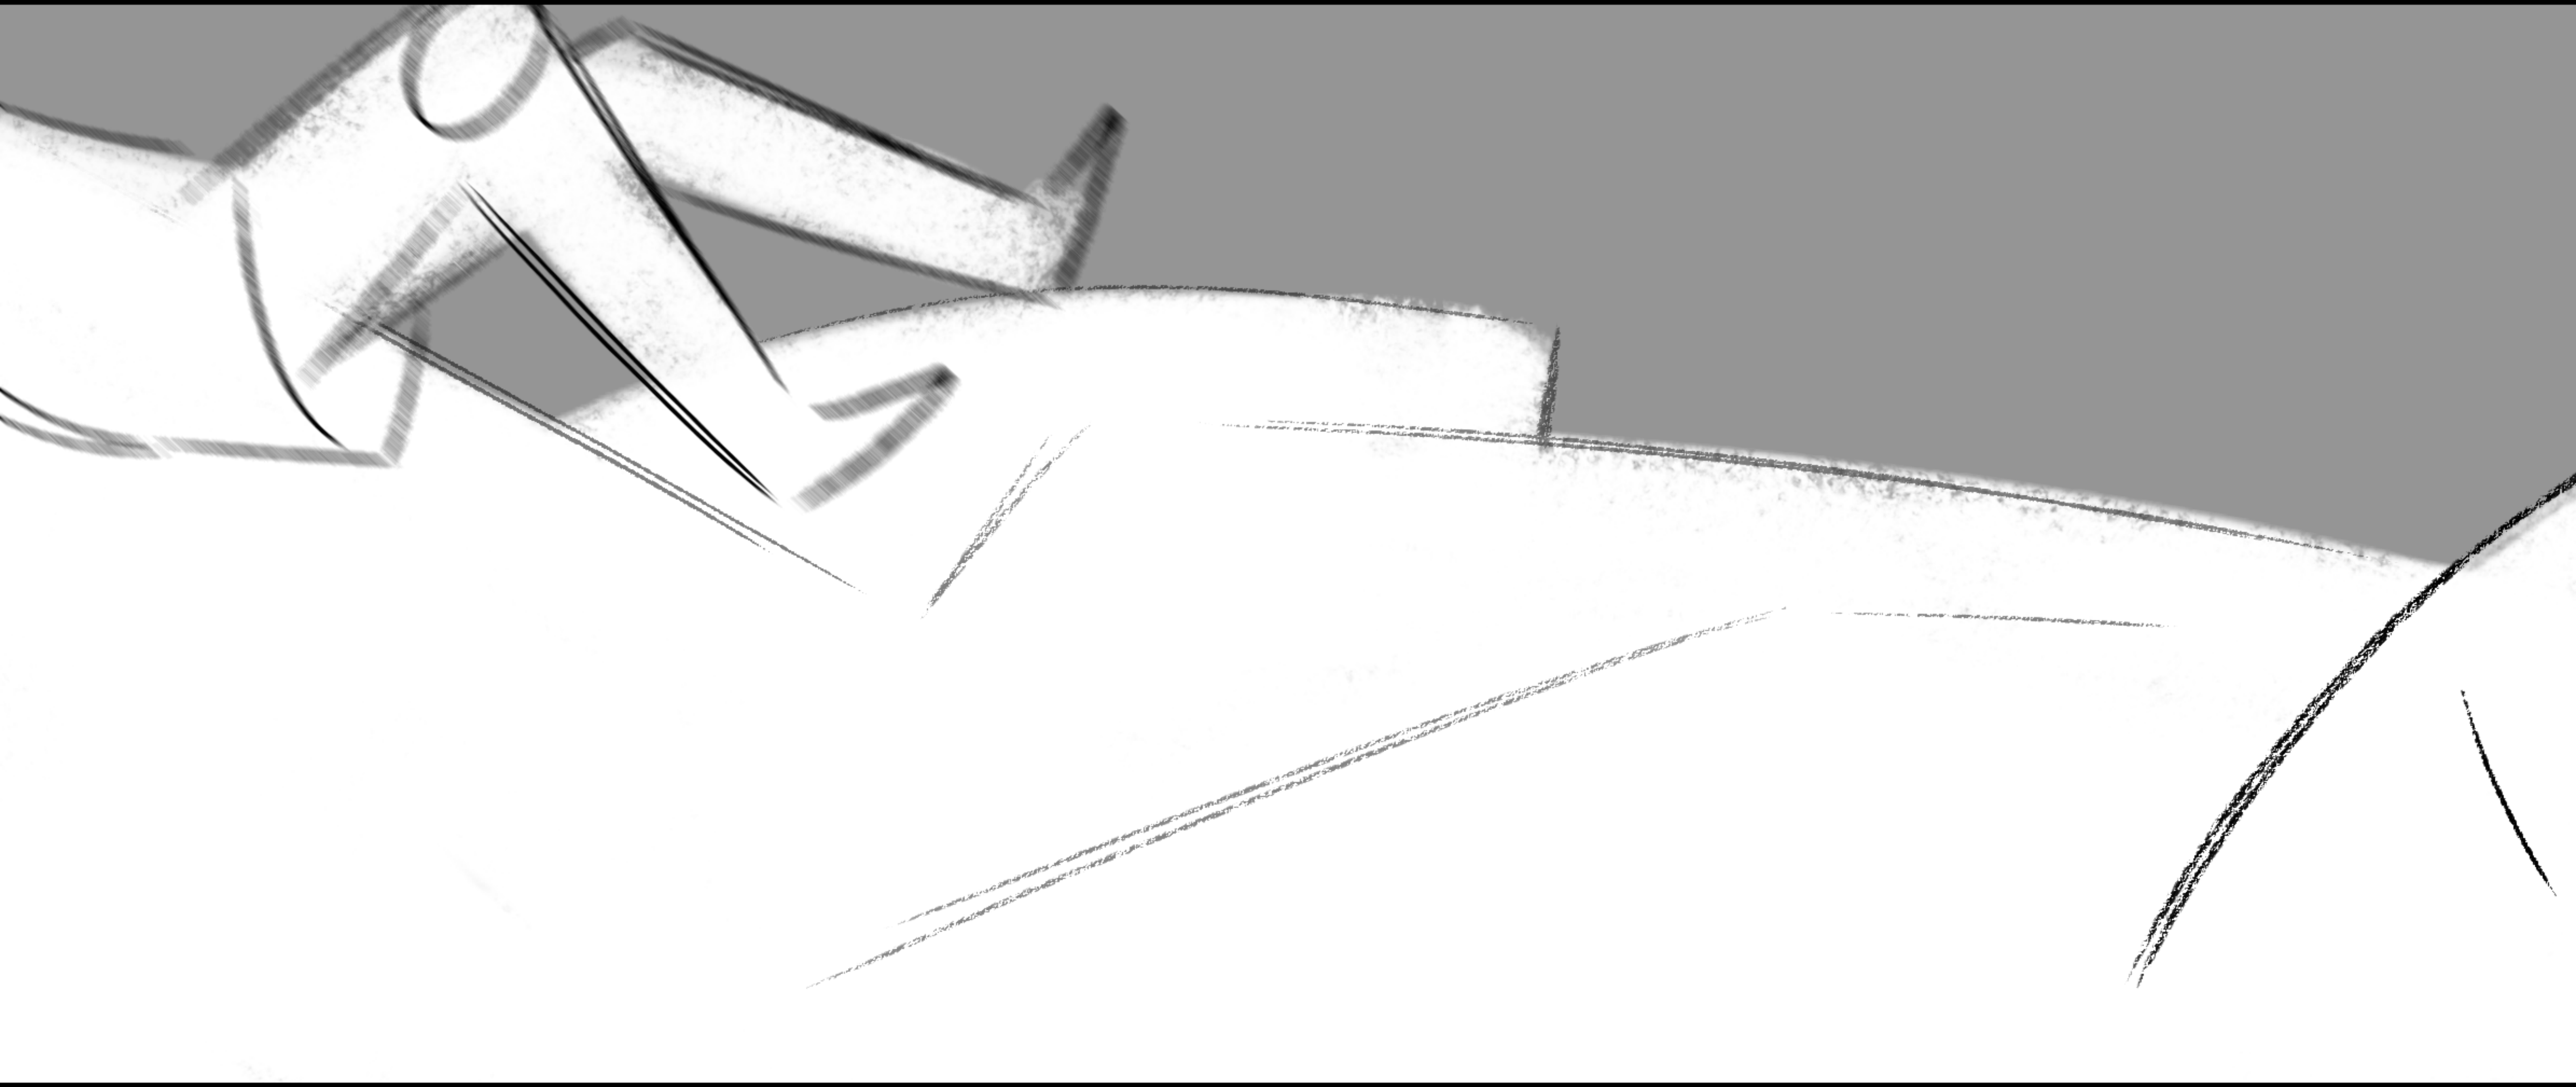

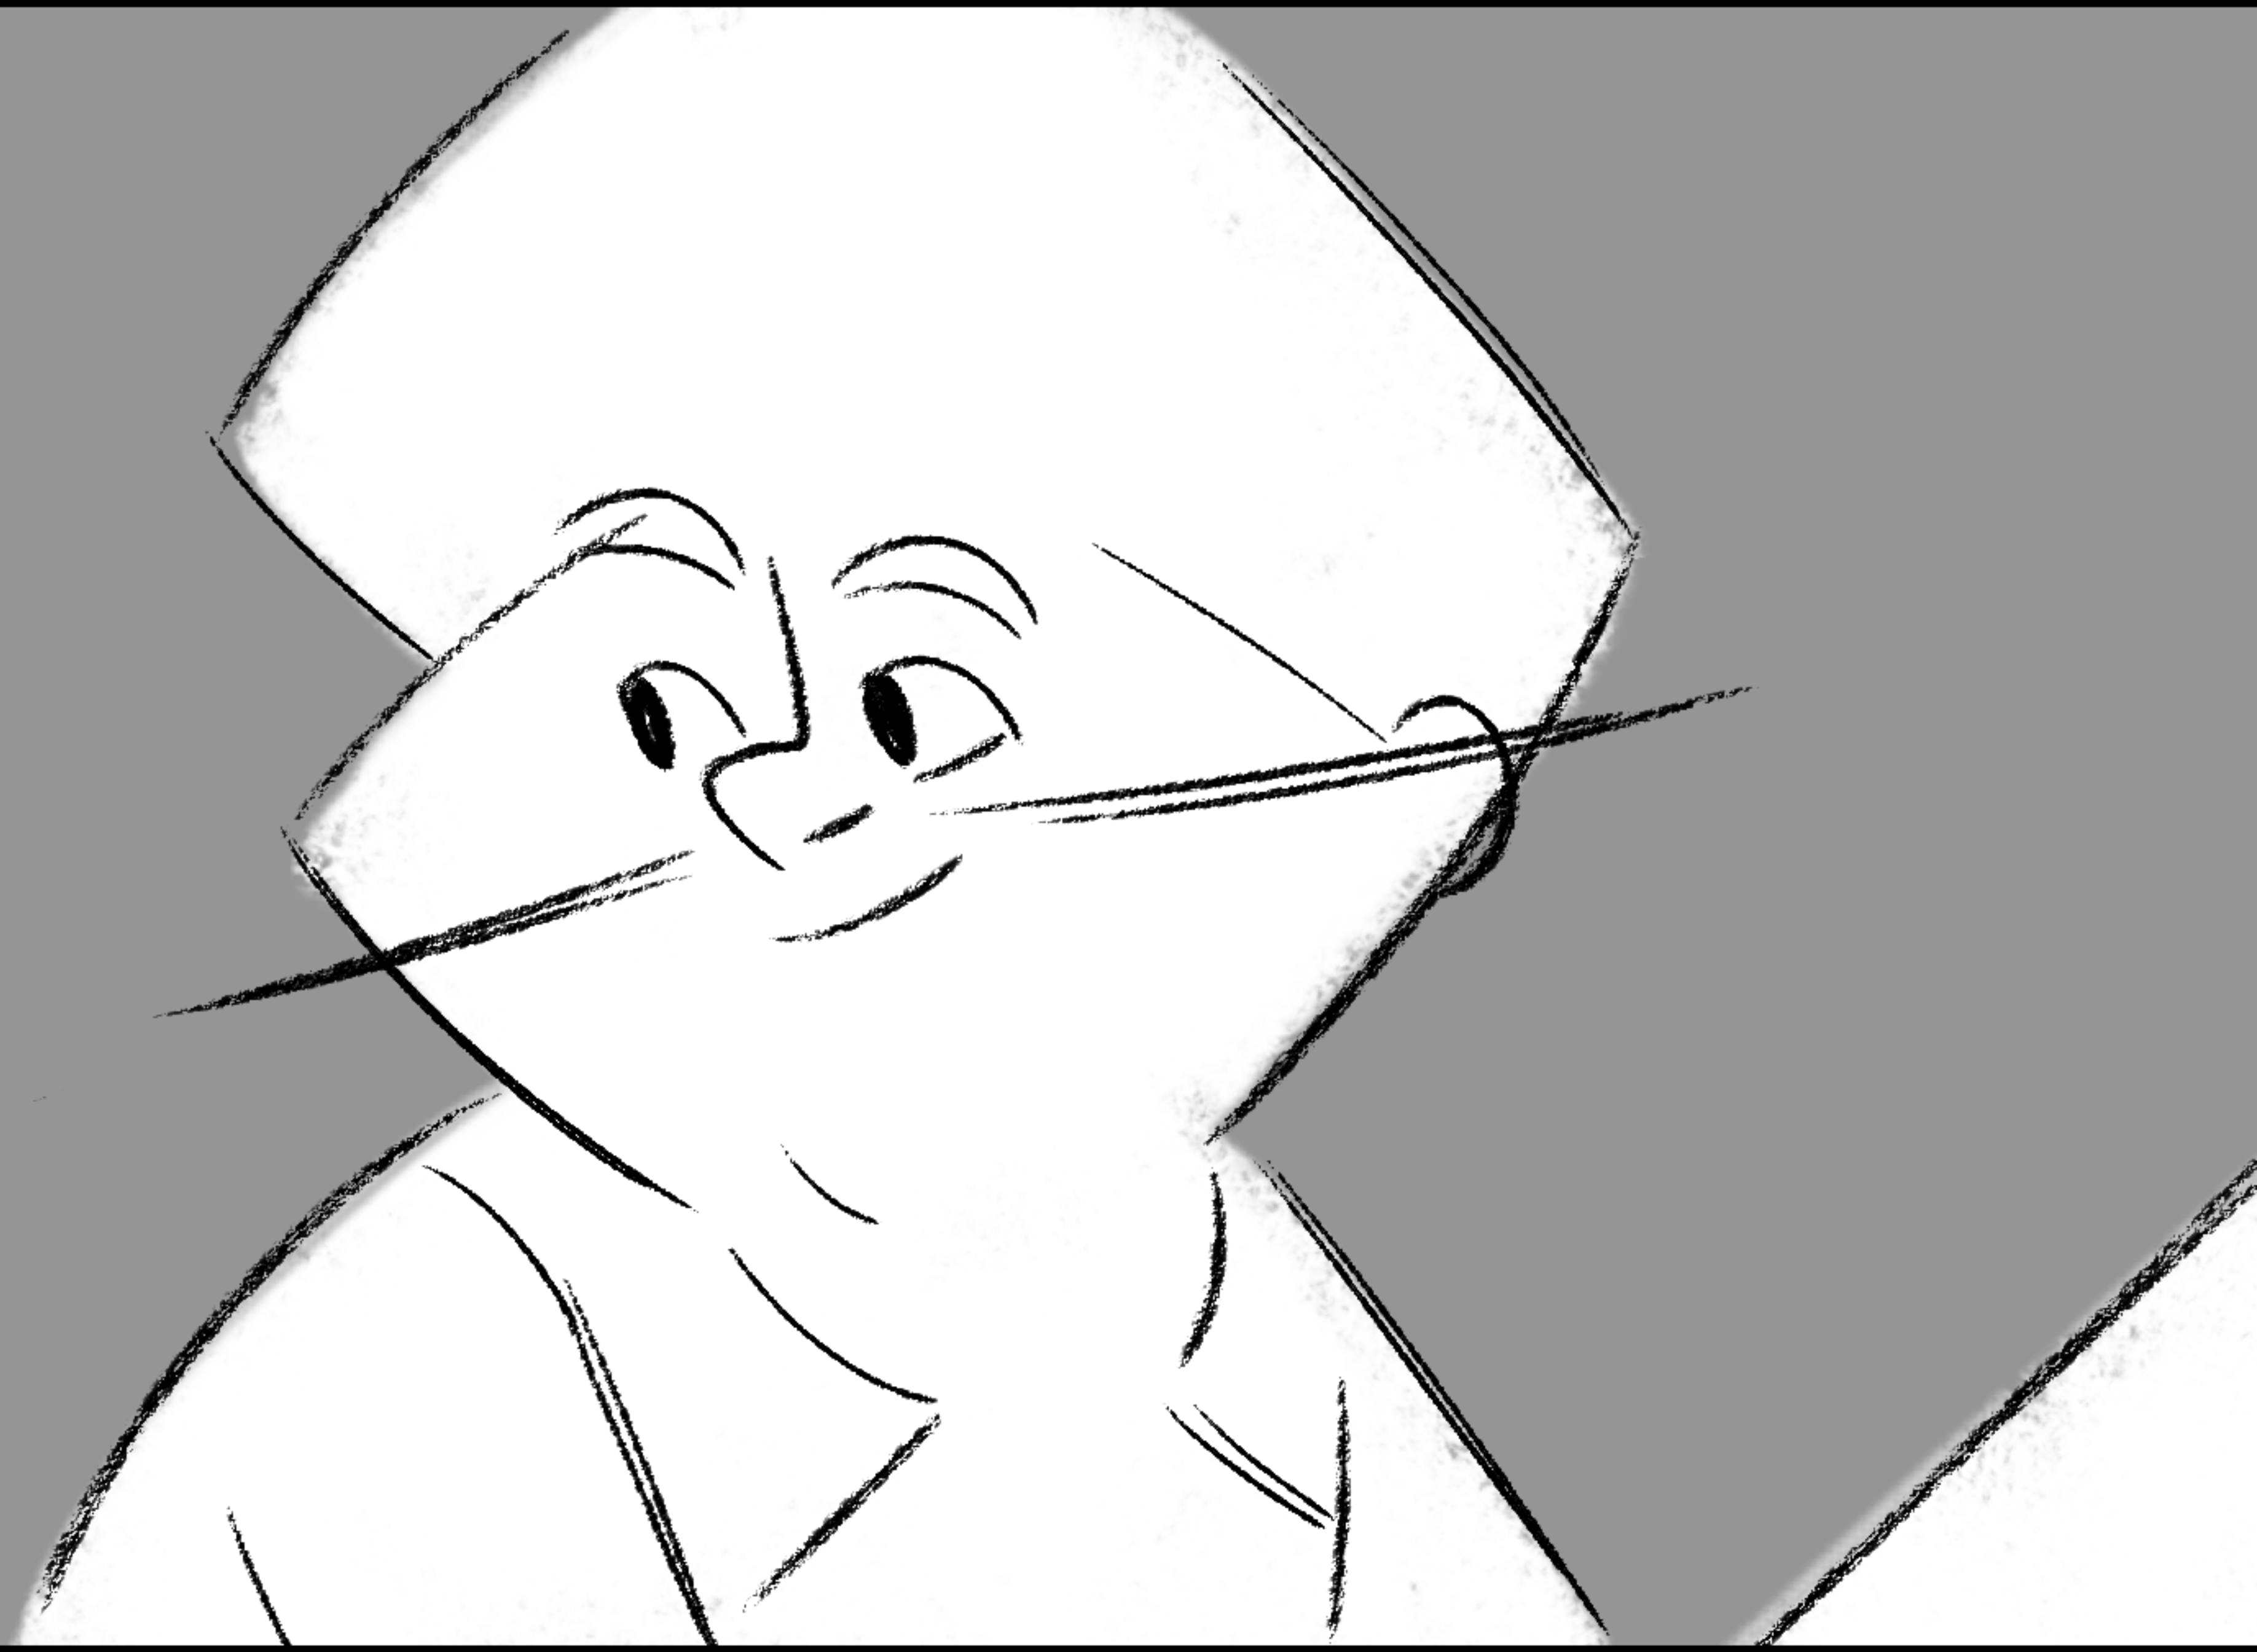

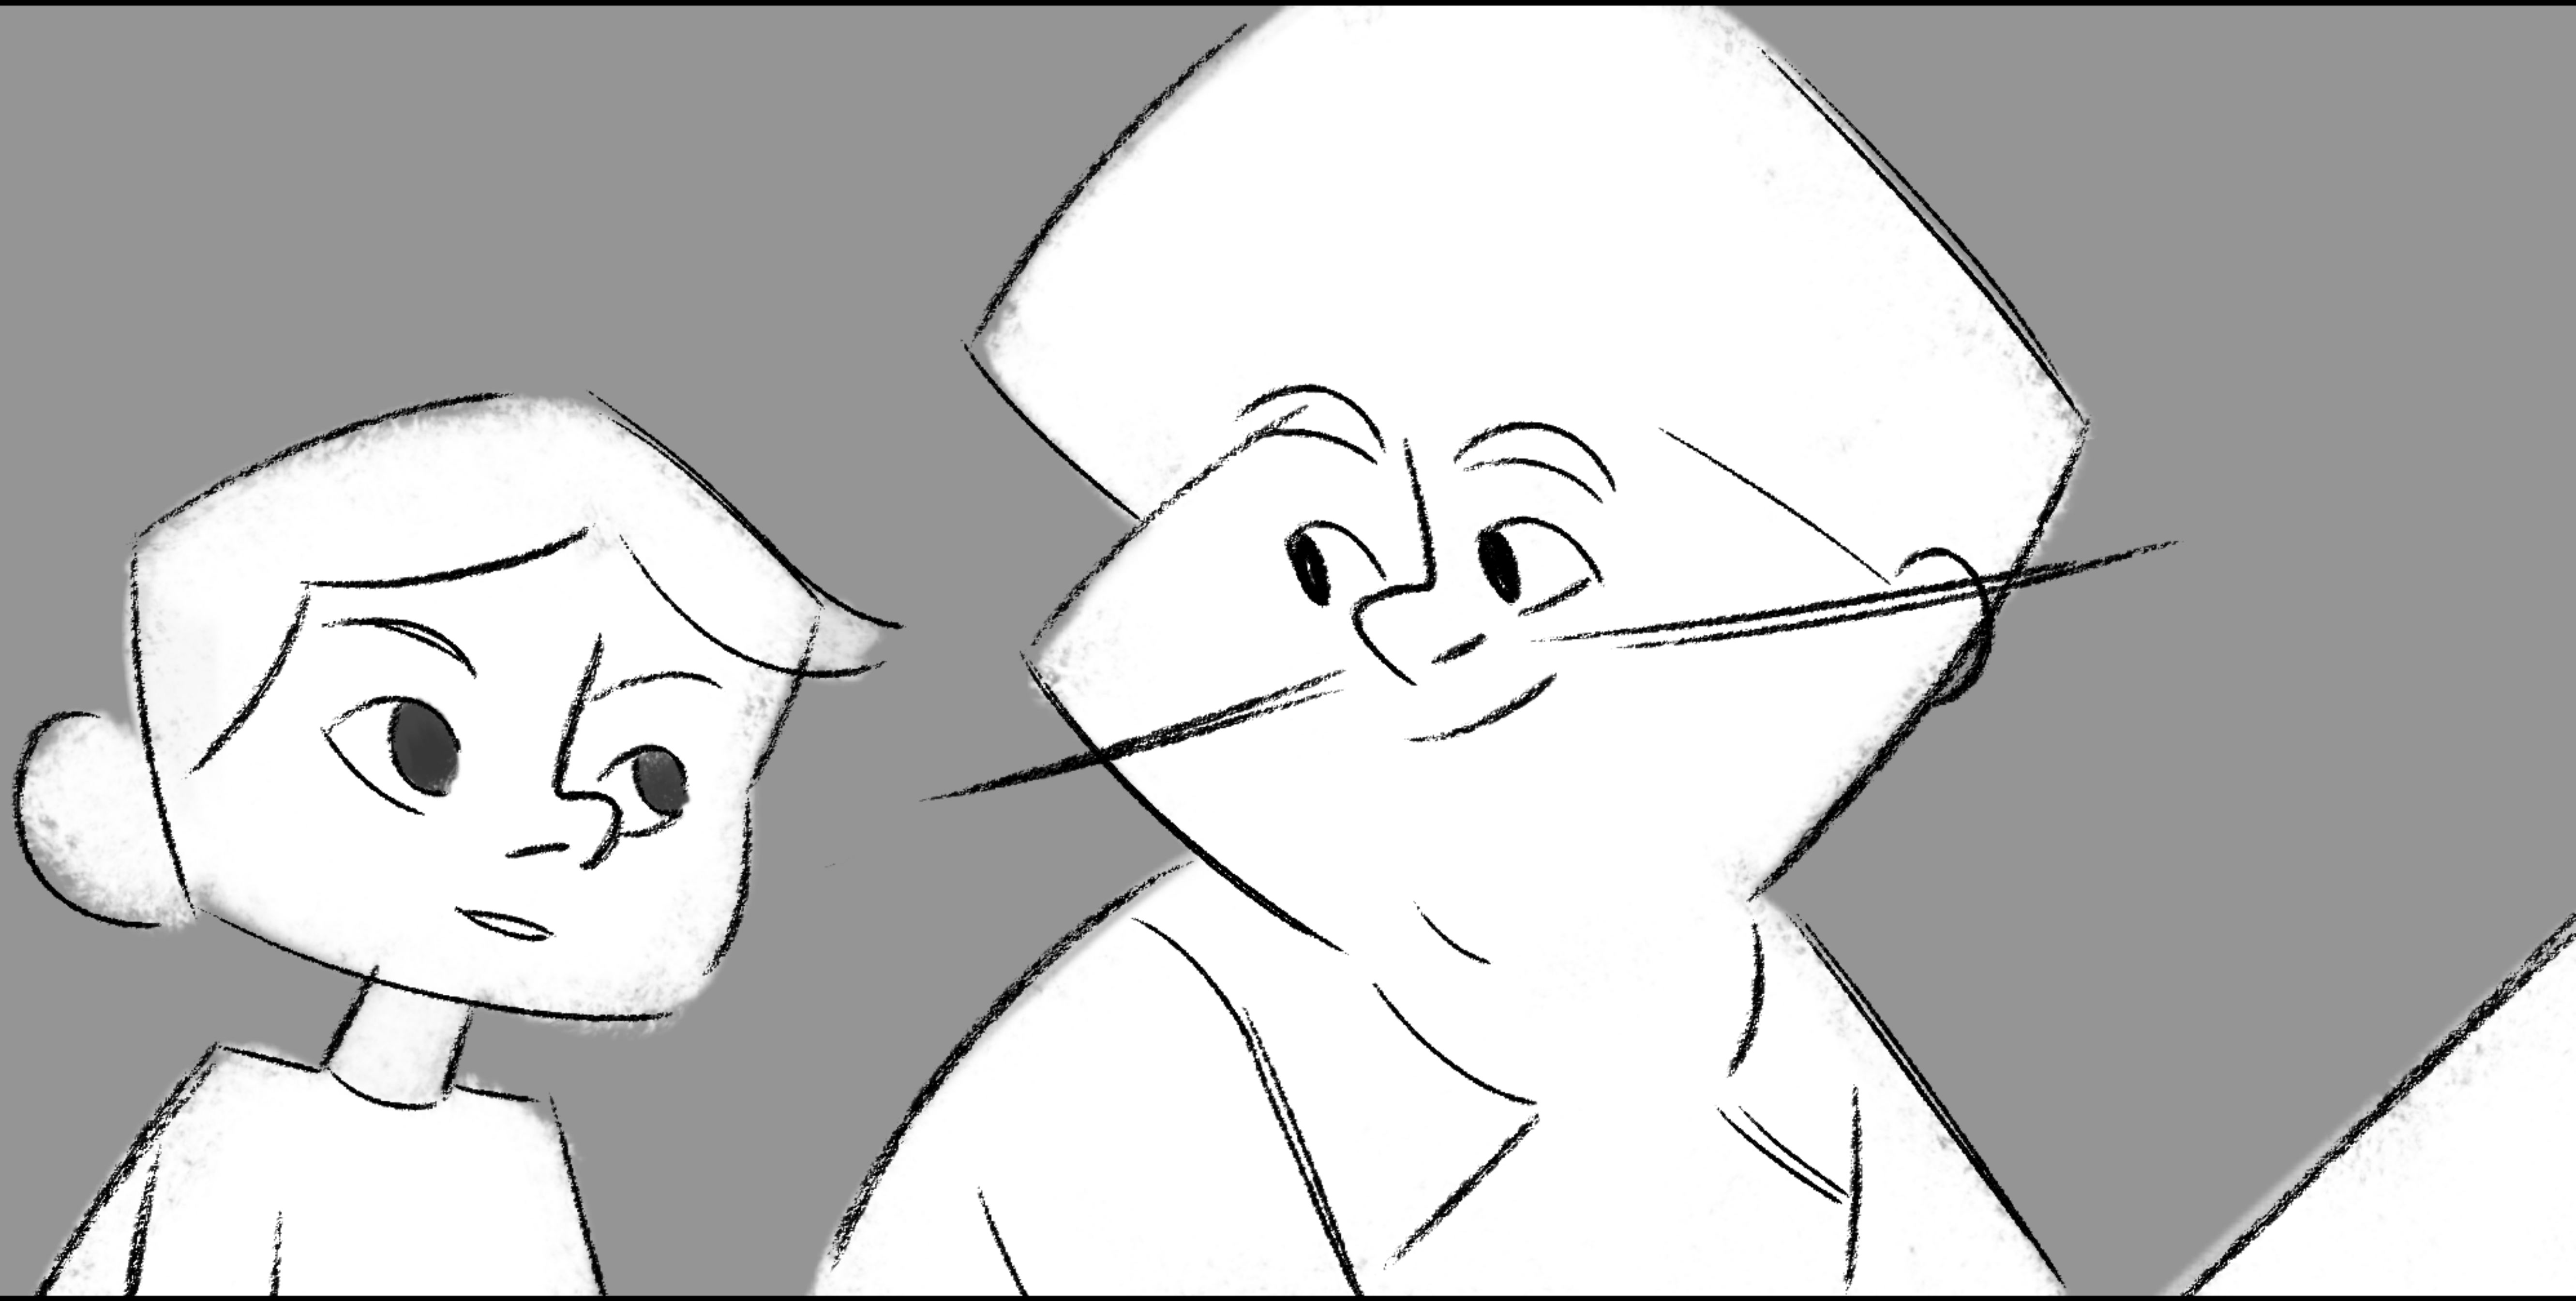

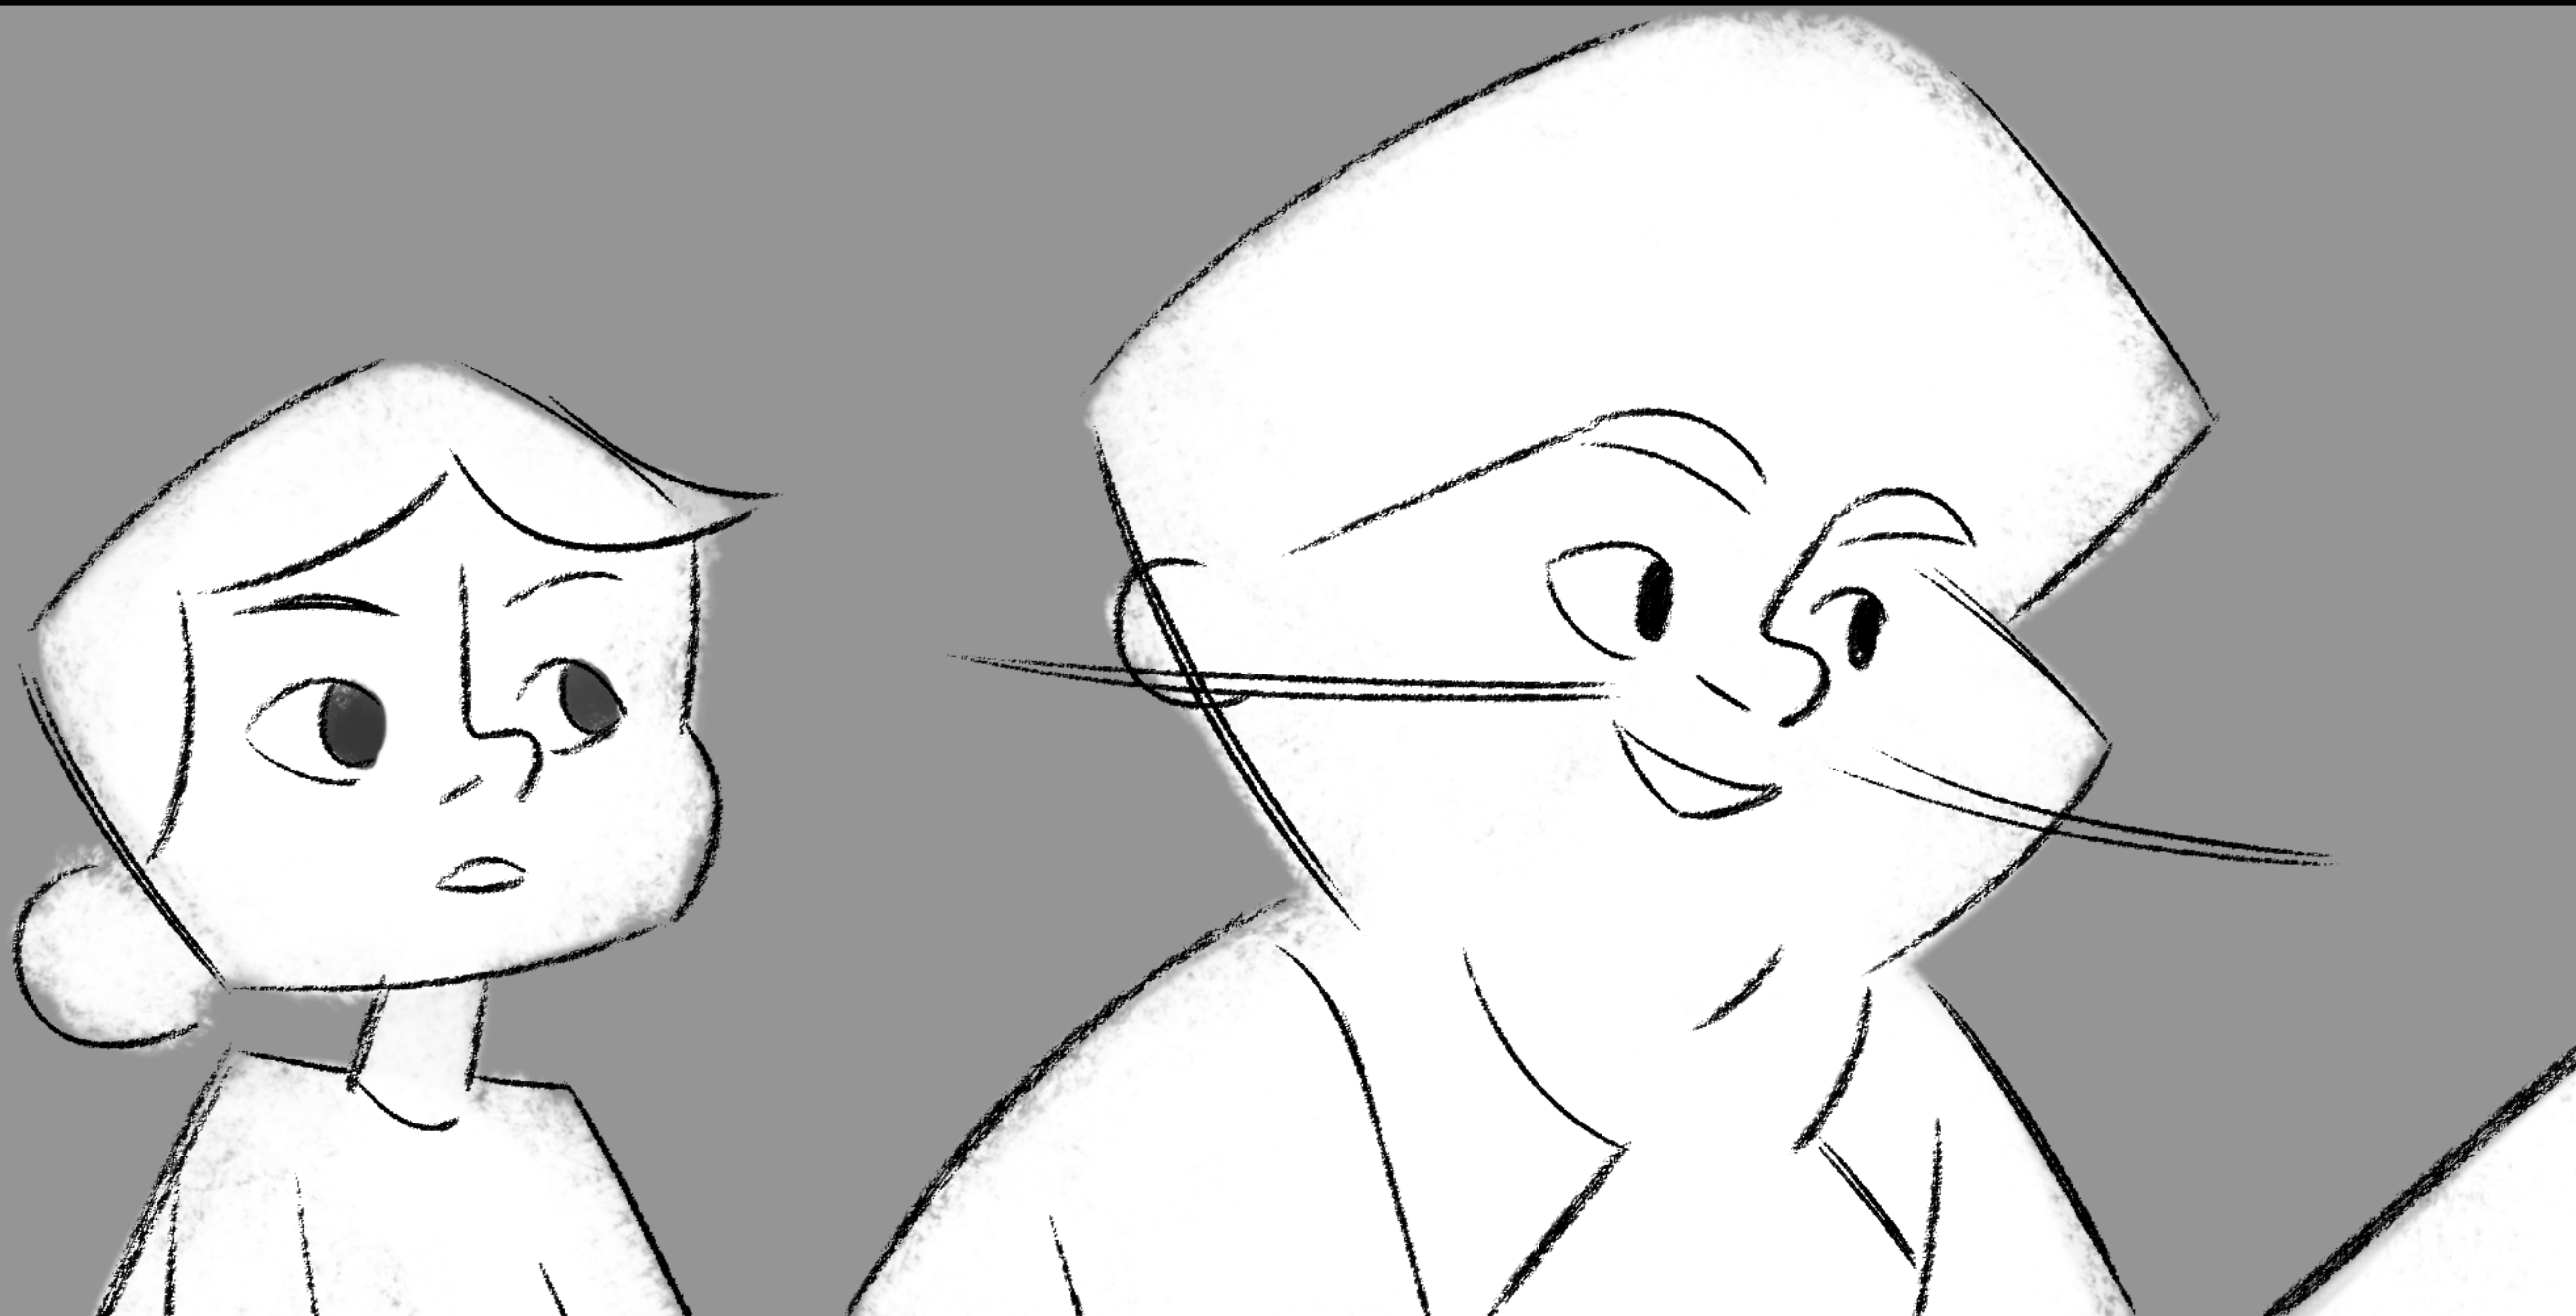

HAROUN: Hahah!

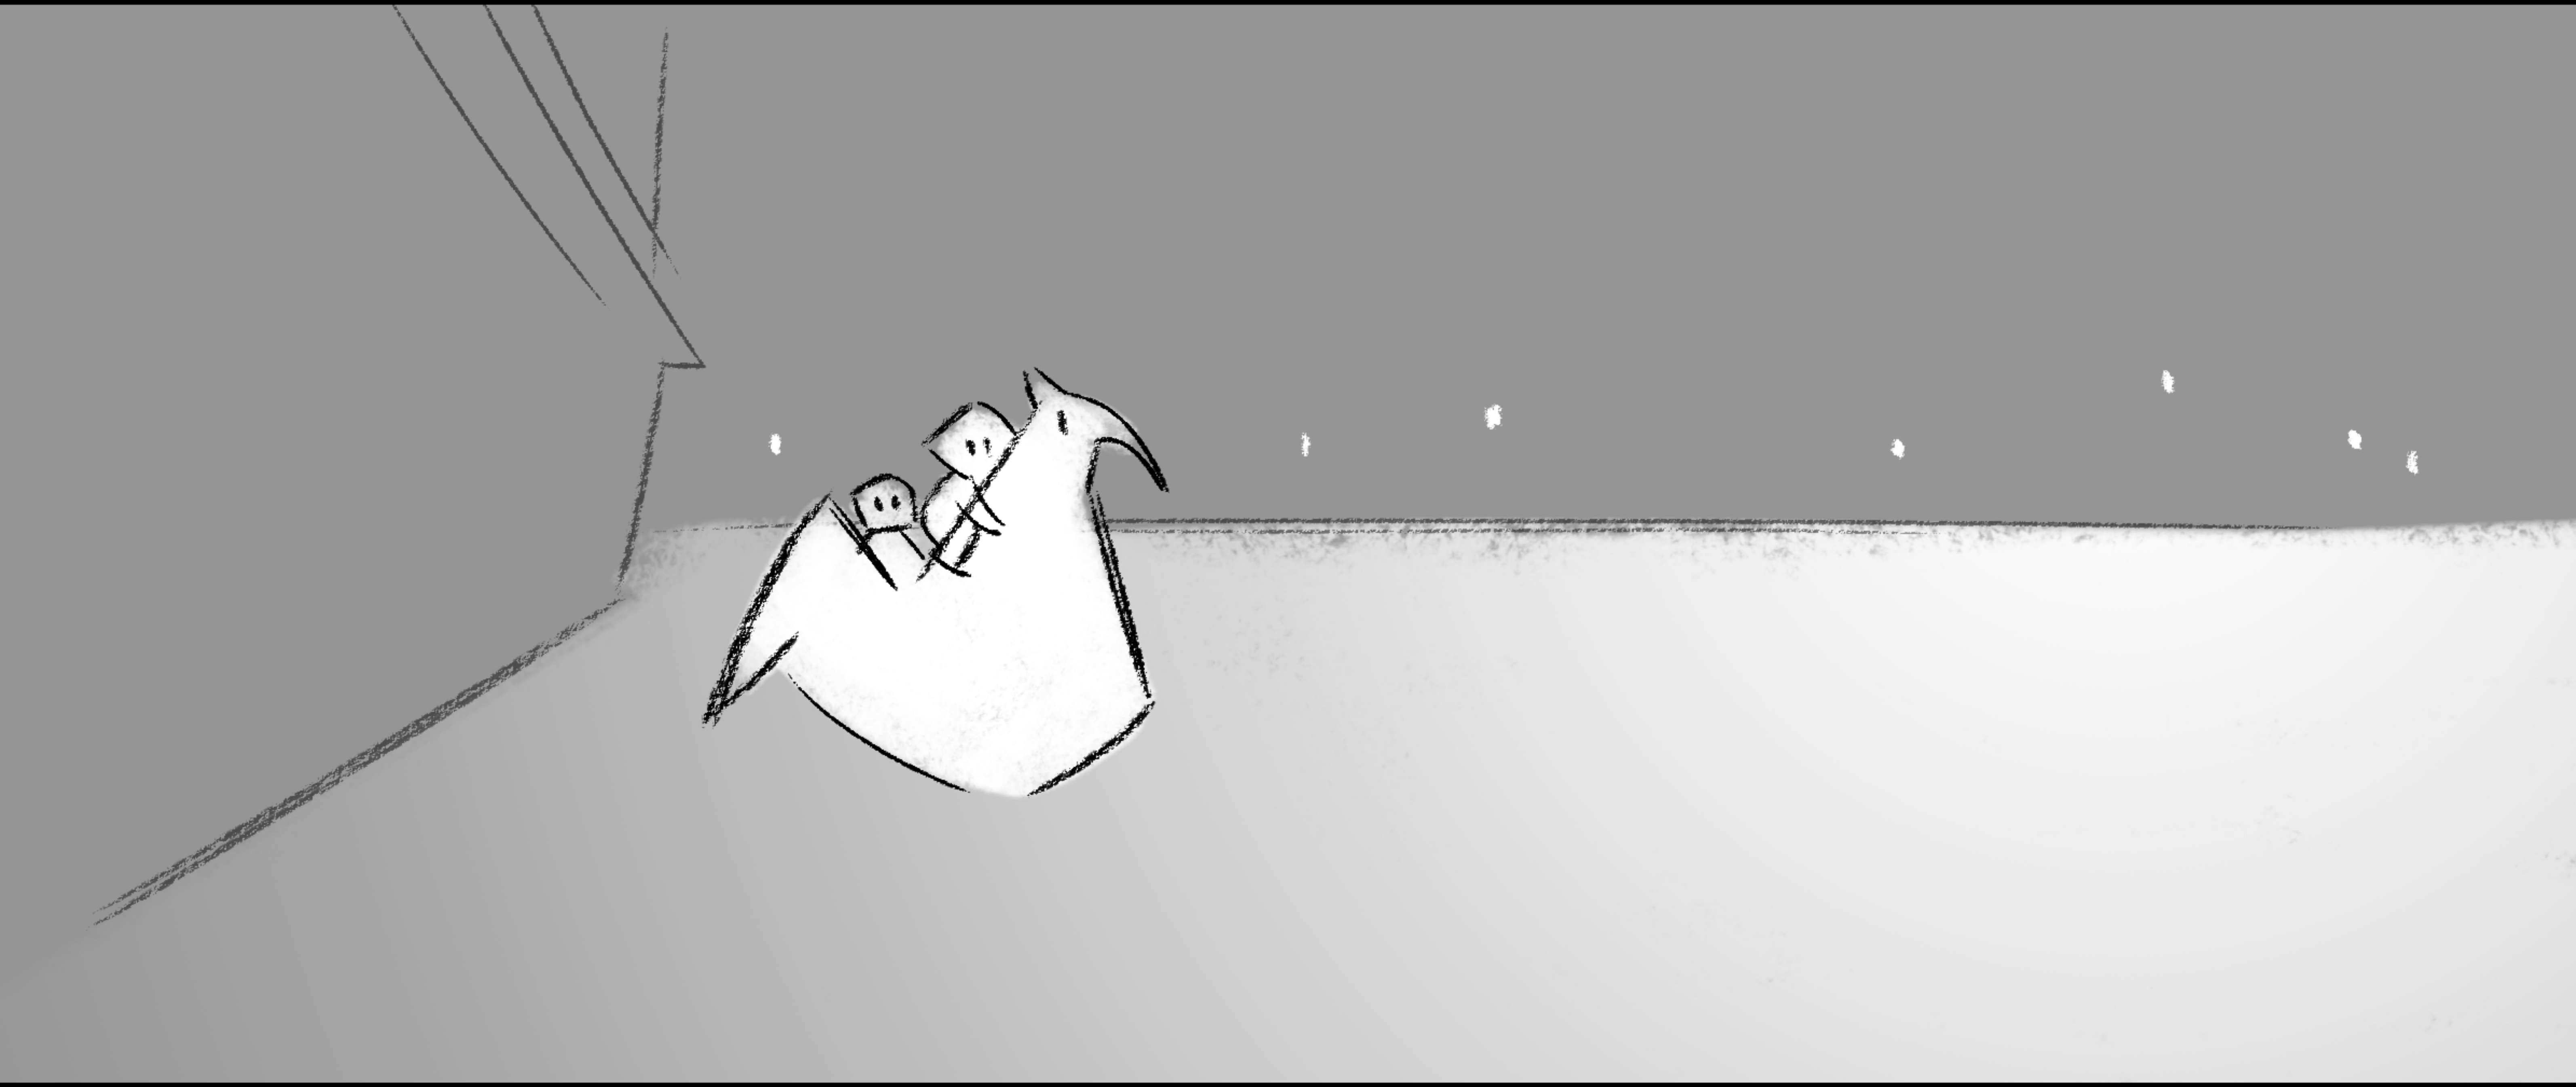

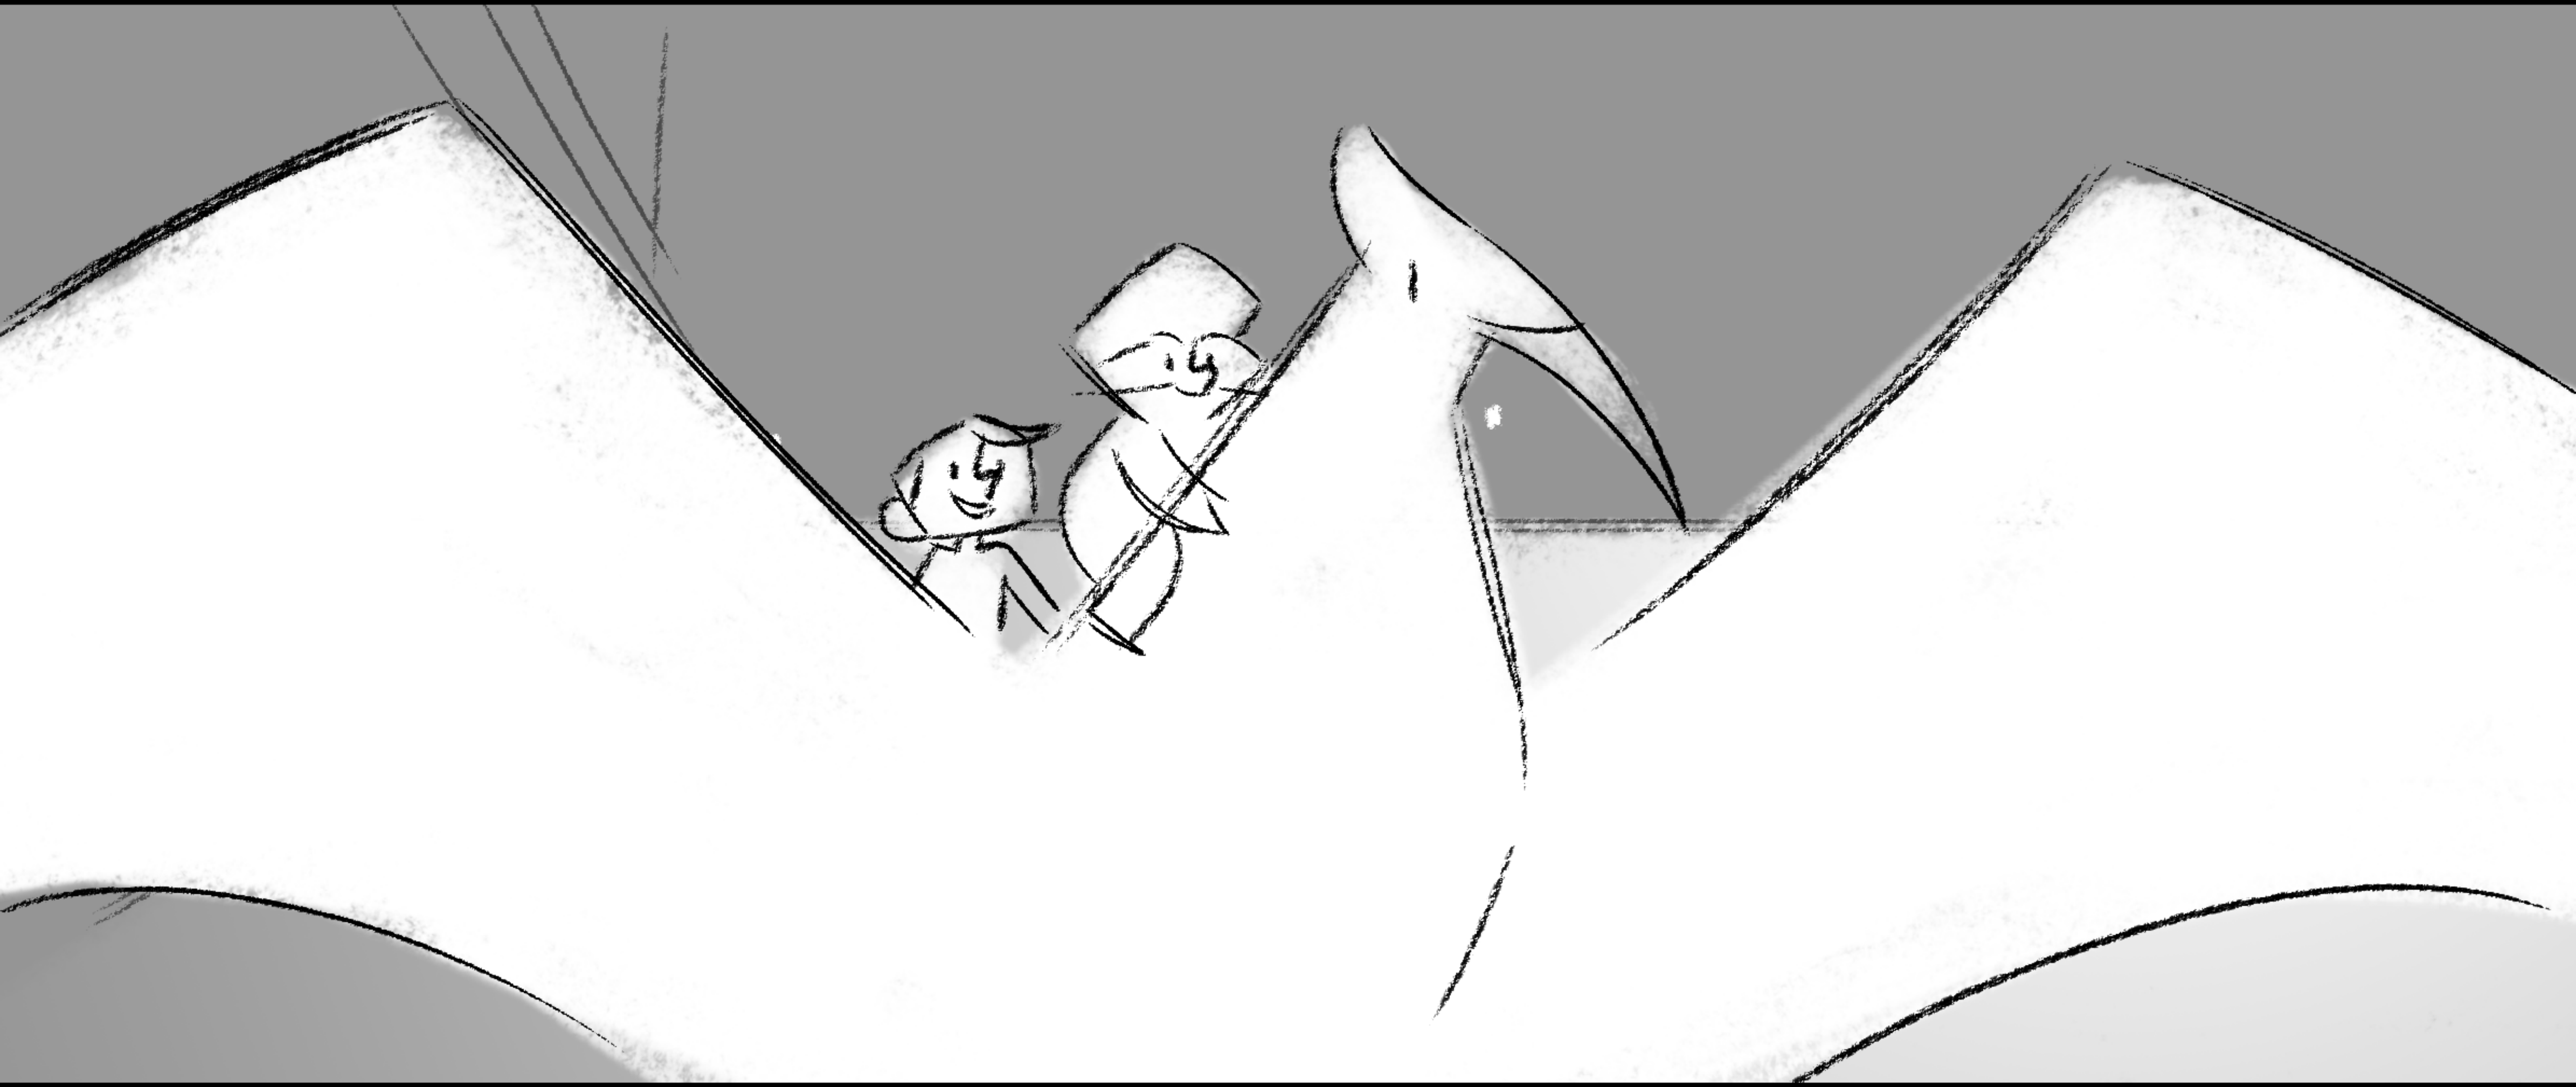

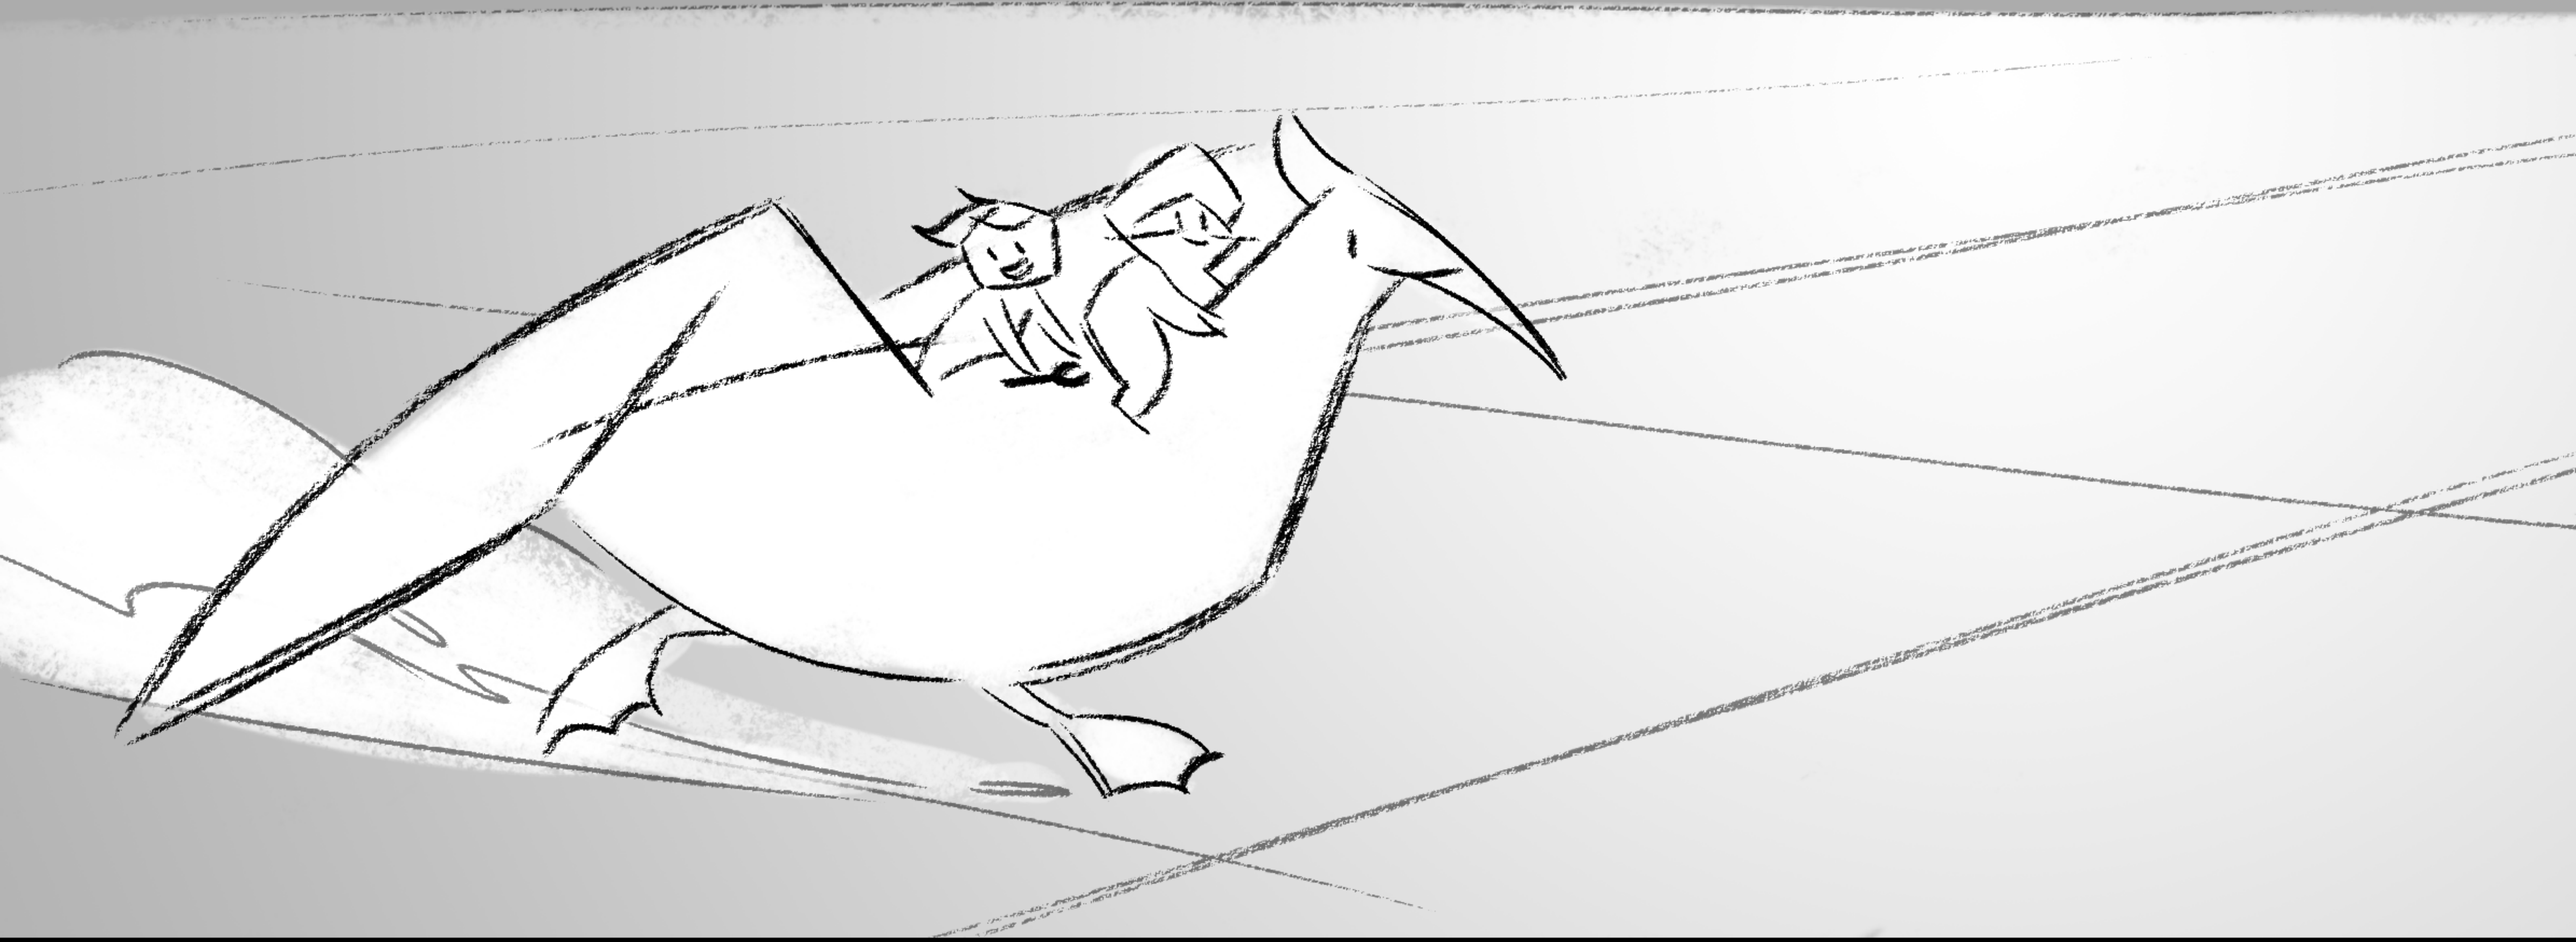

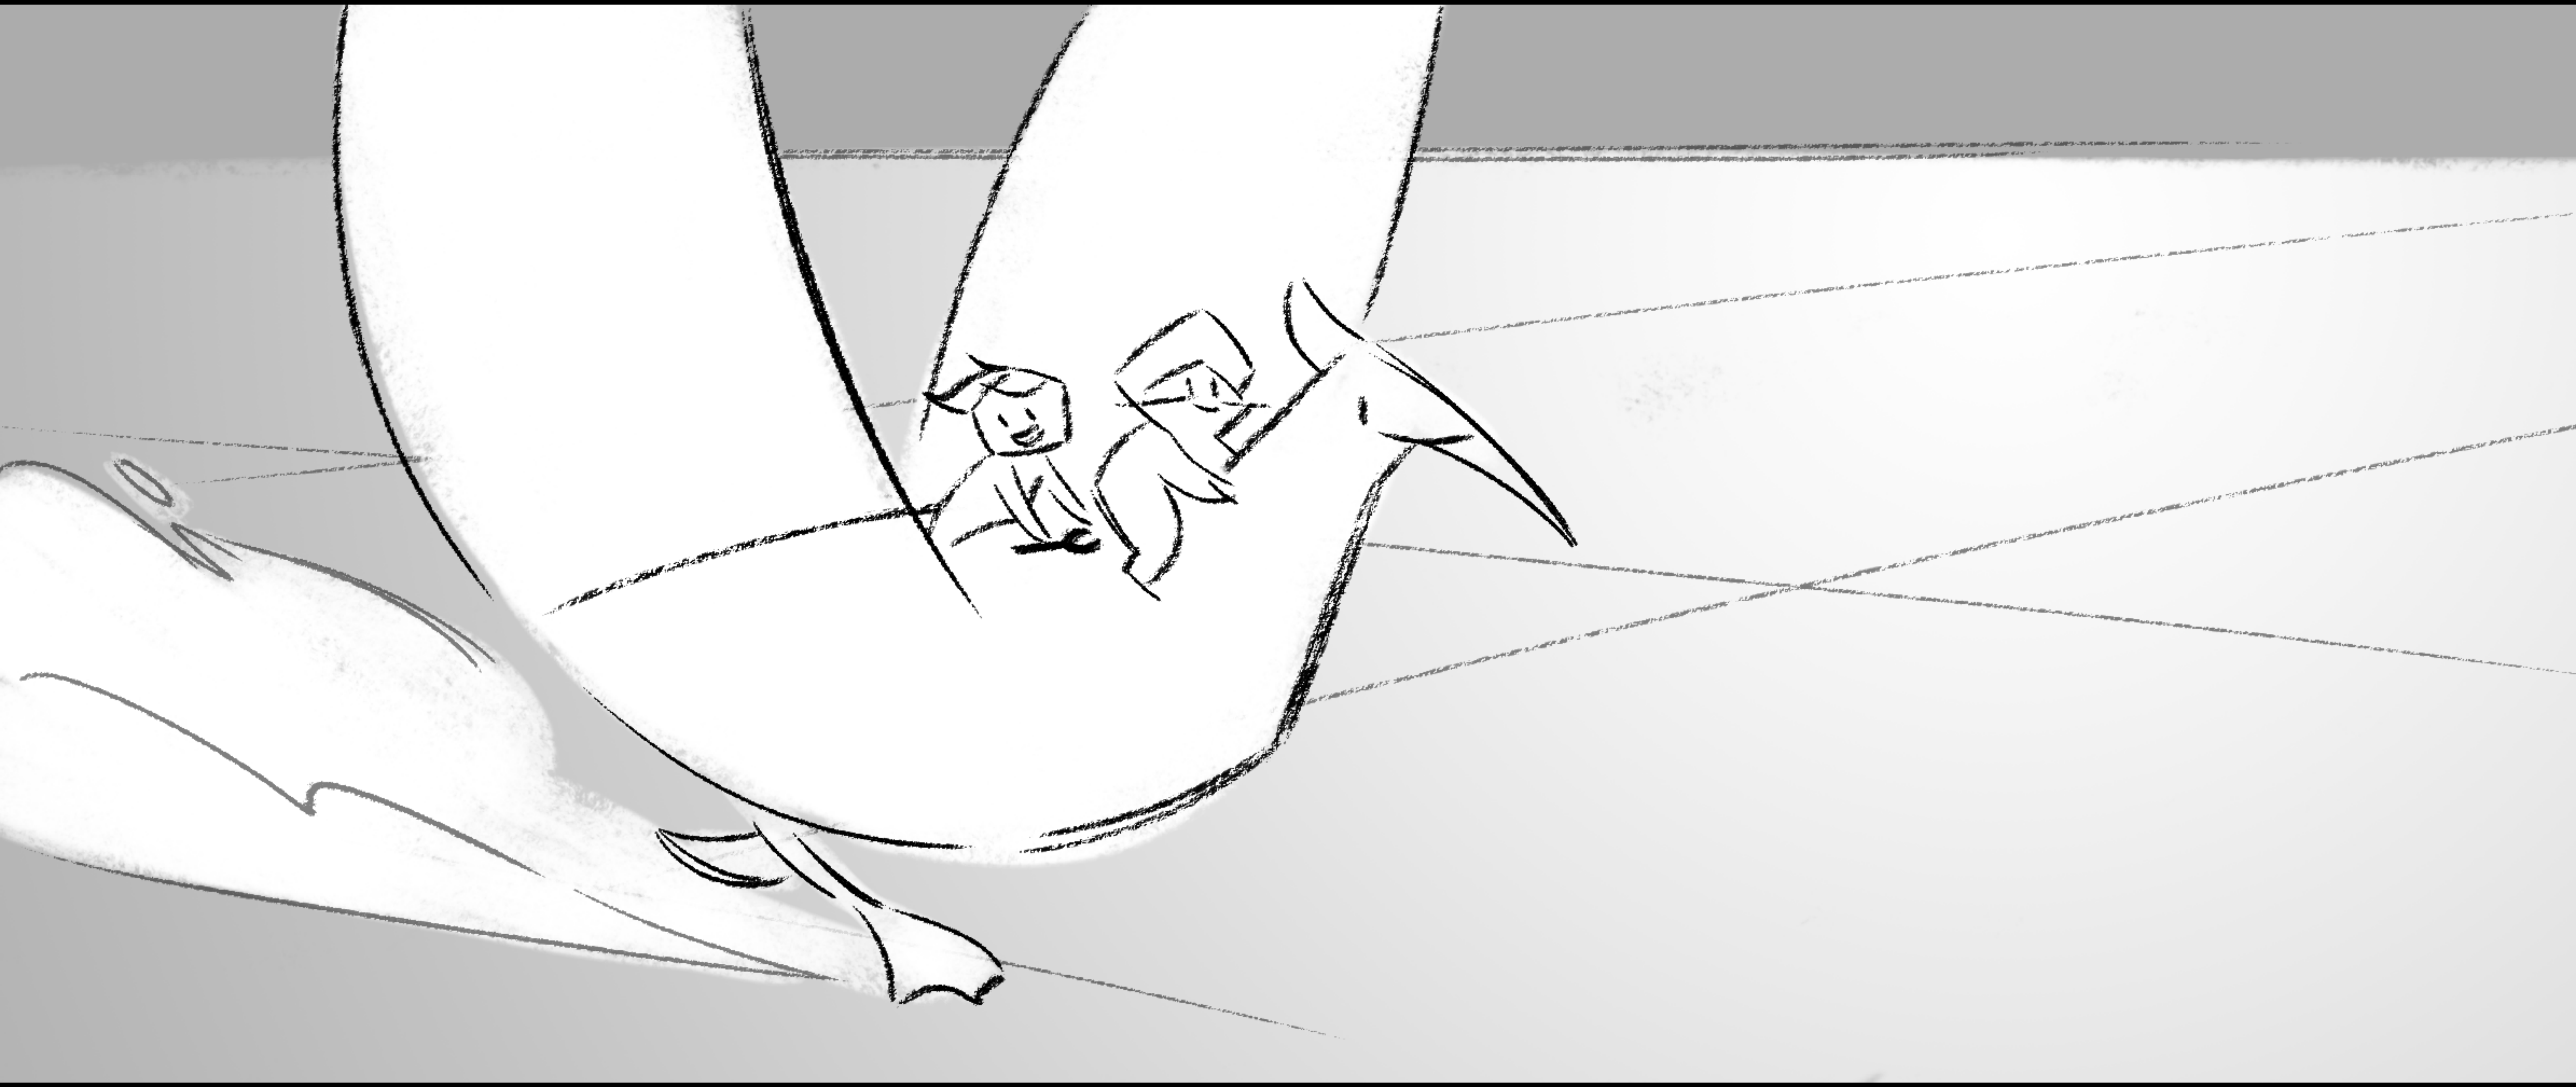

IFF: Hang on then!

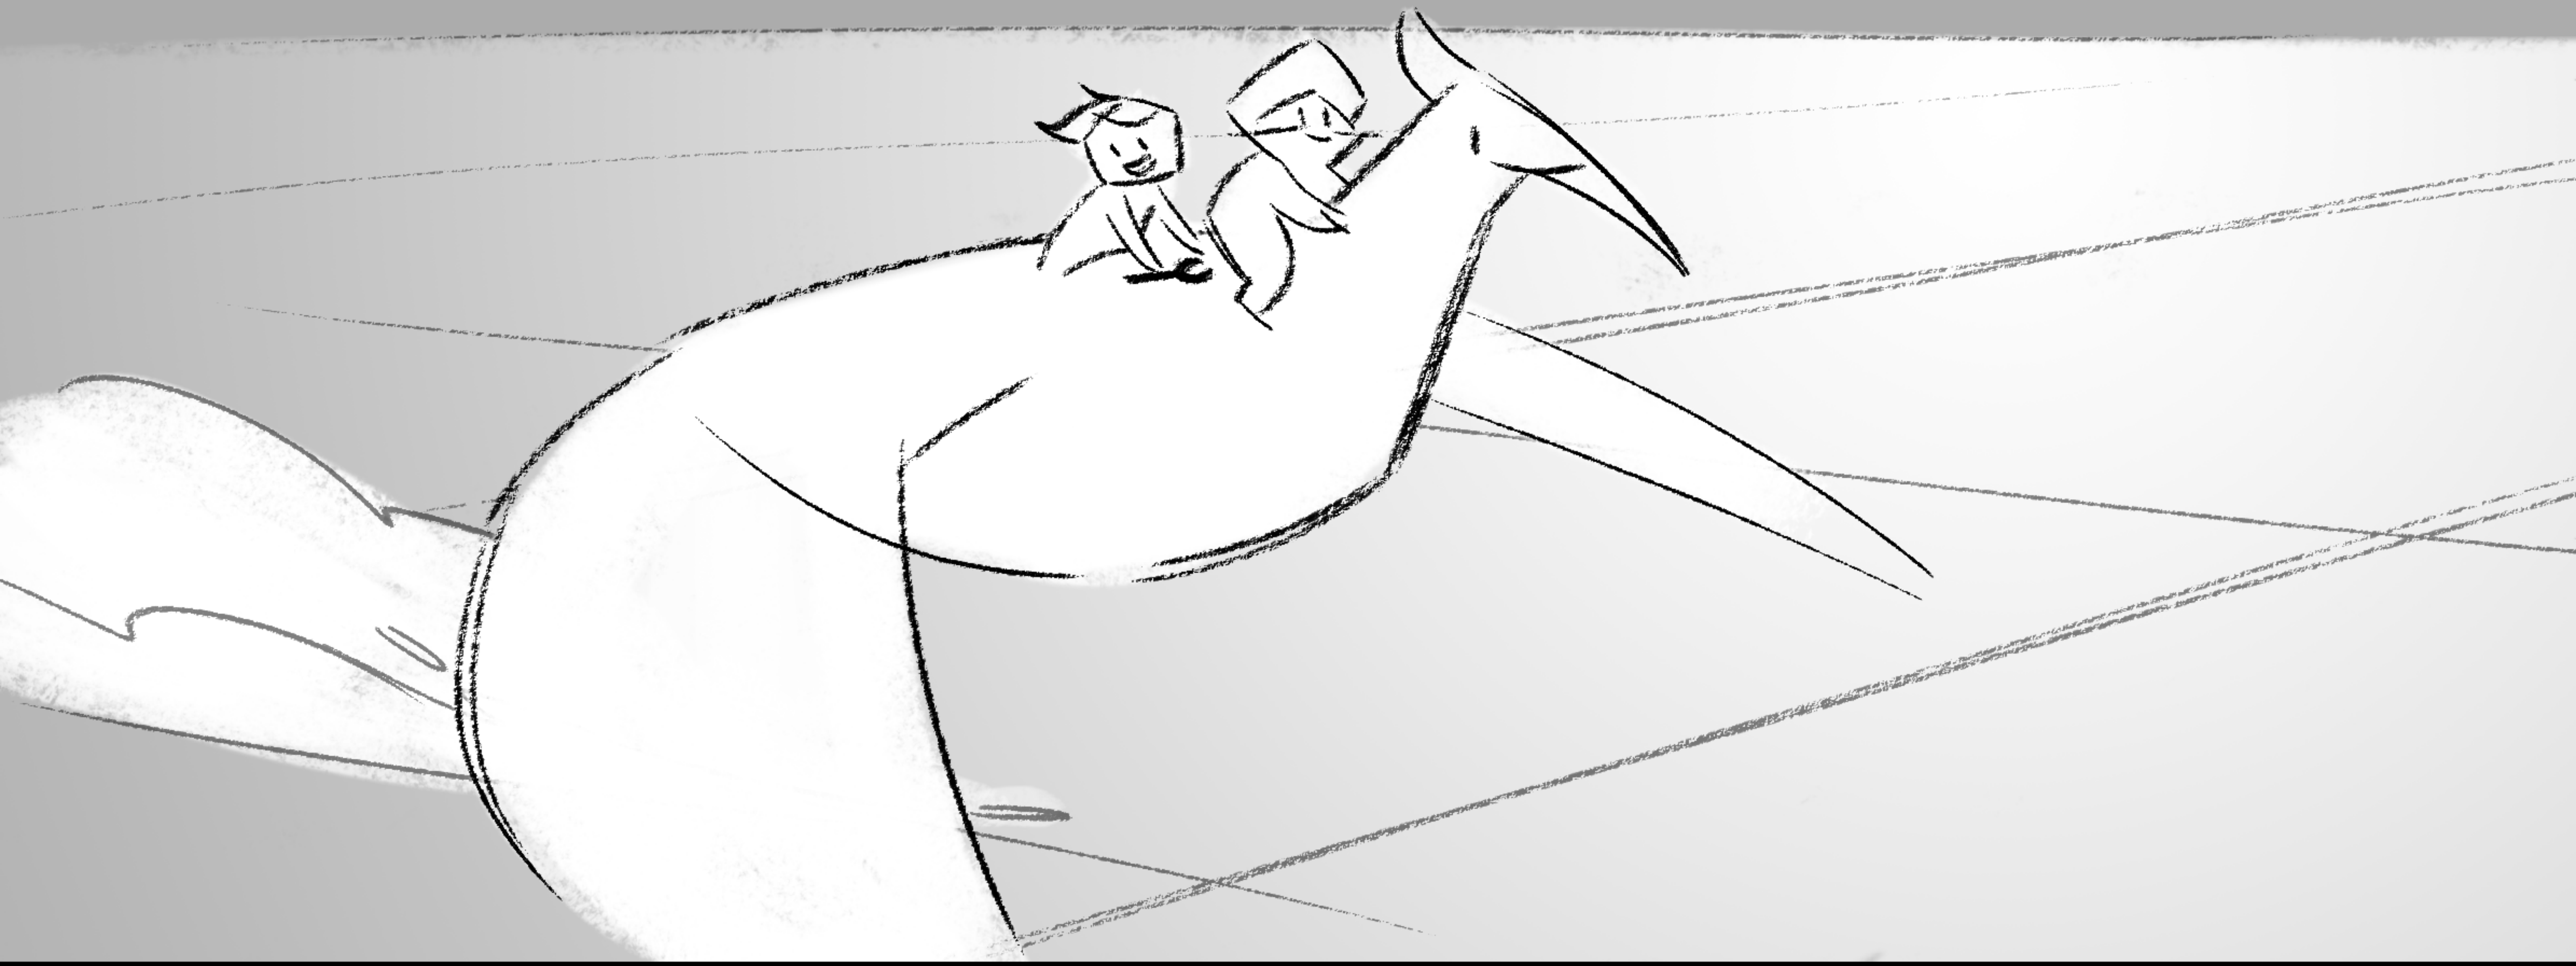

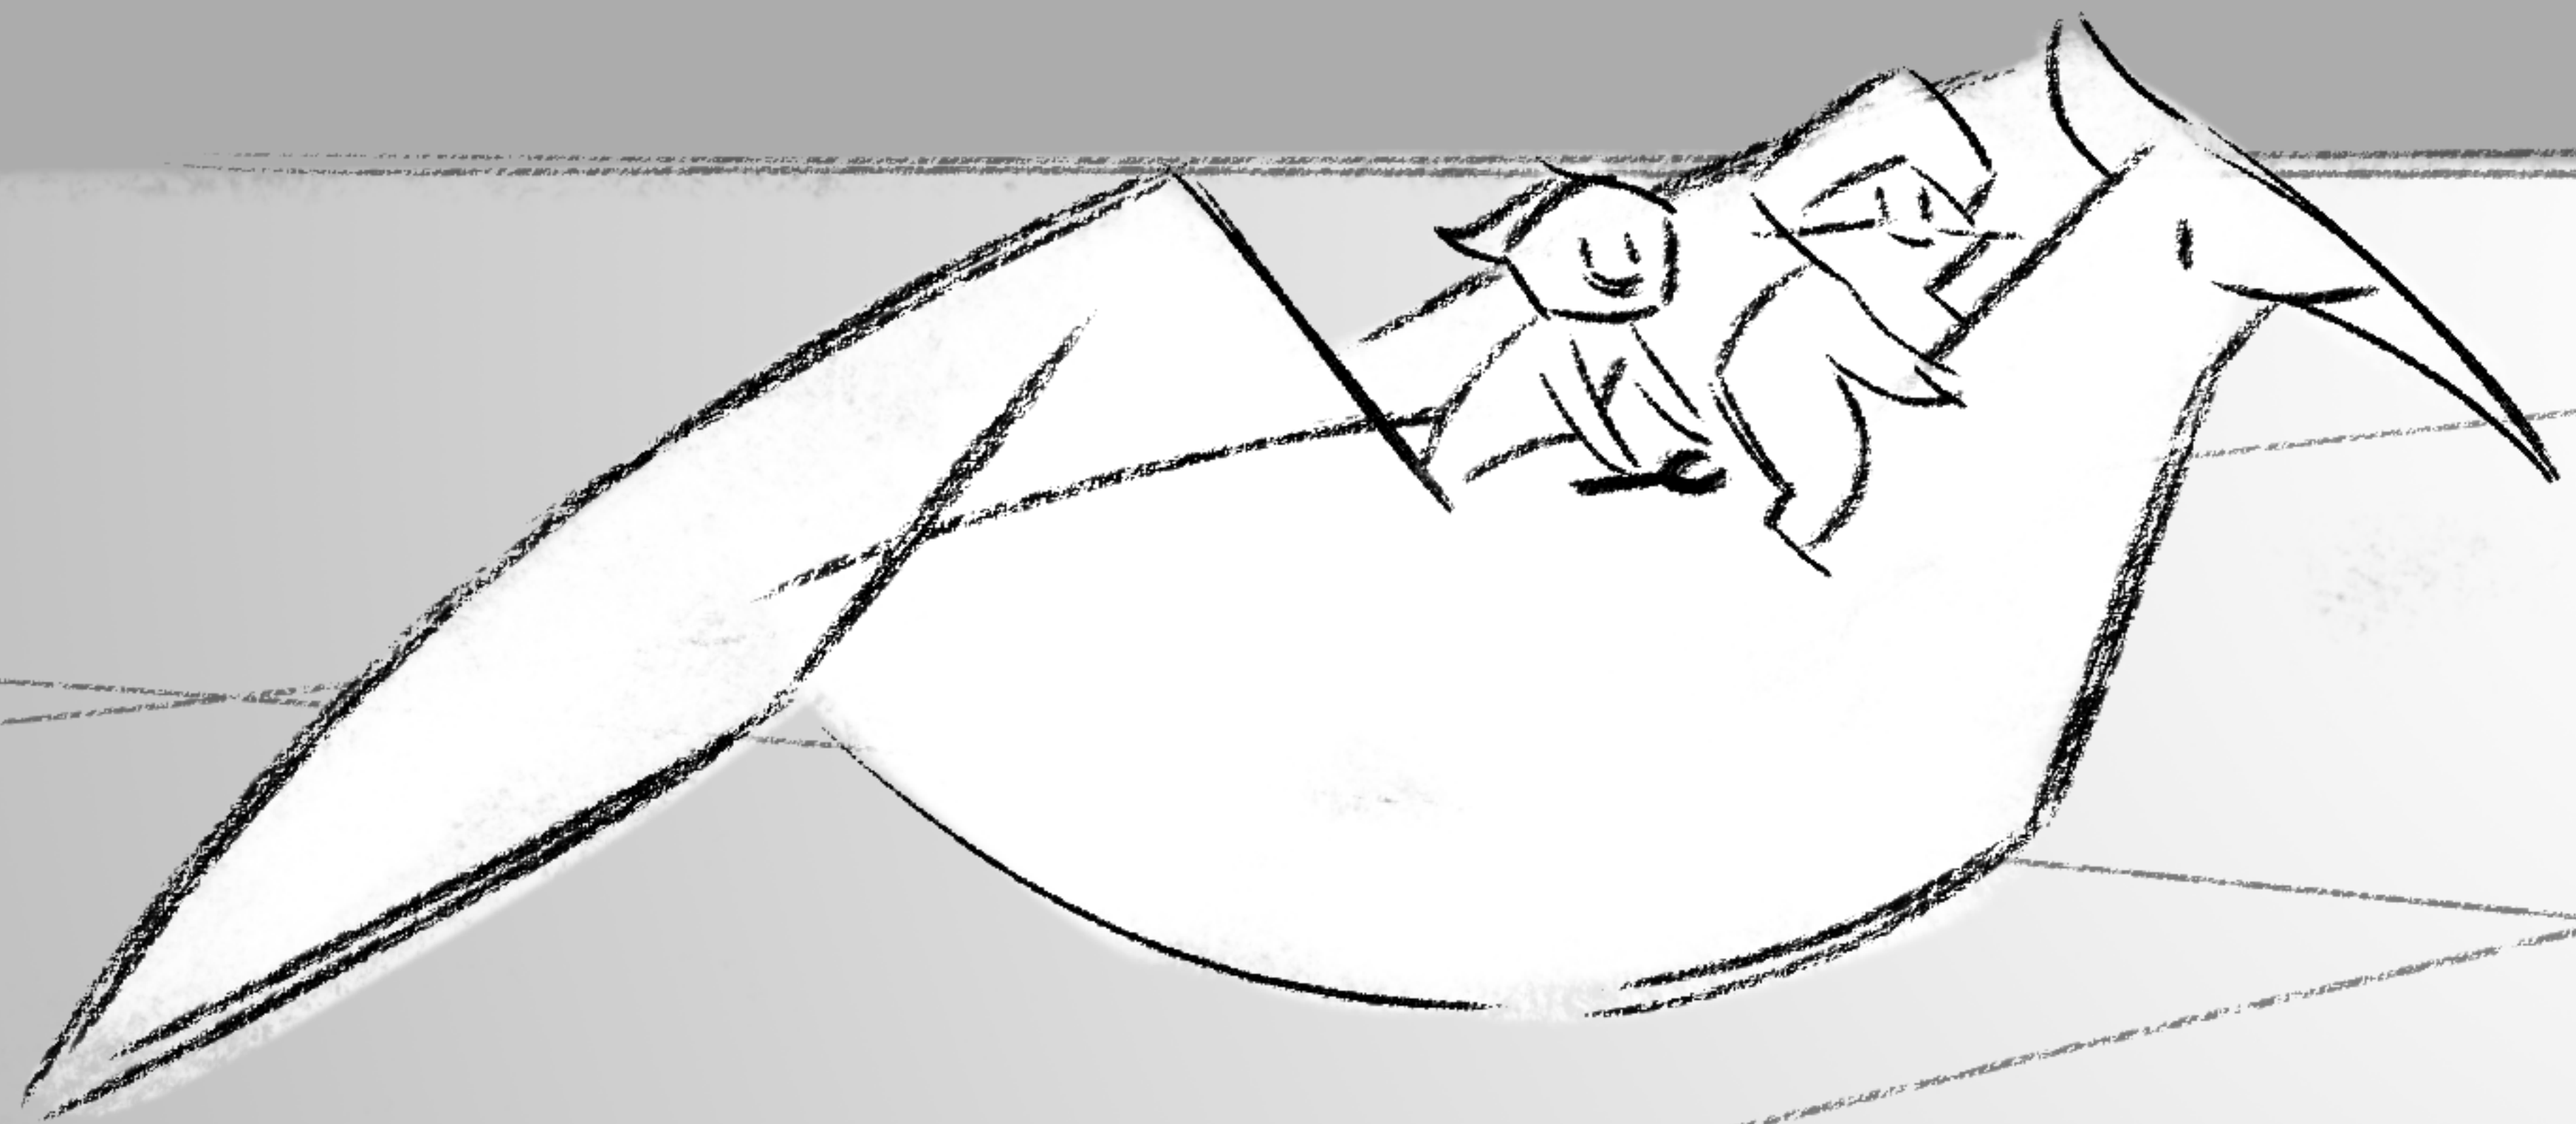

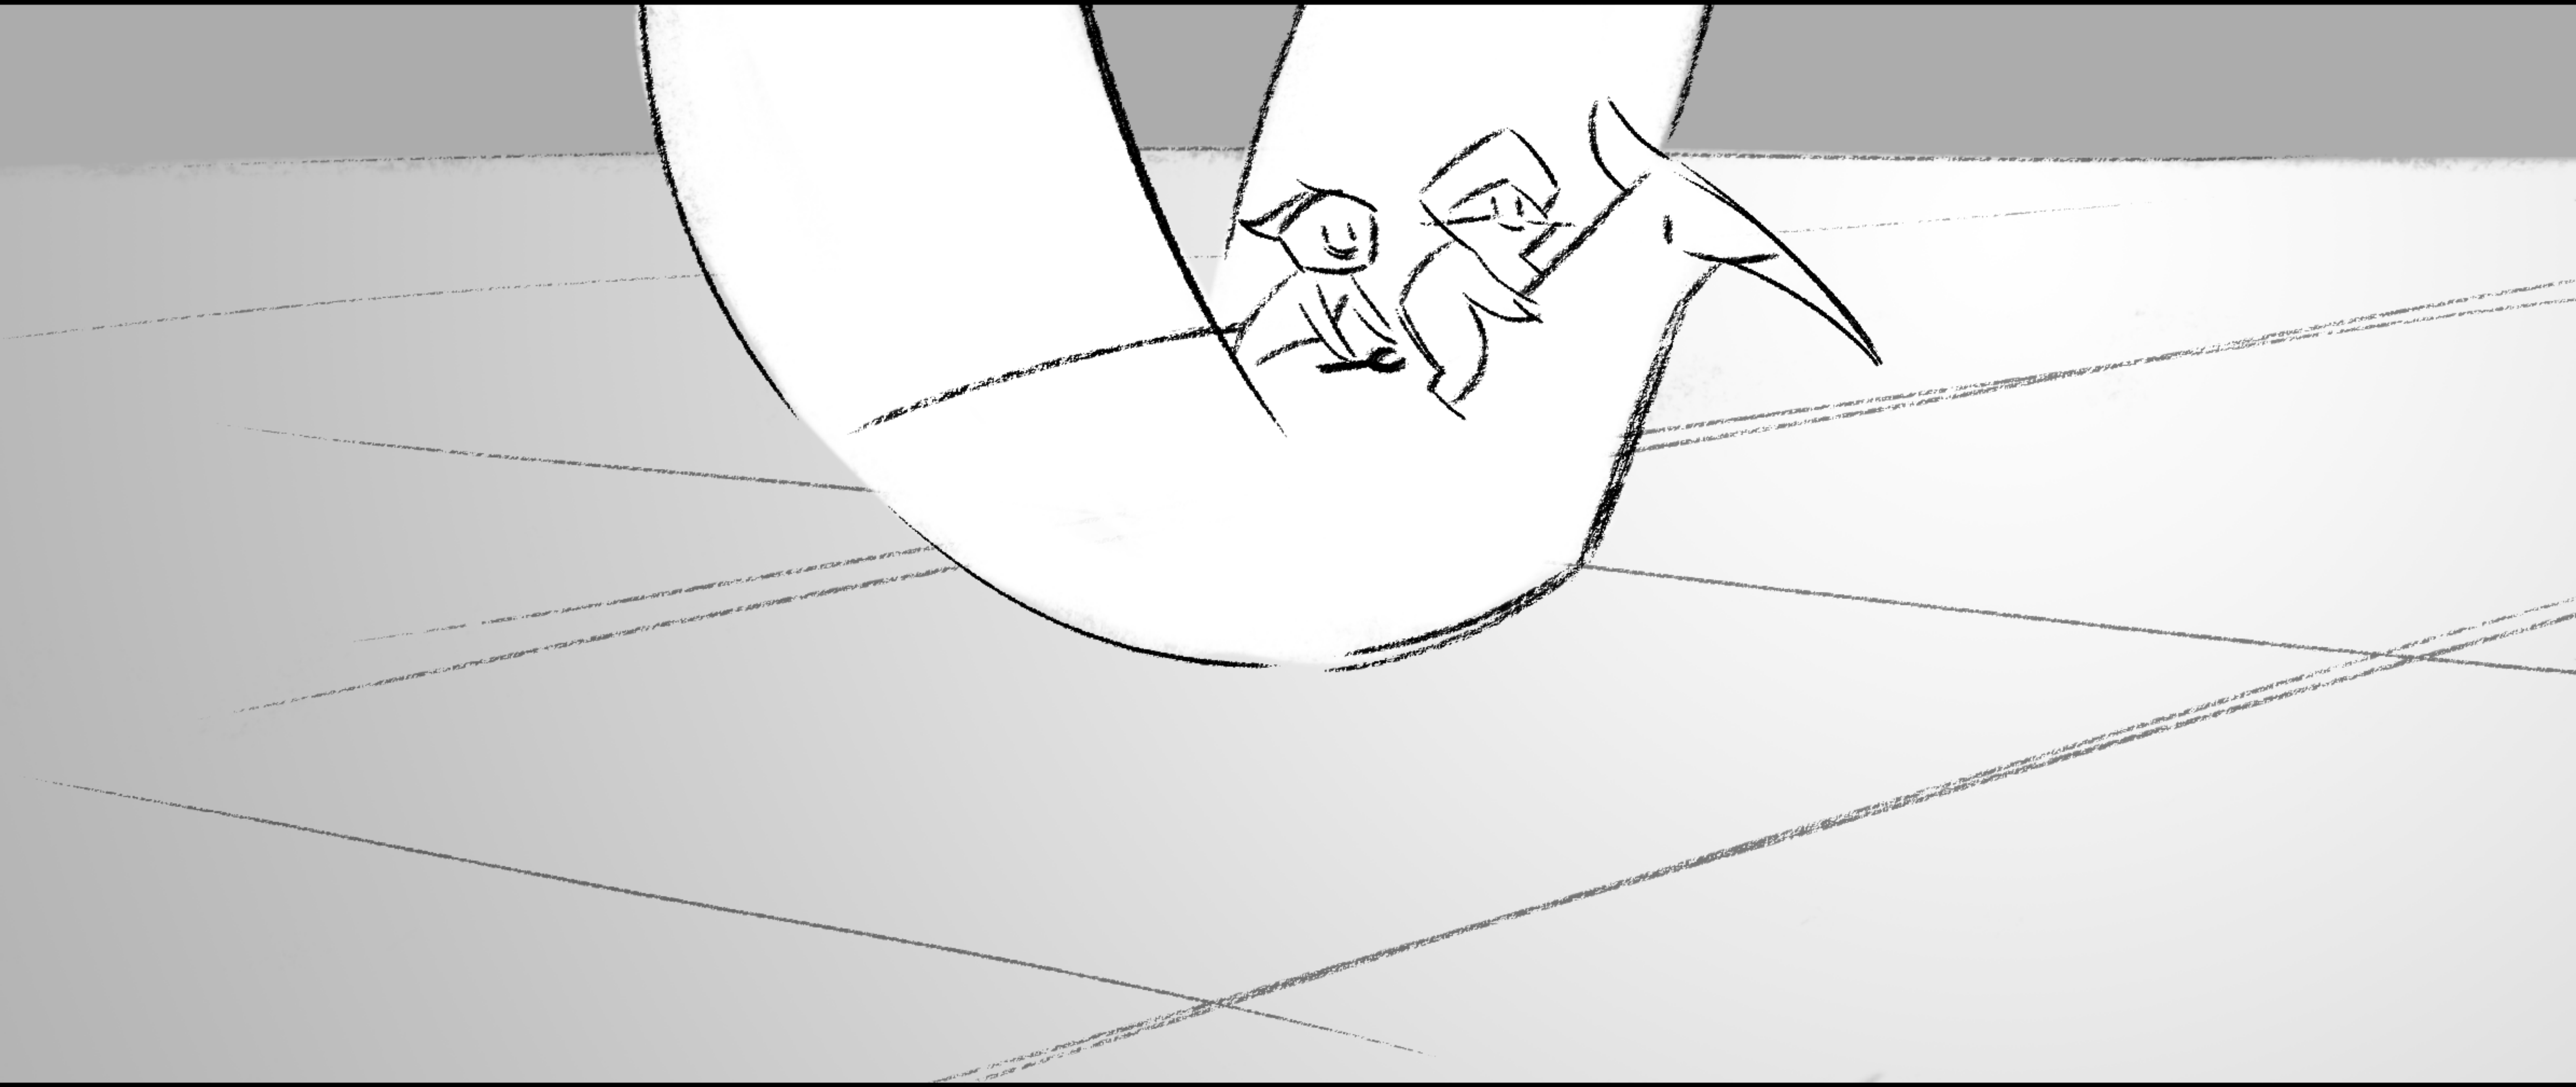

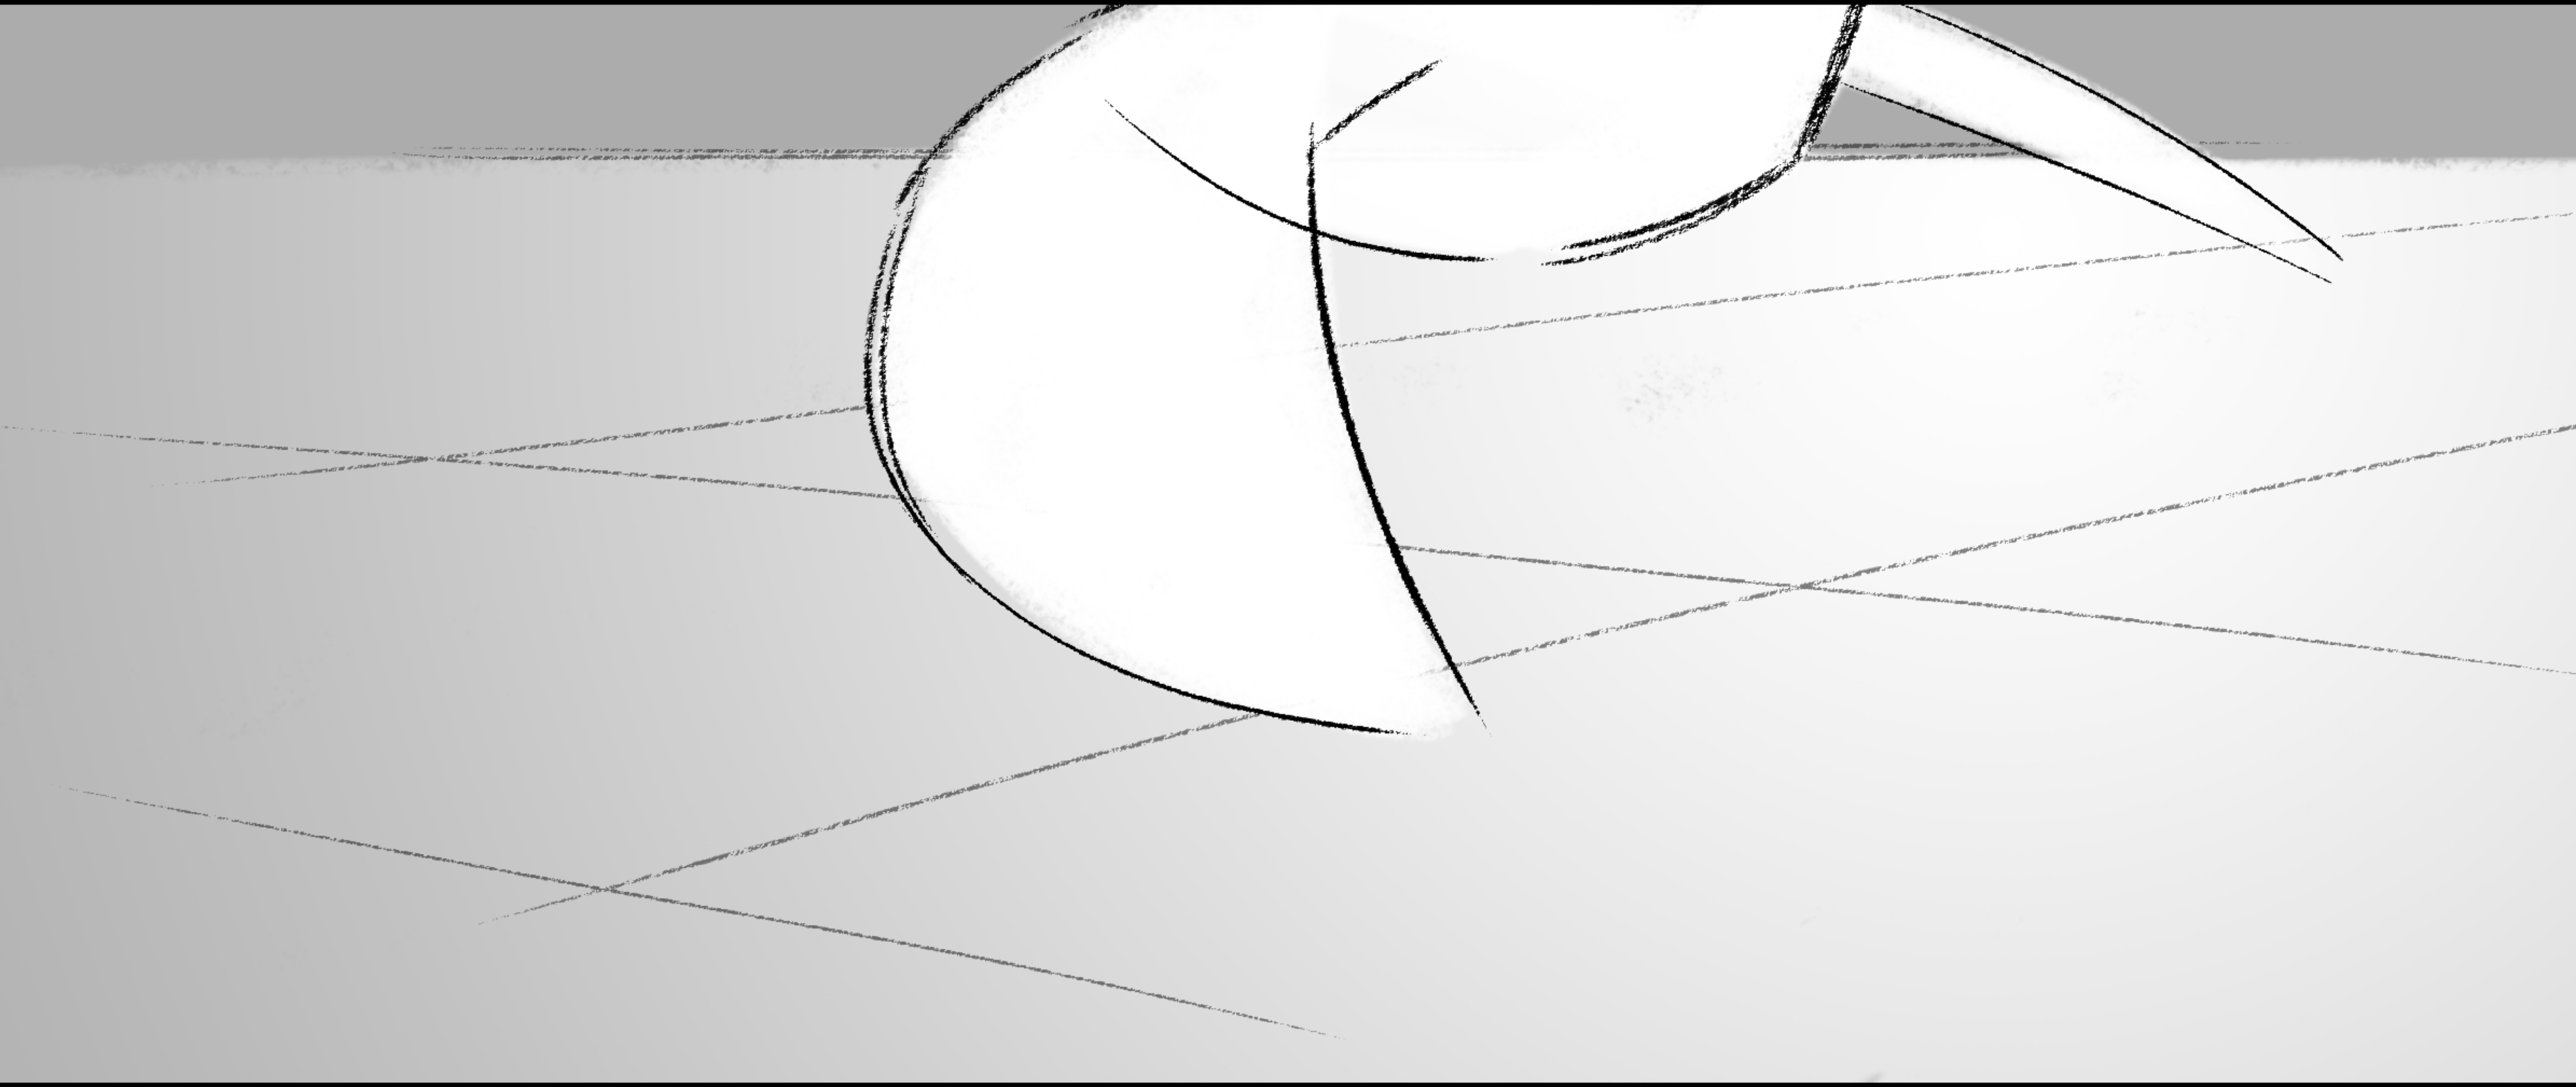

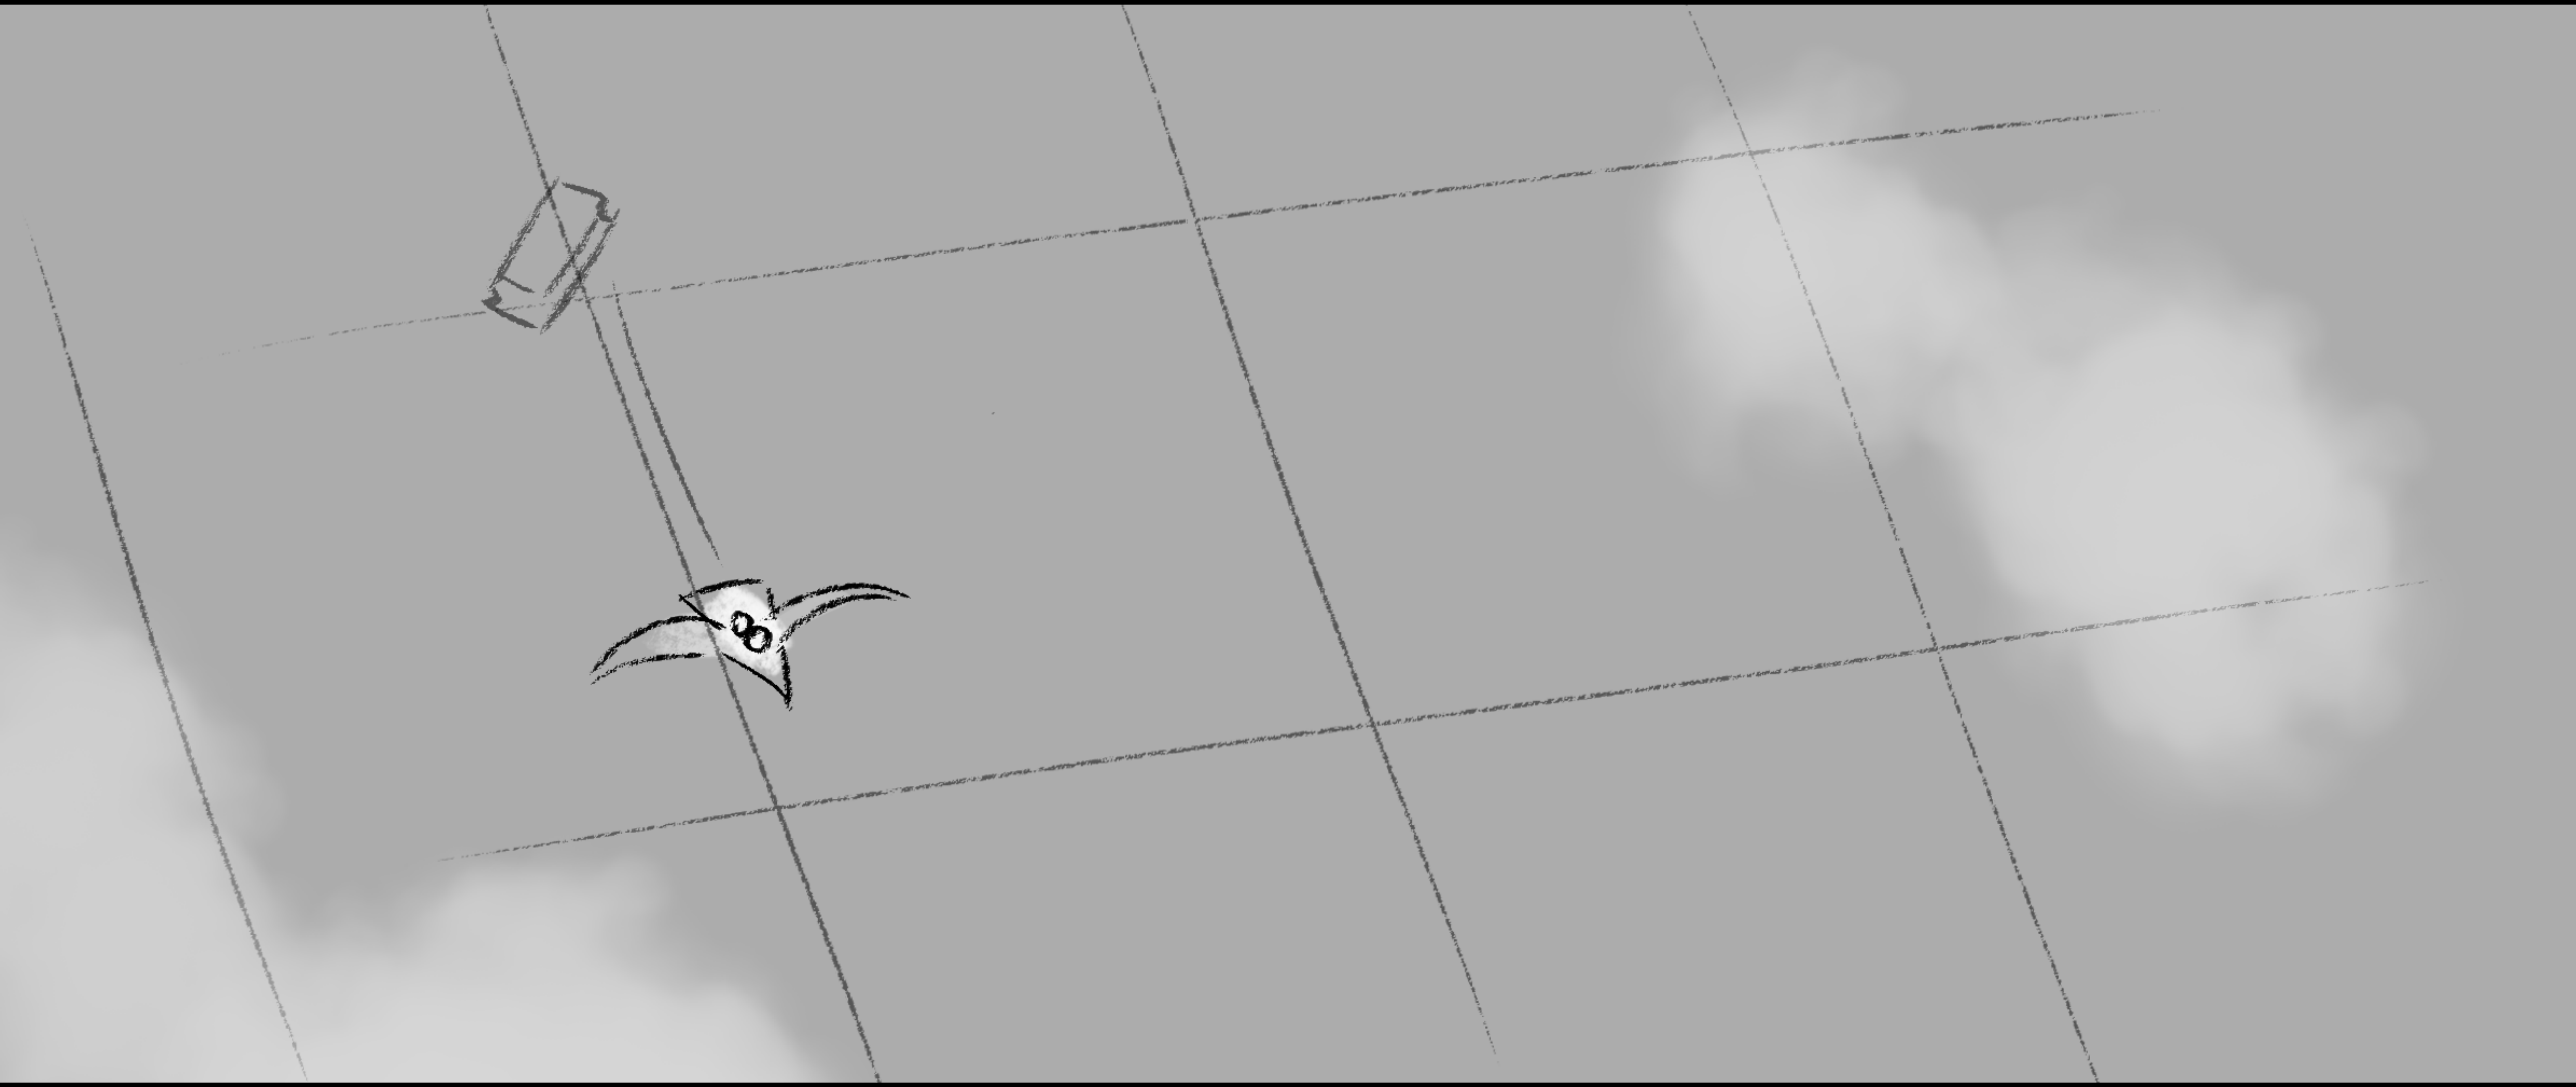

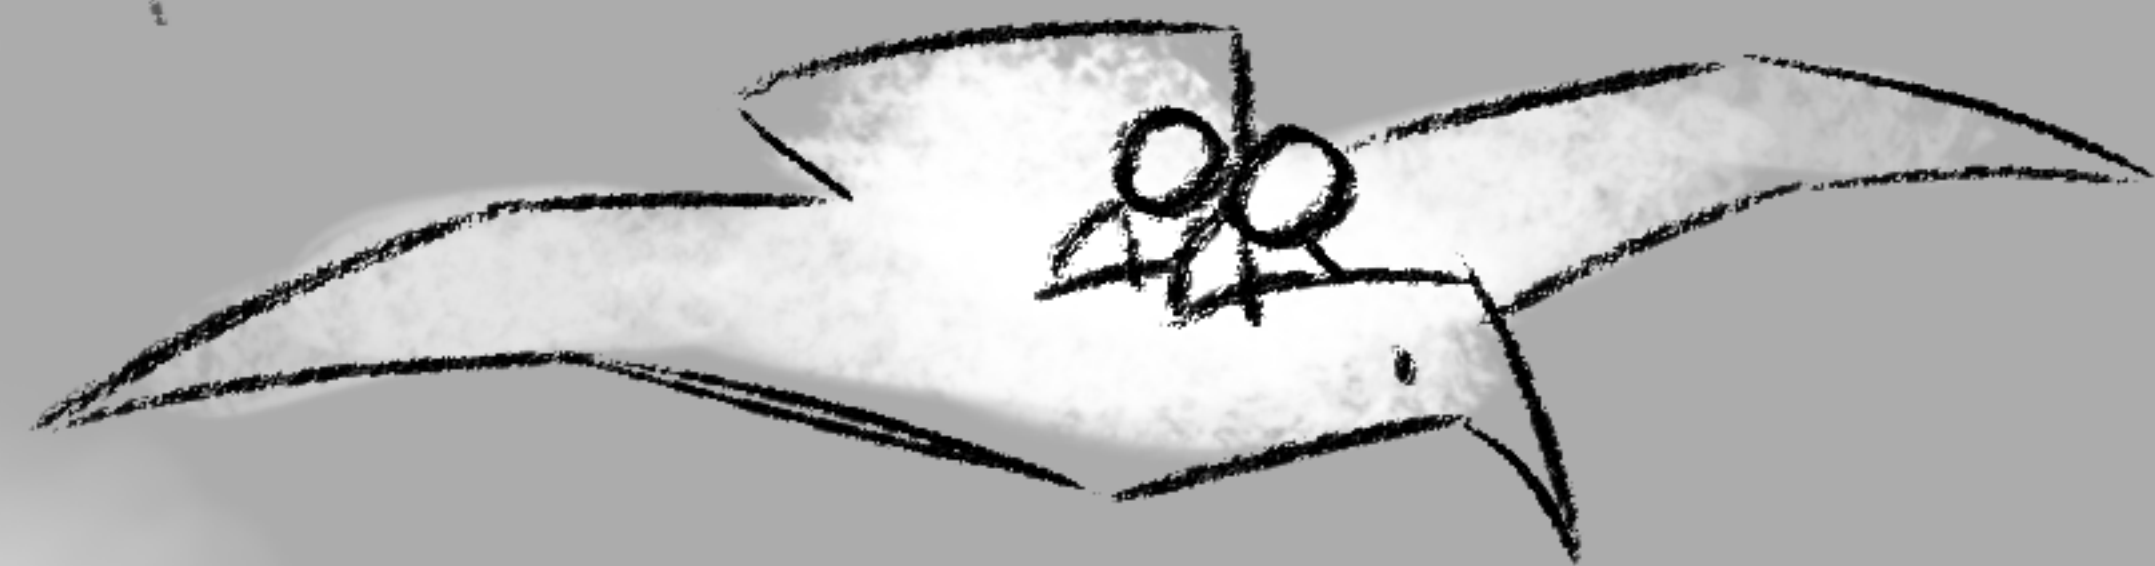

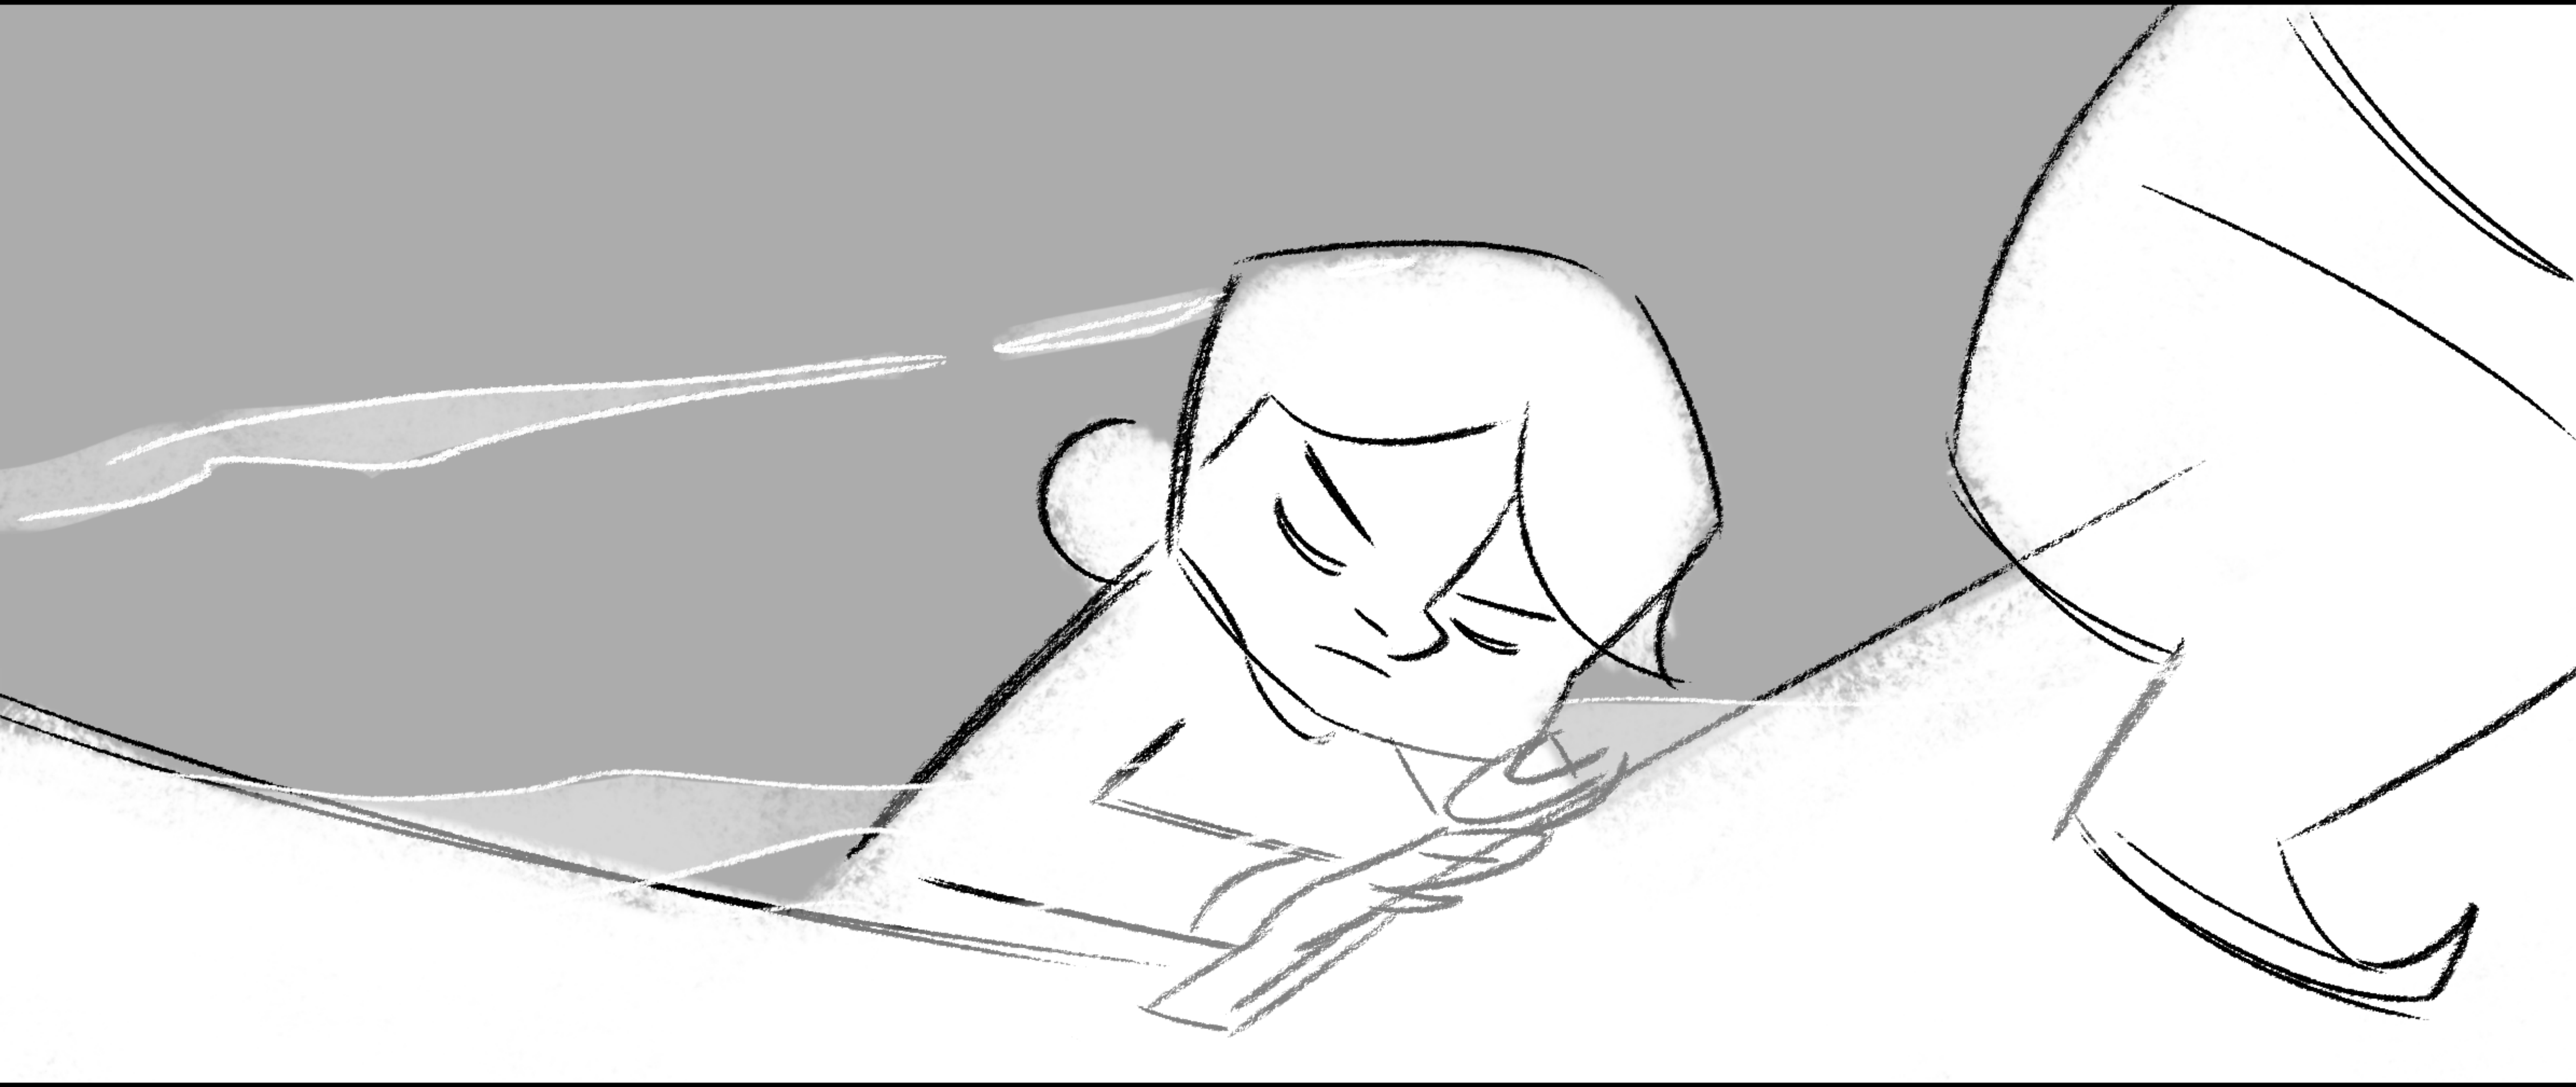

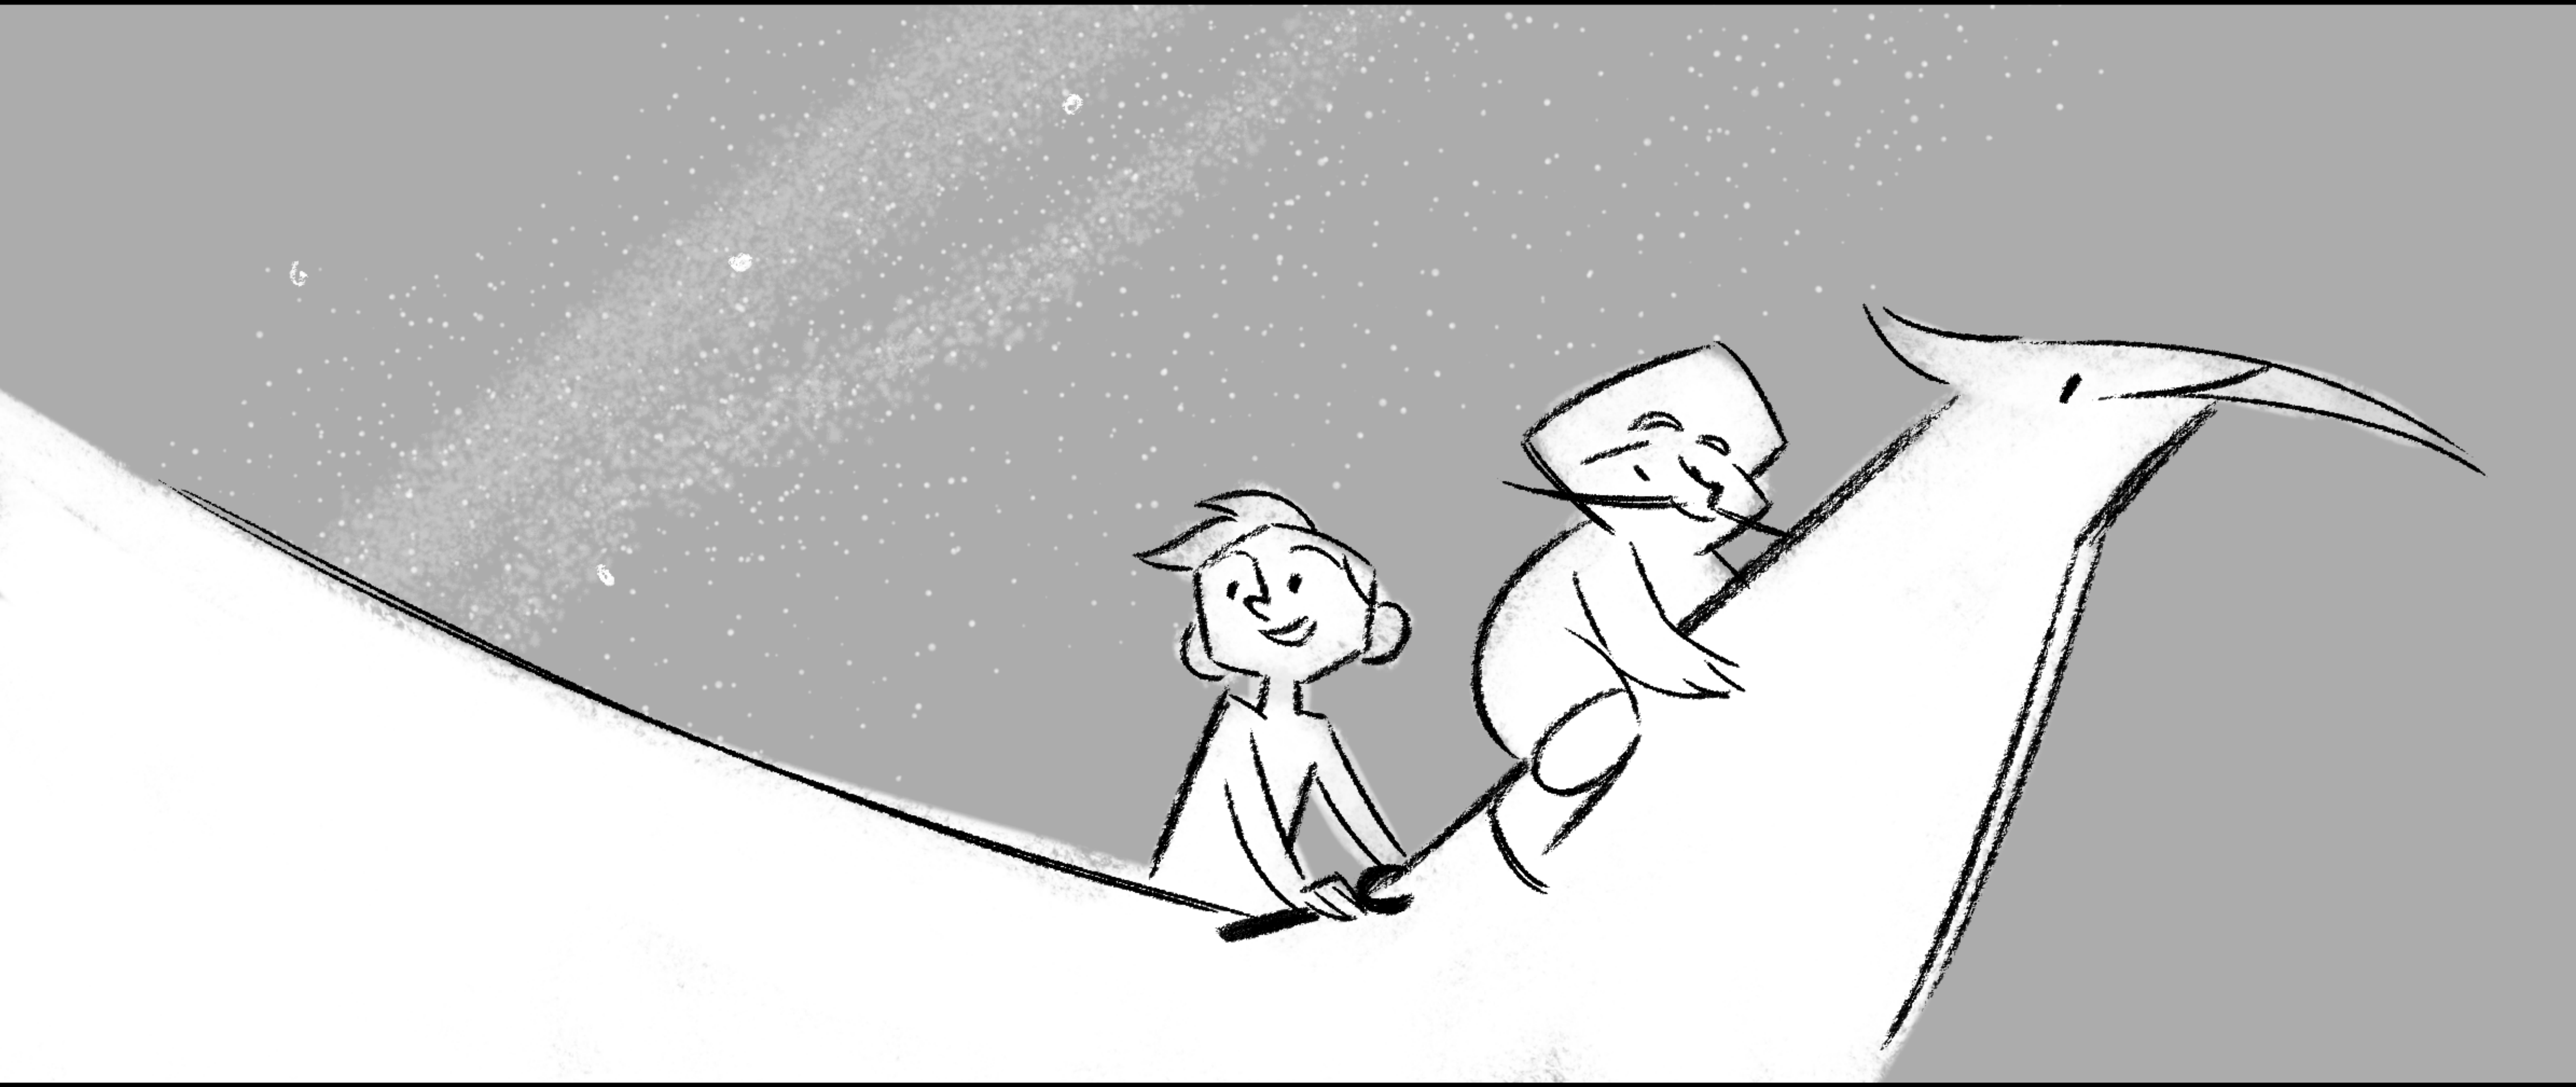

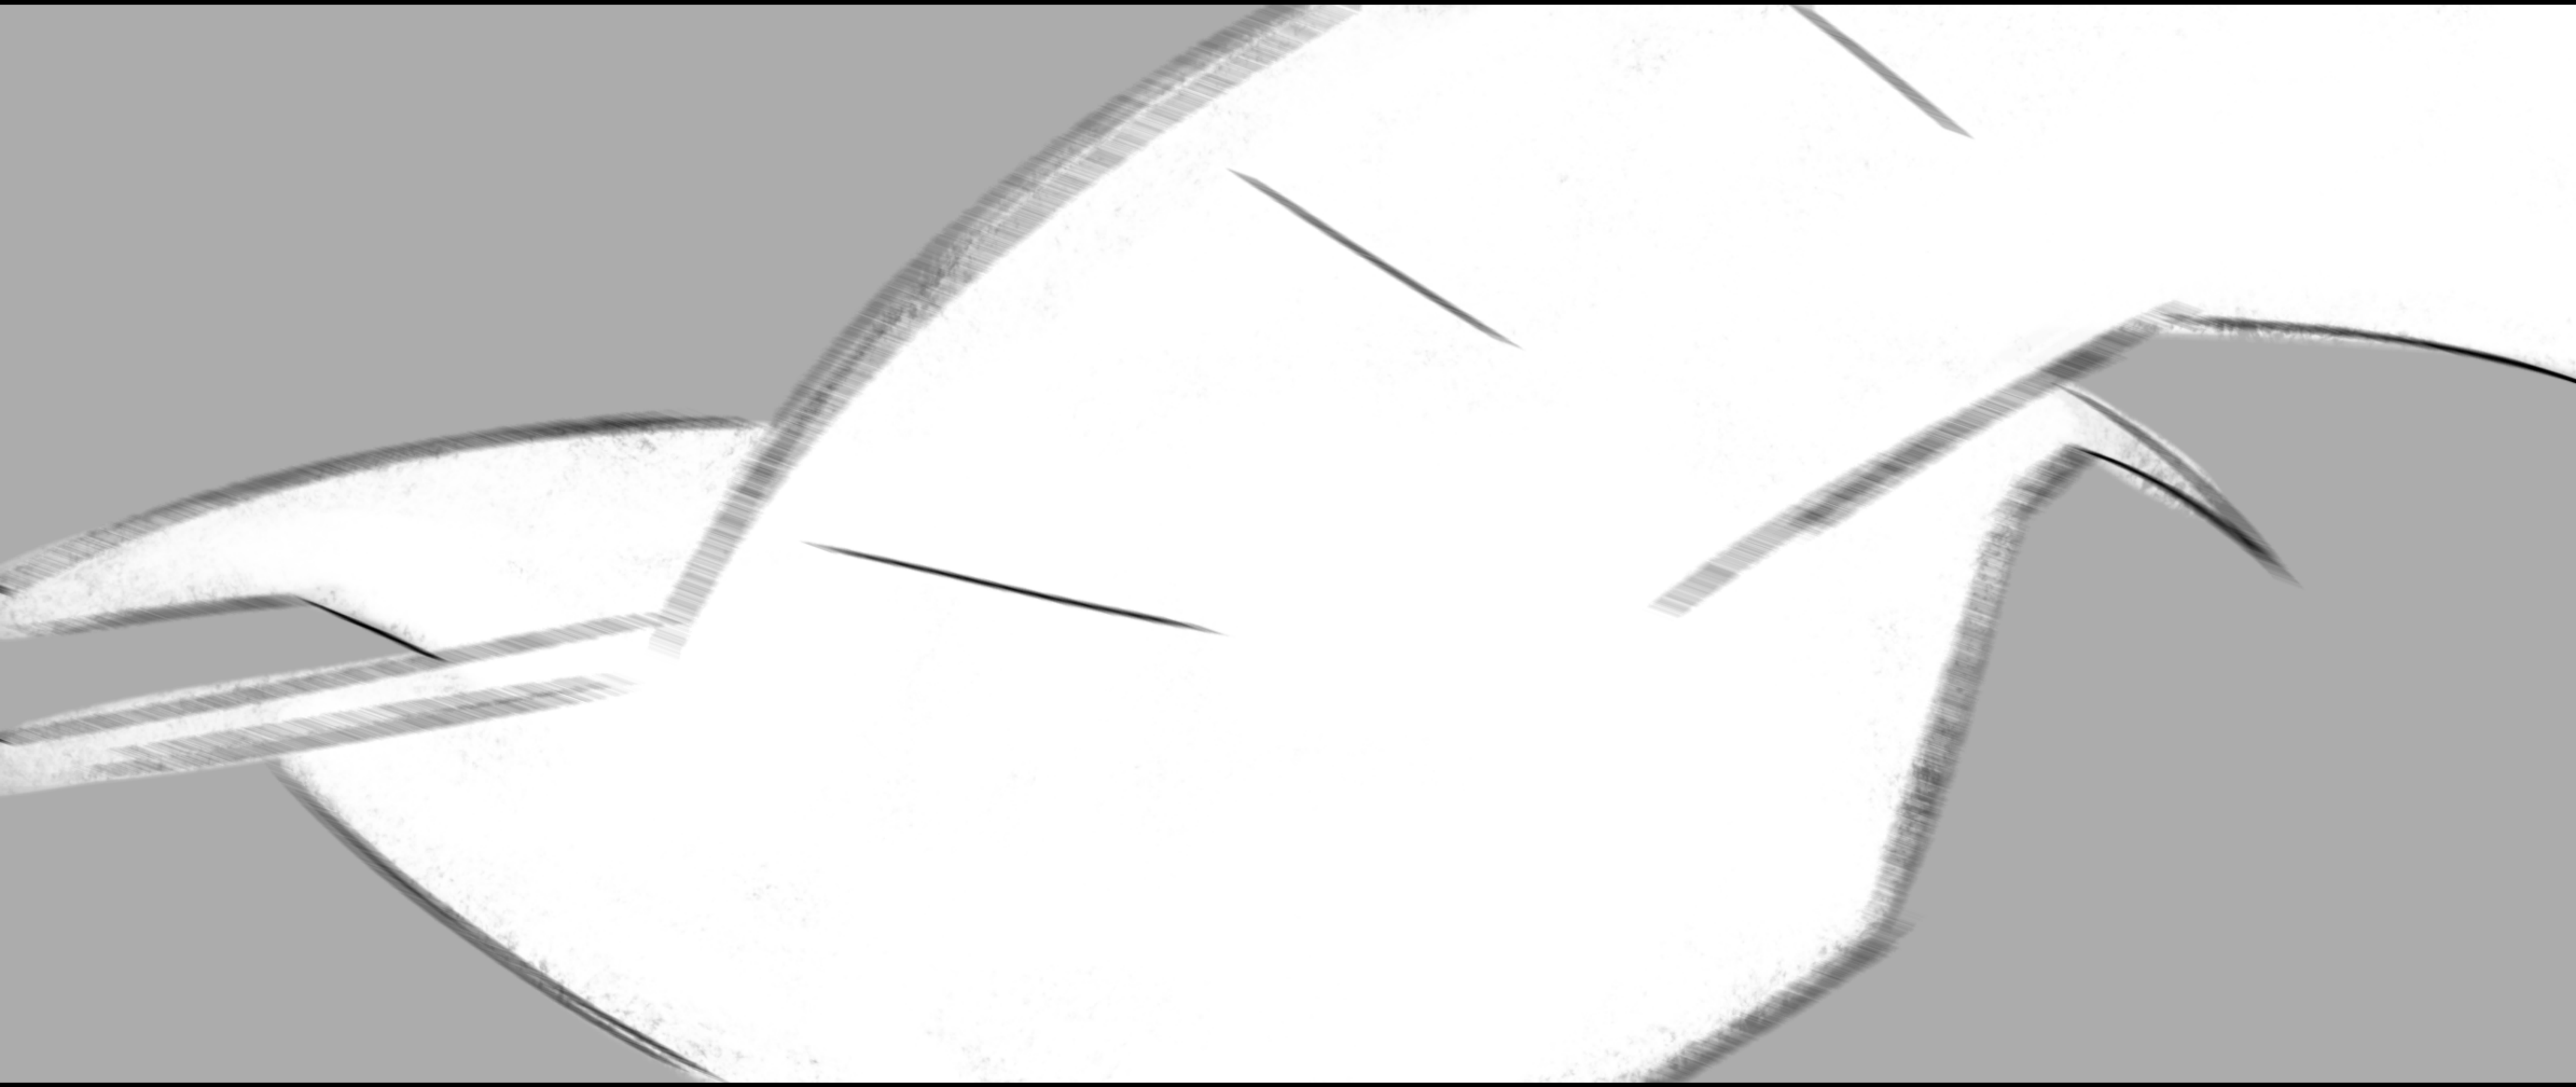

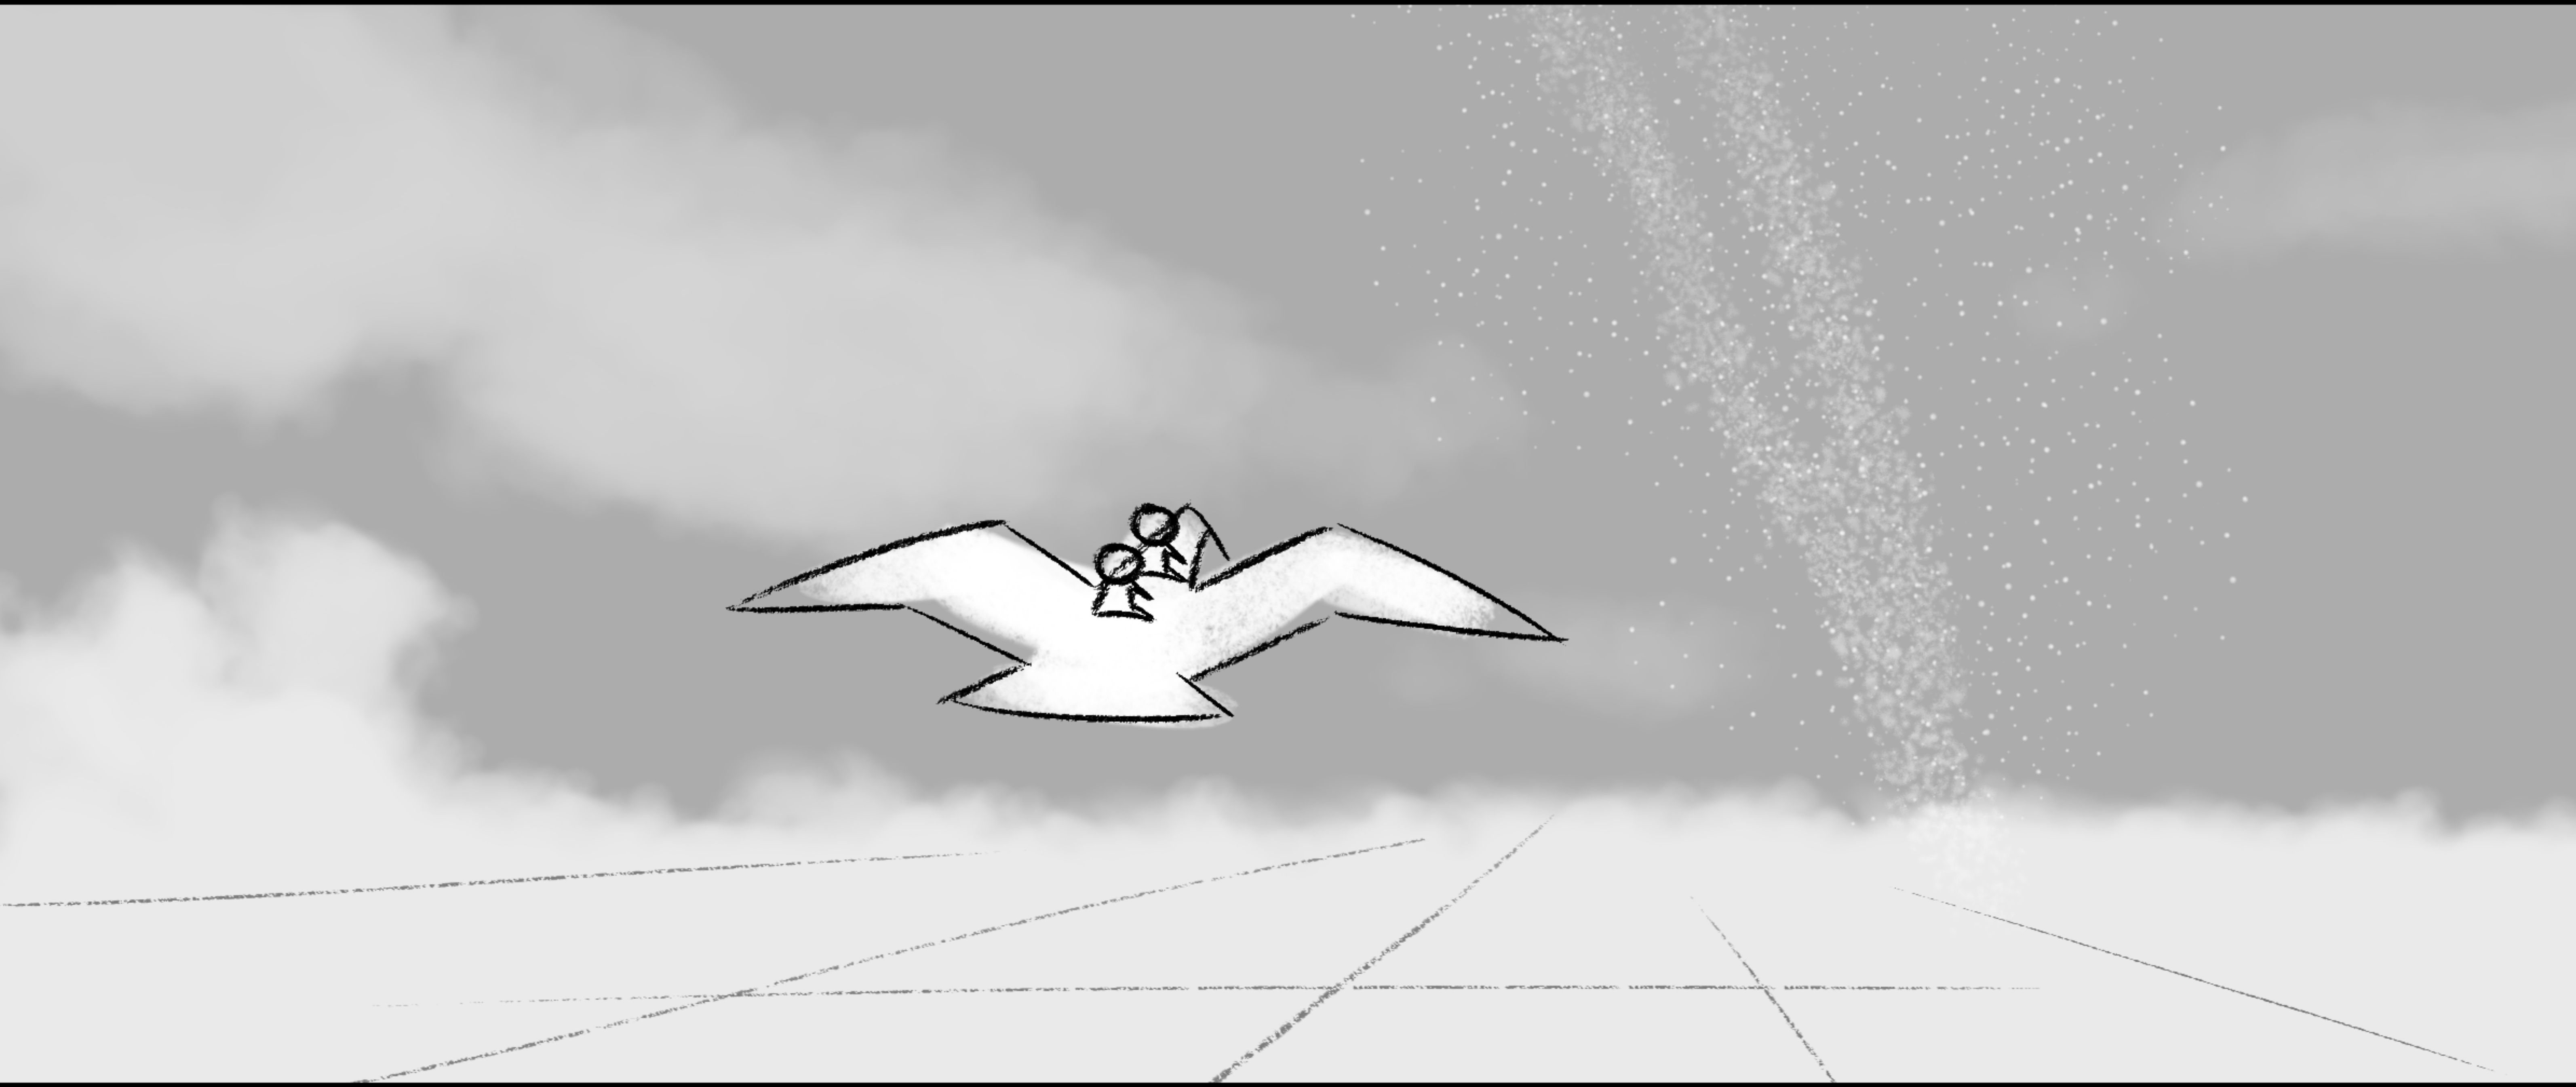

HAROUN: Woah!

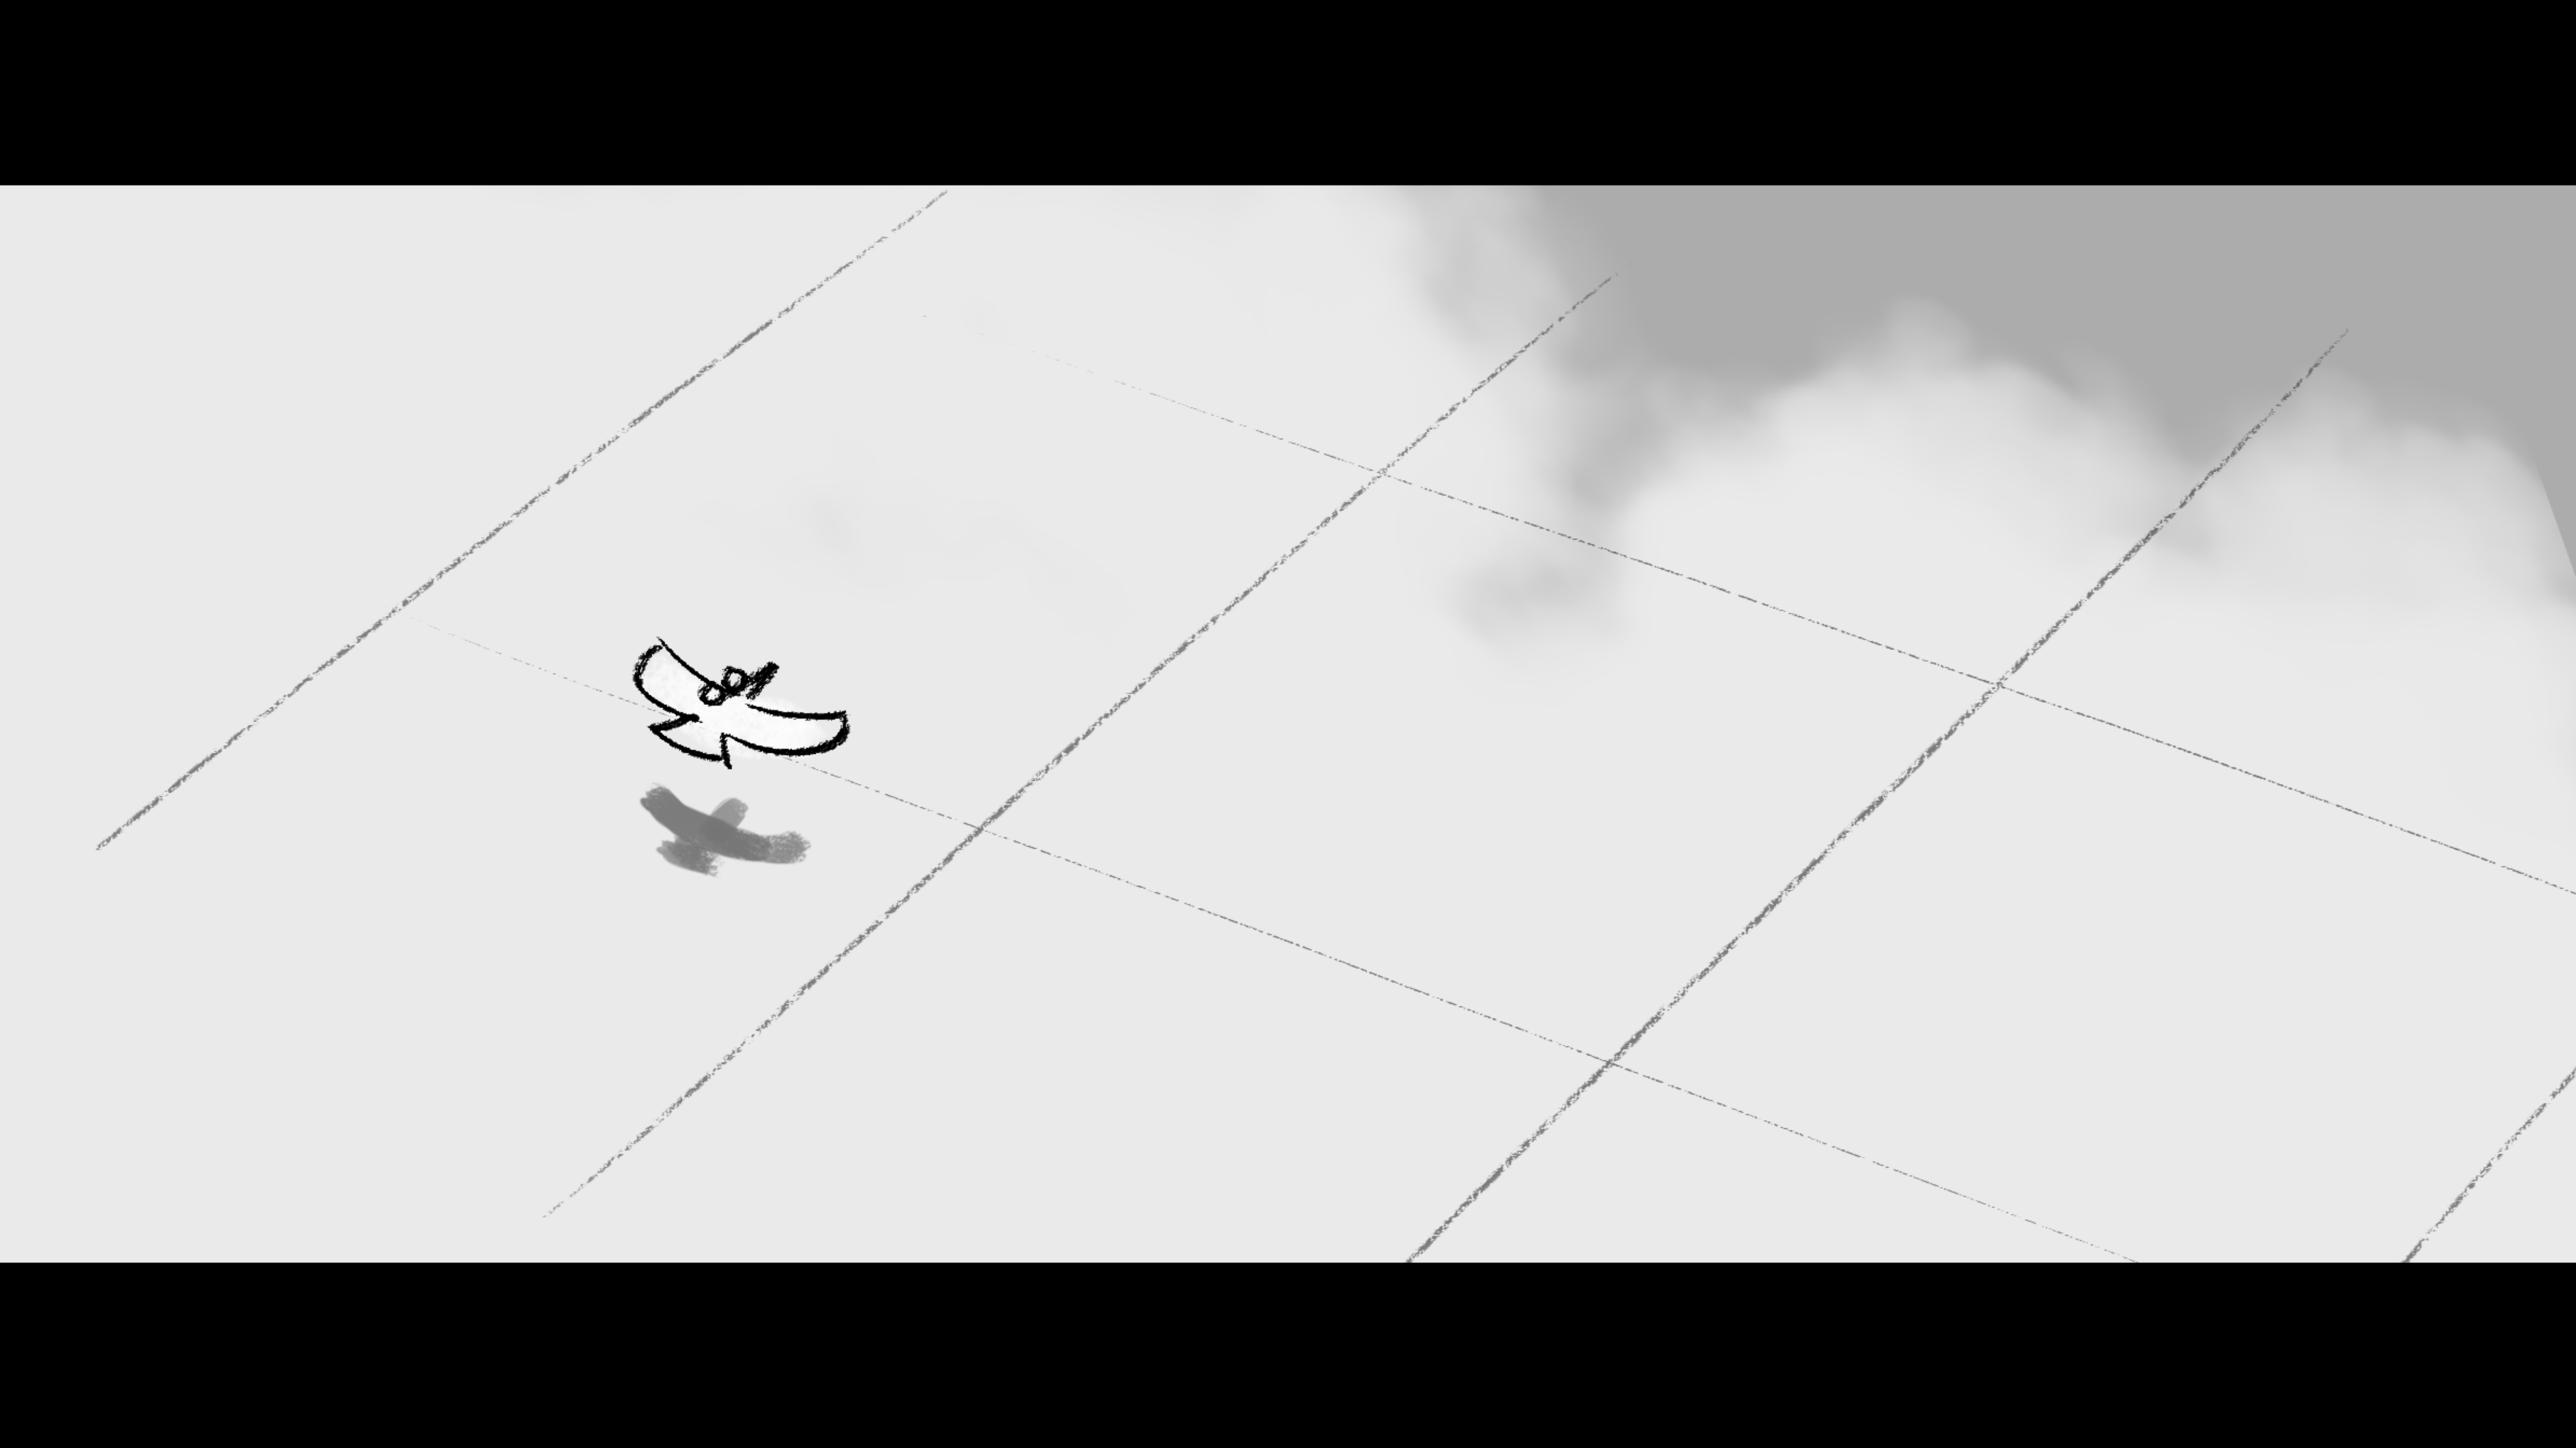

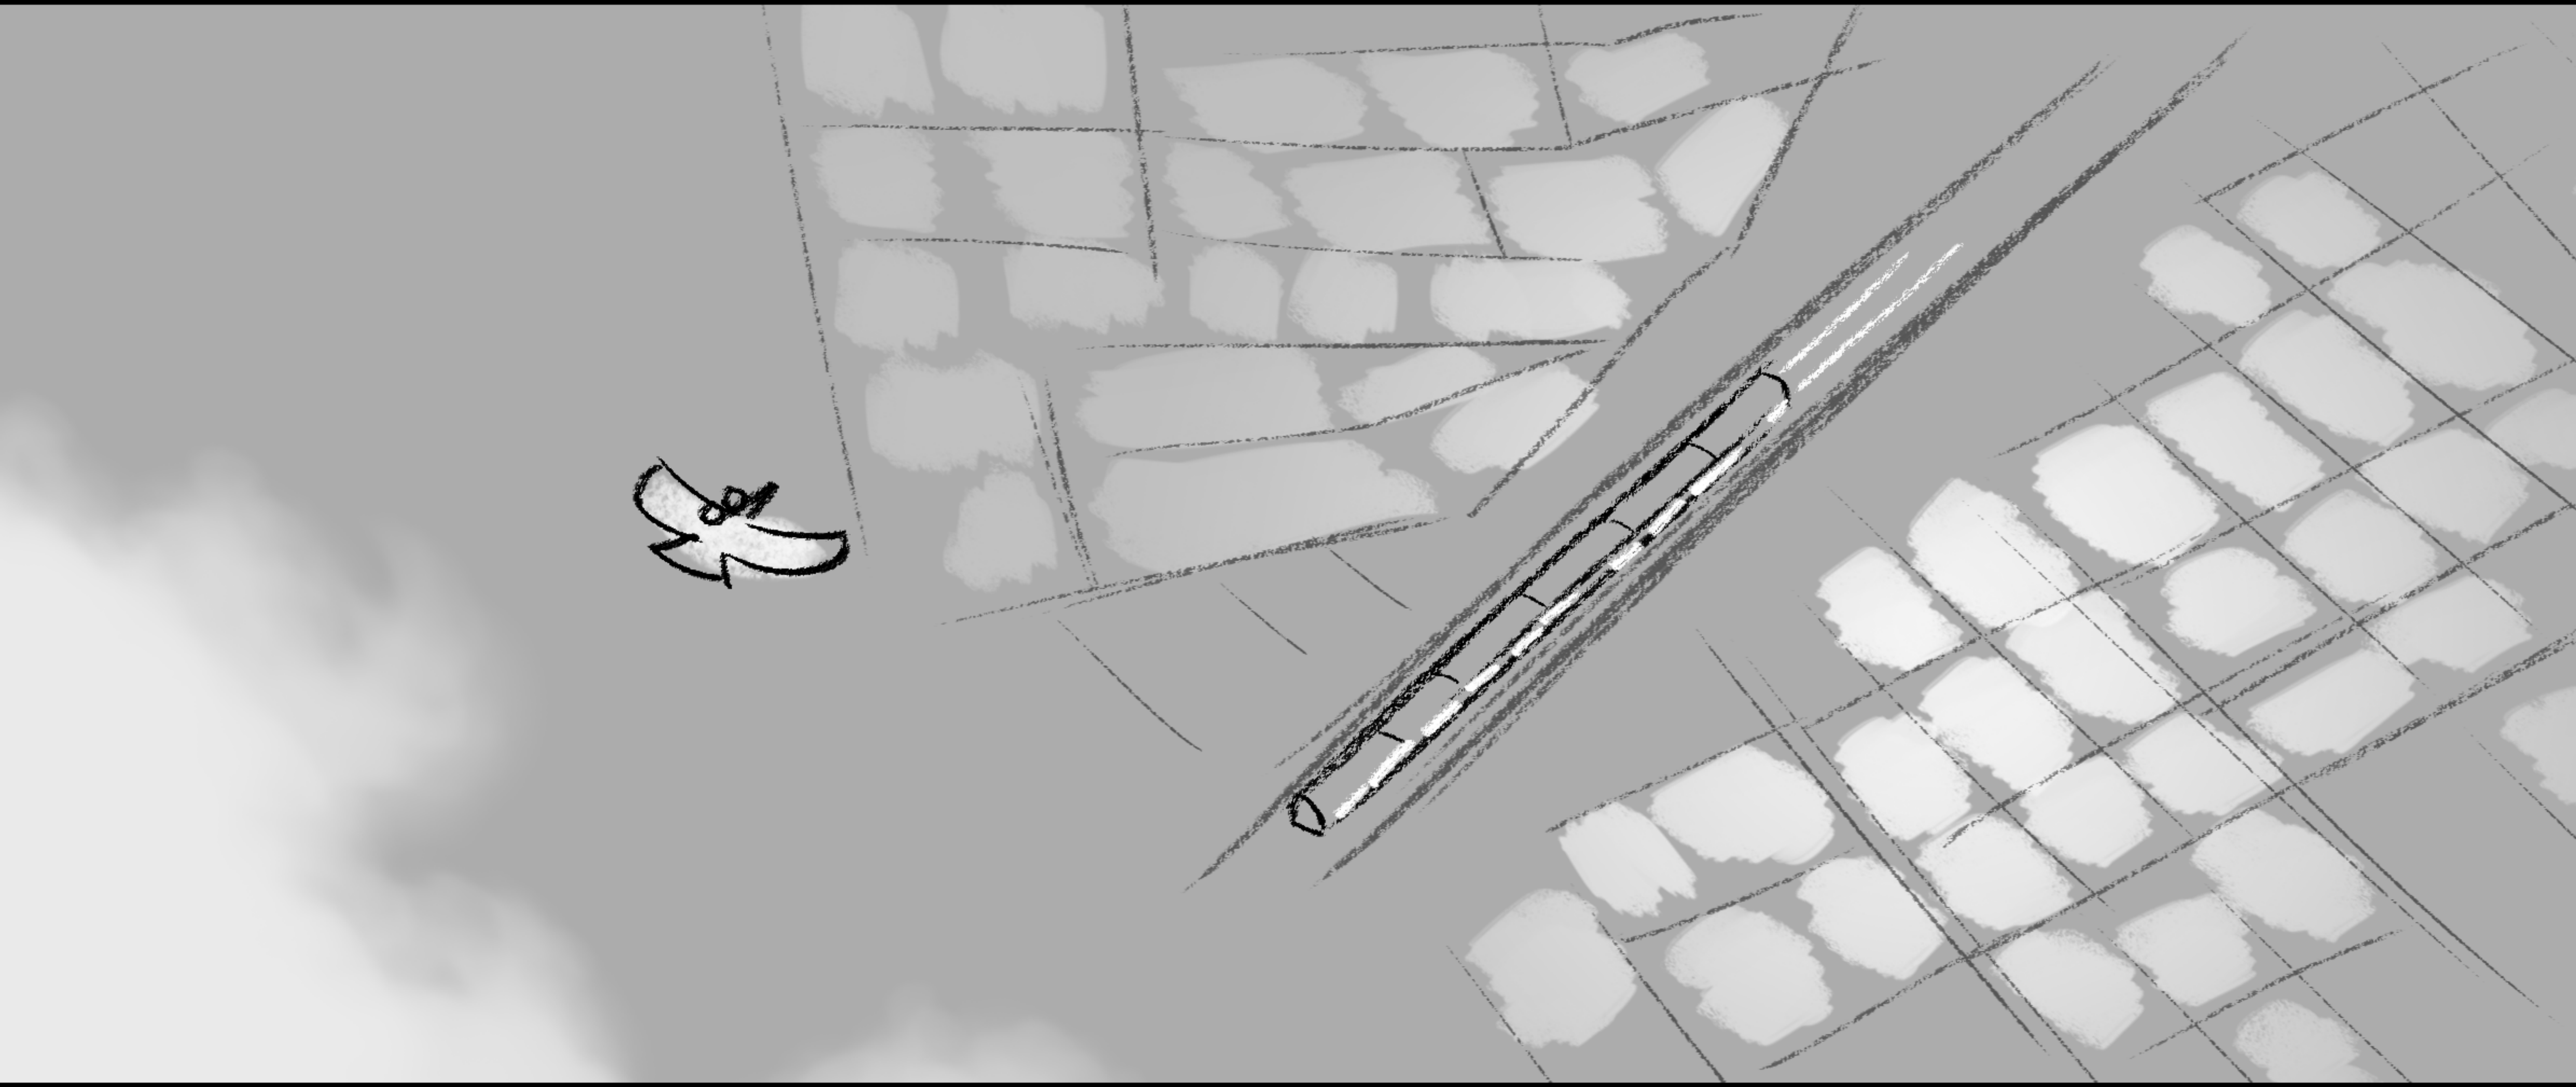

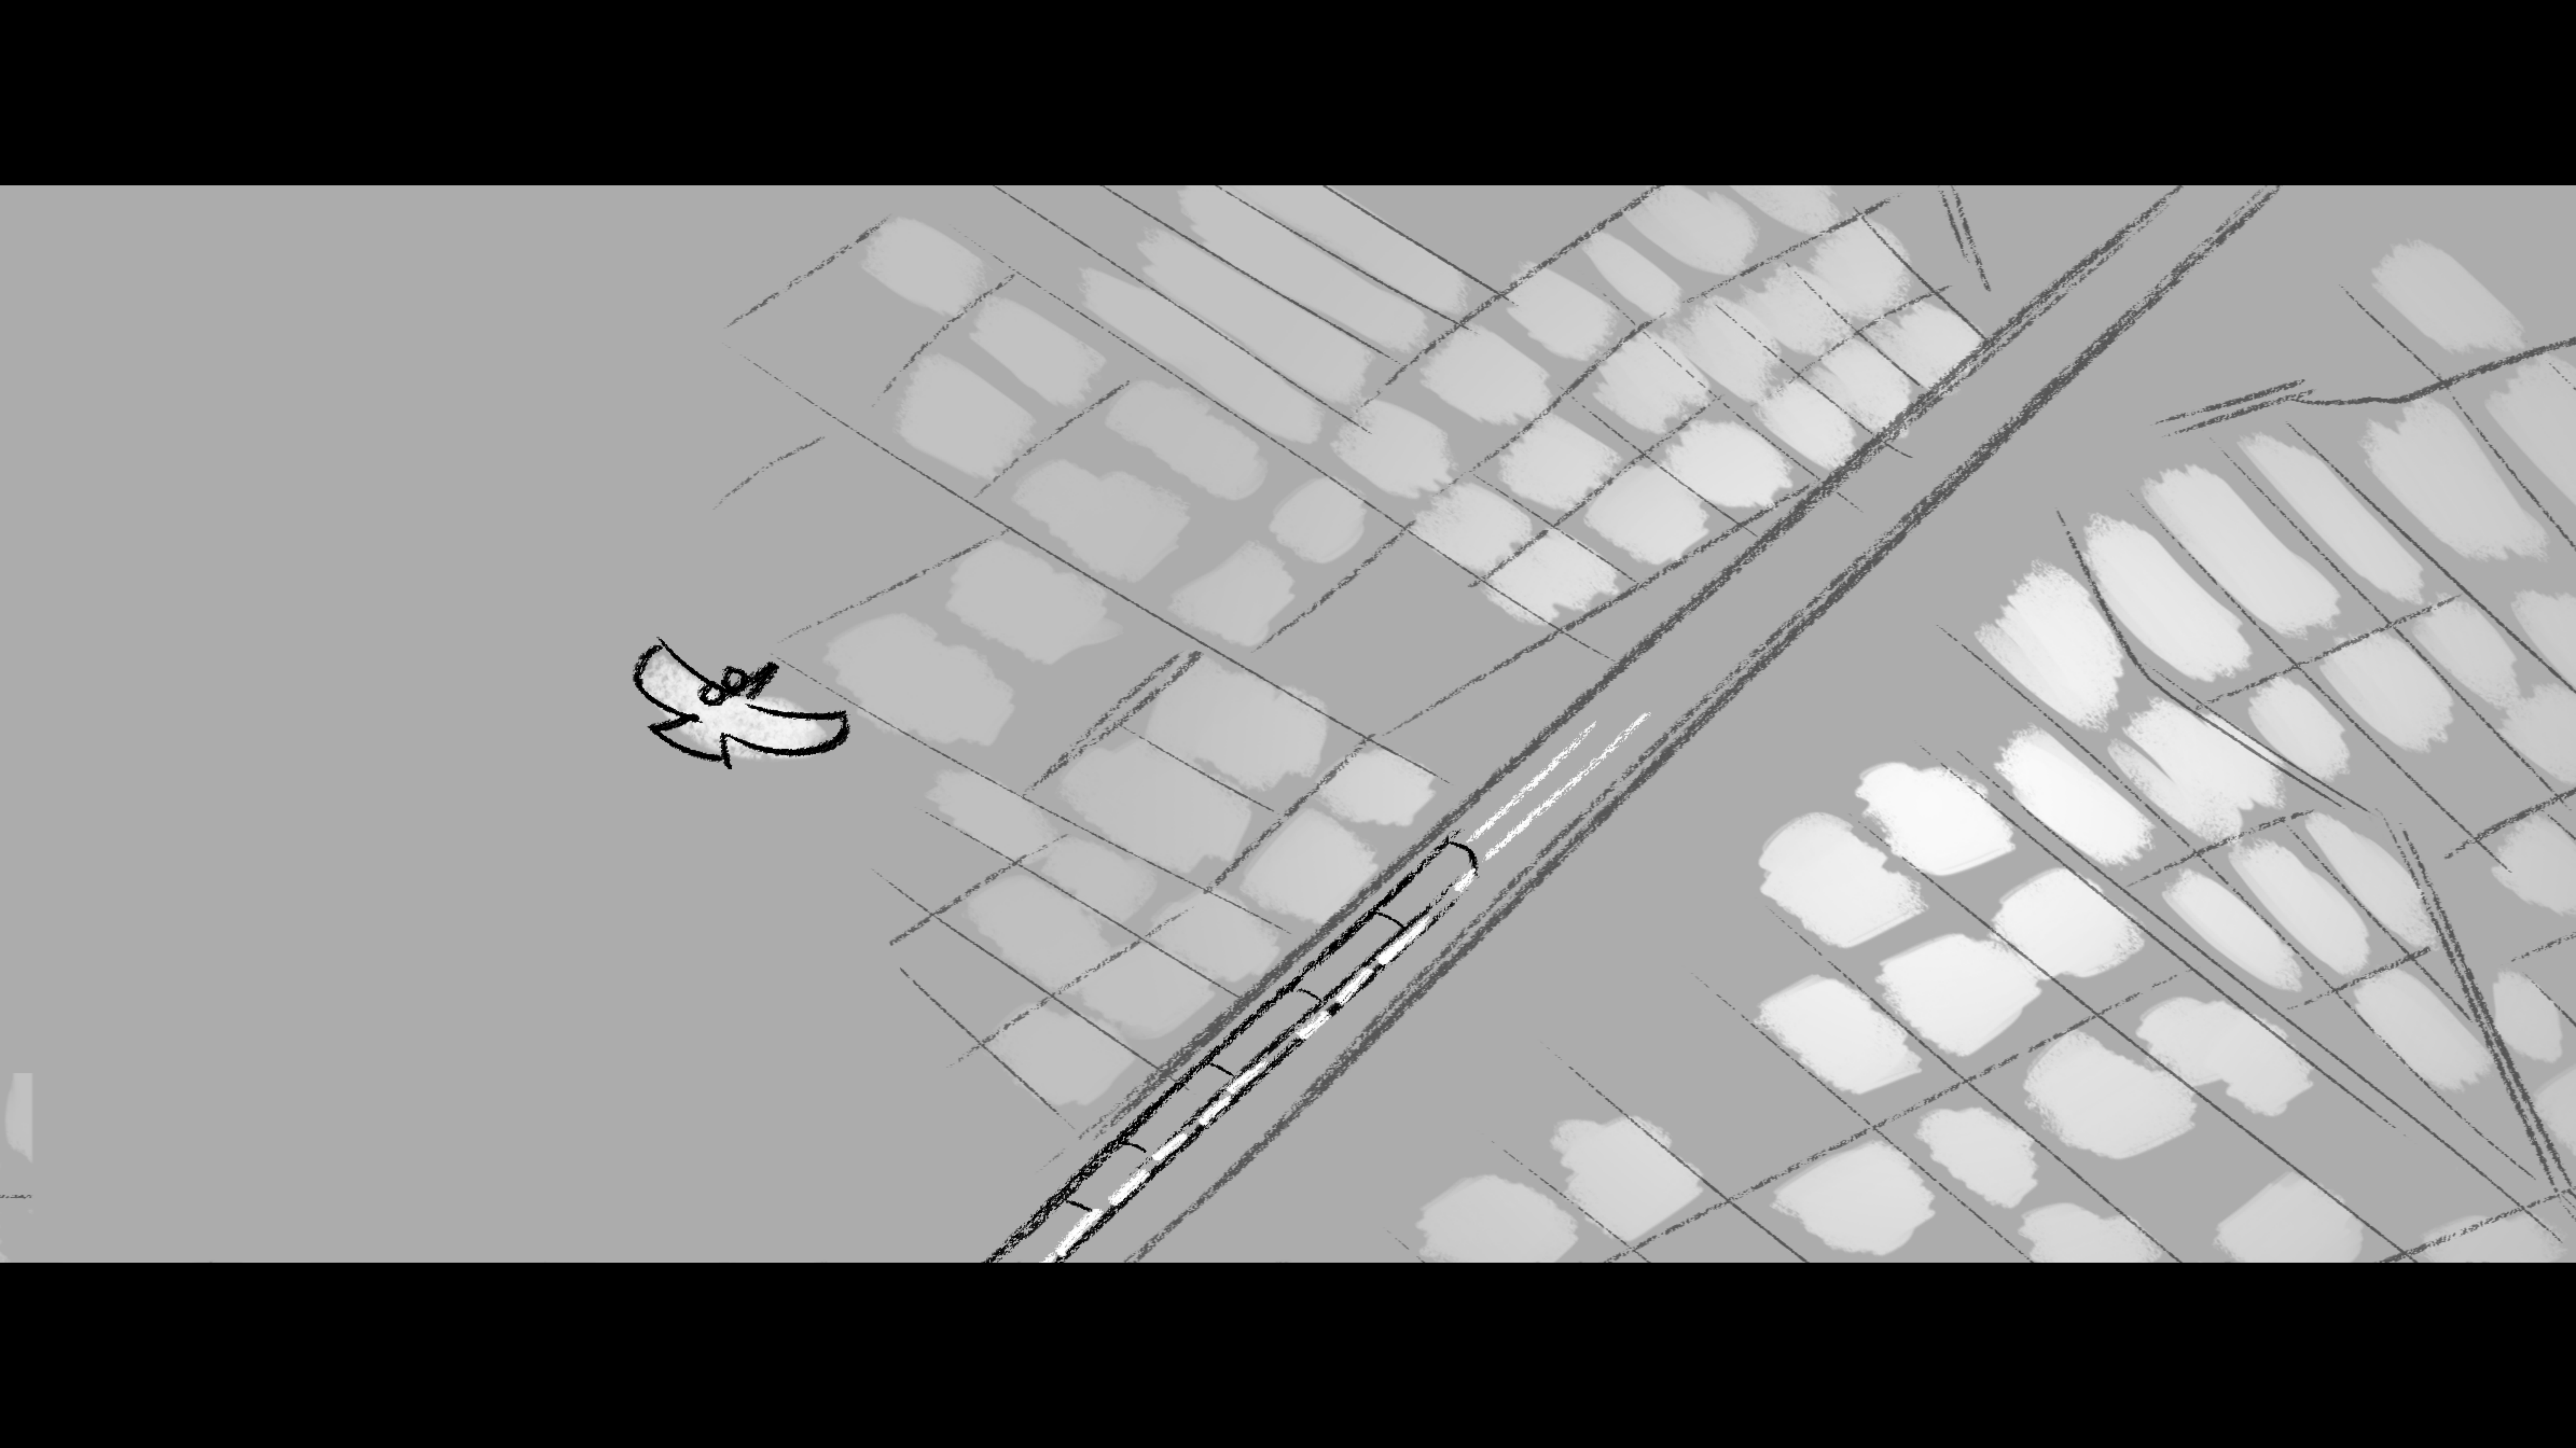

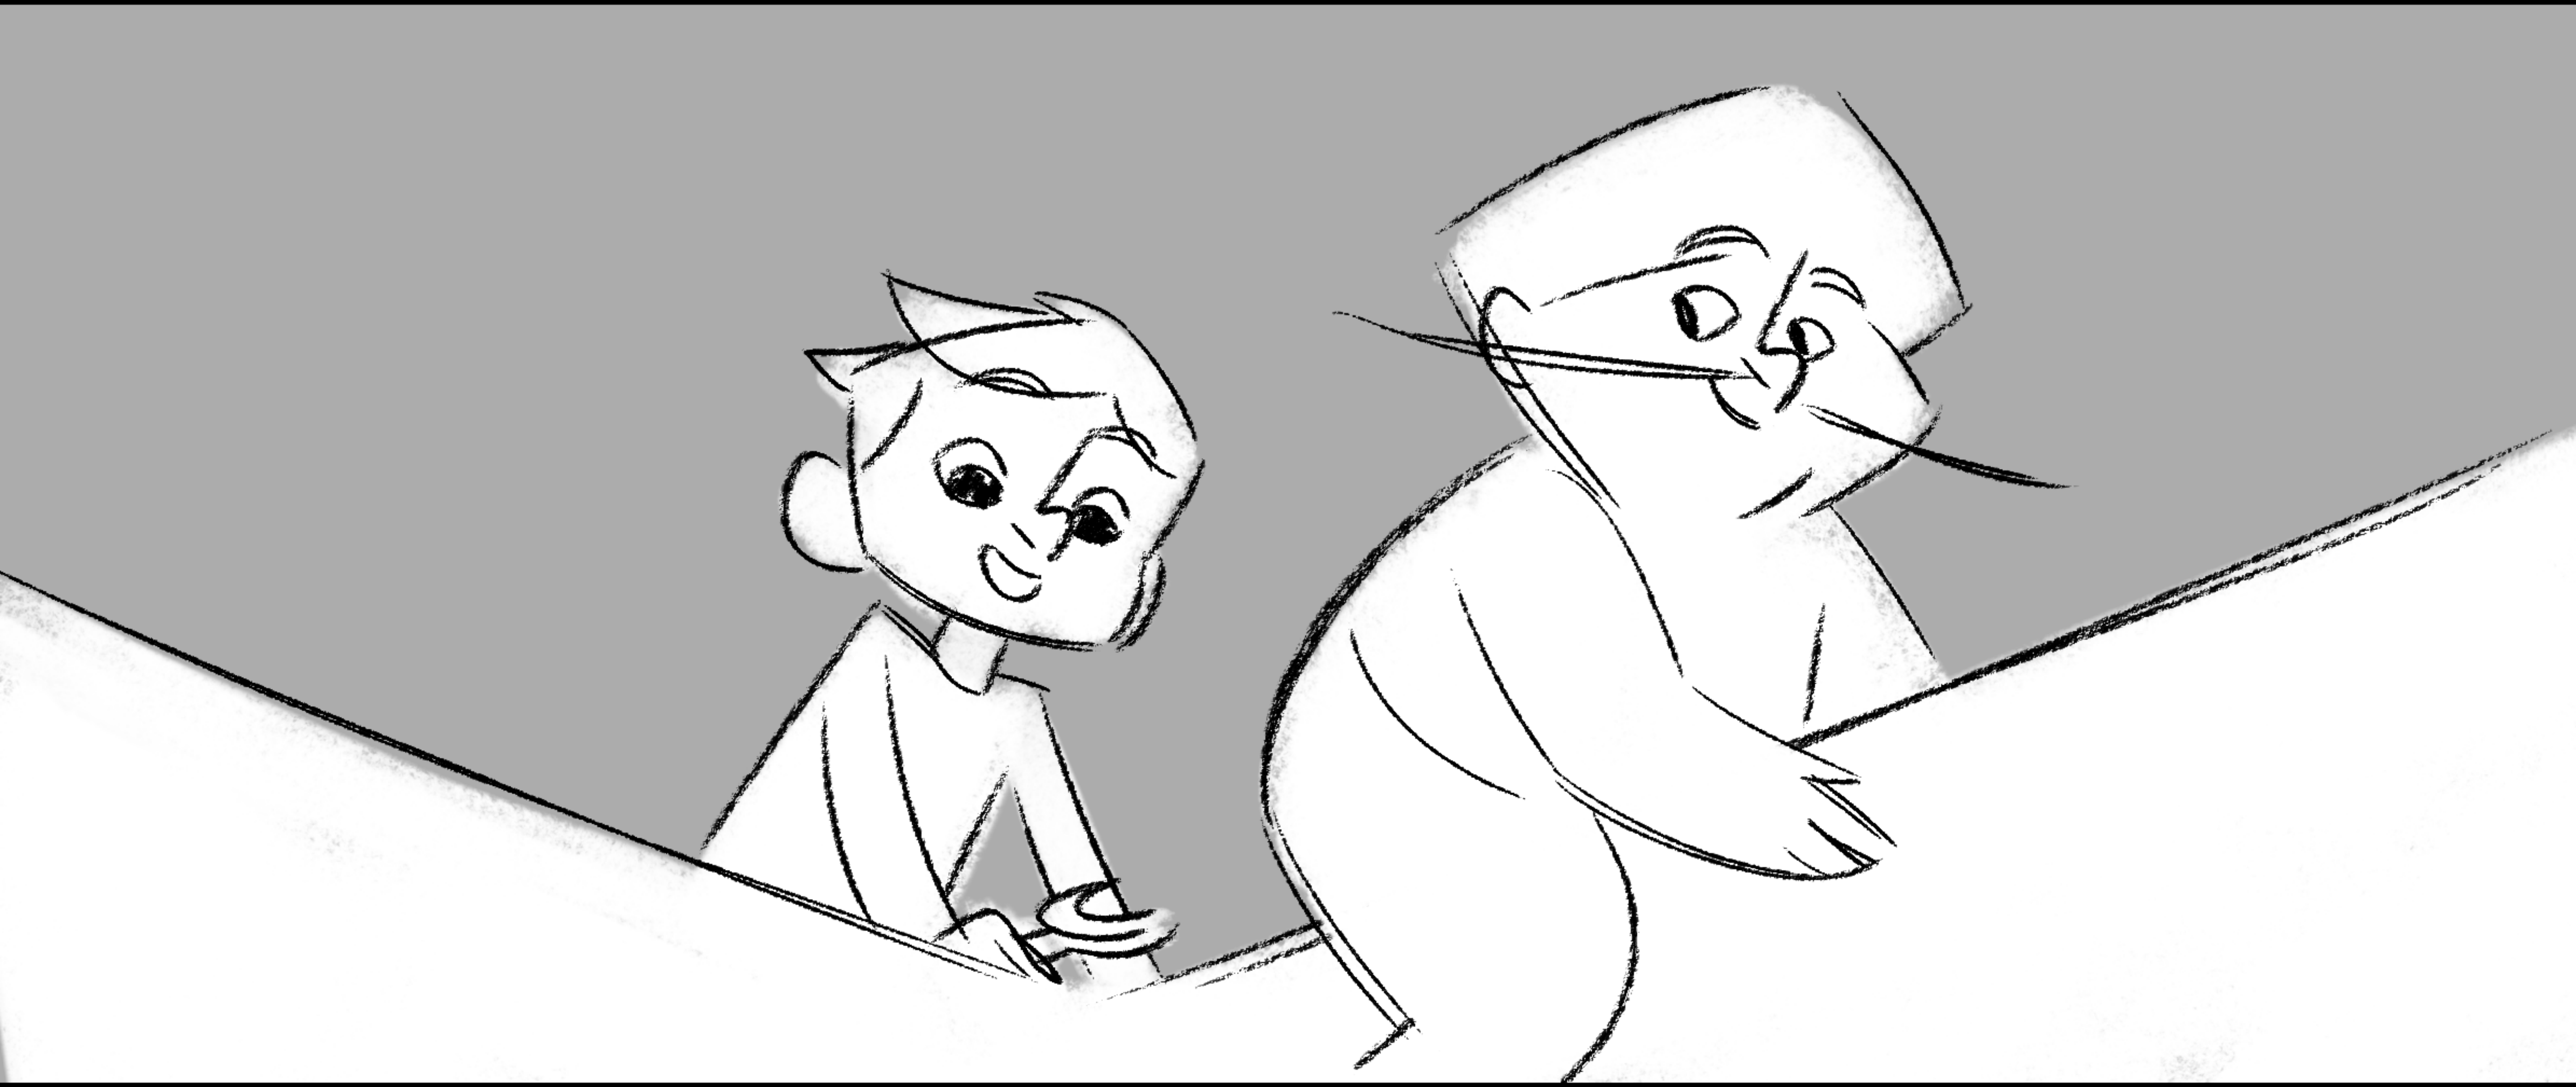

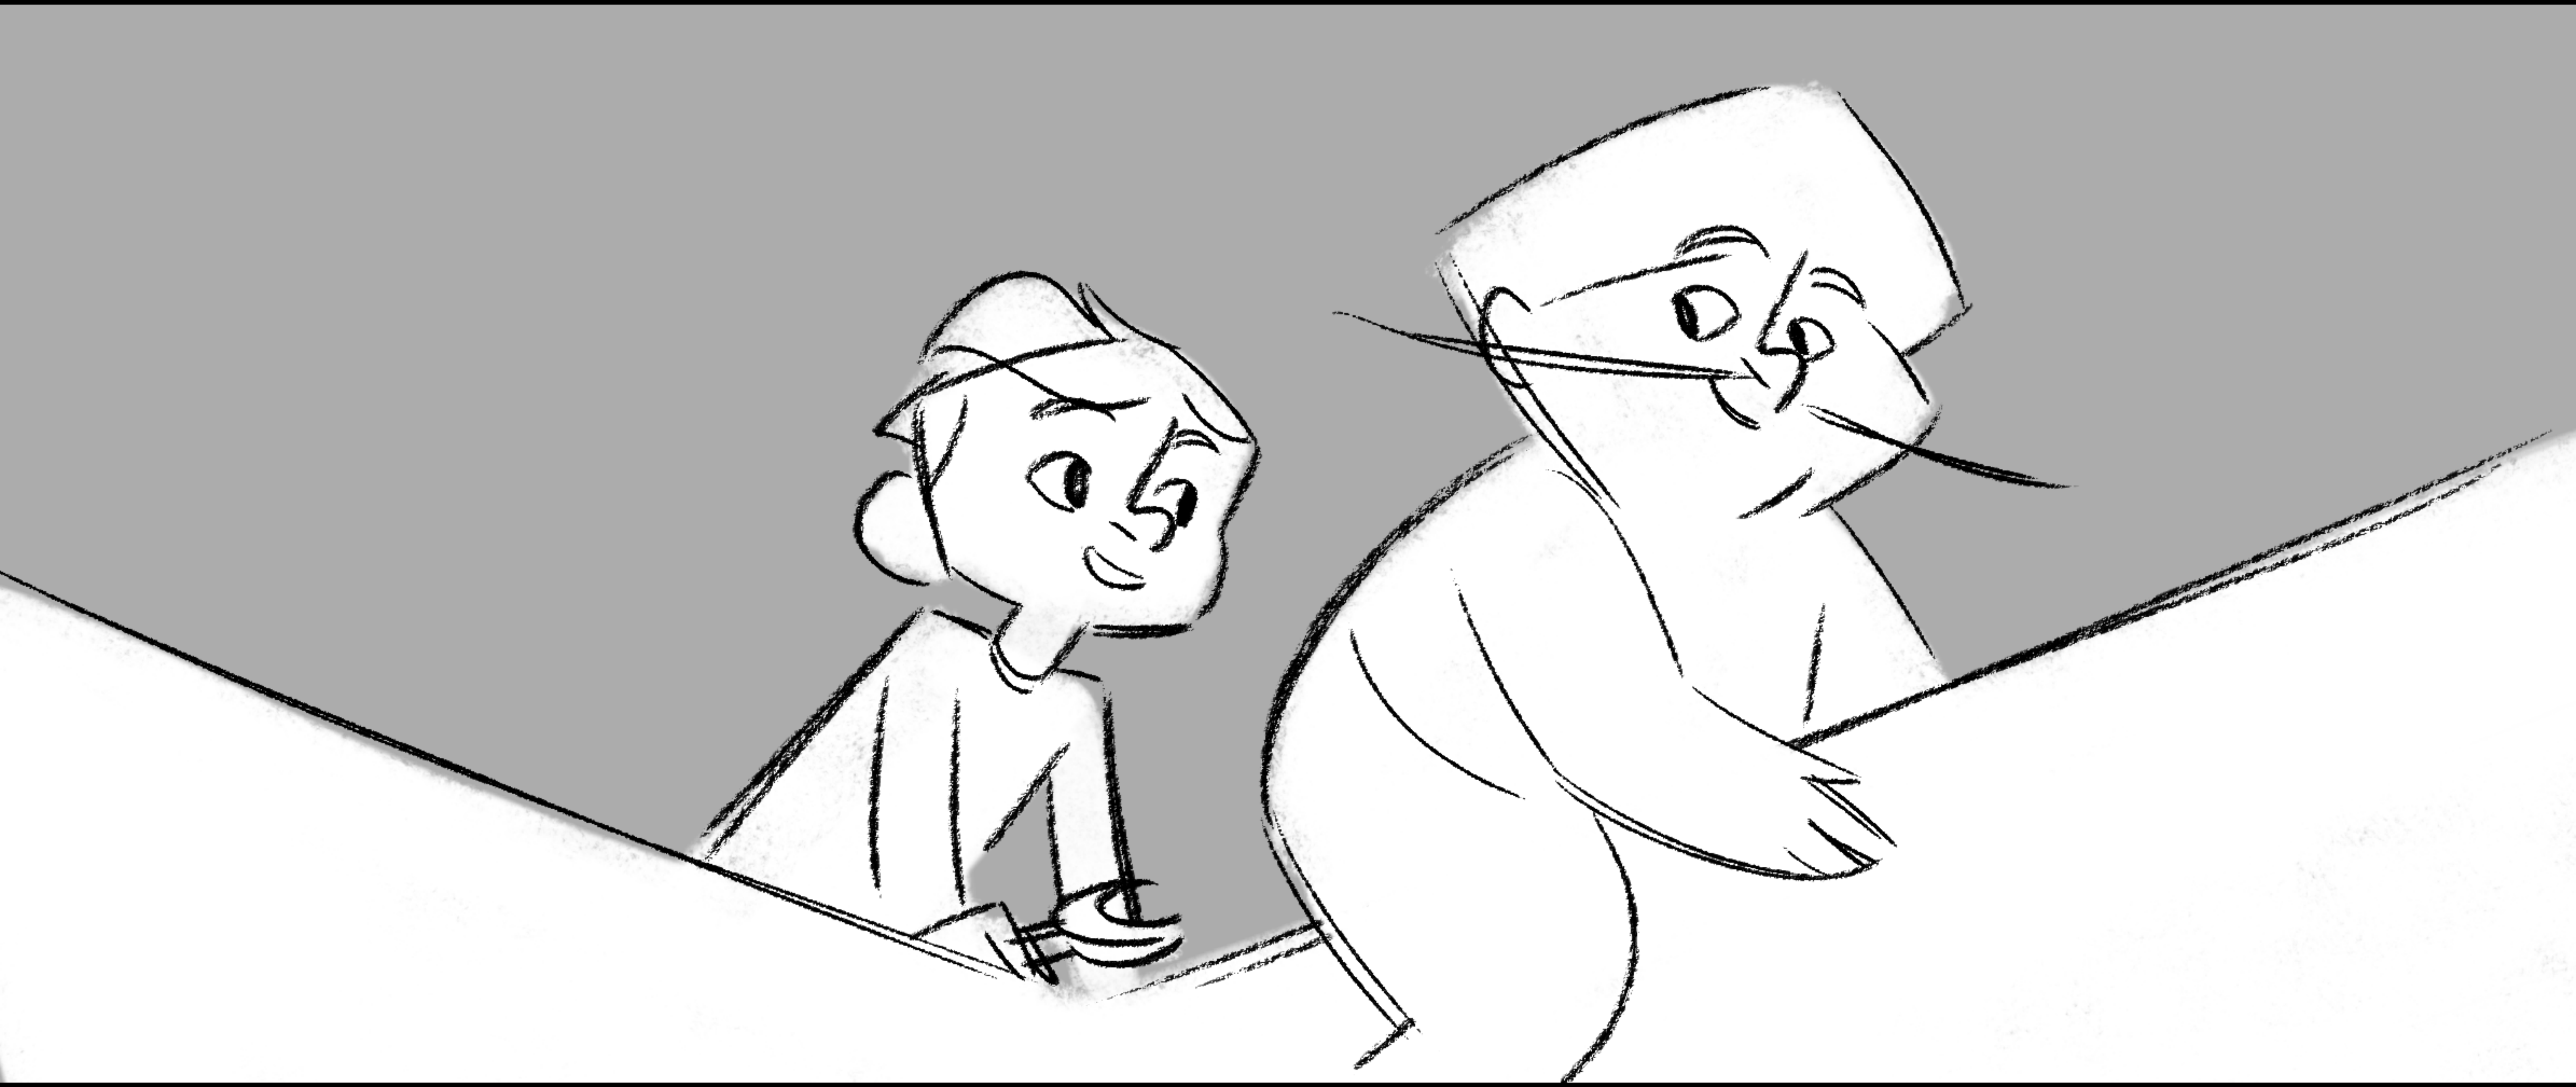

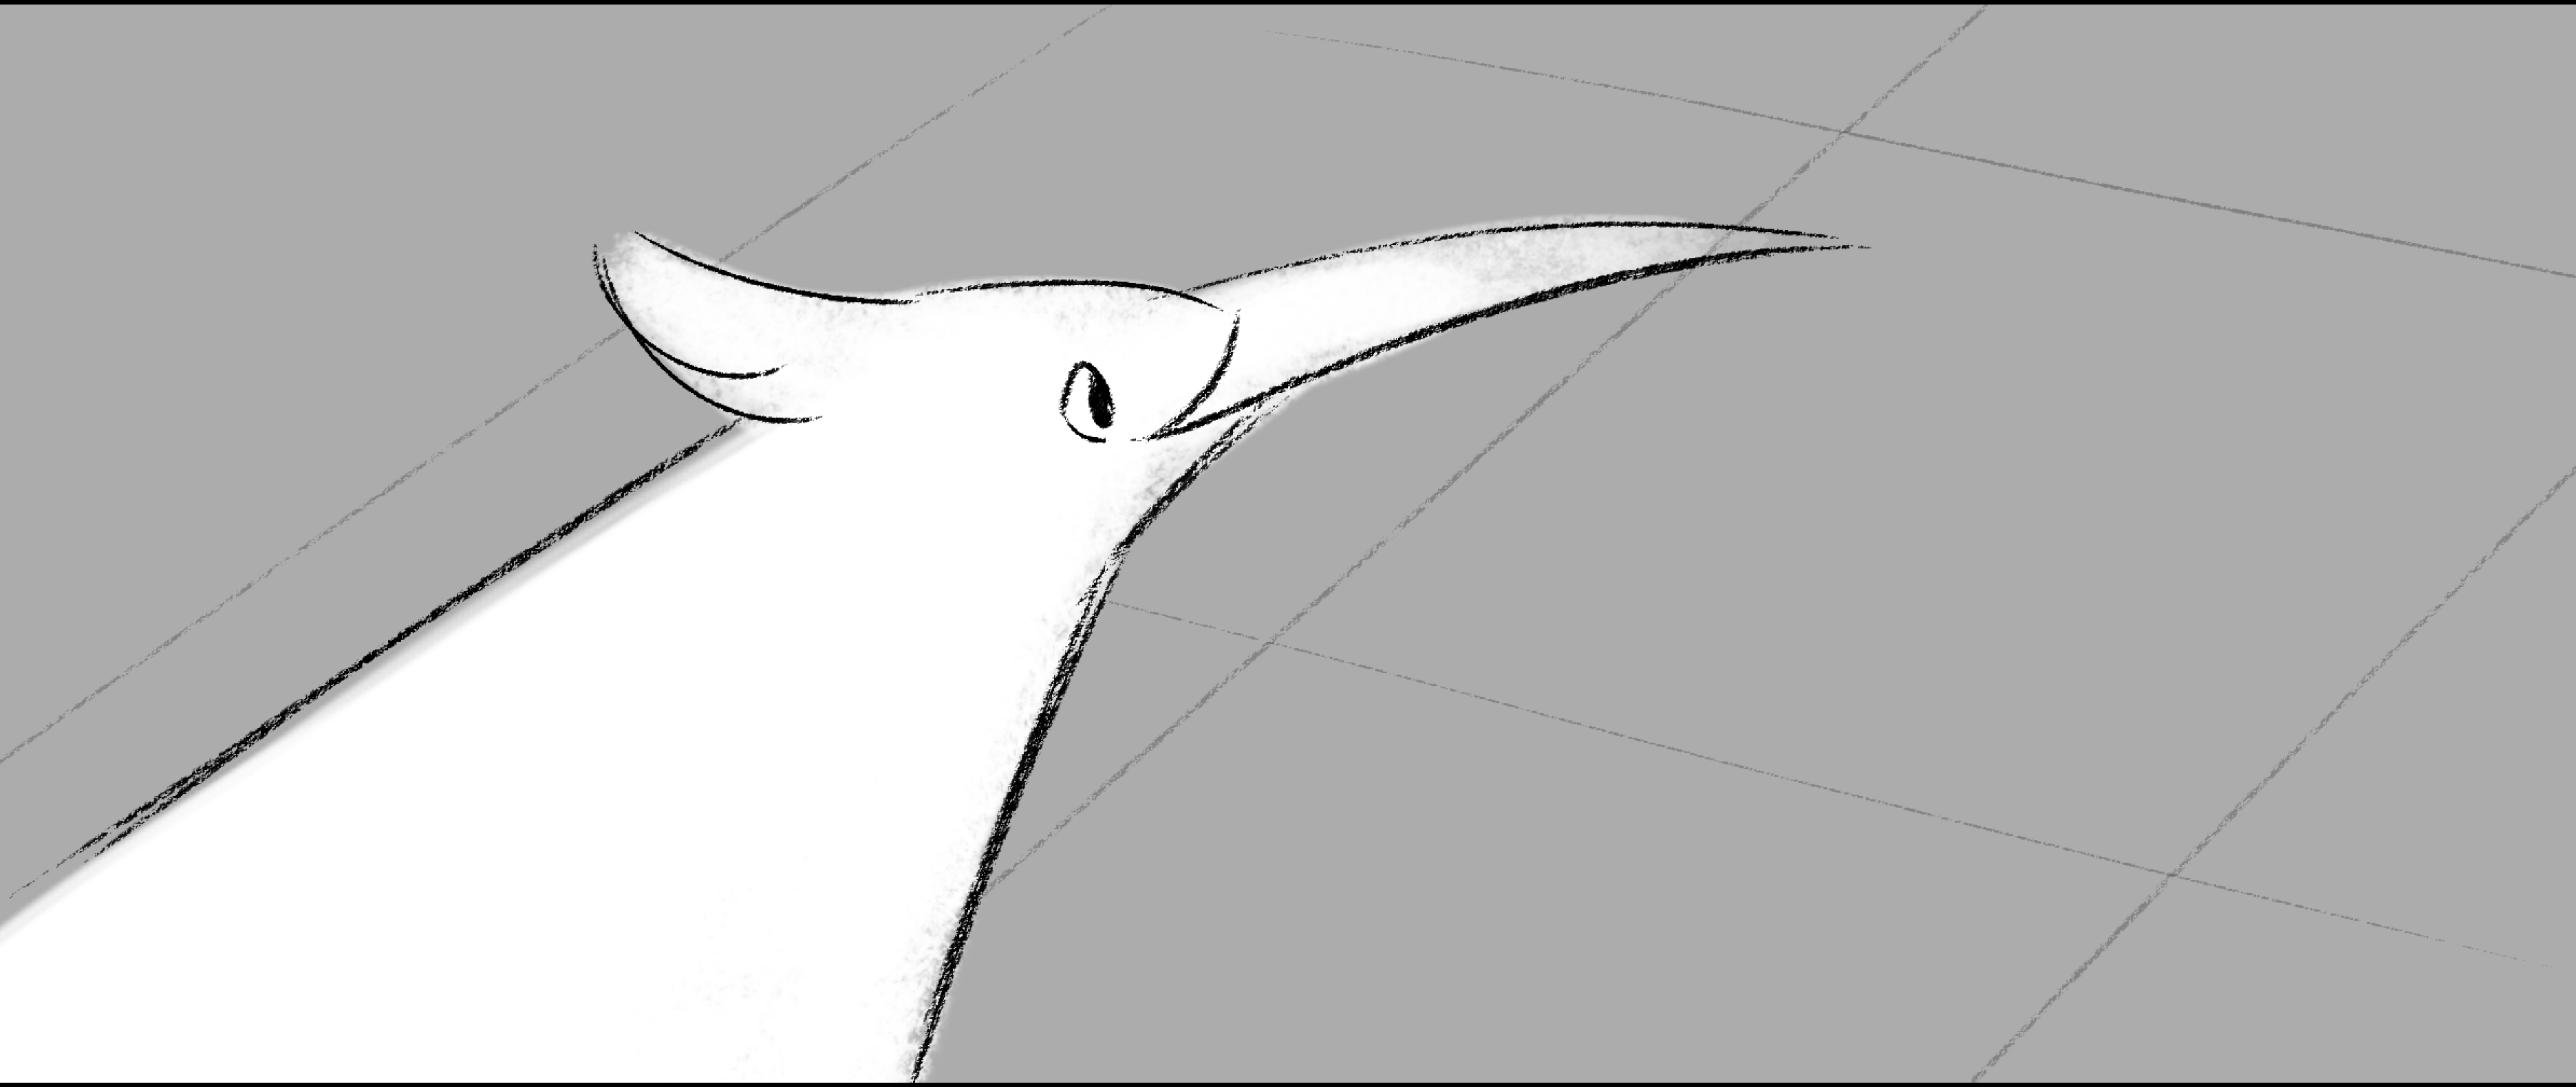

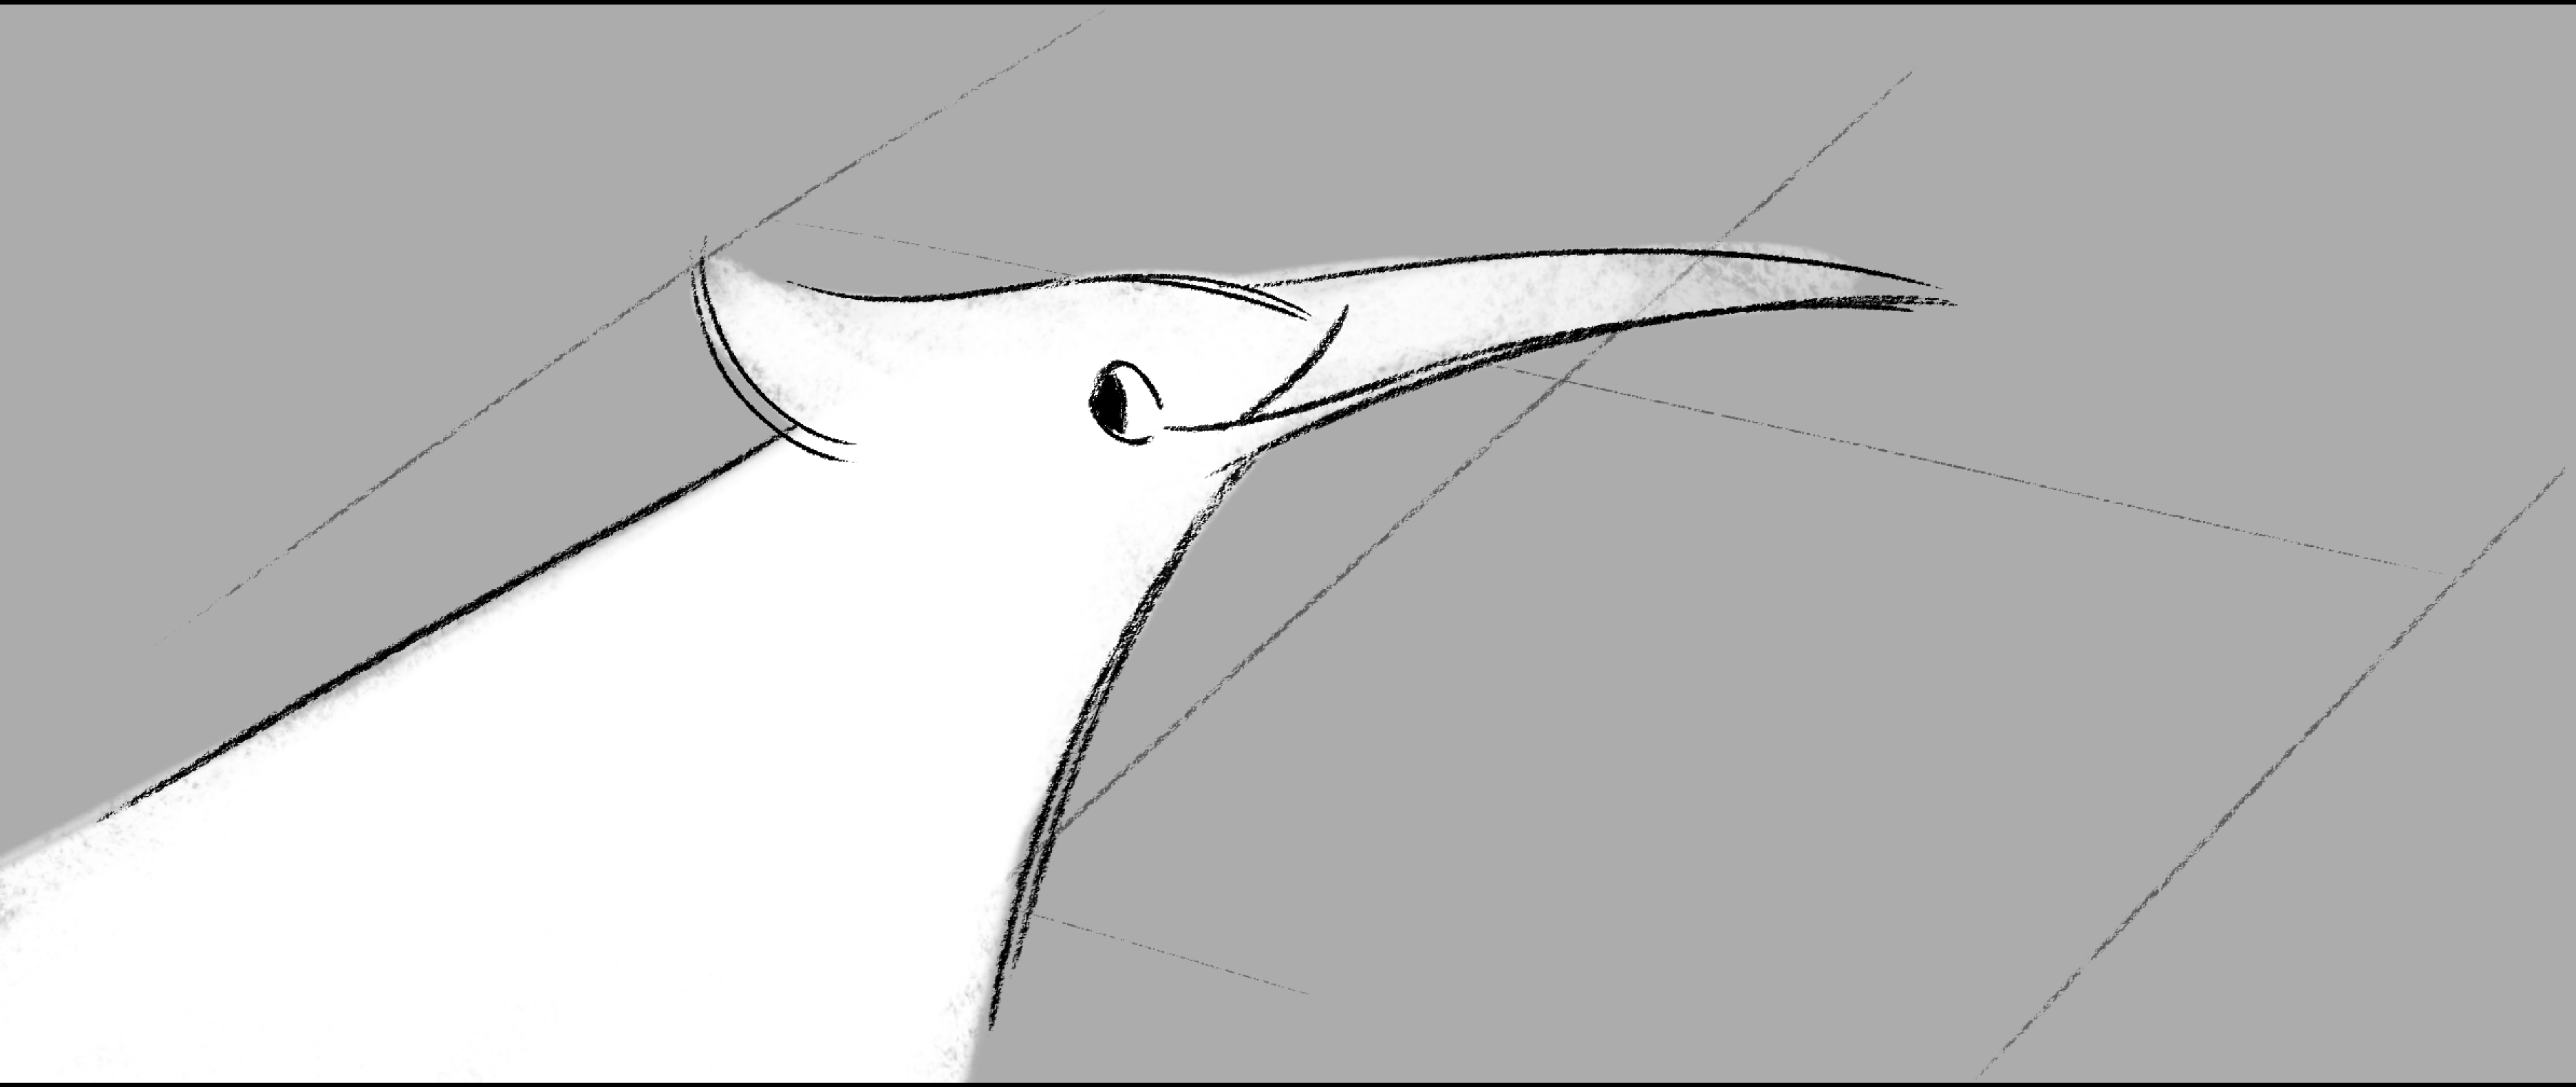

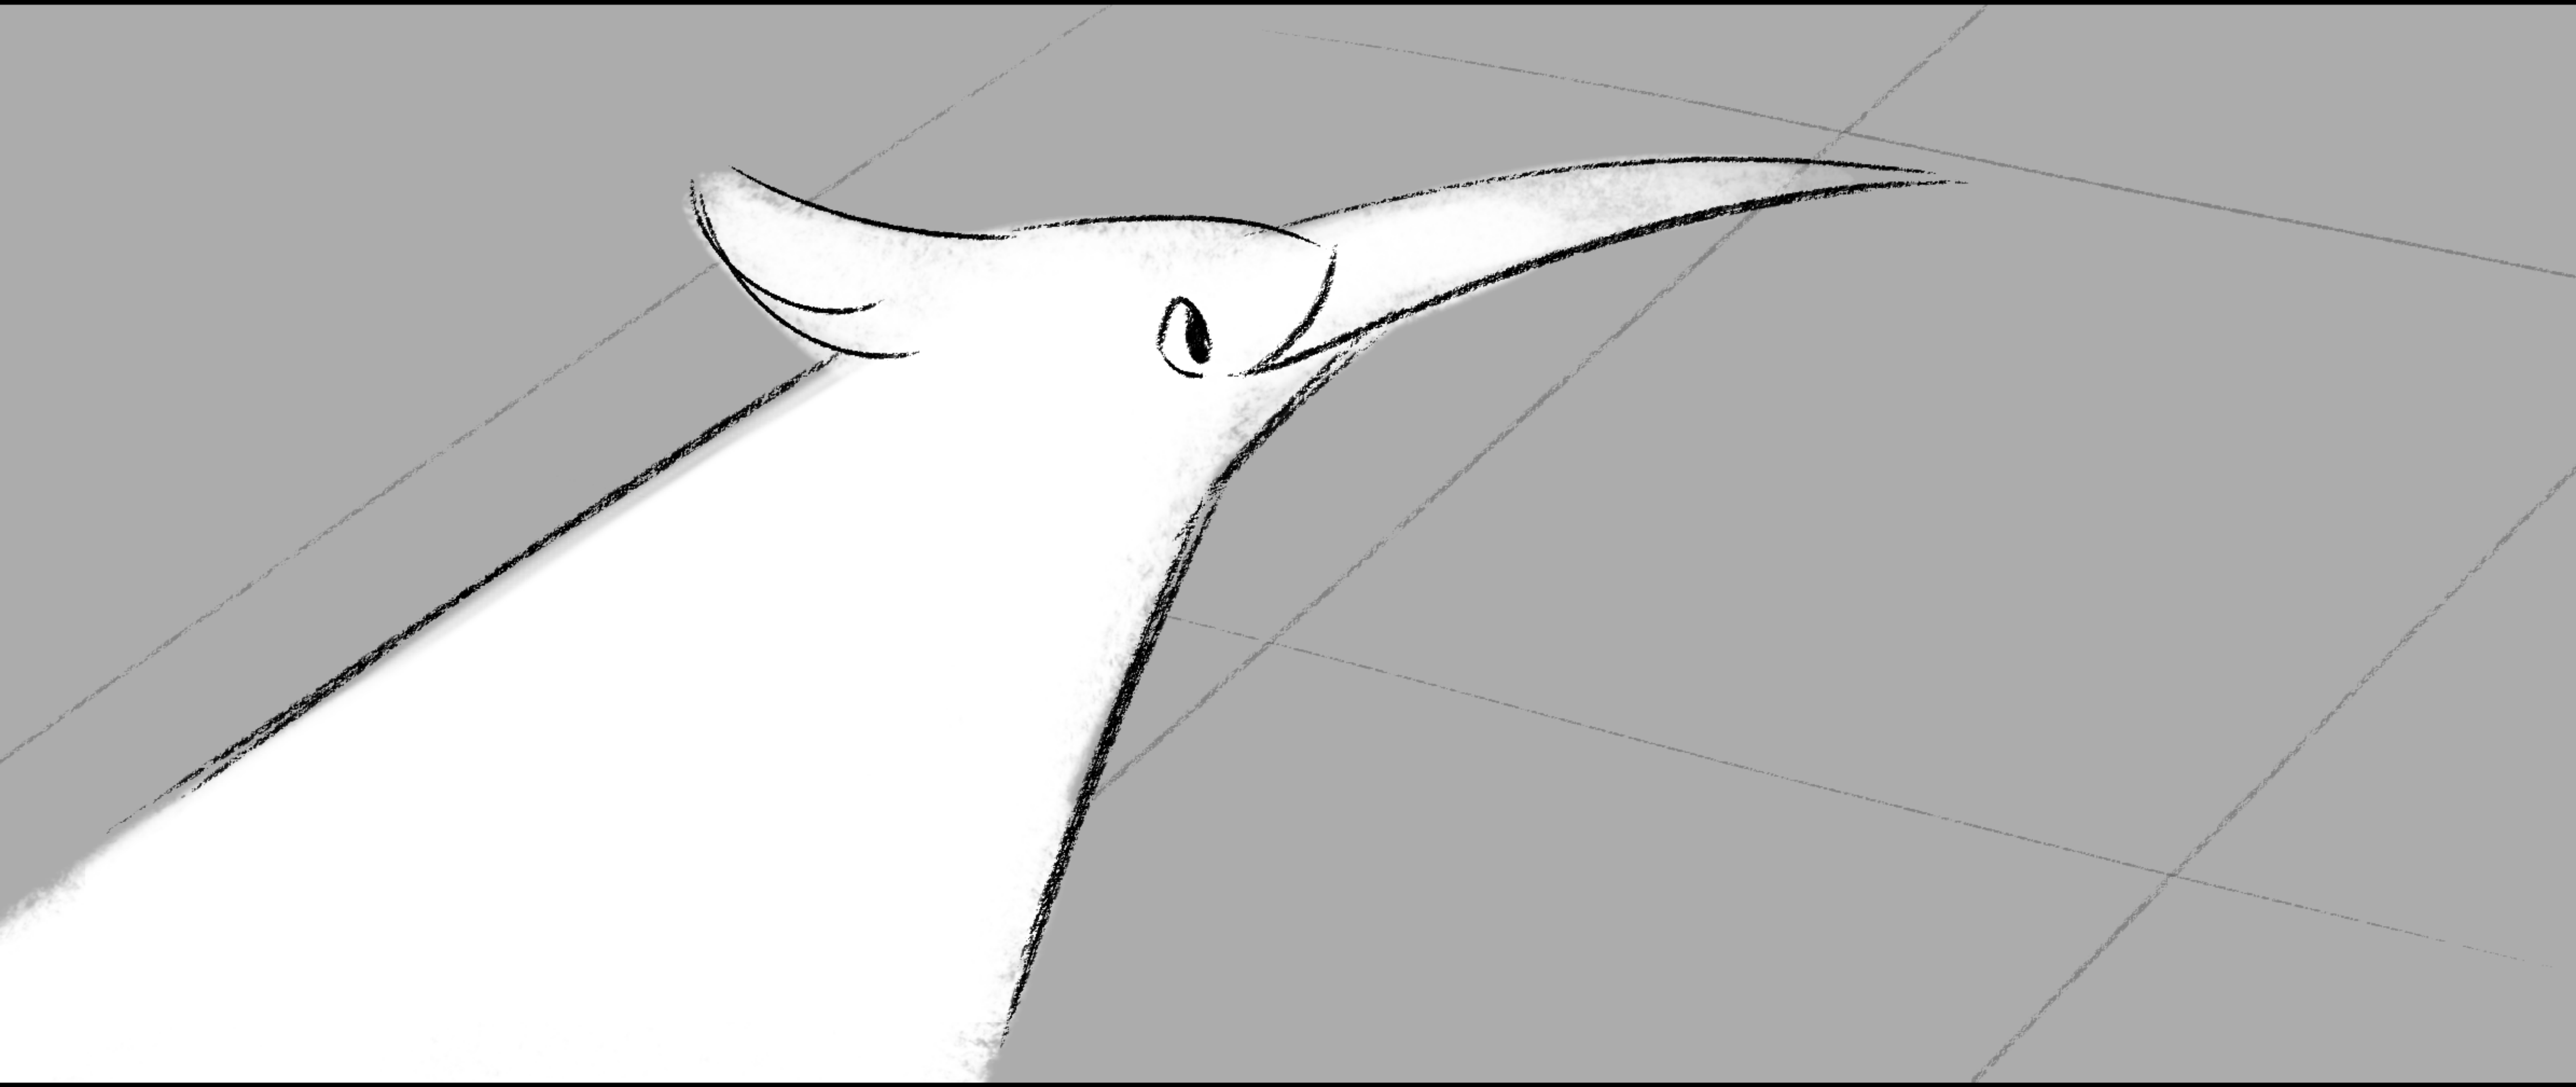

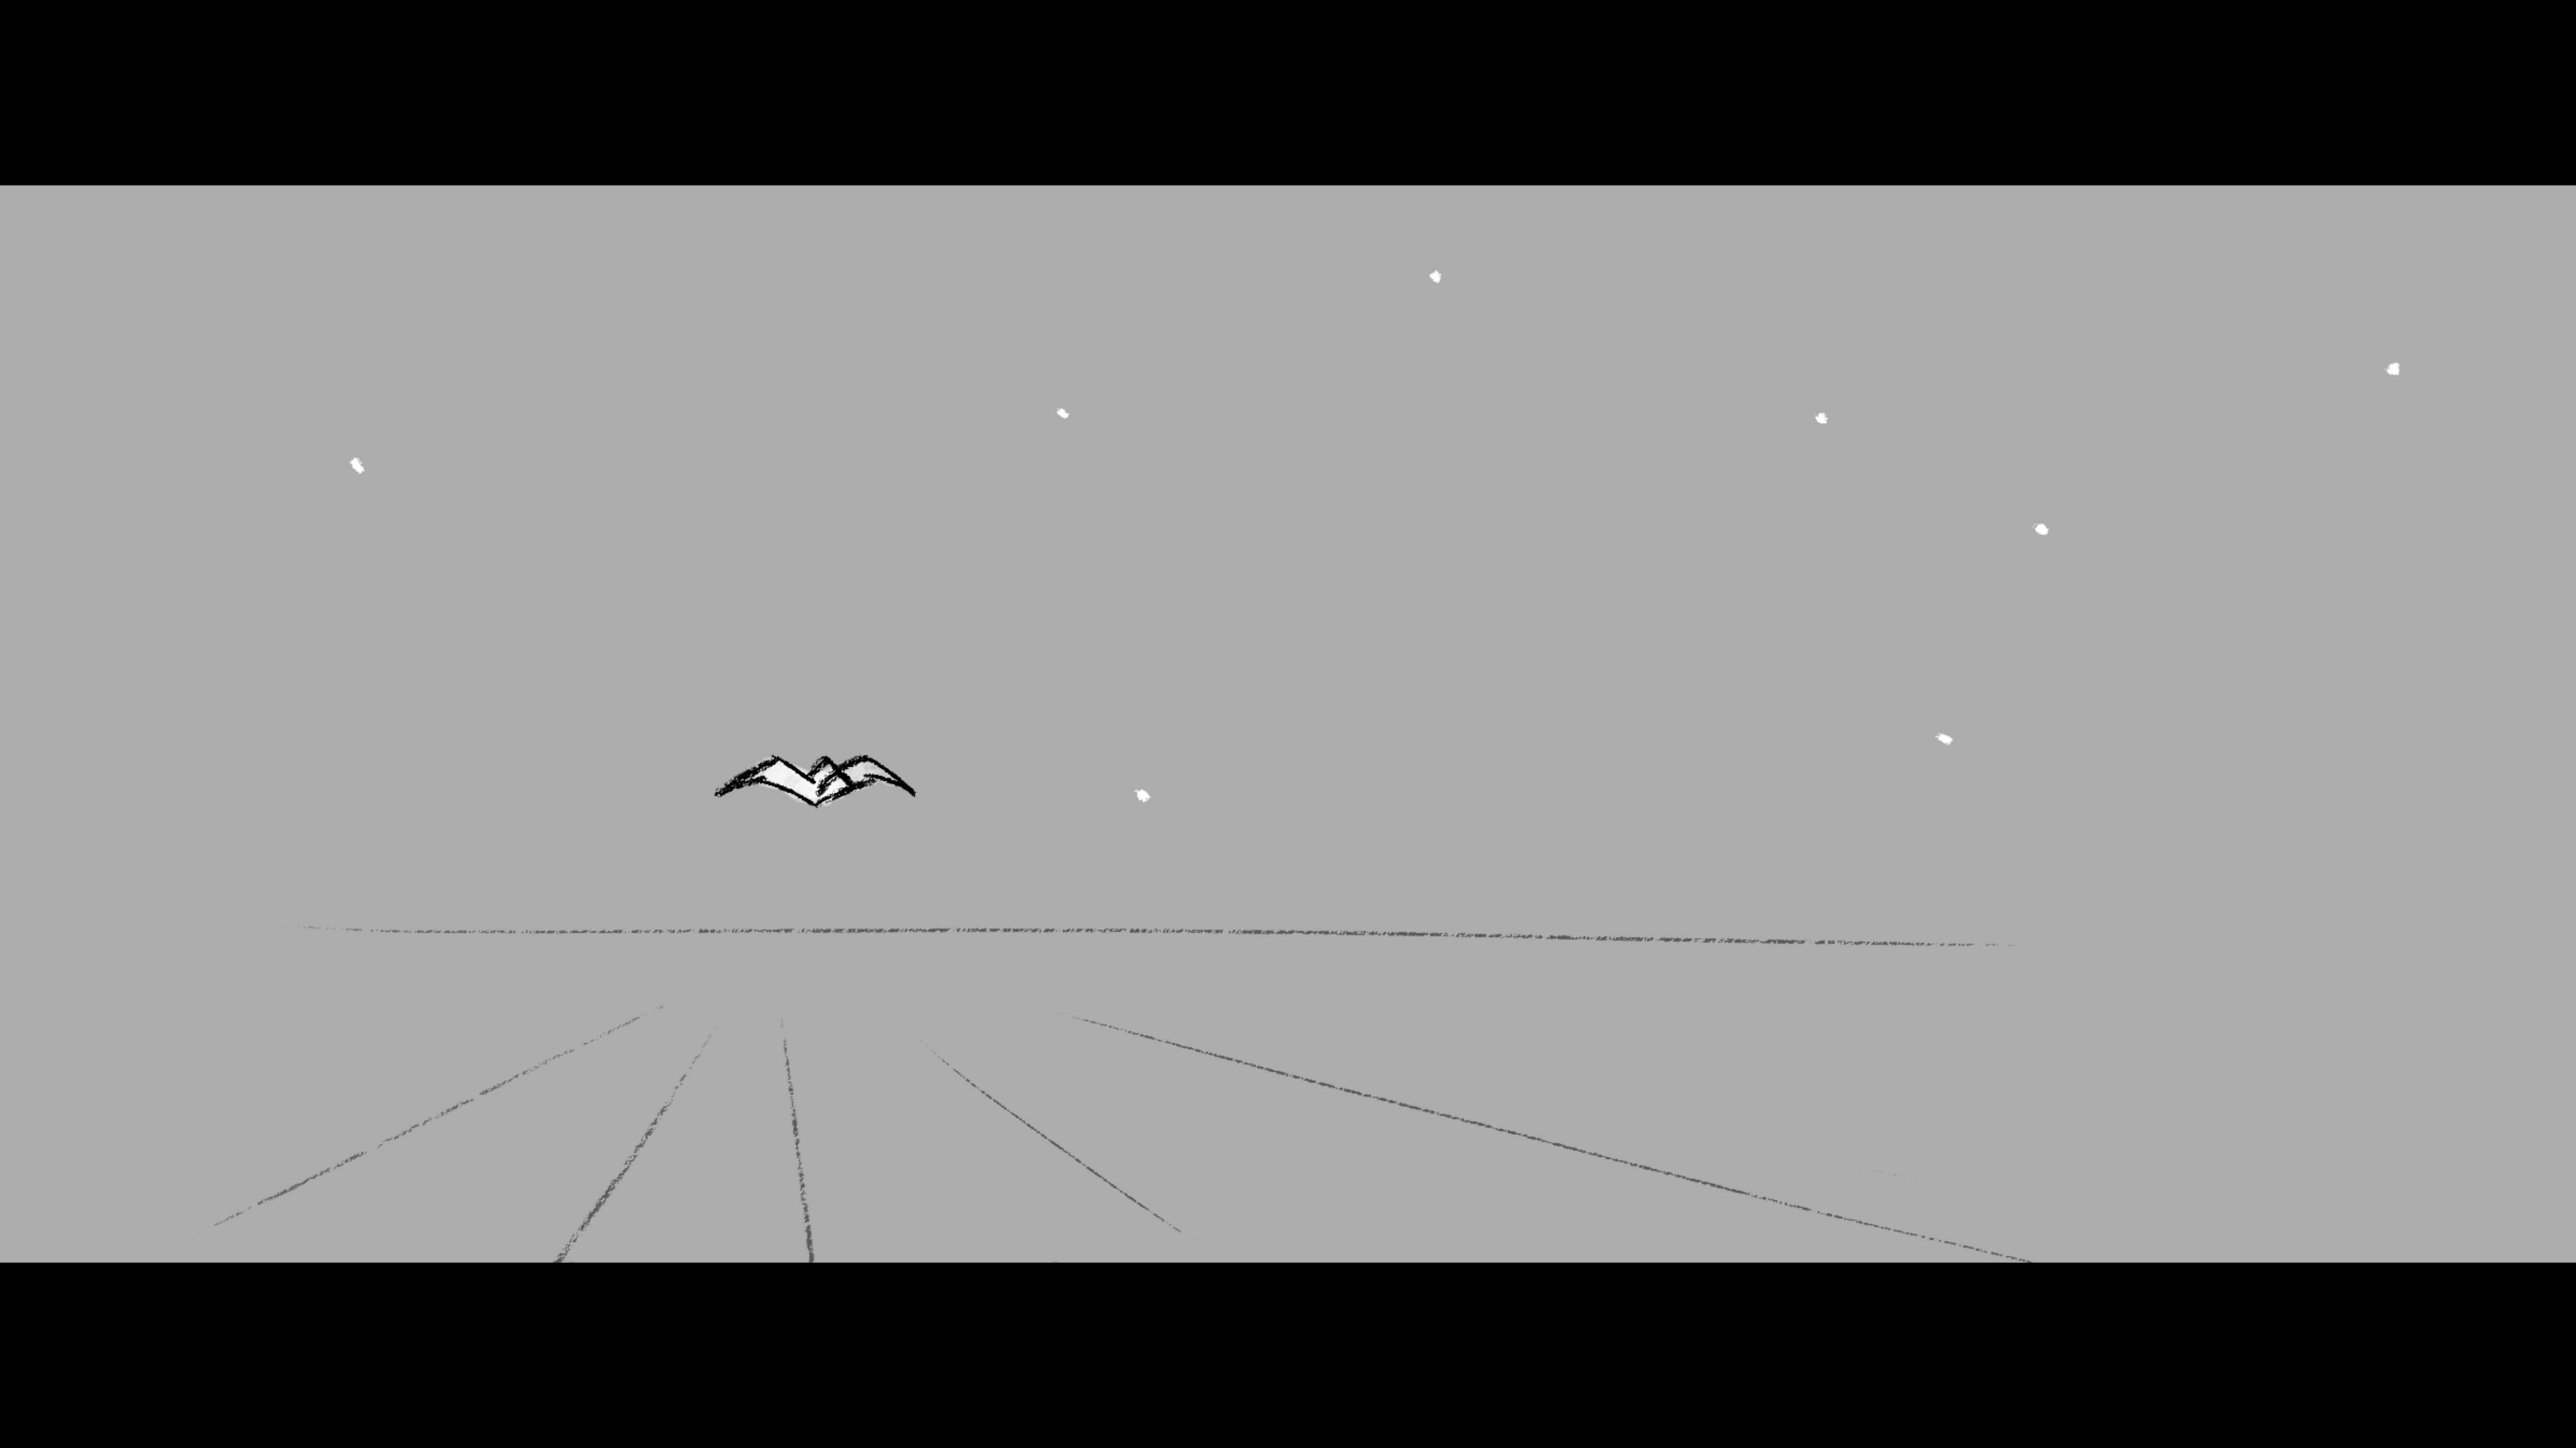

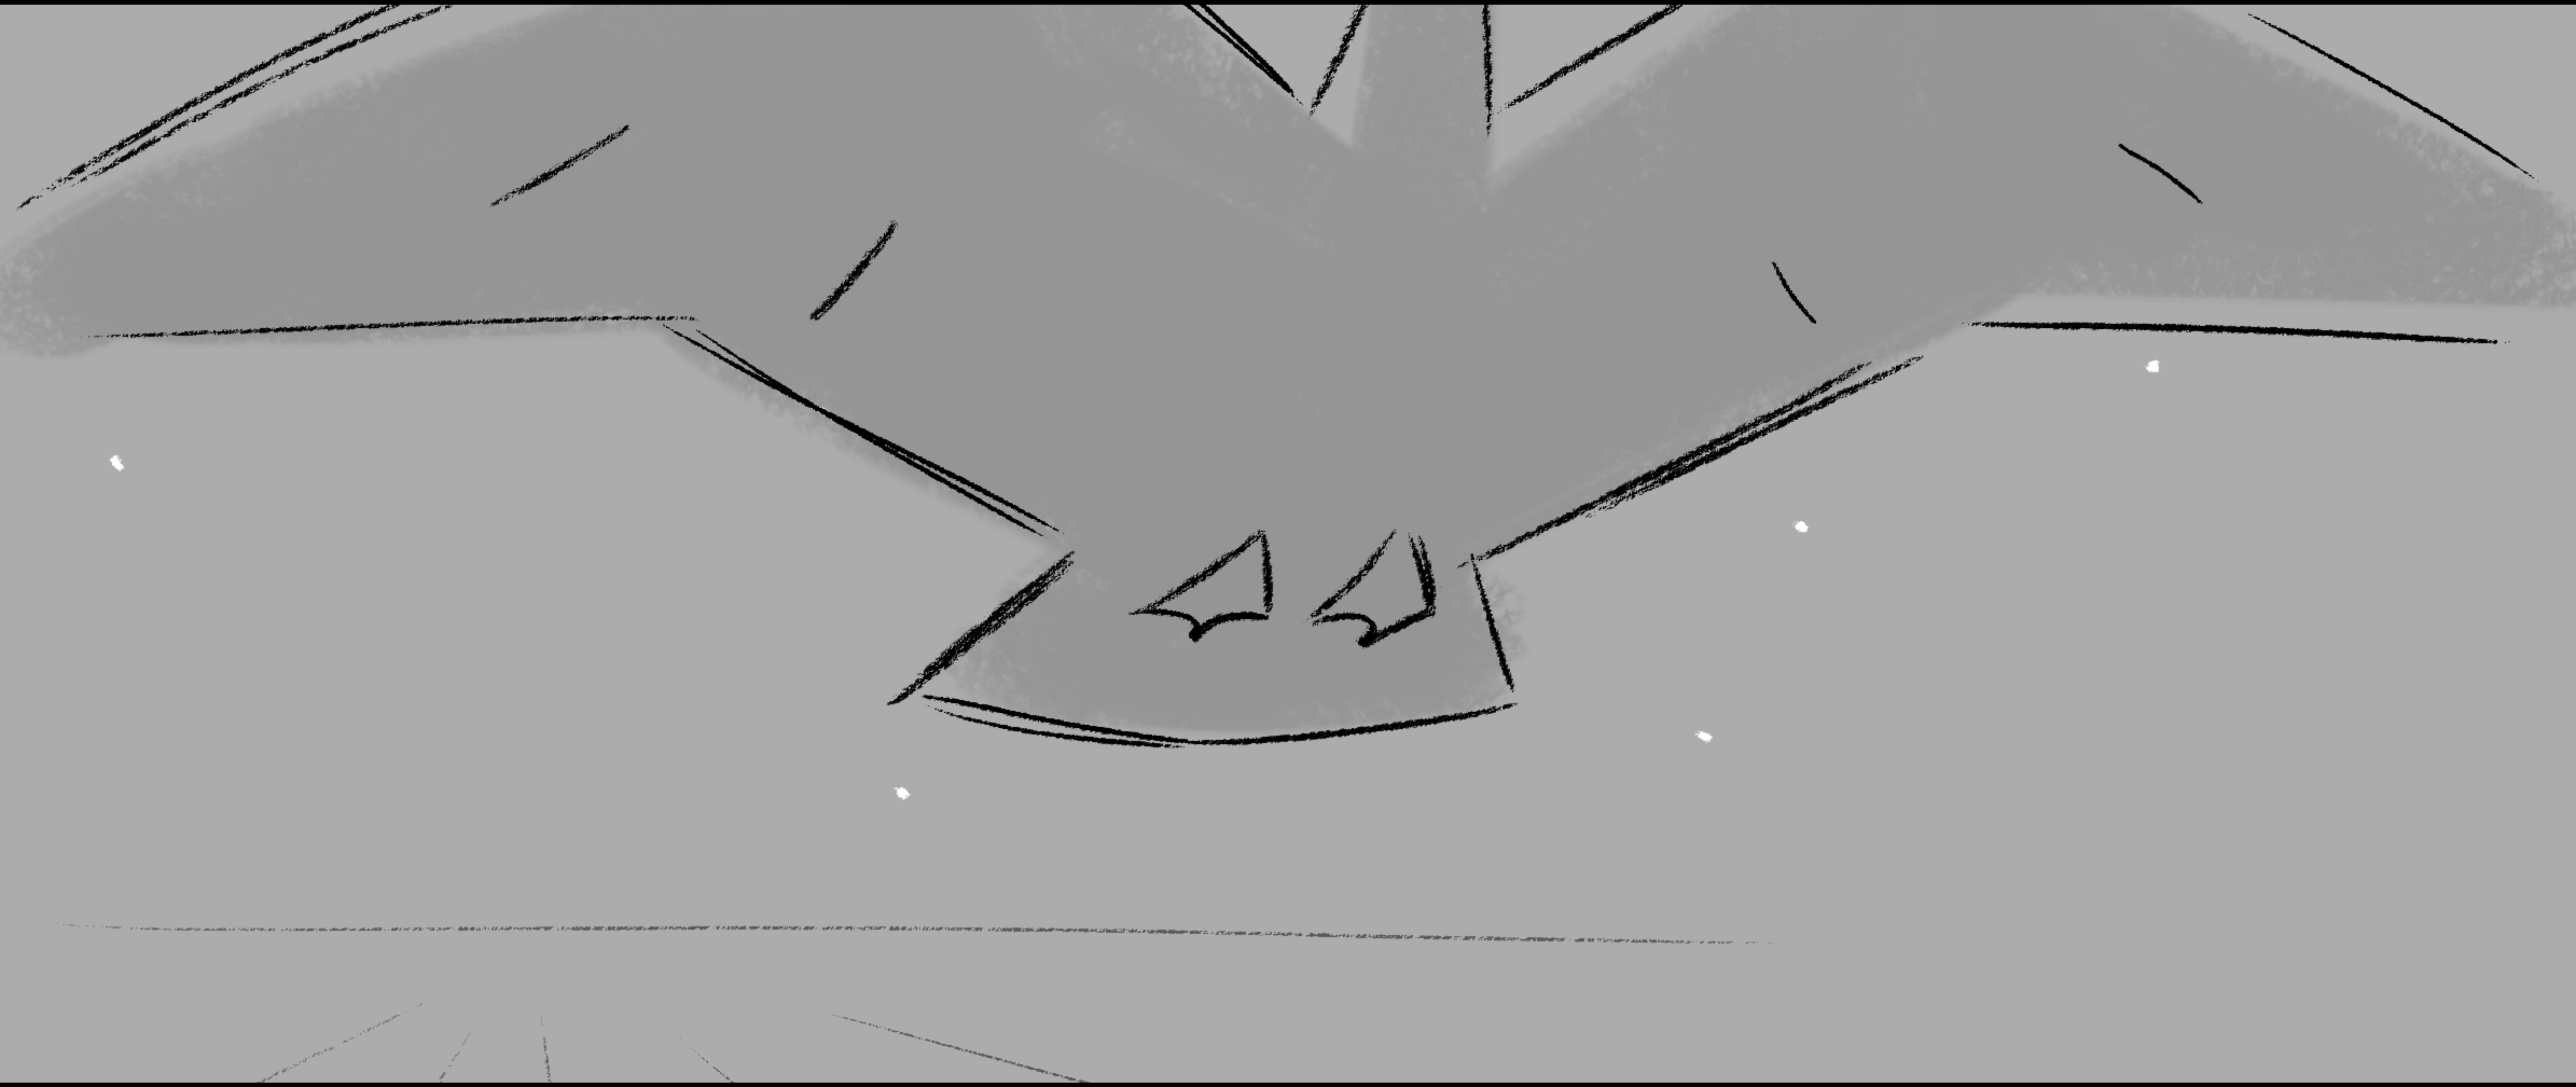

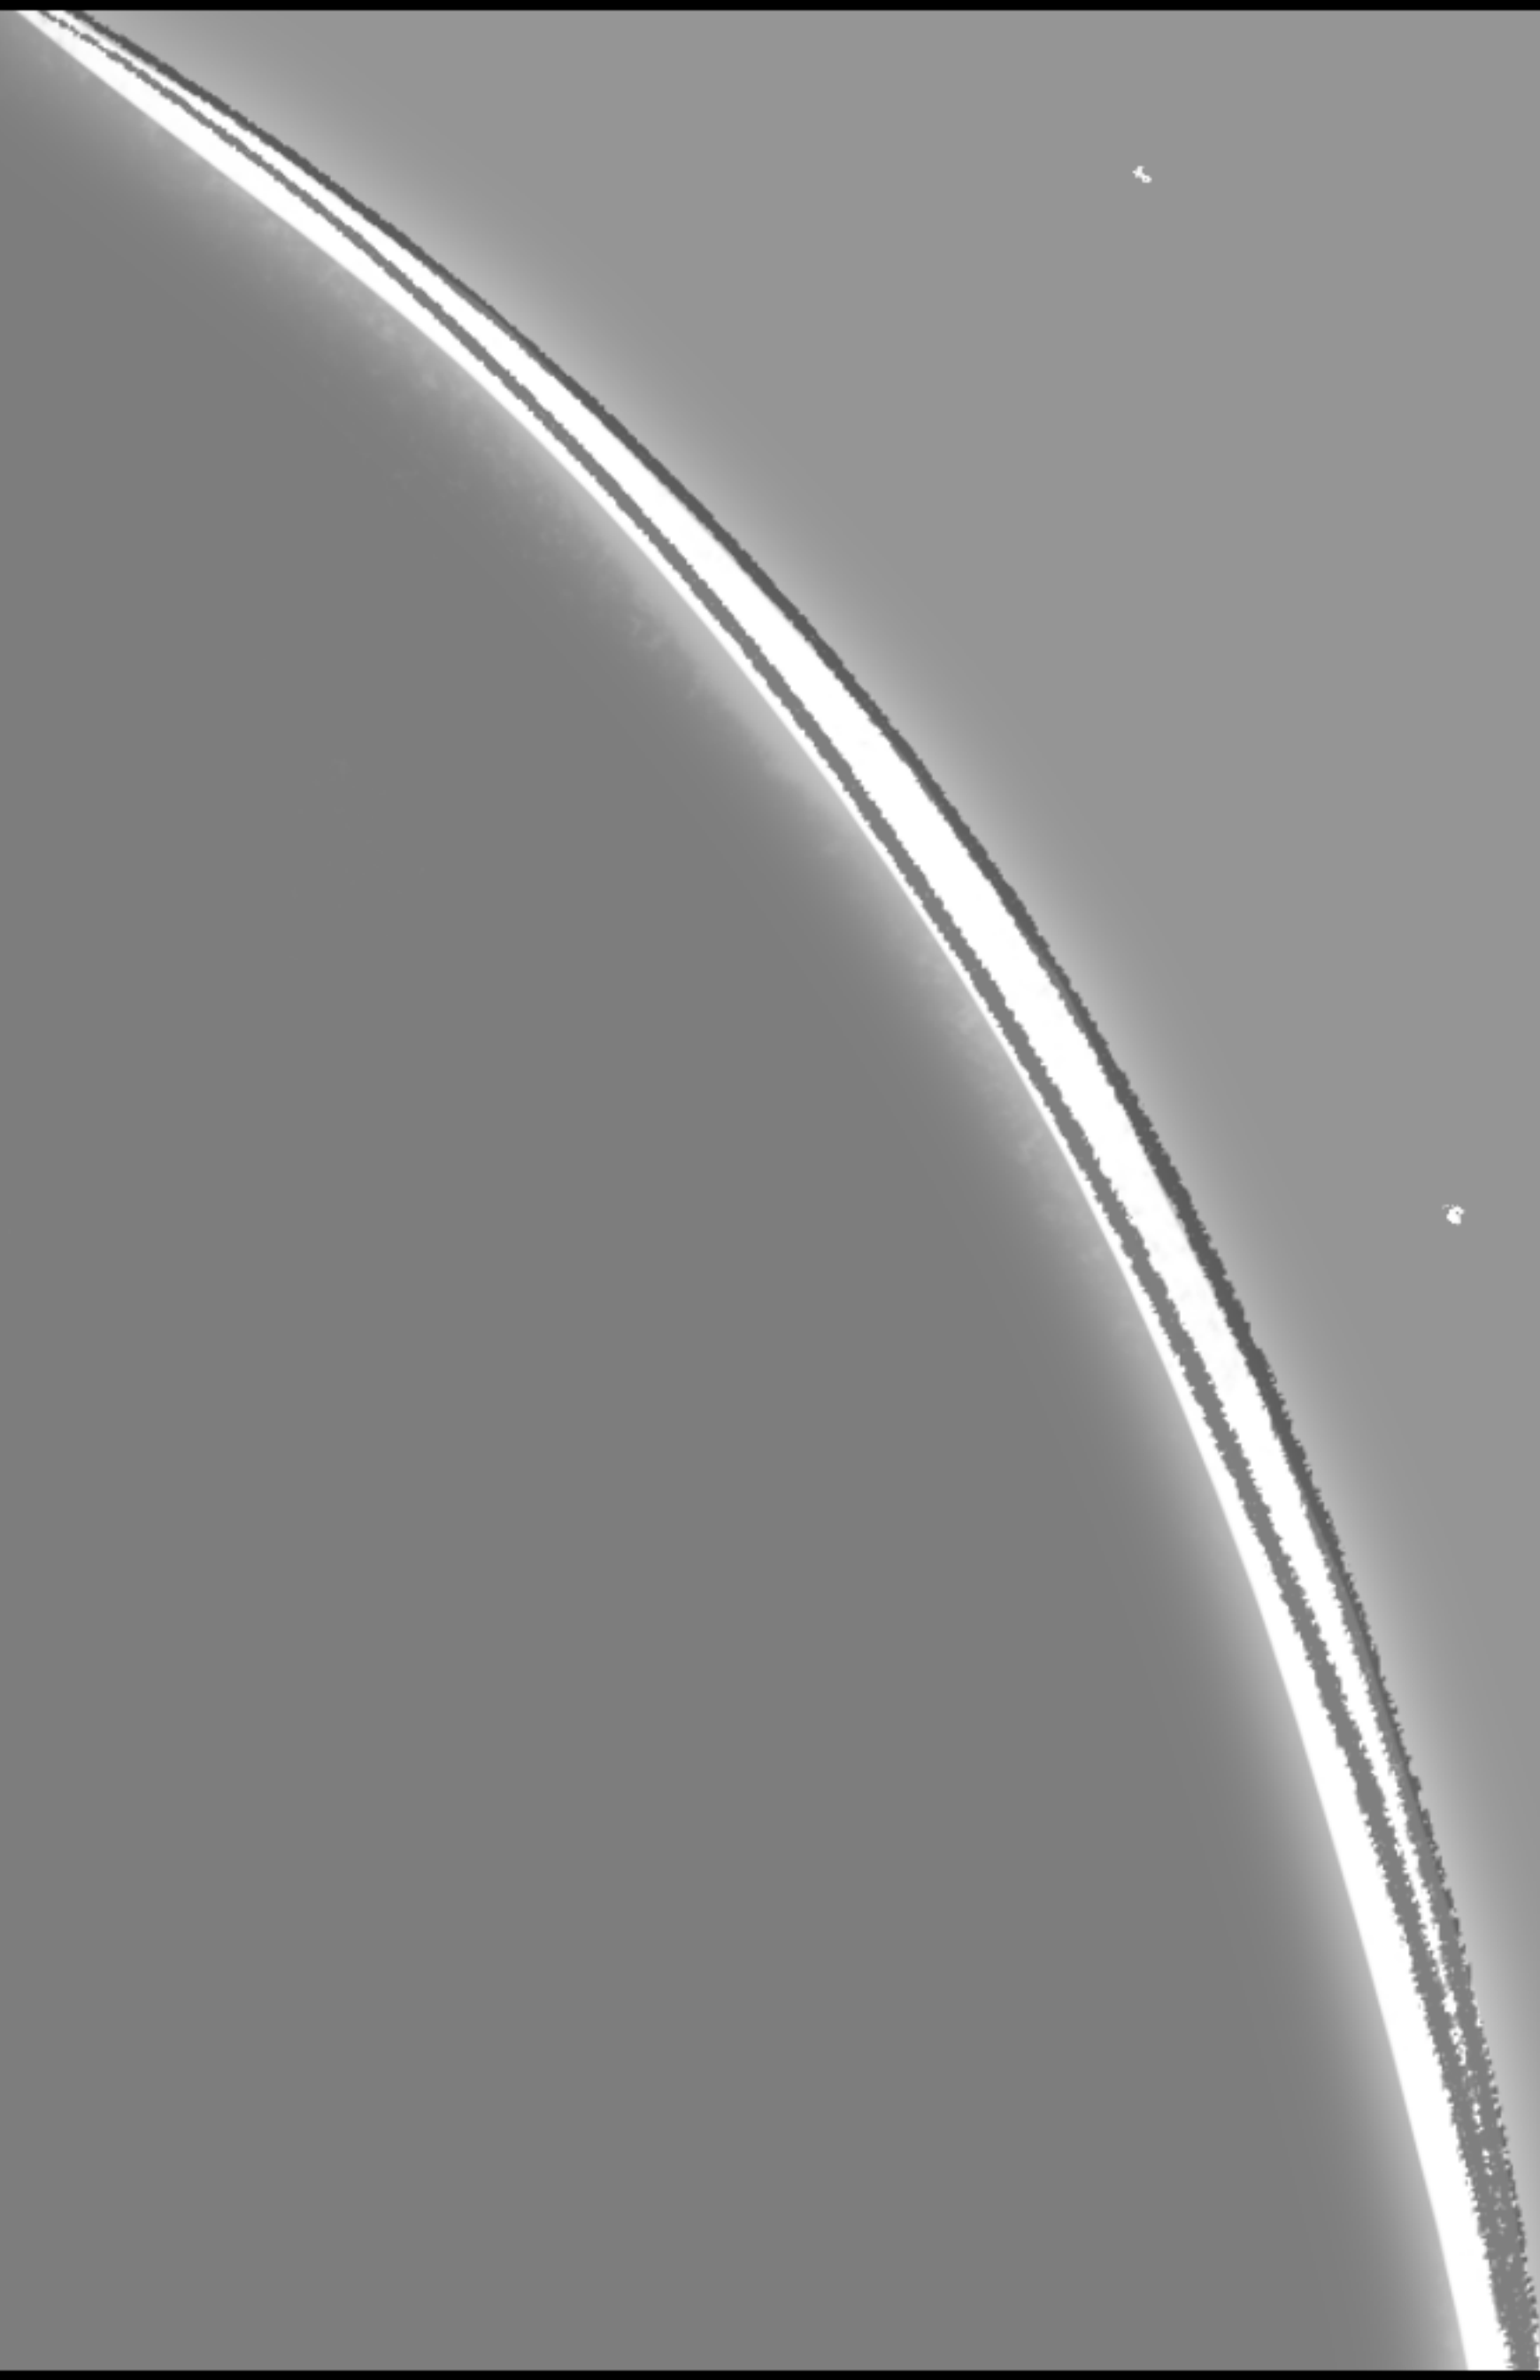

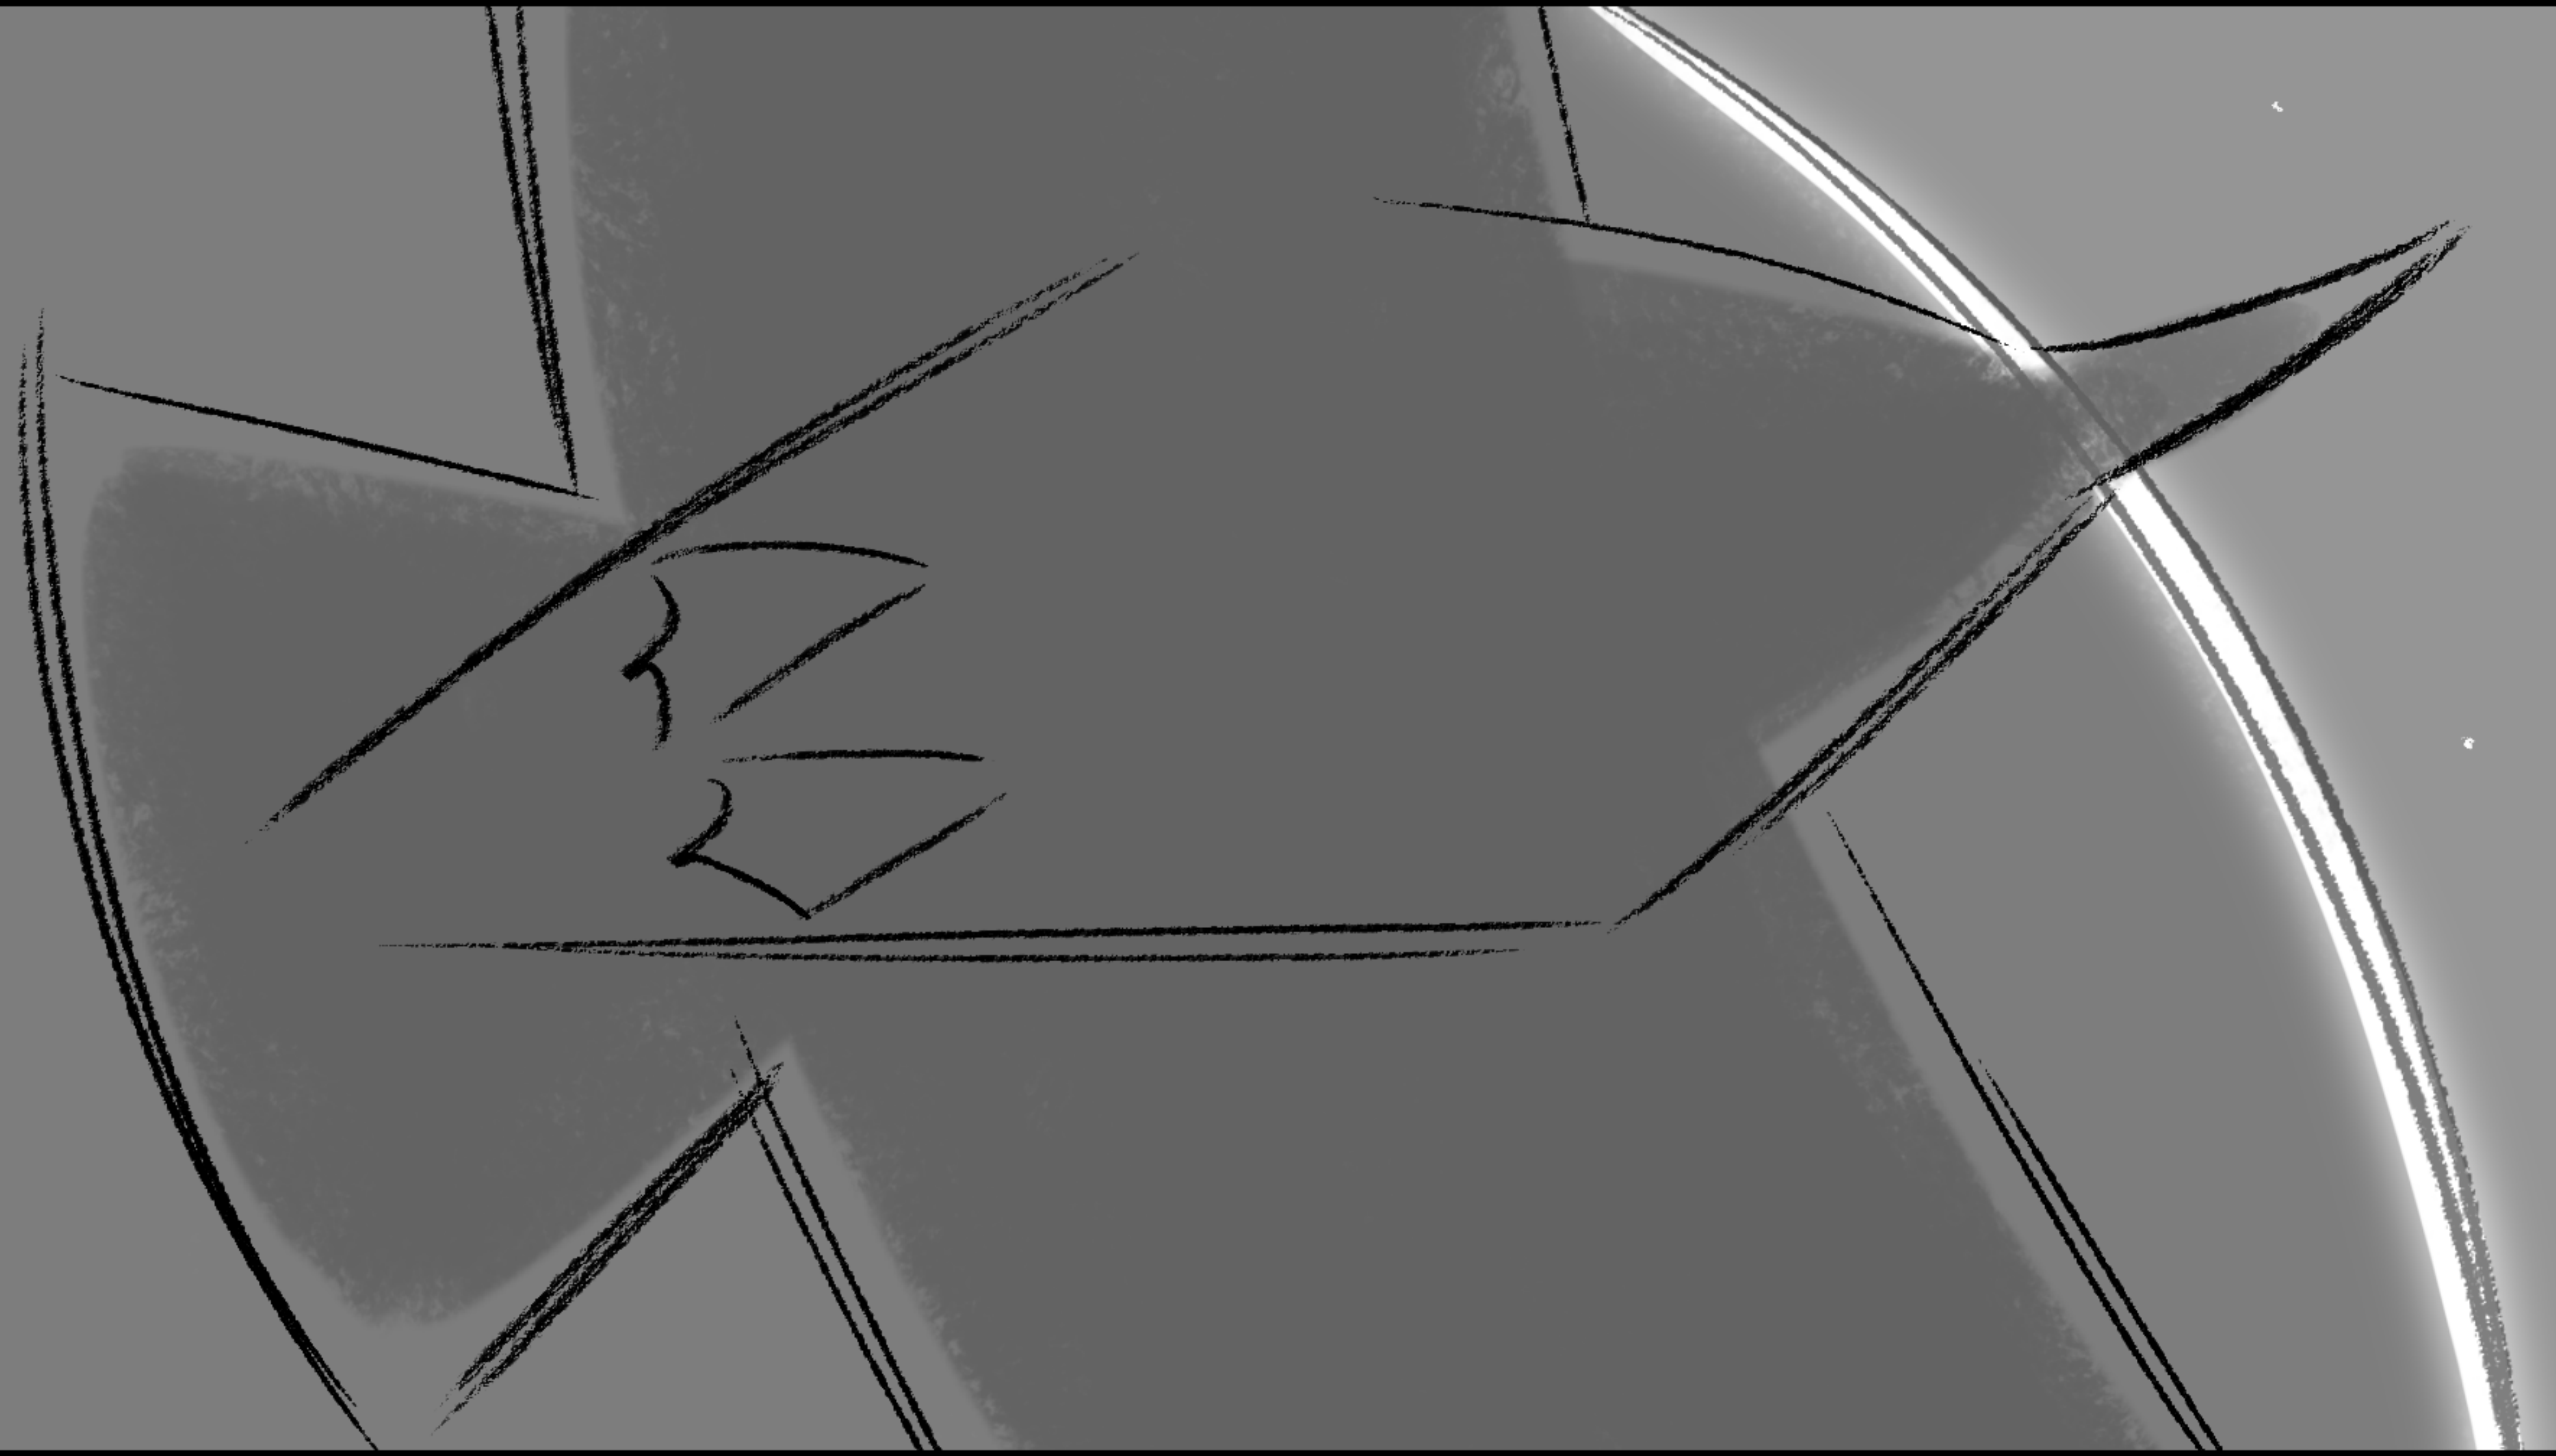

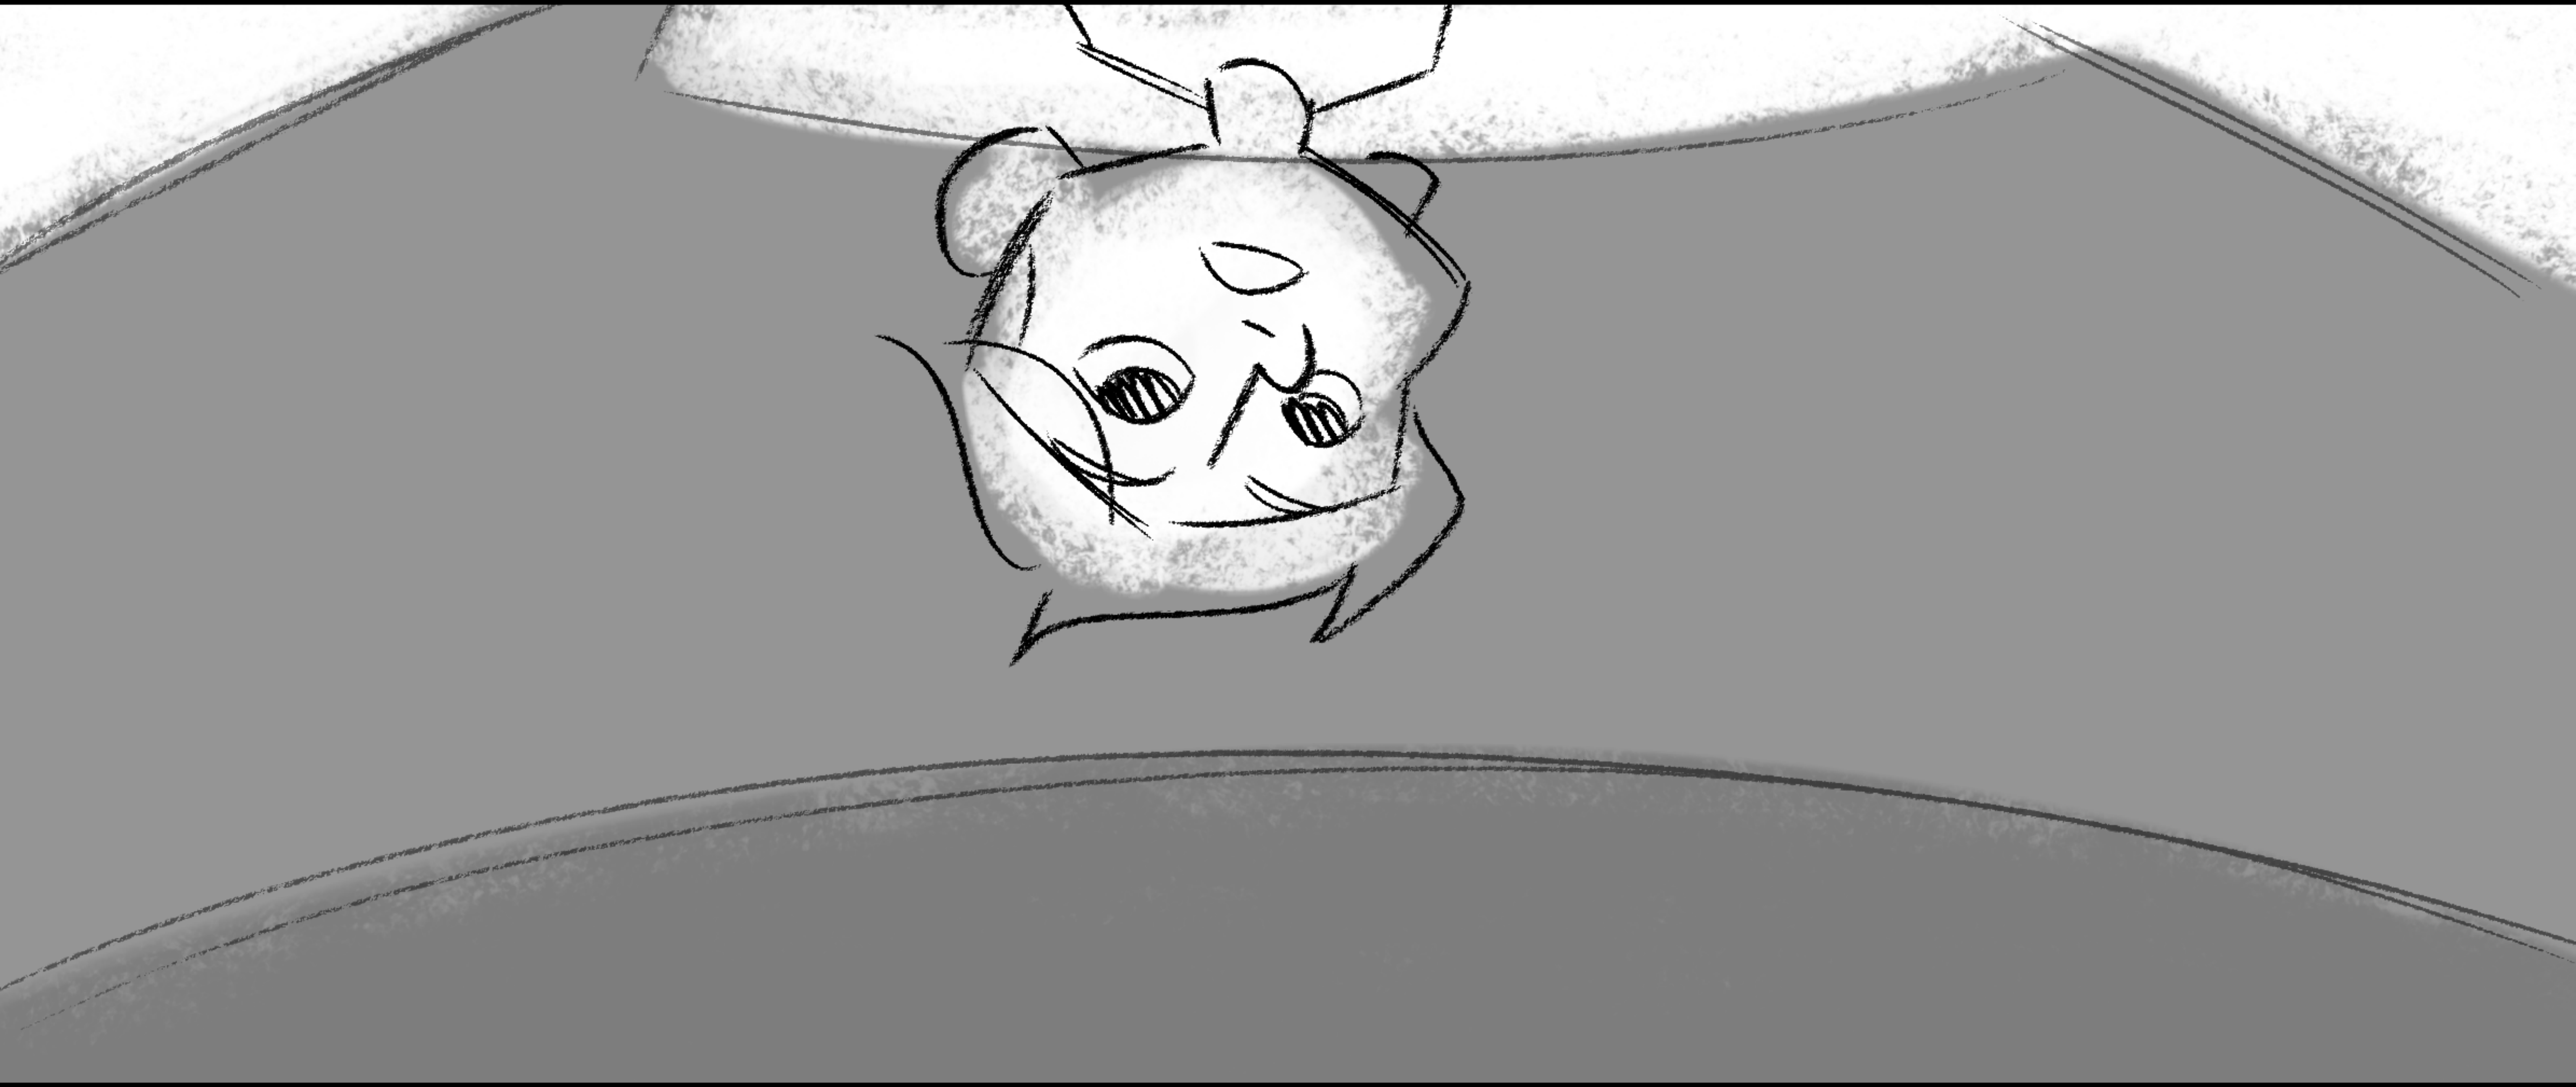

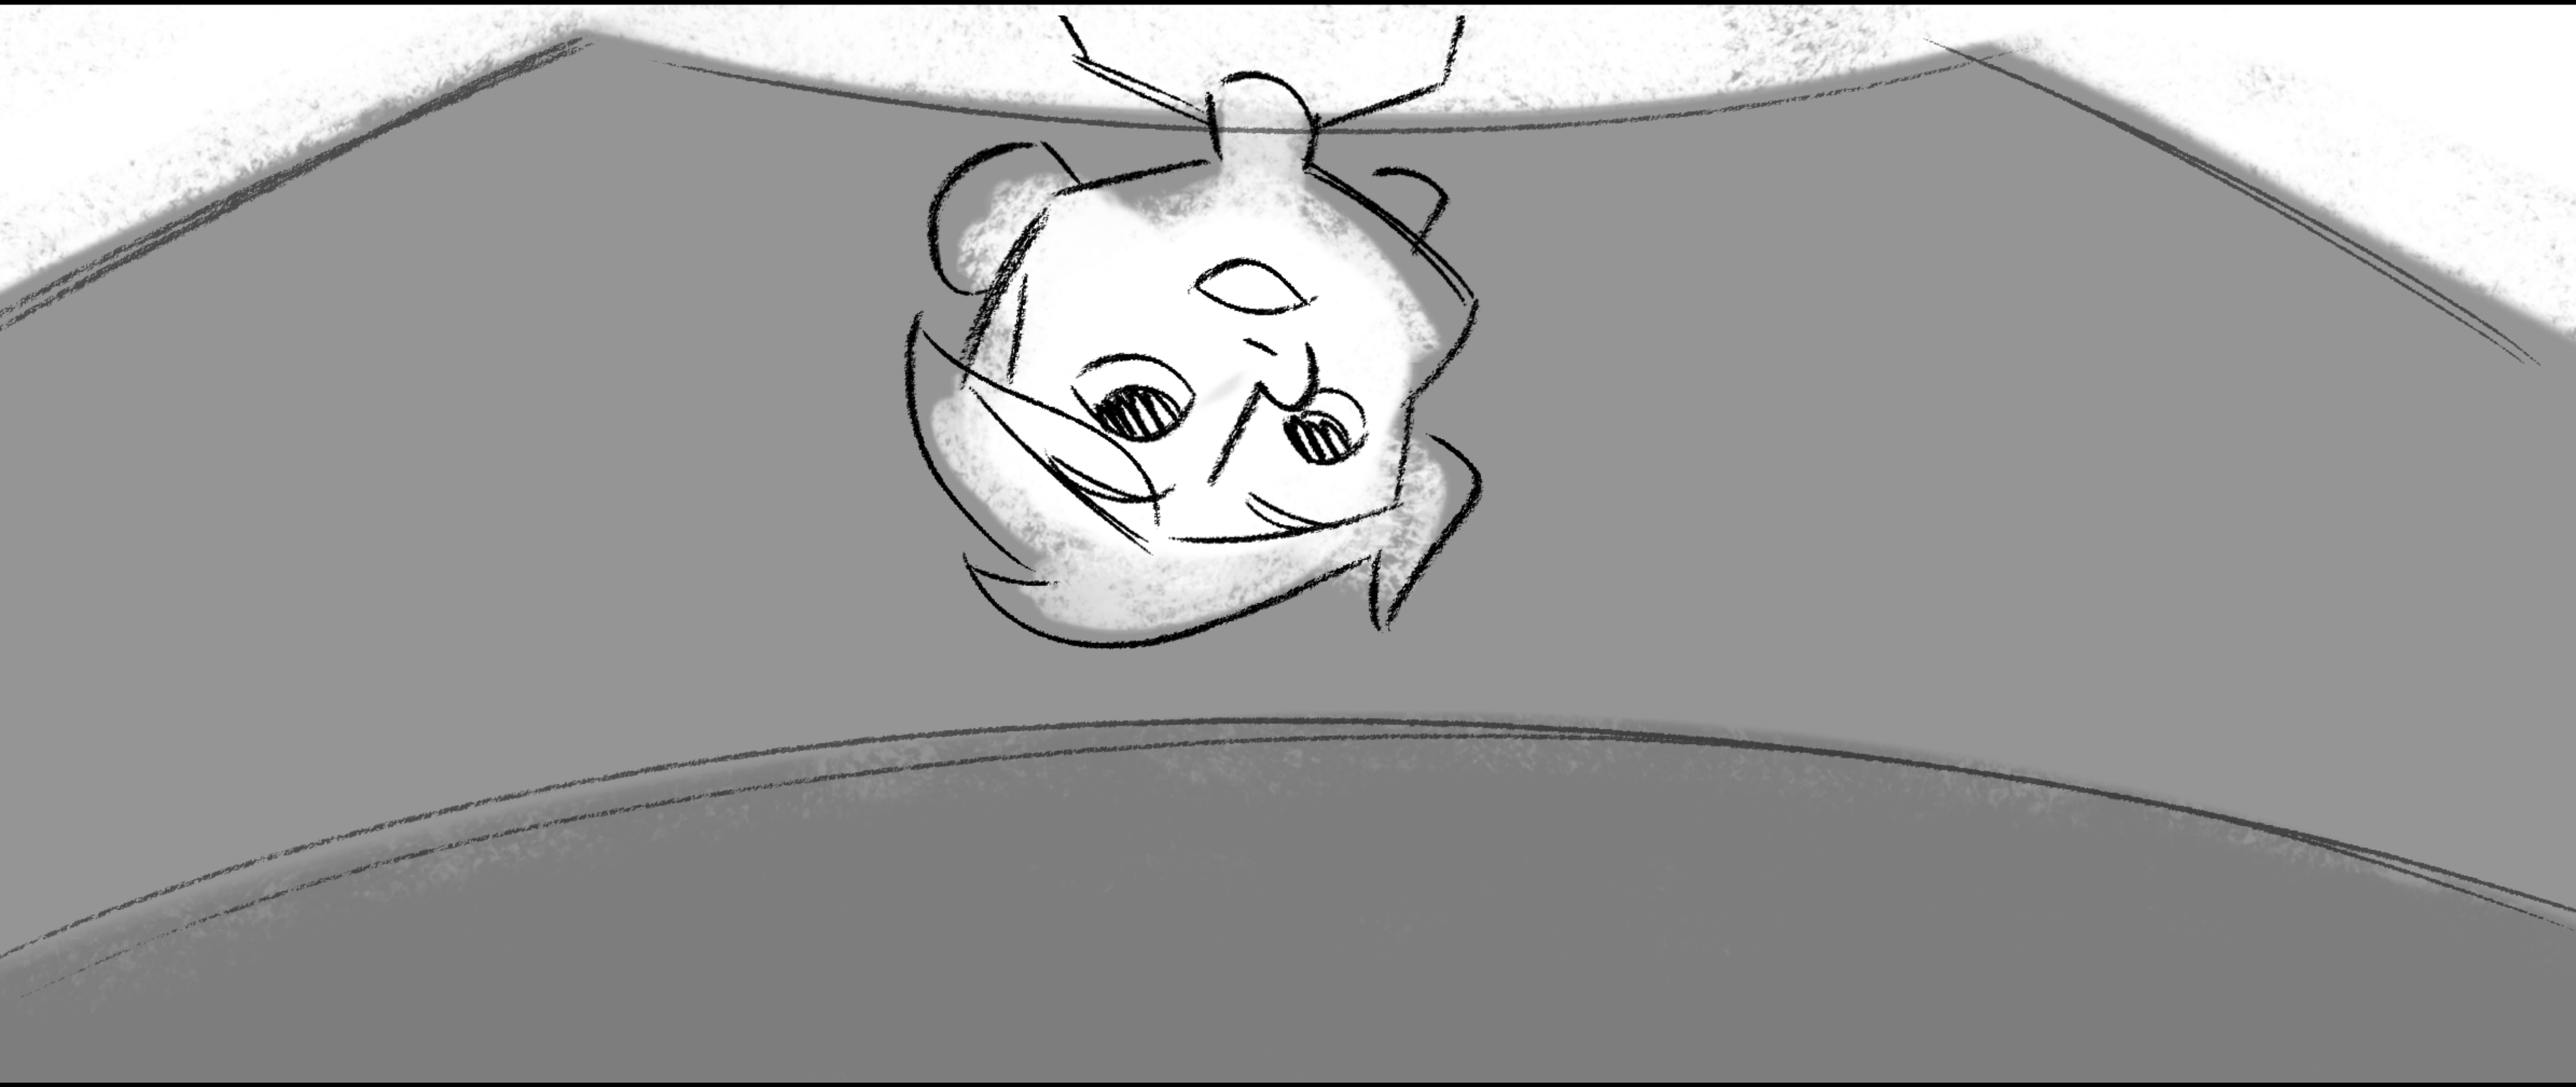

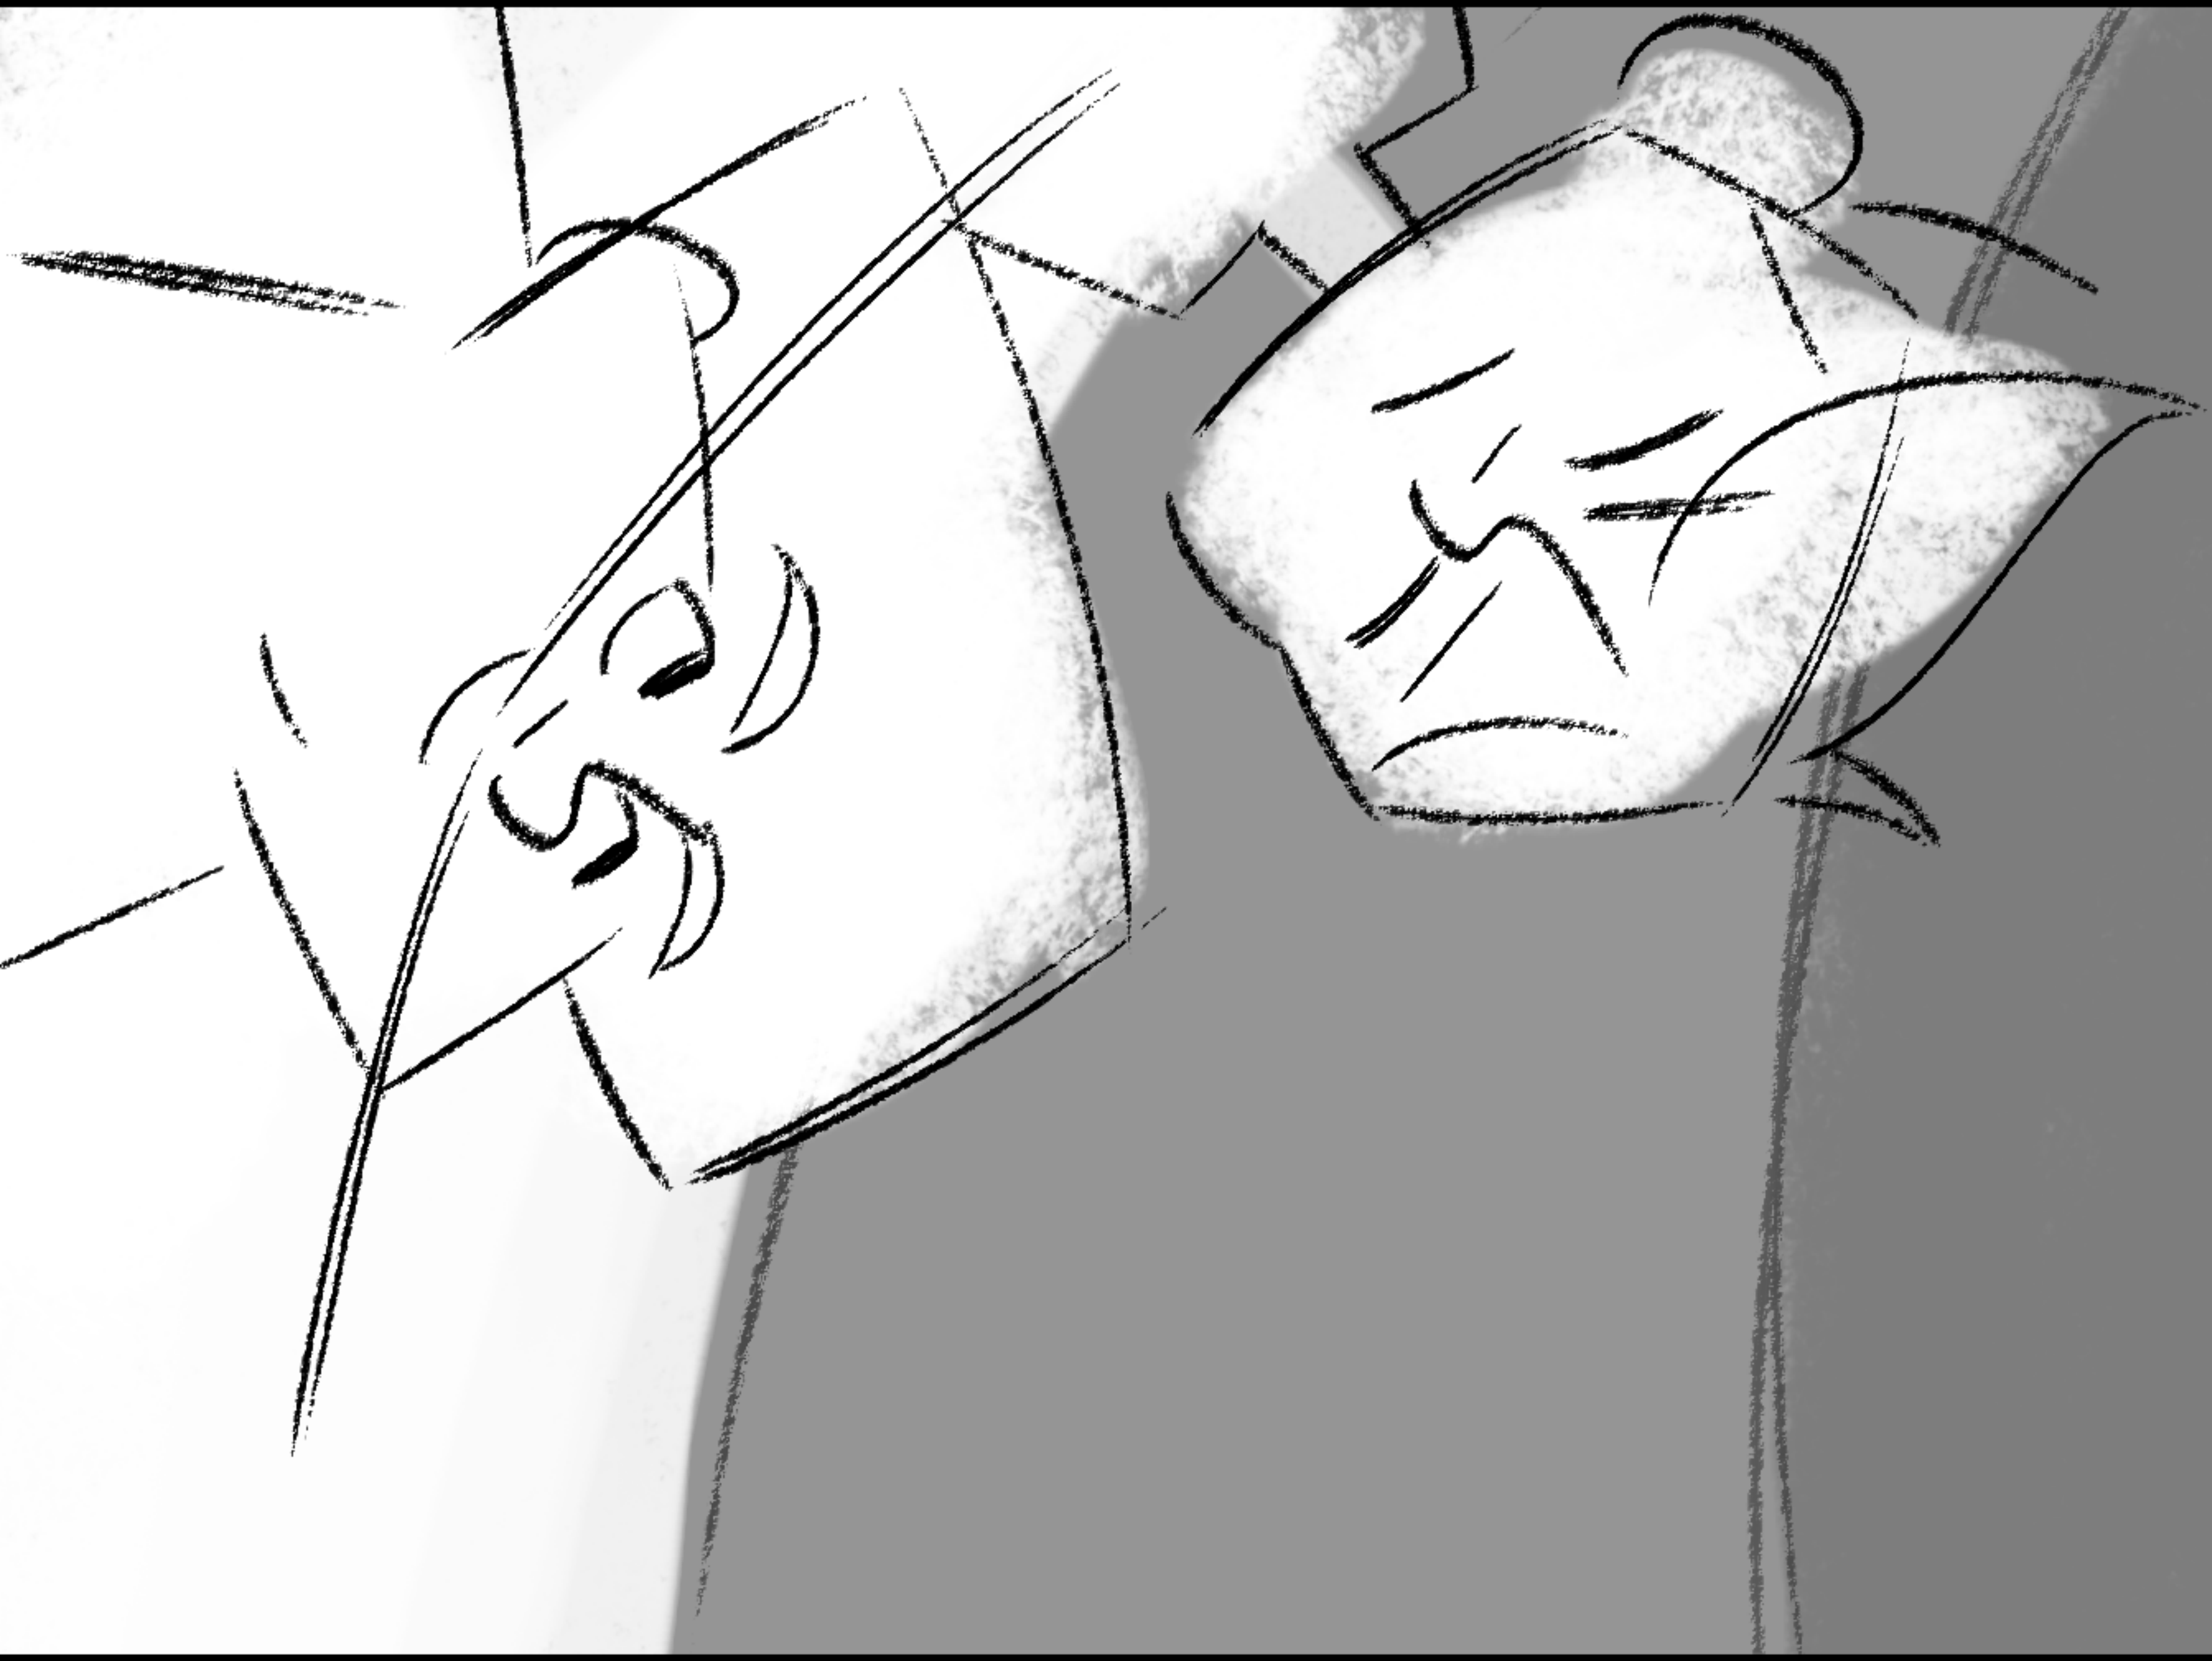

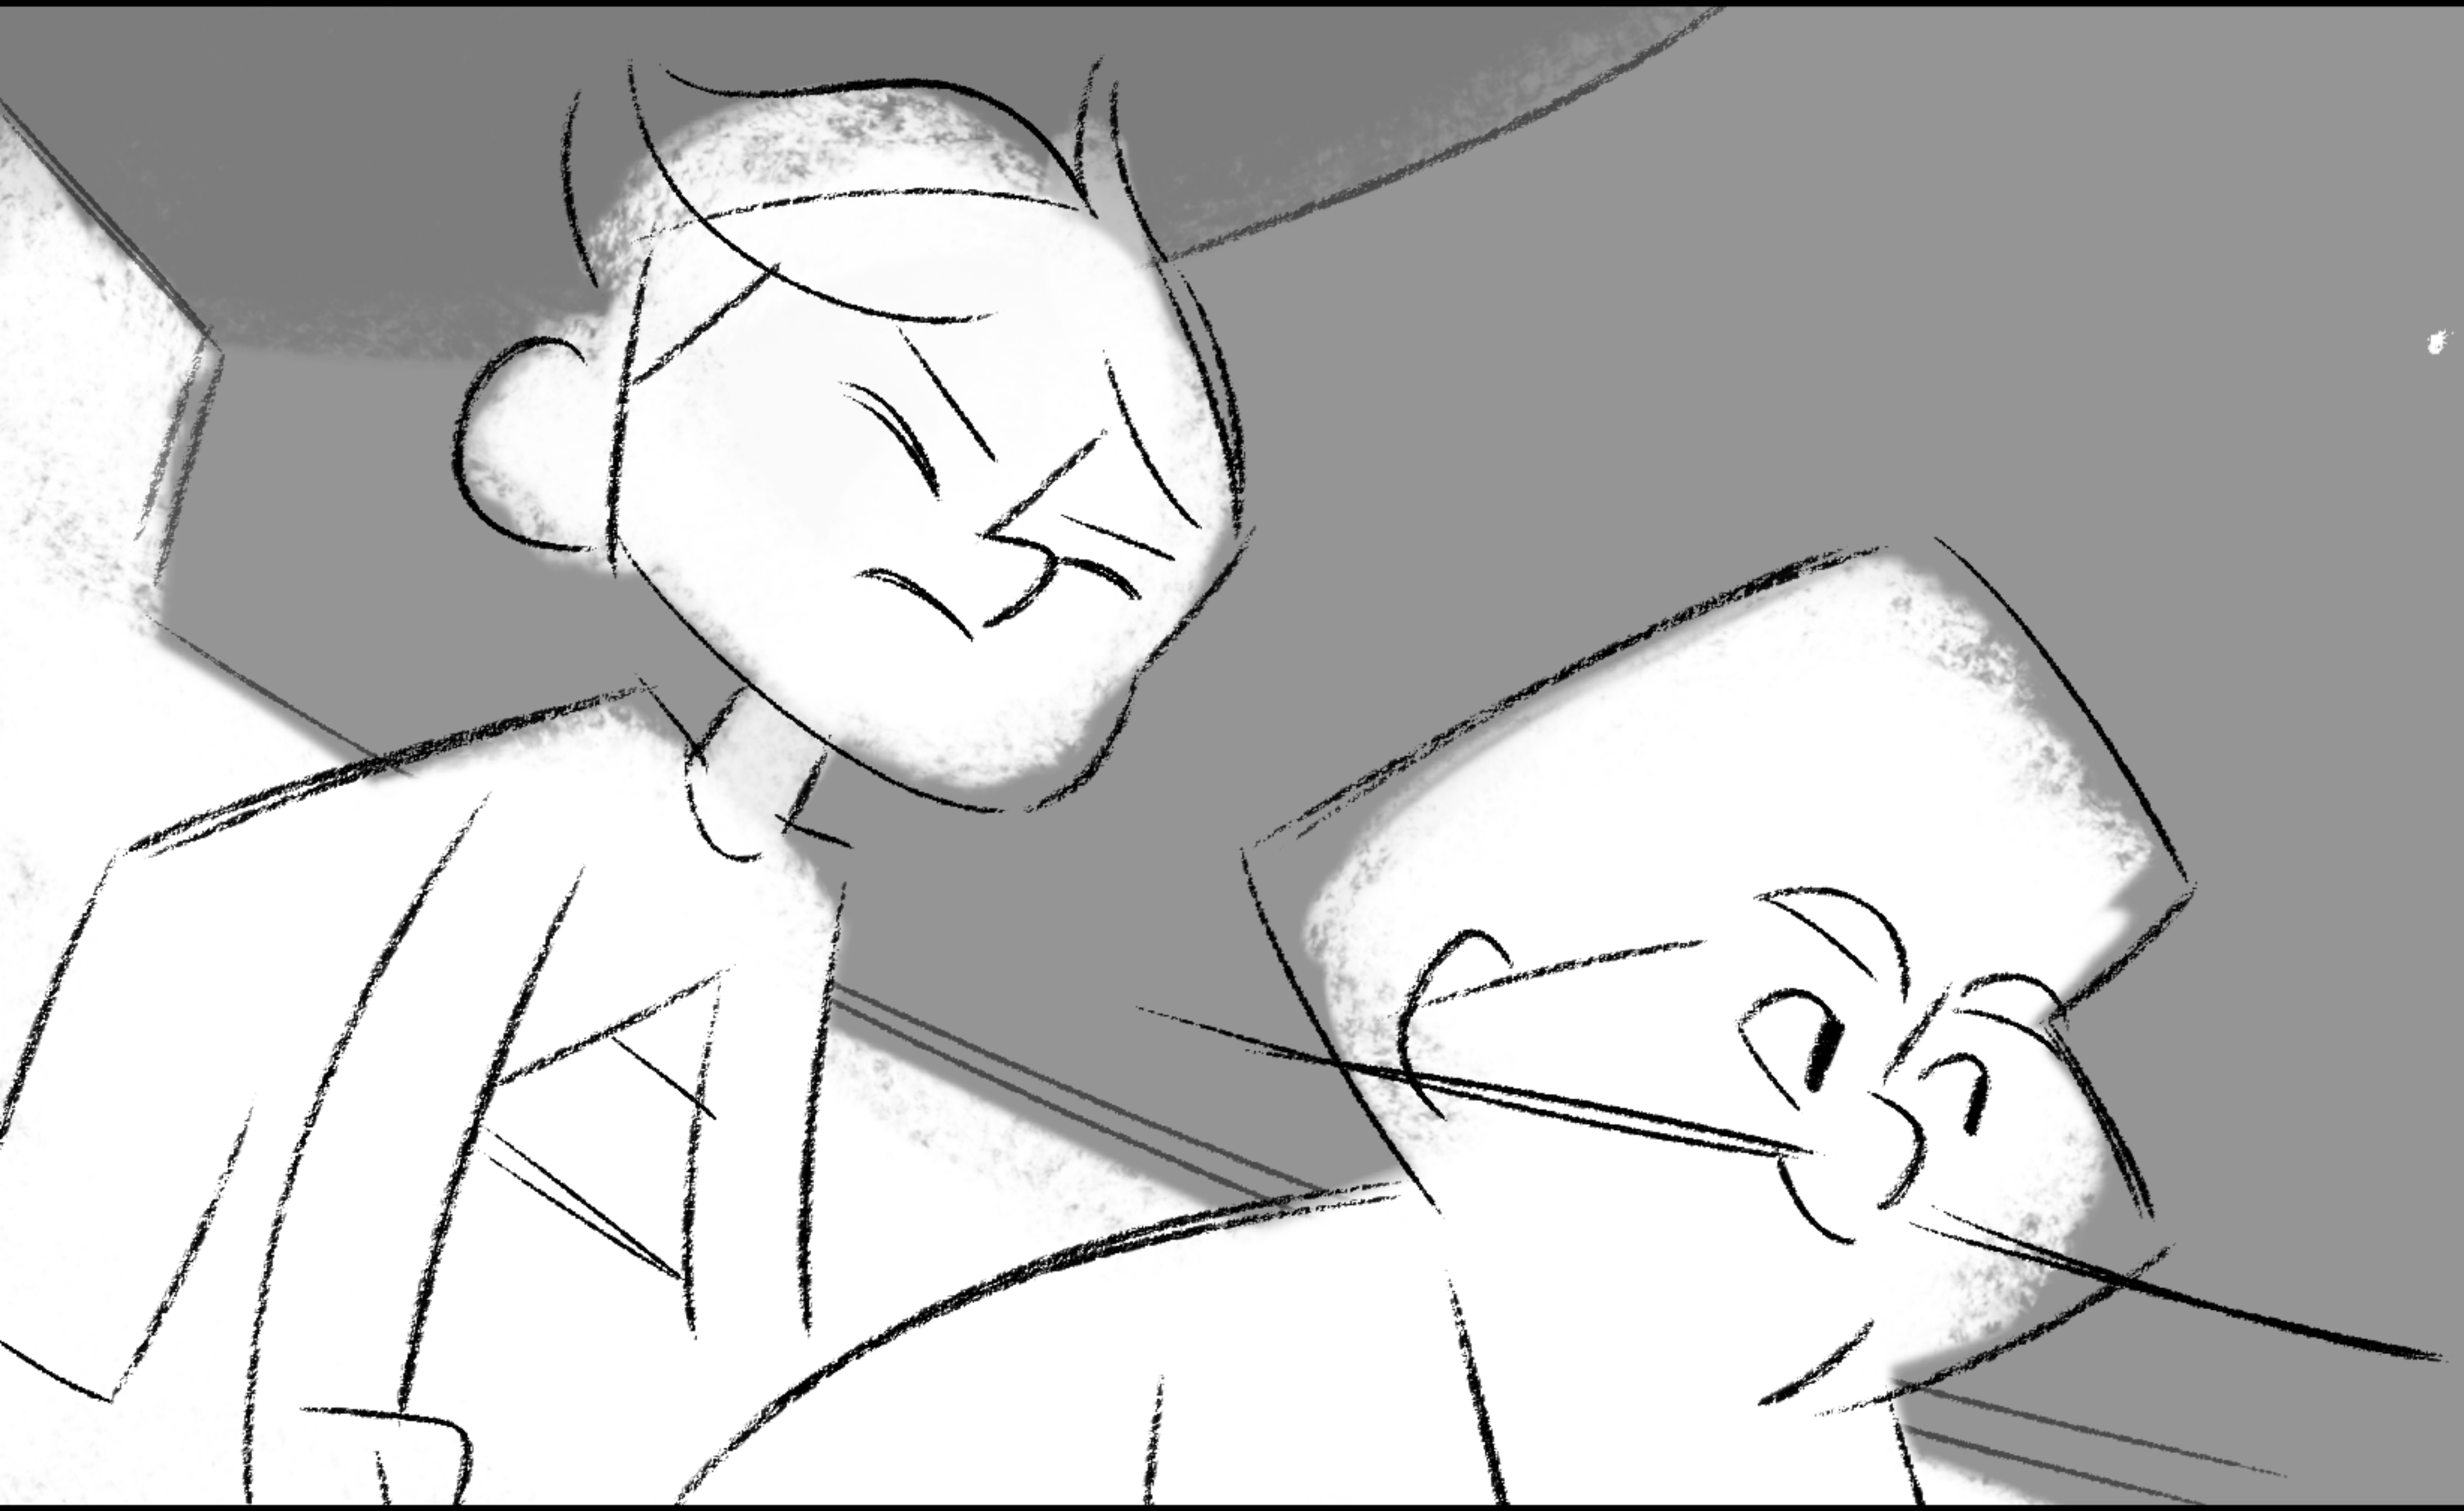

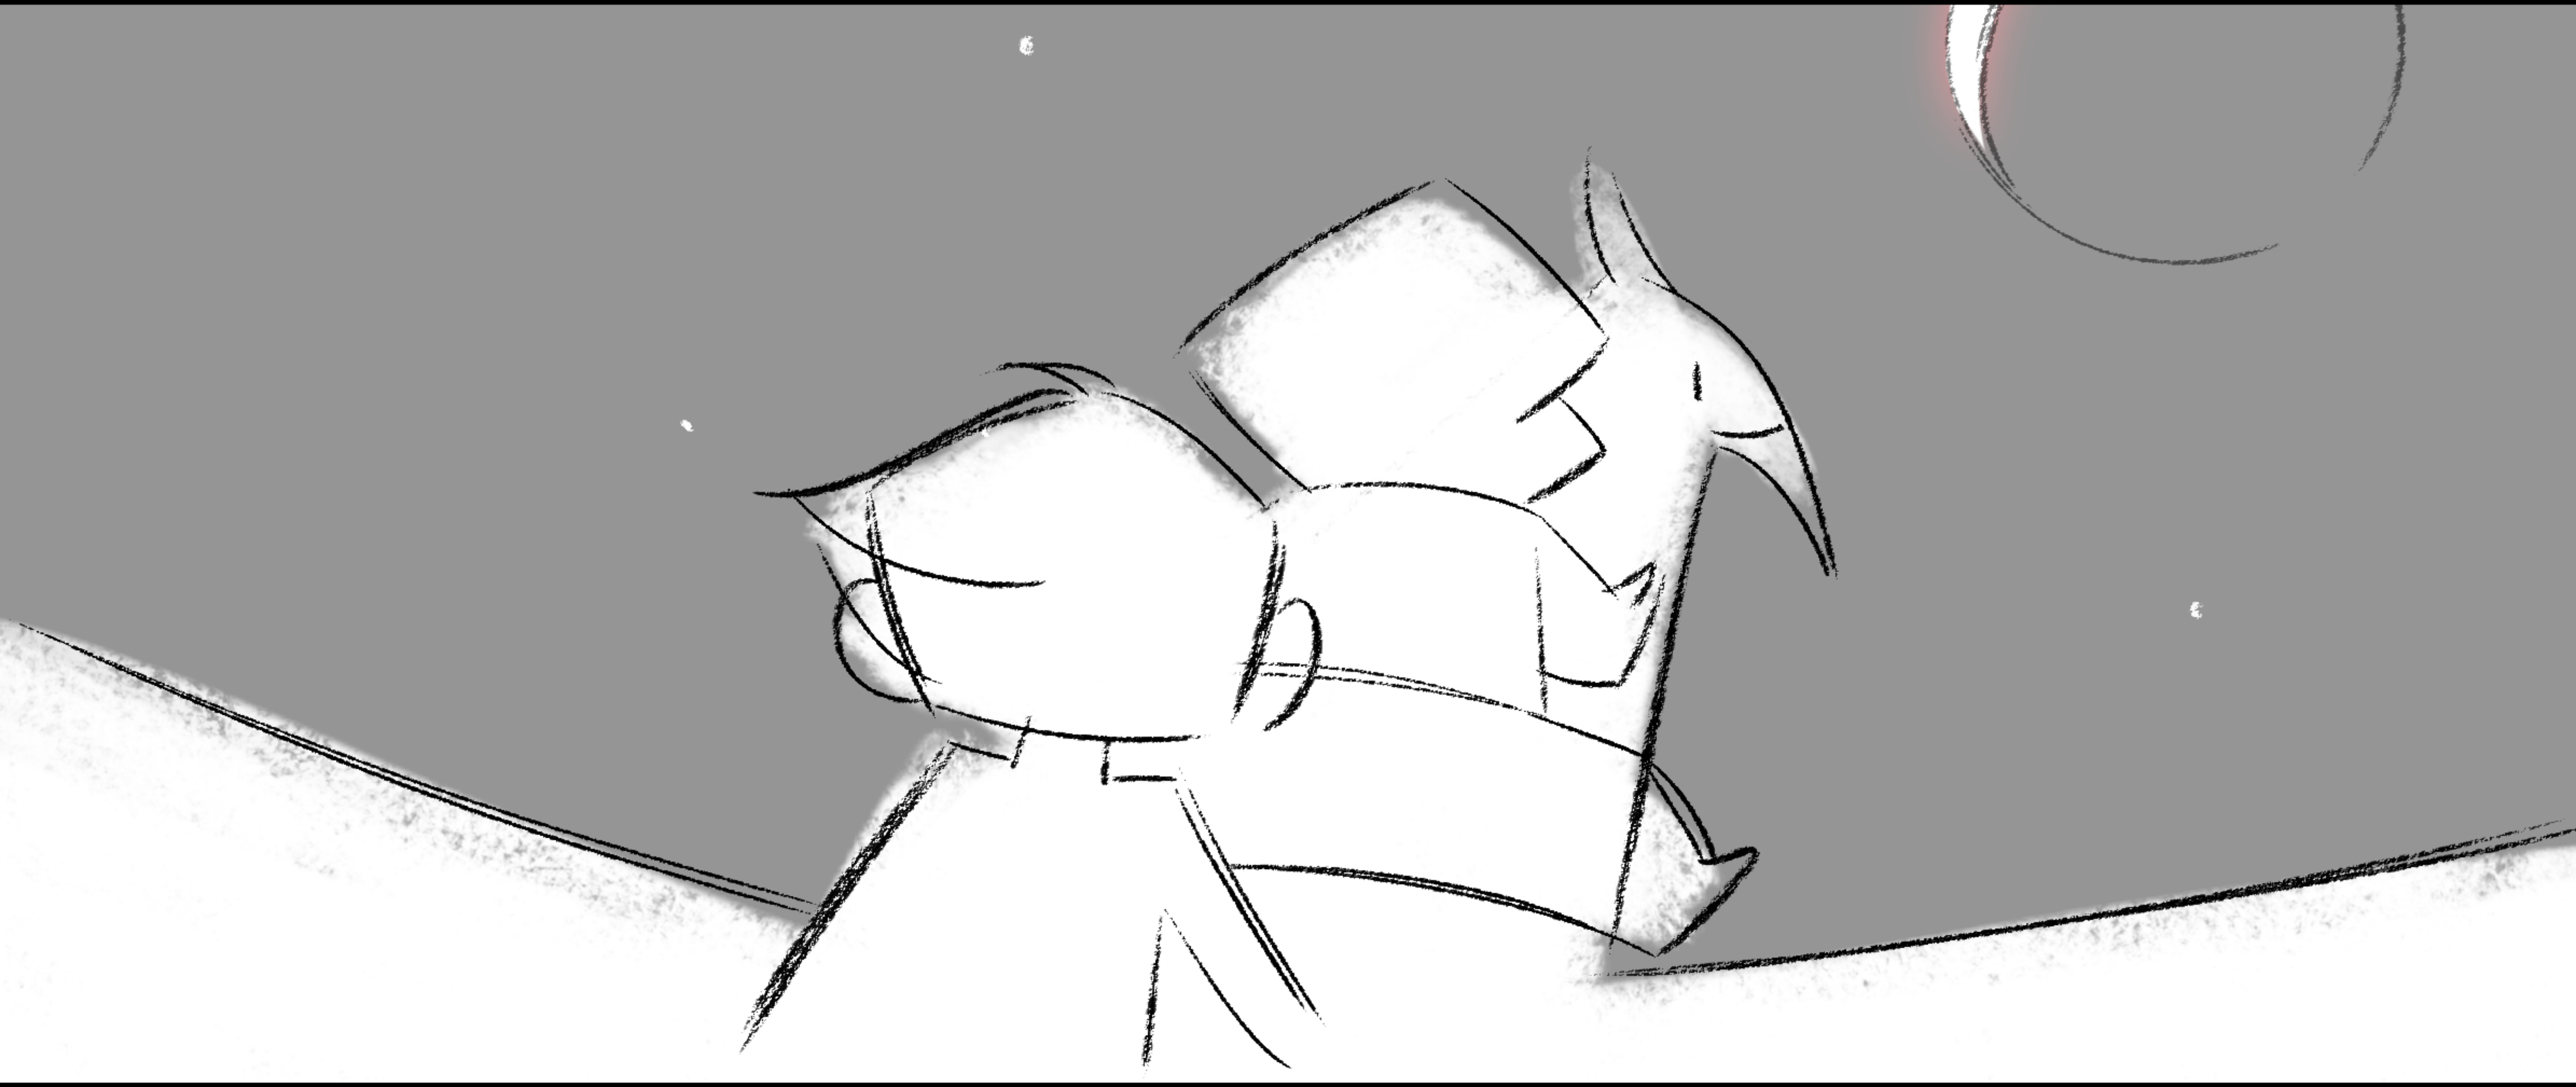

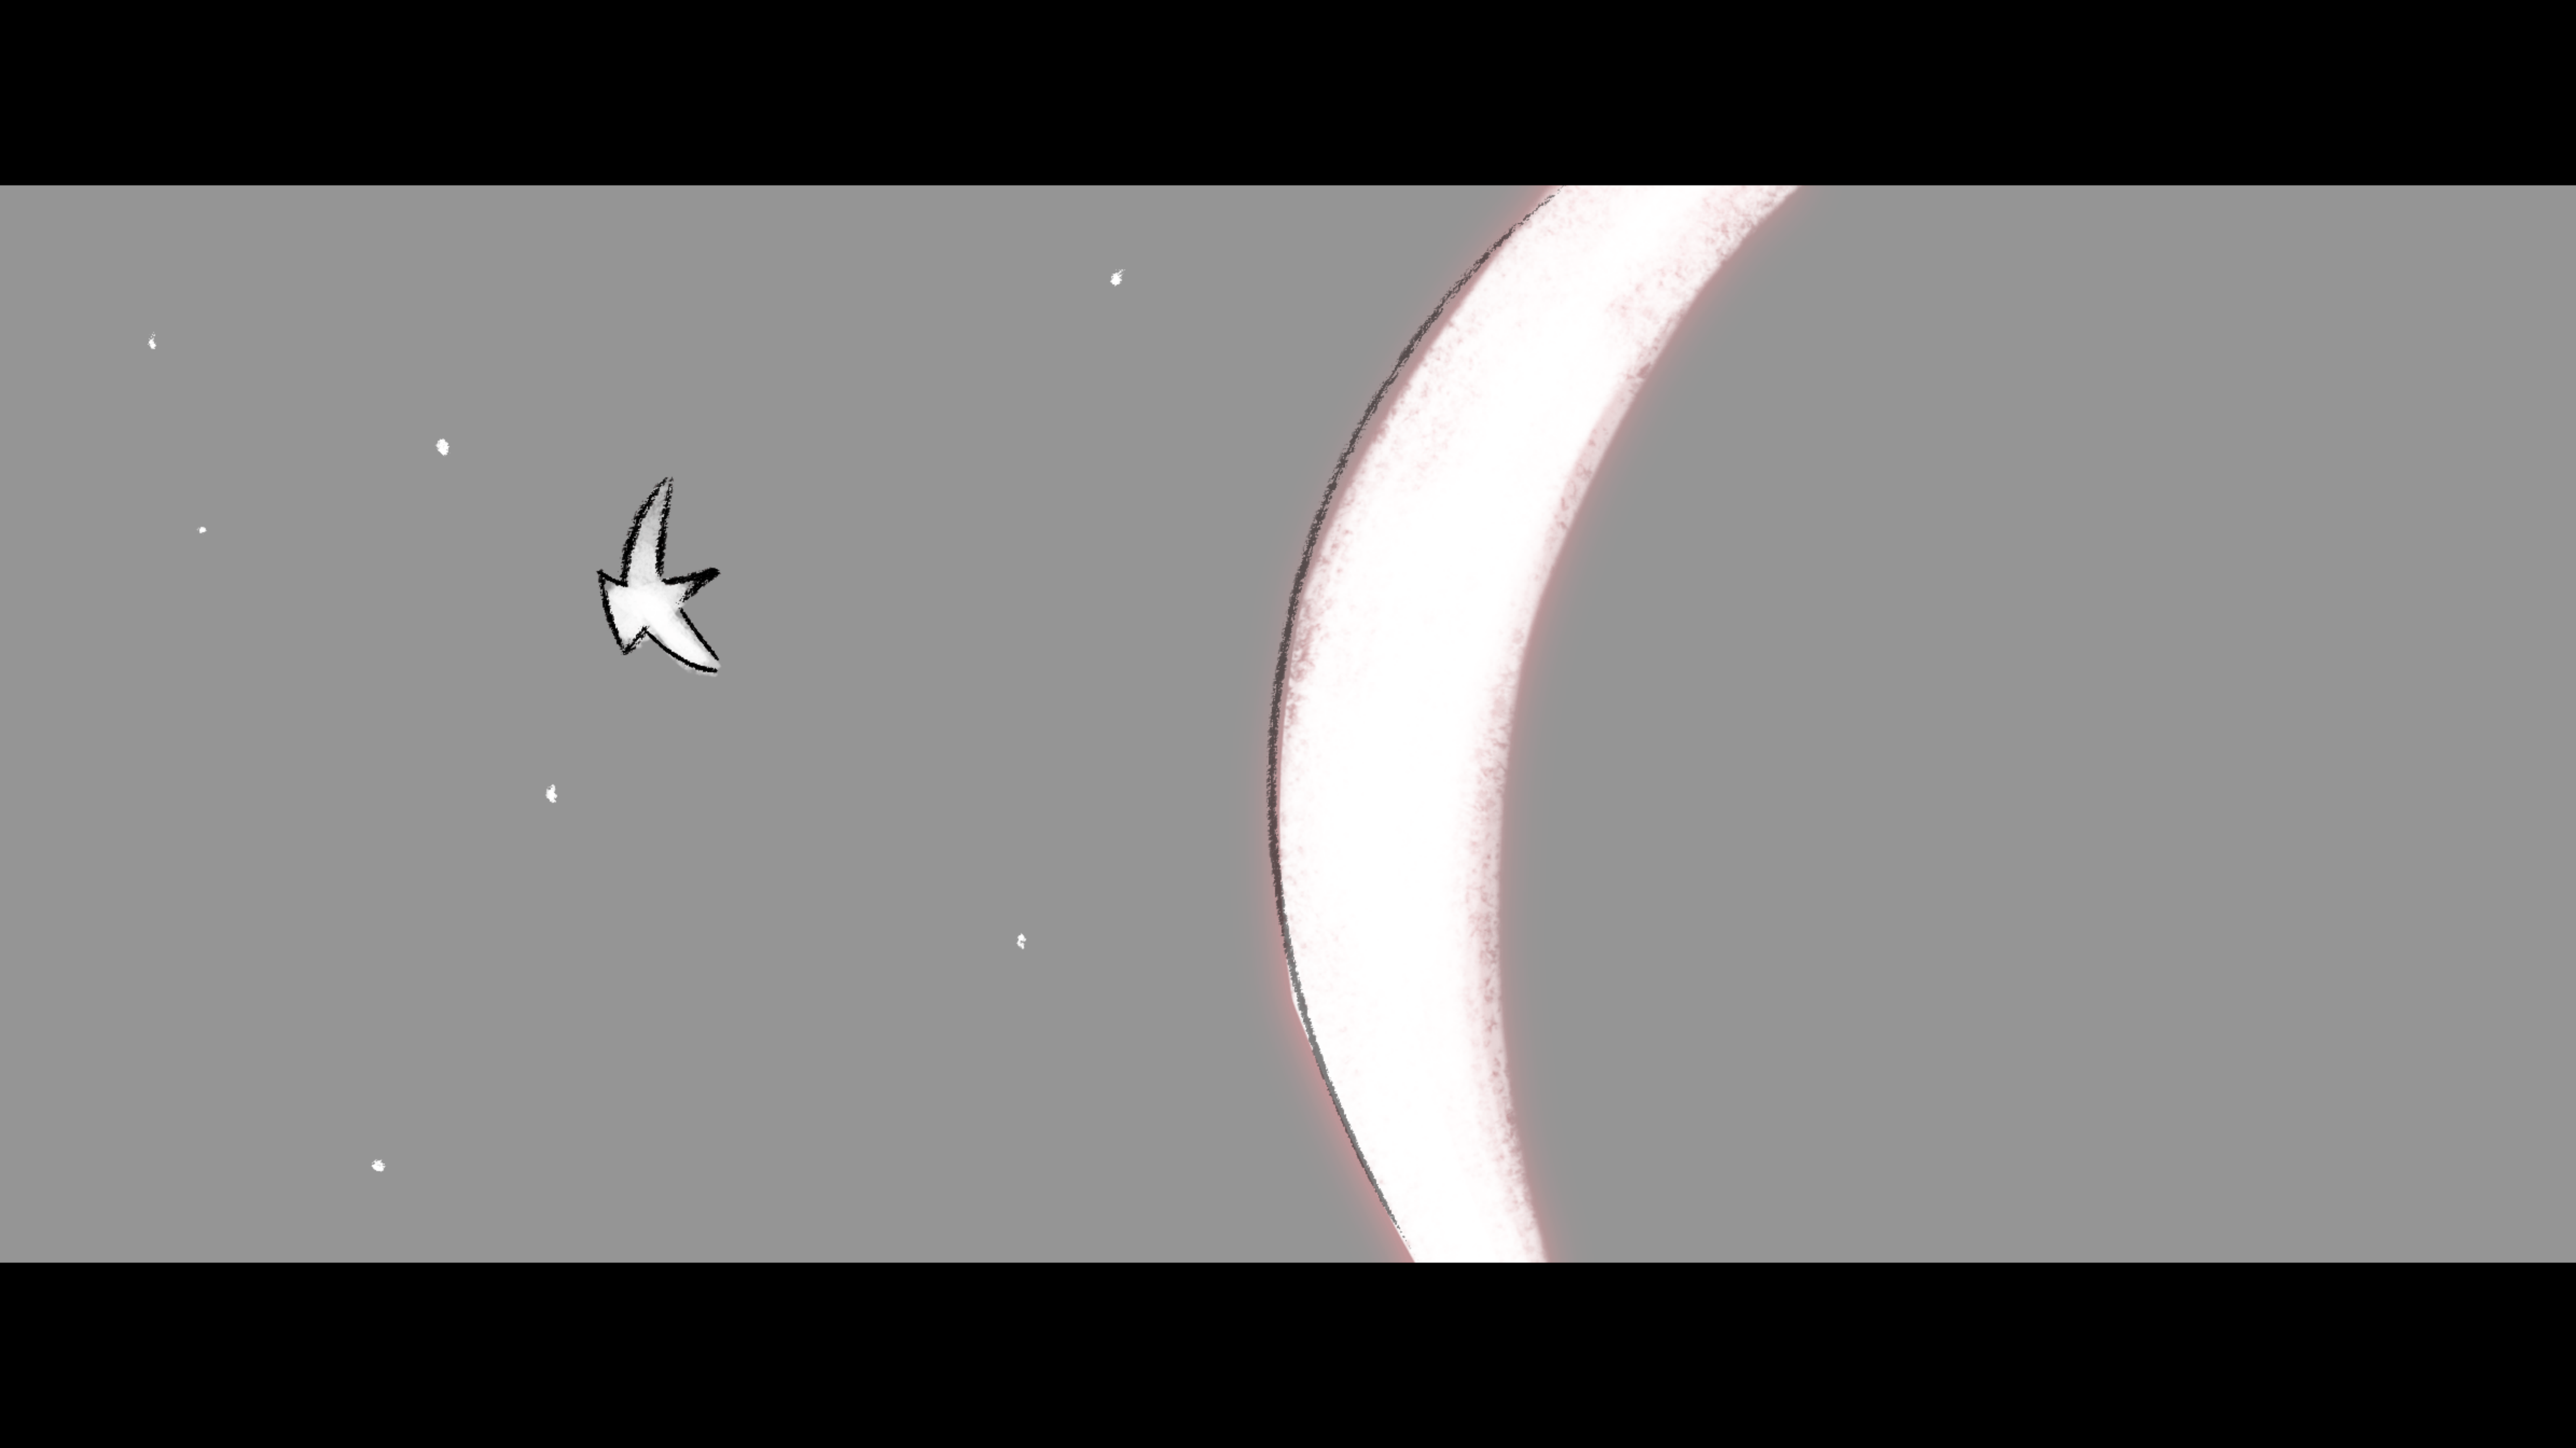

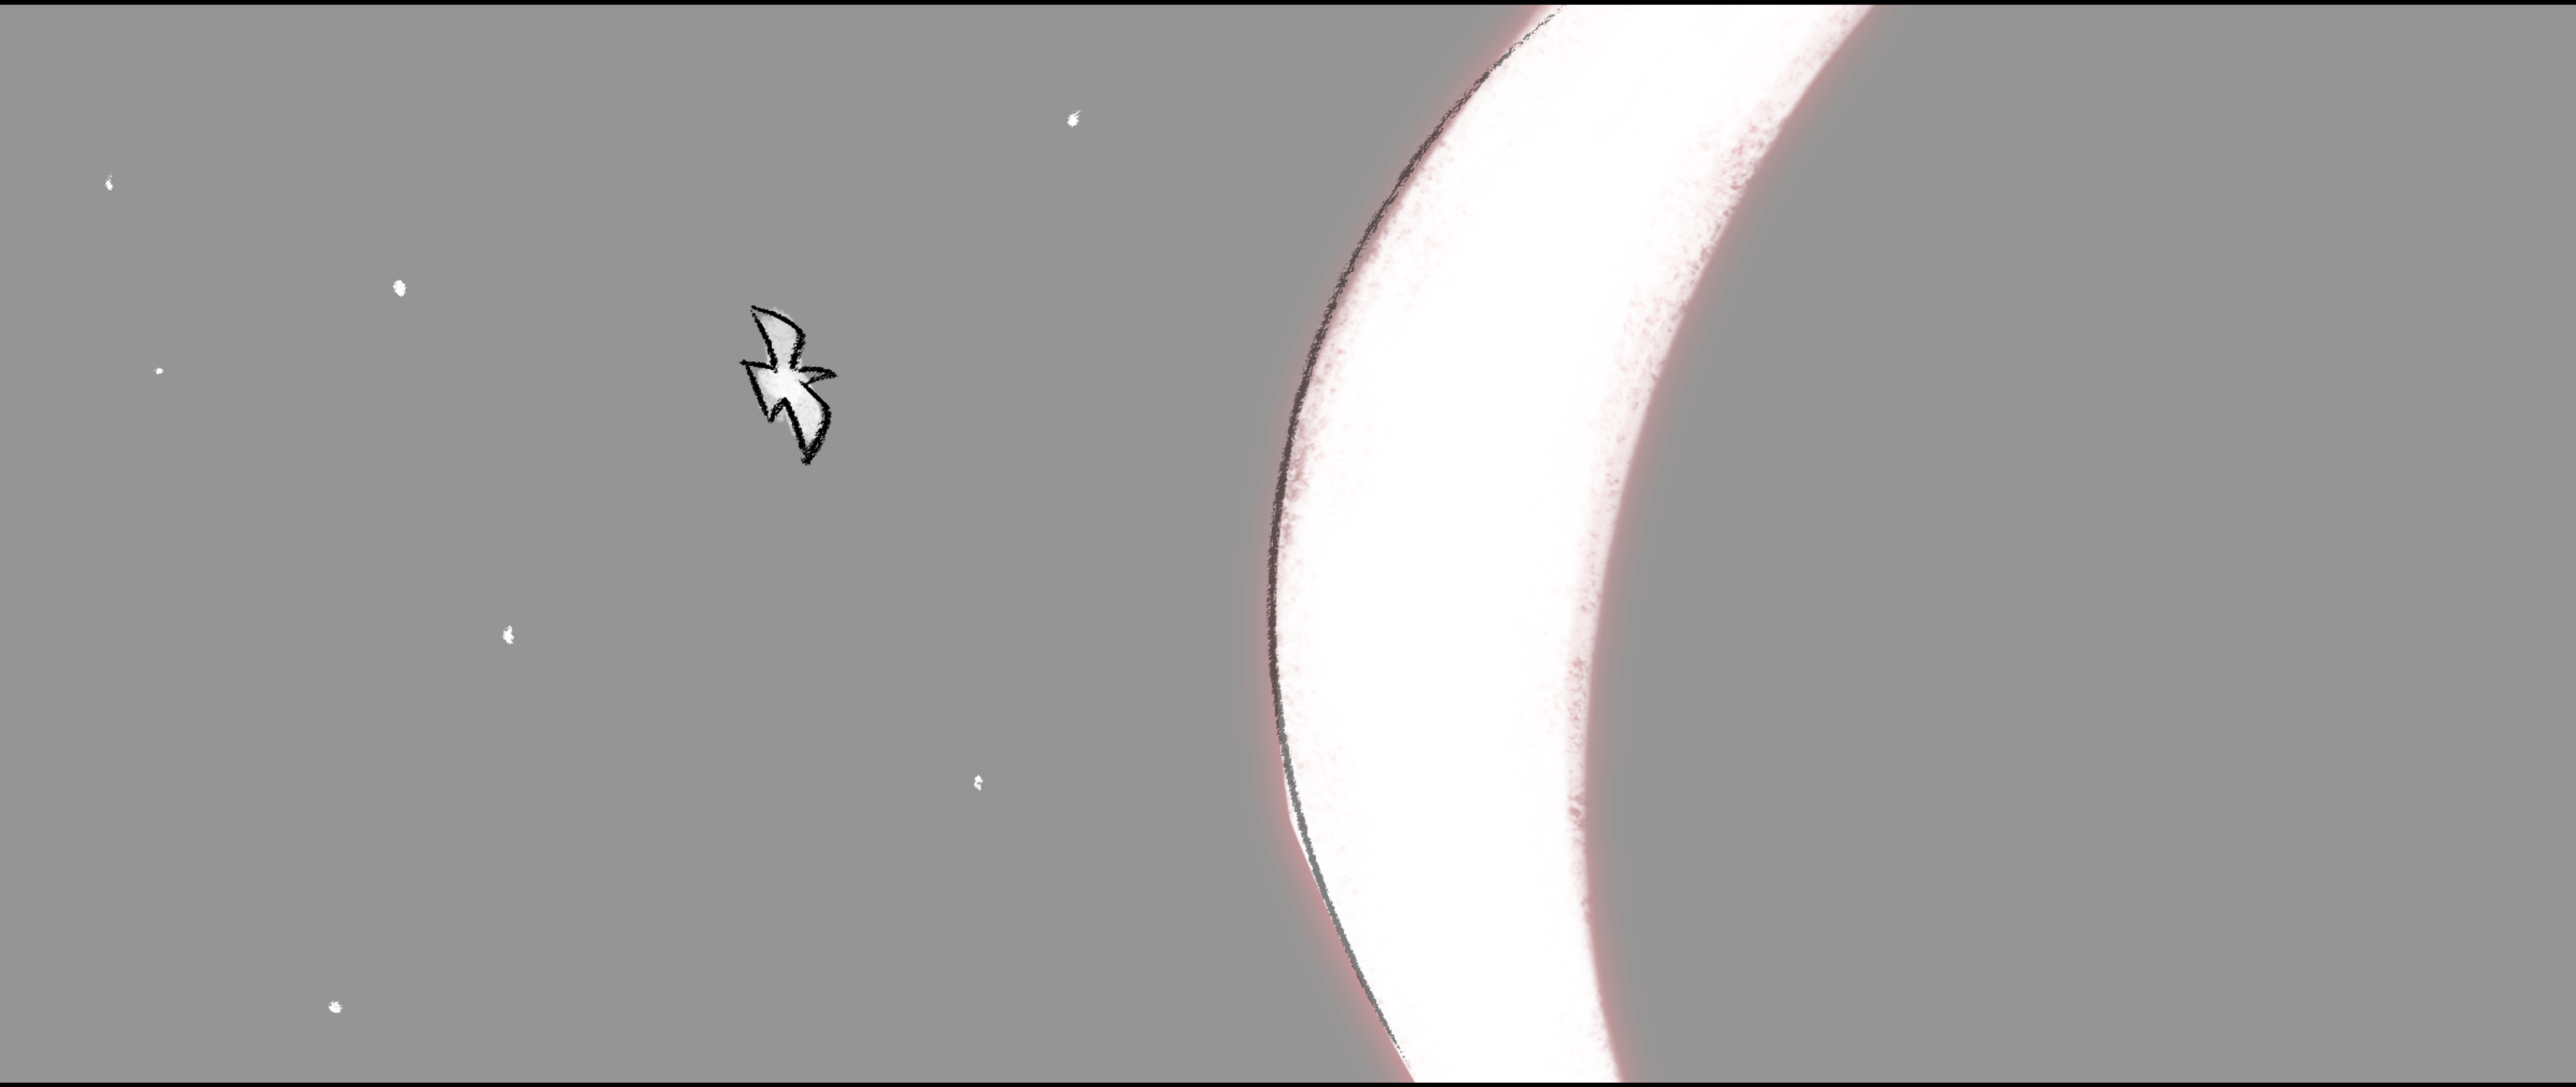

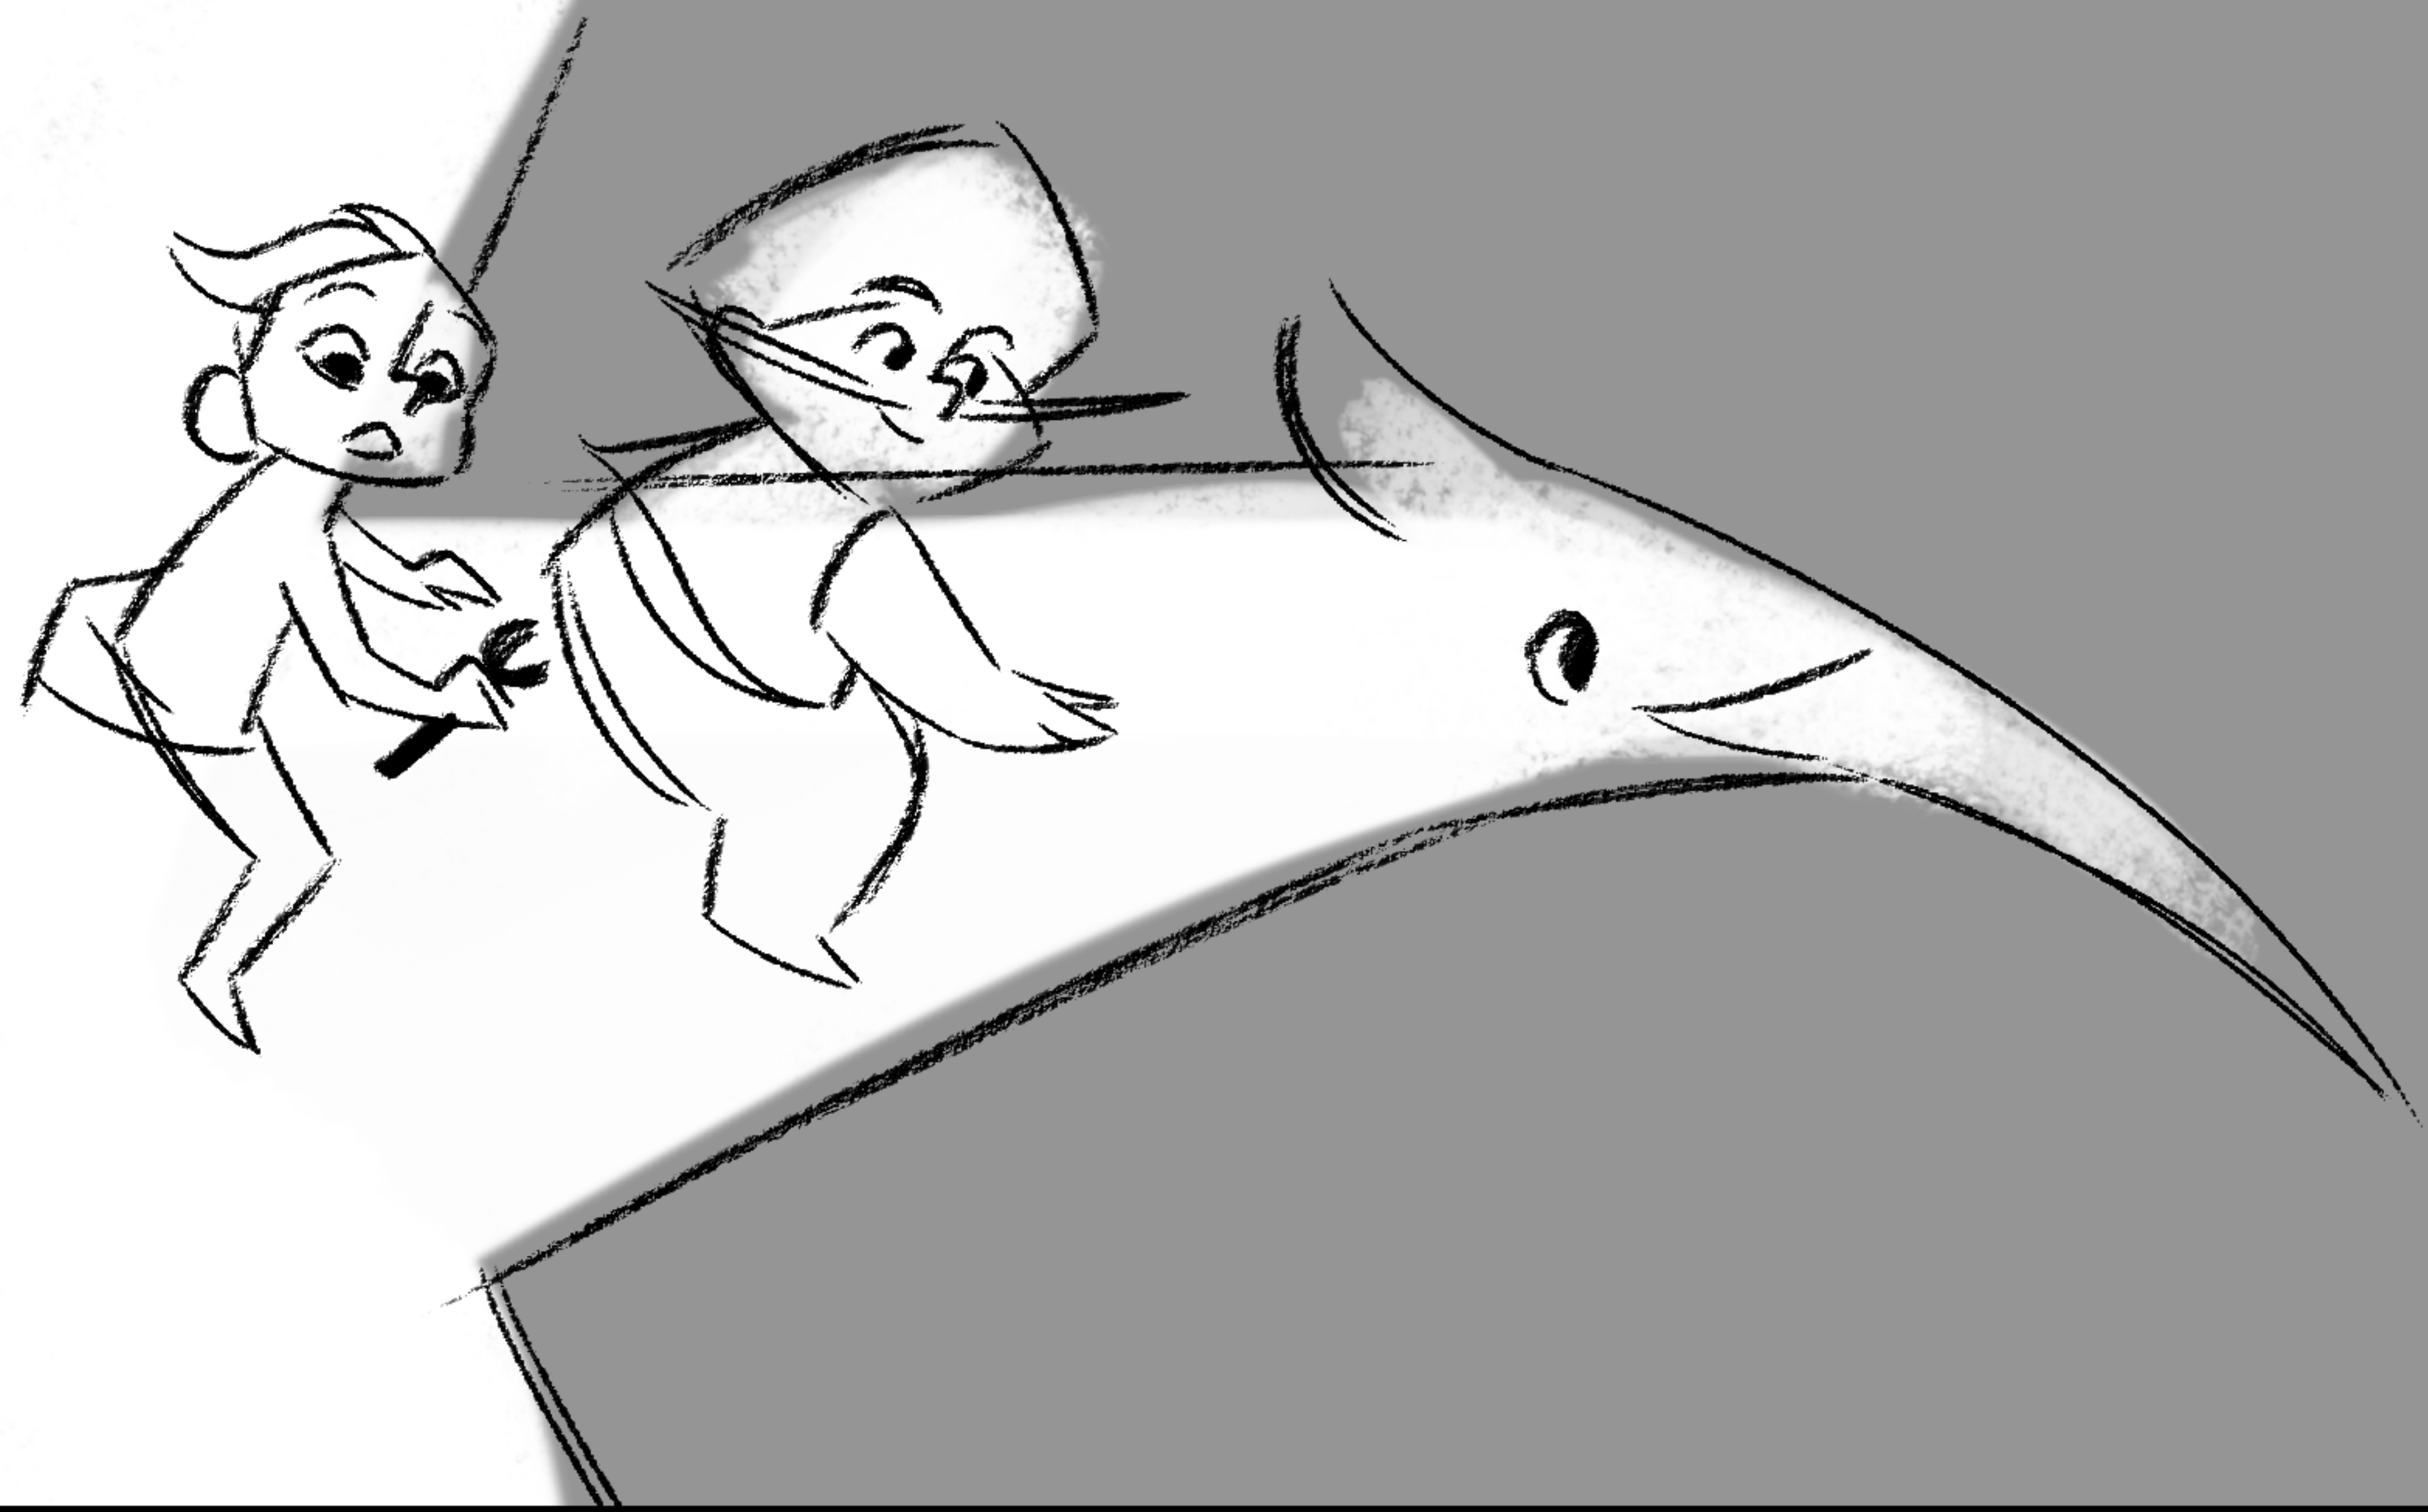

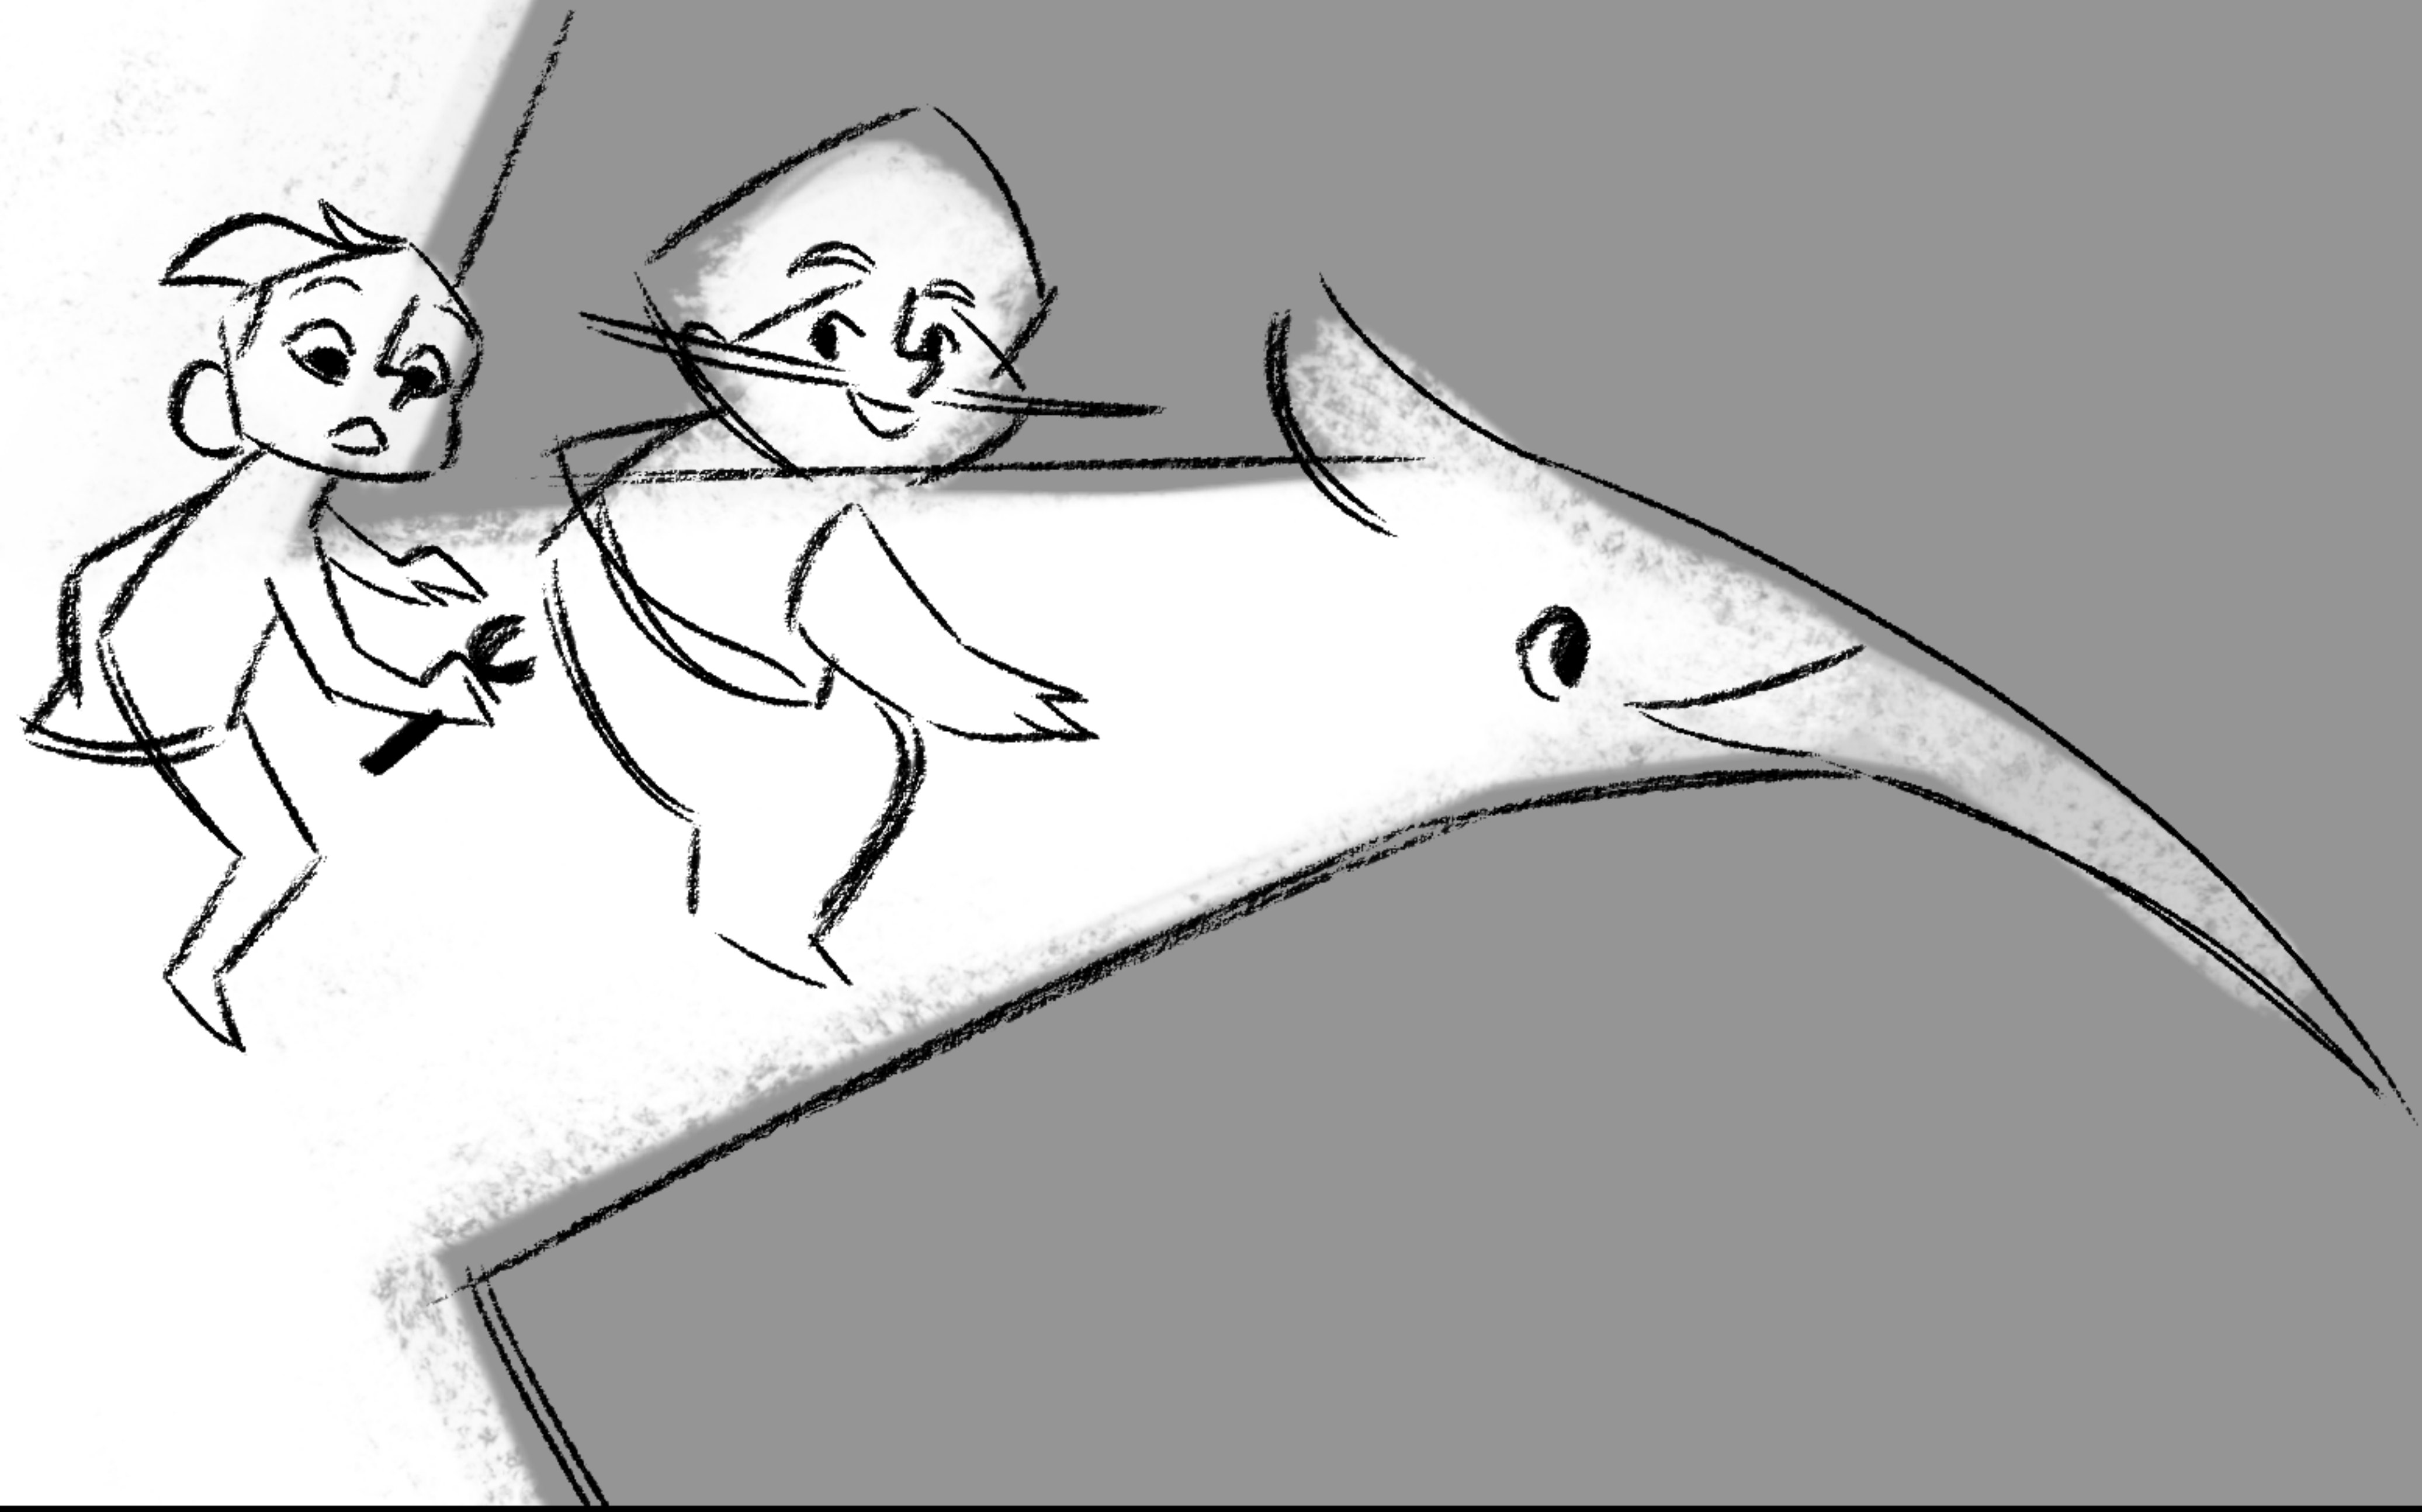

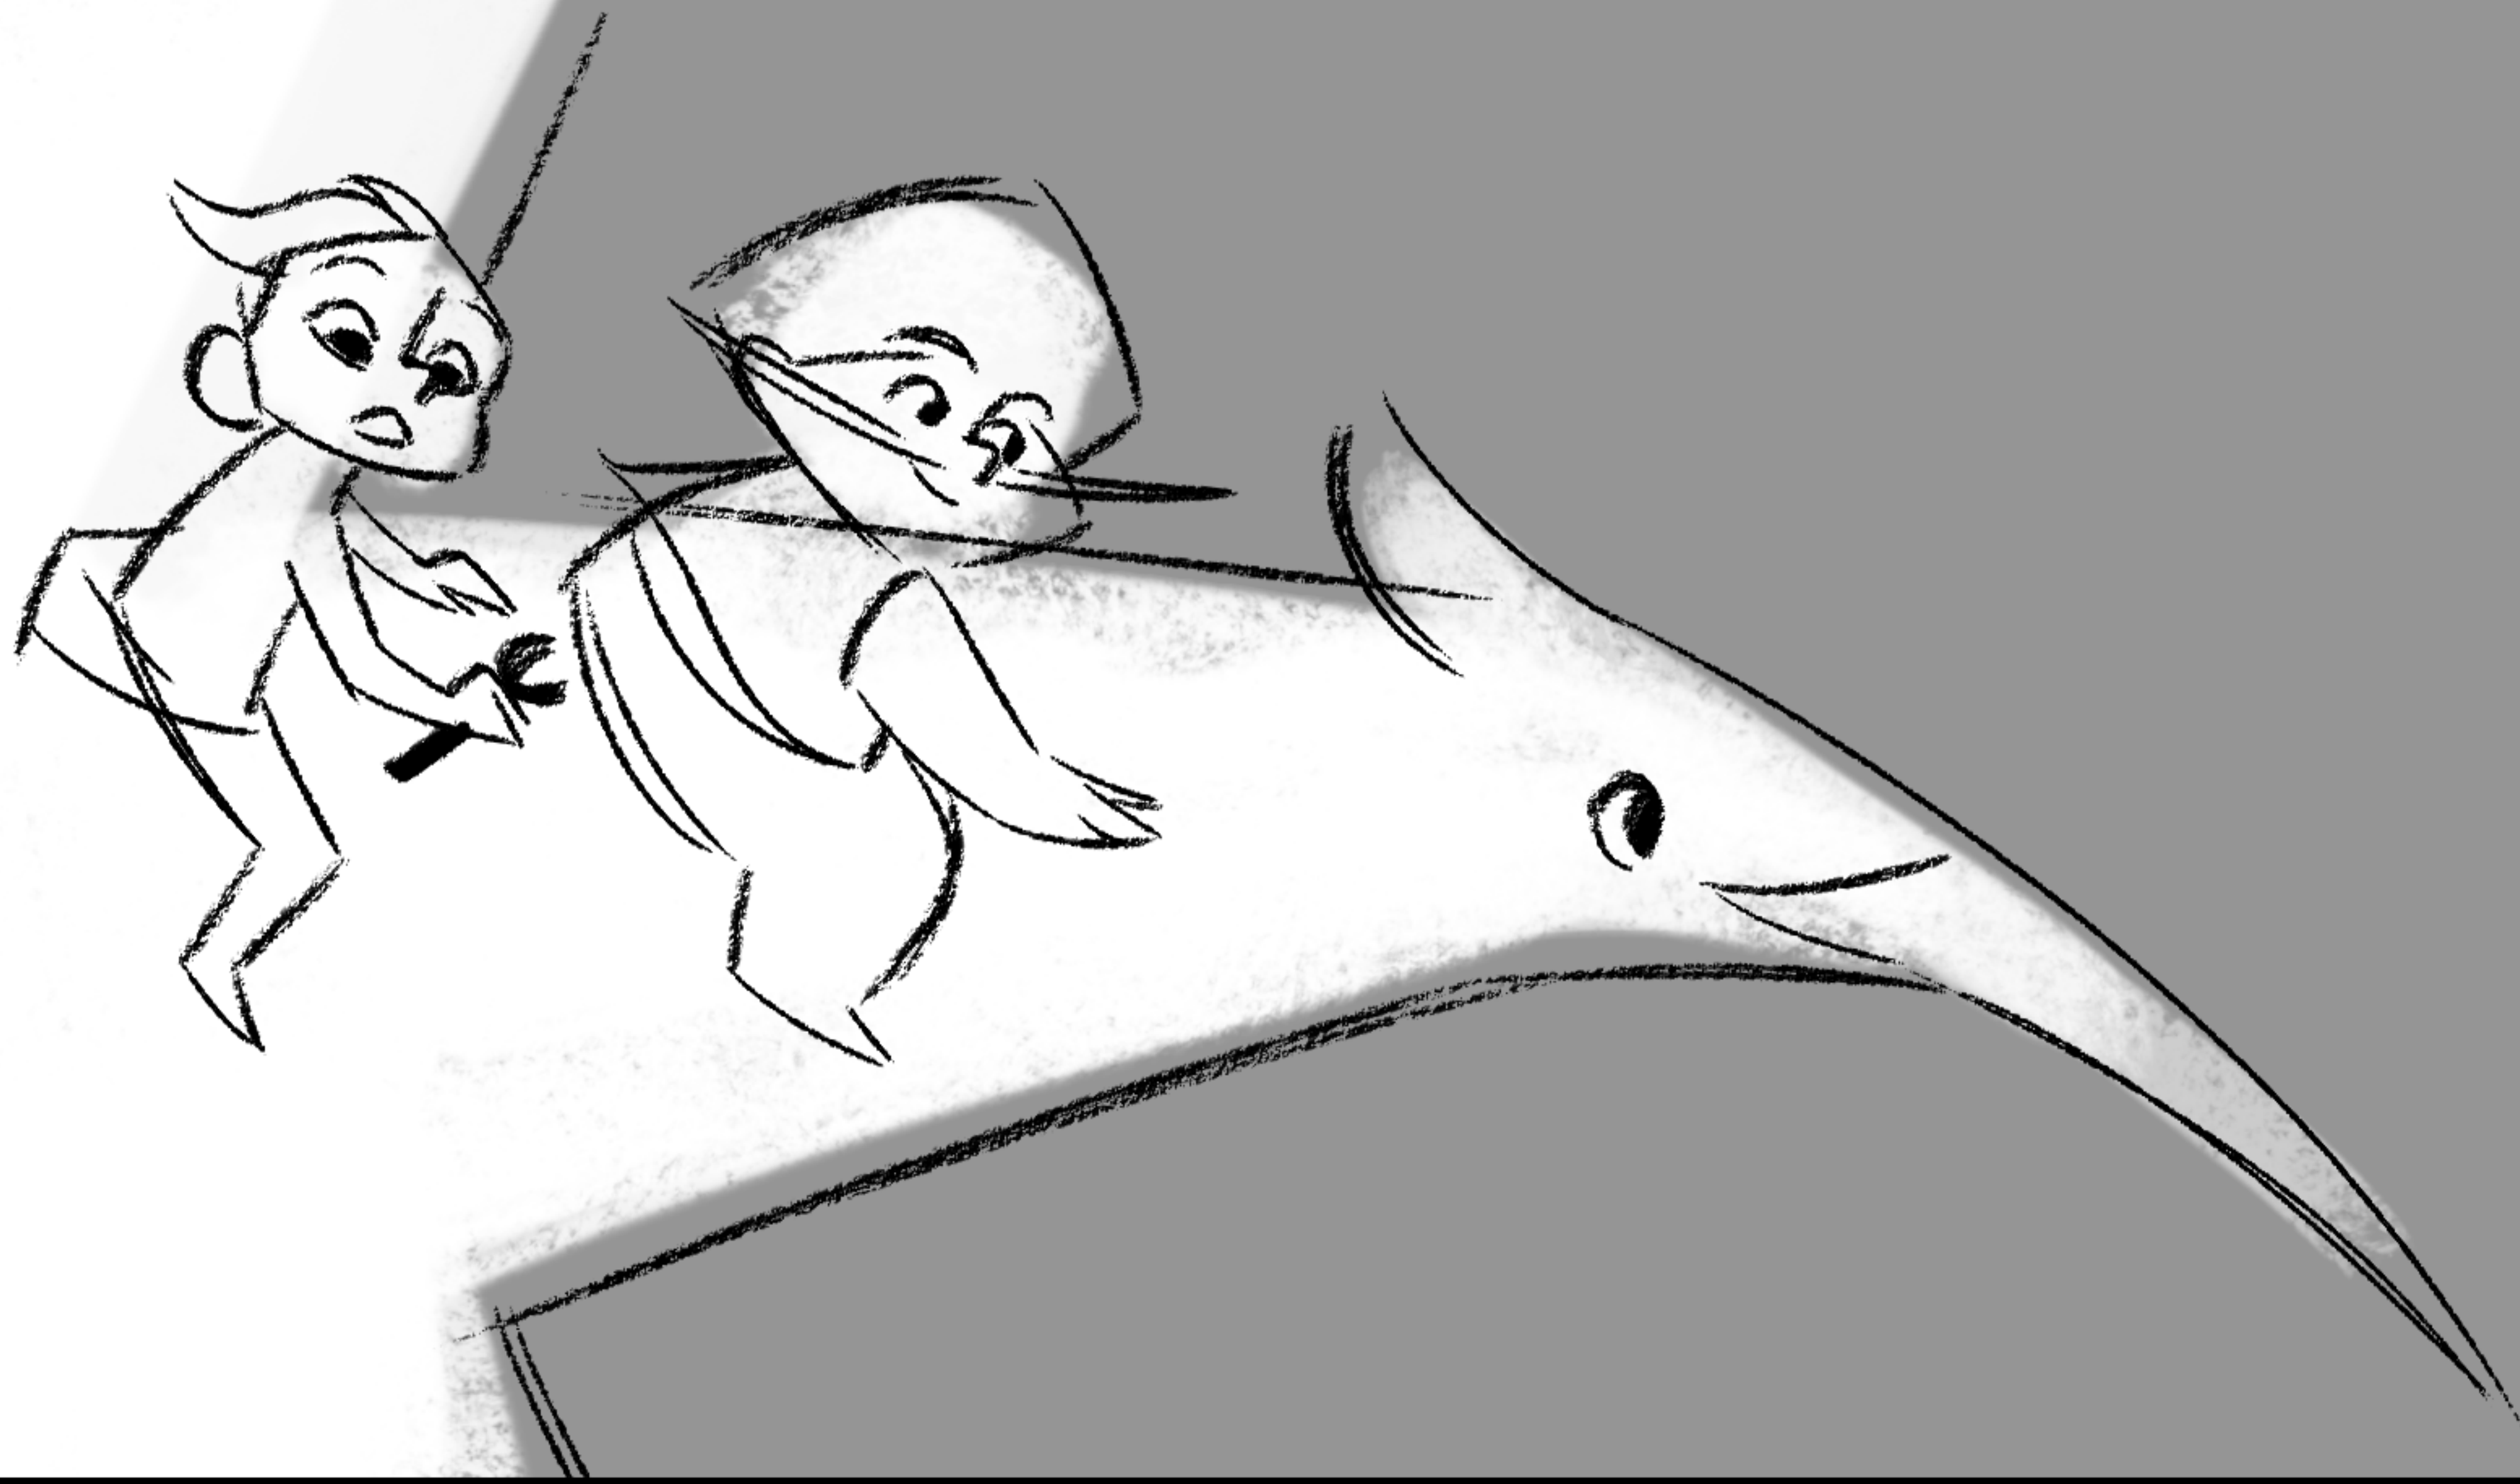

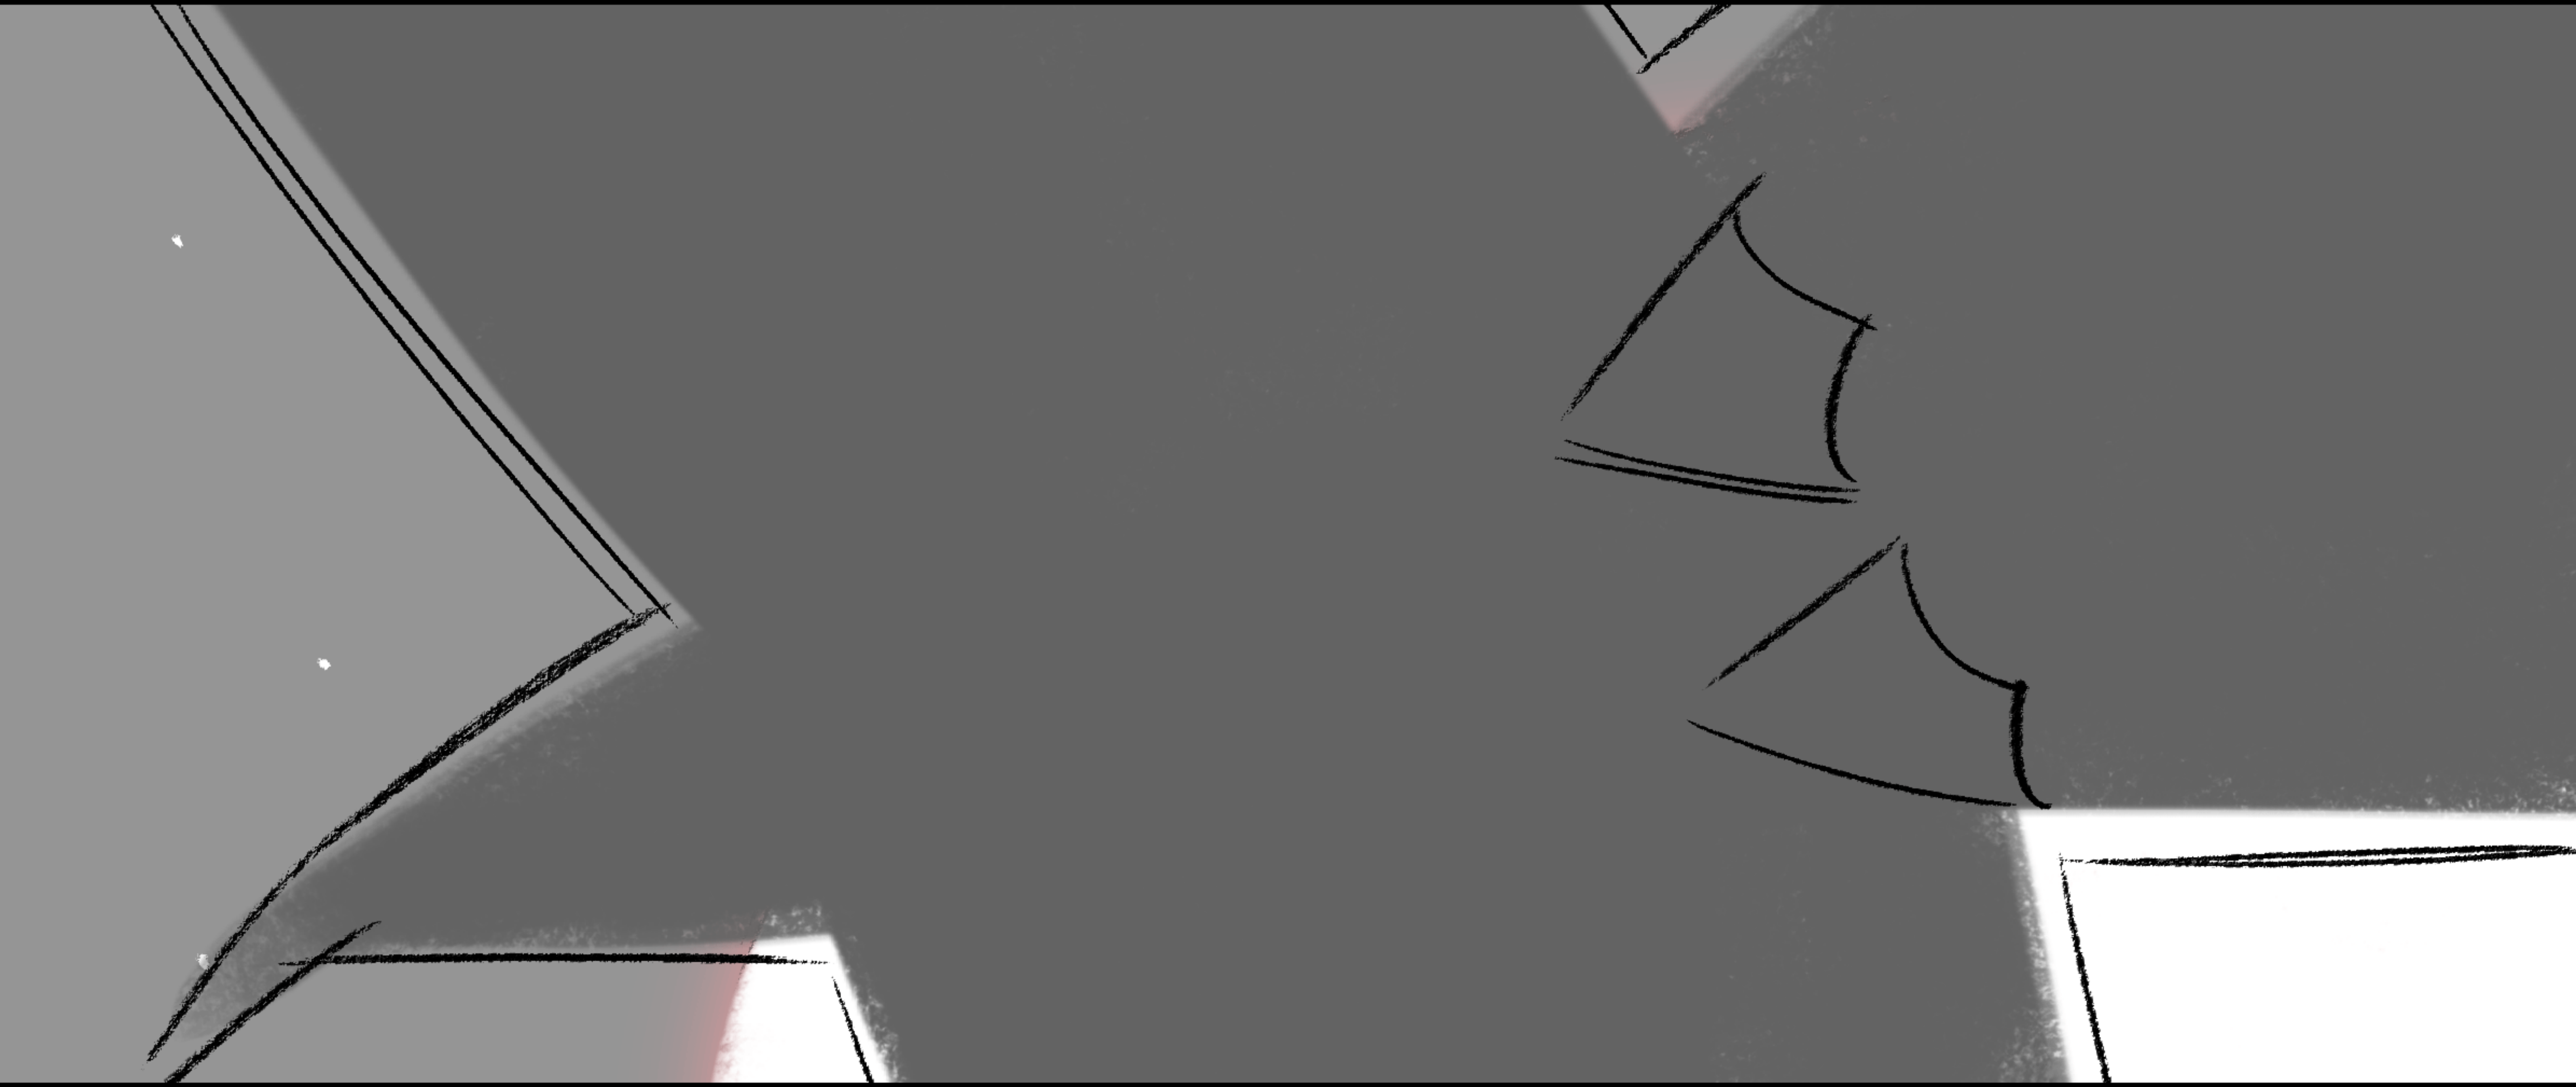

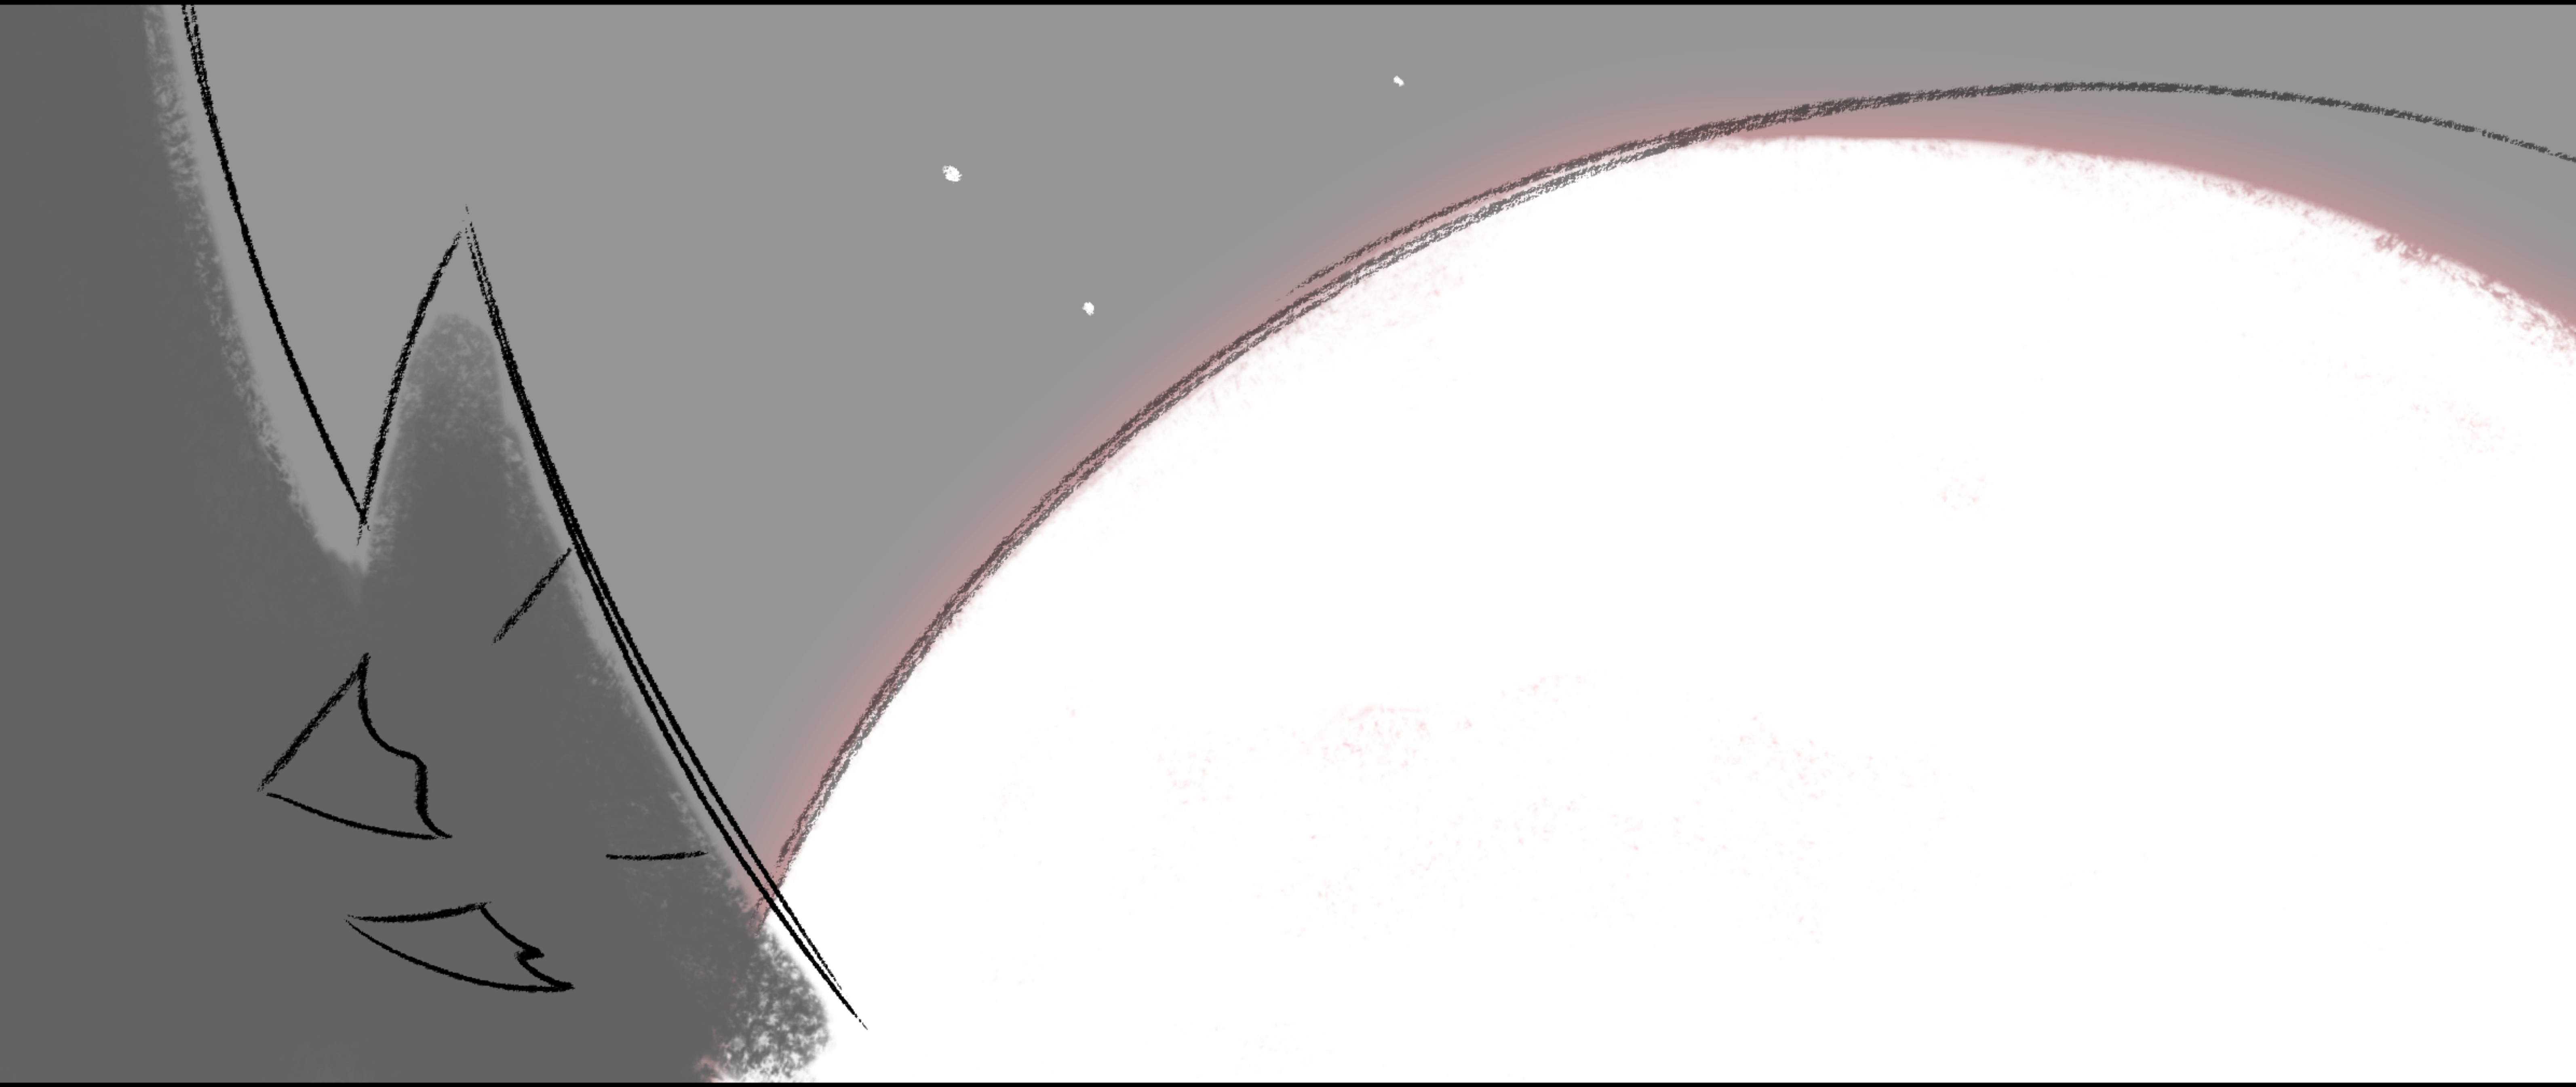

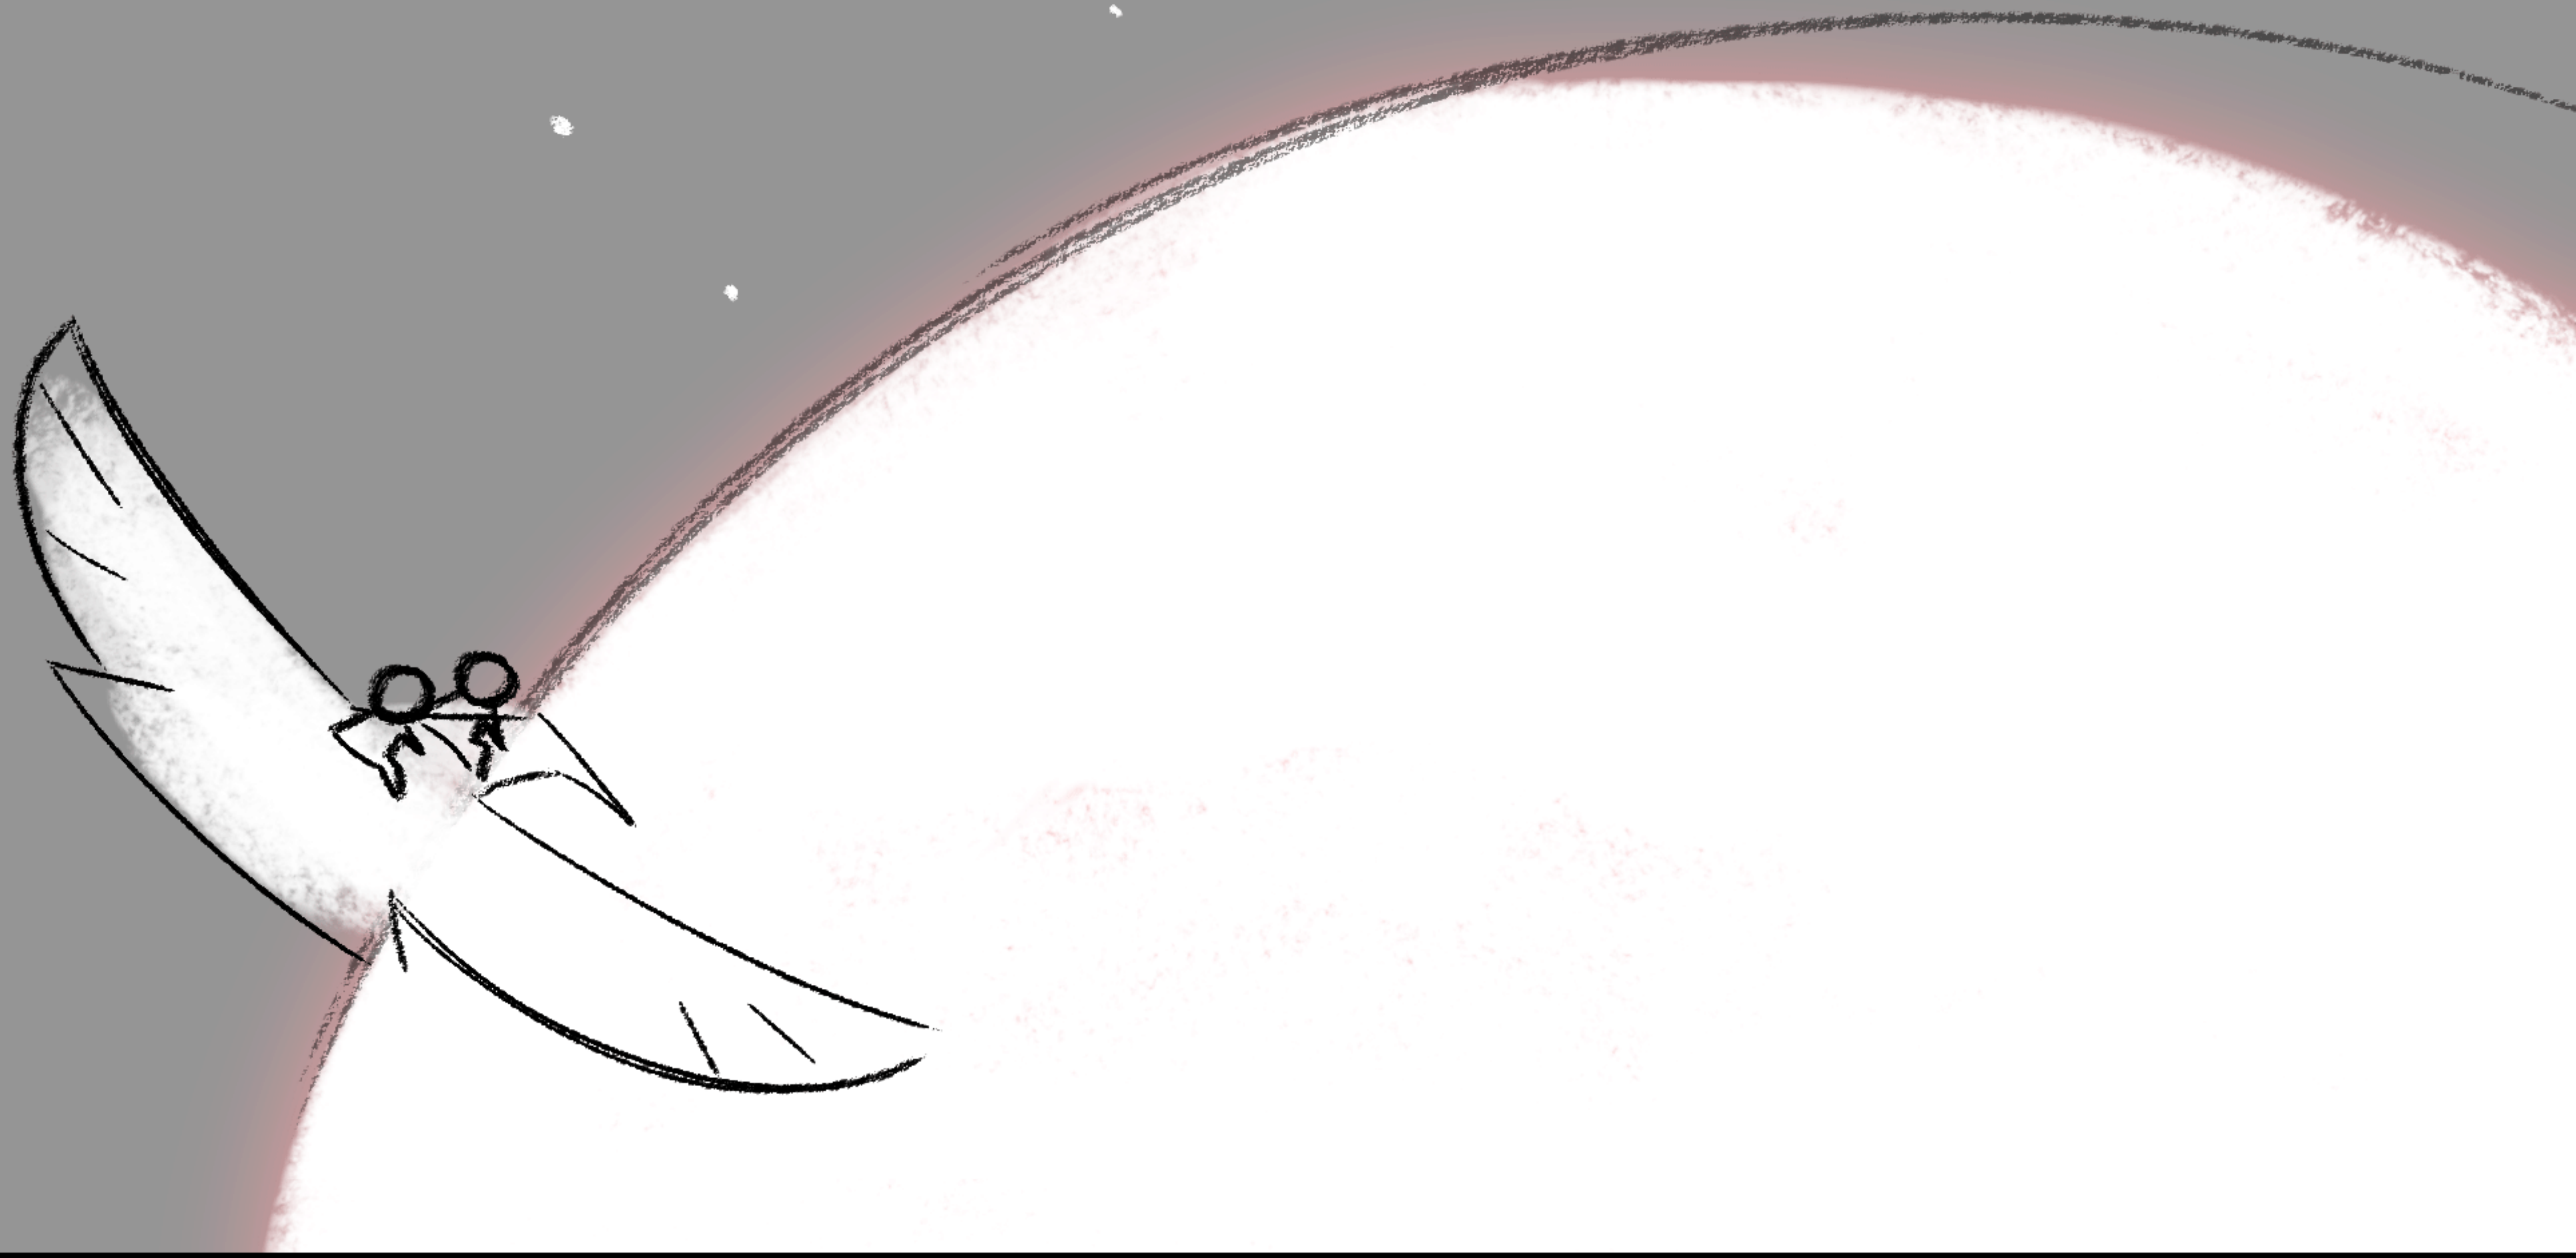

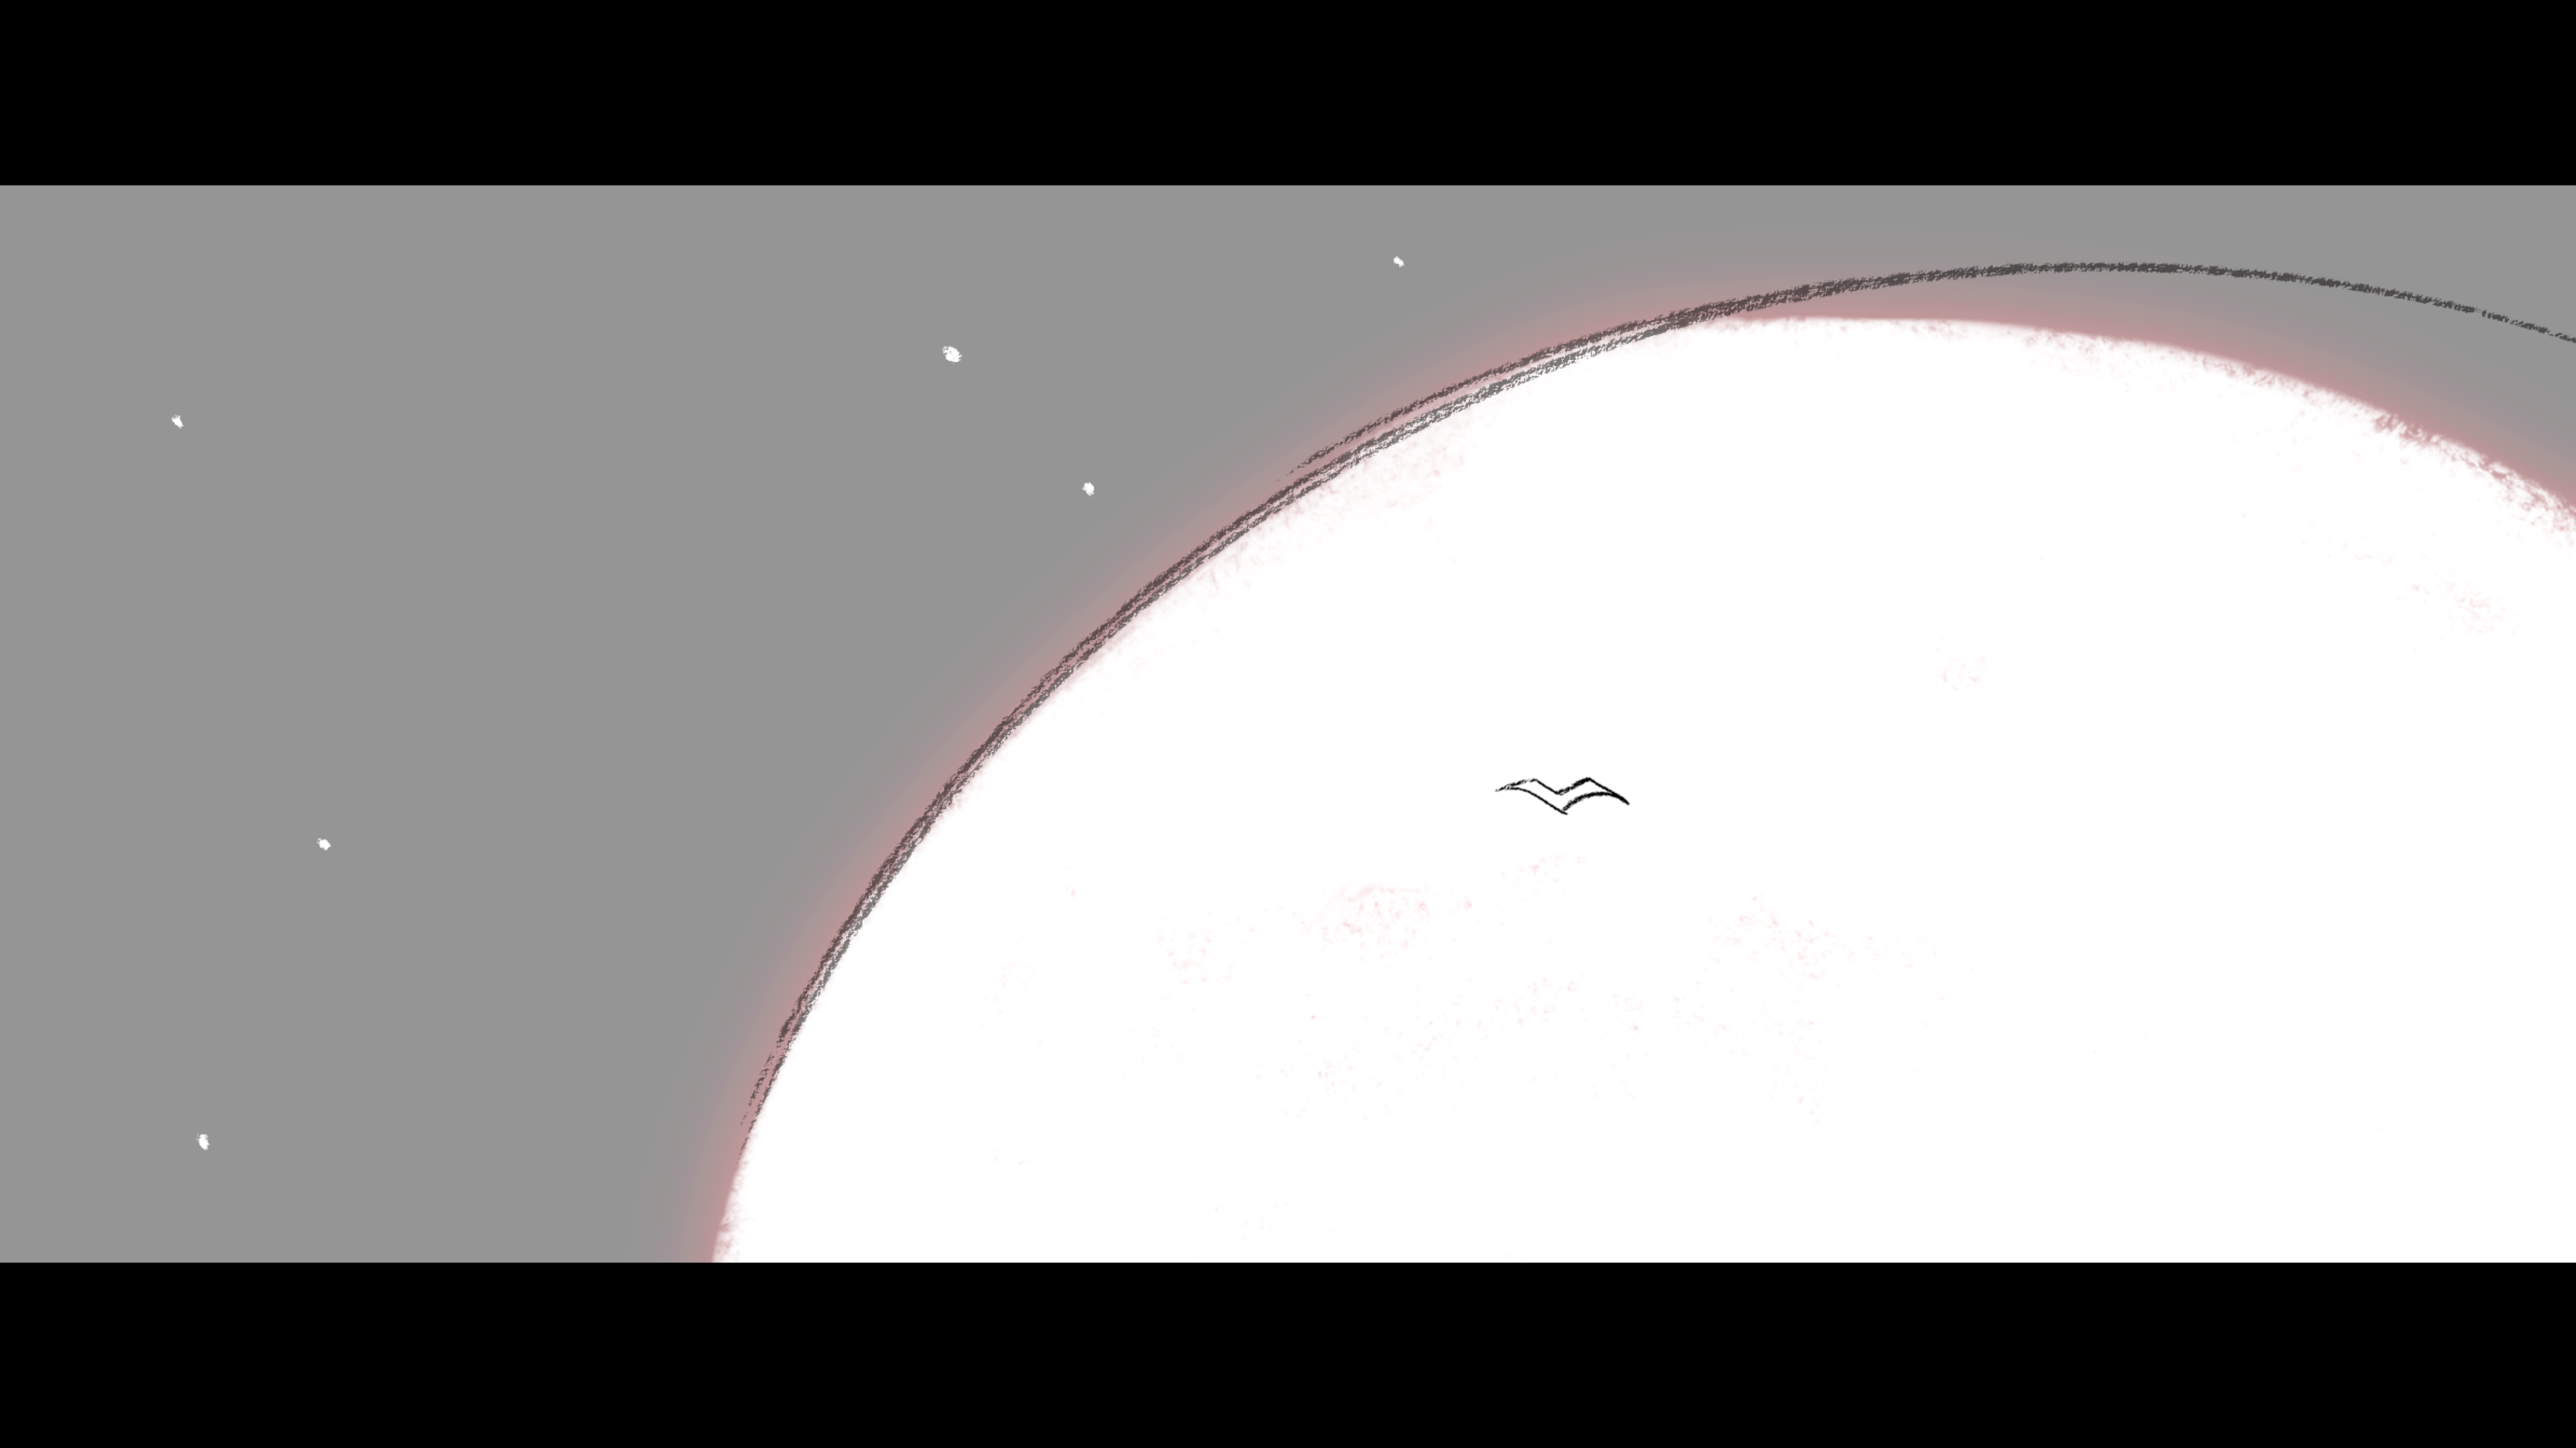

IFF: There it is: Kahani, the Earth's second moon.

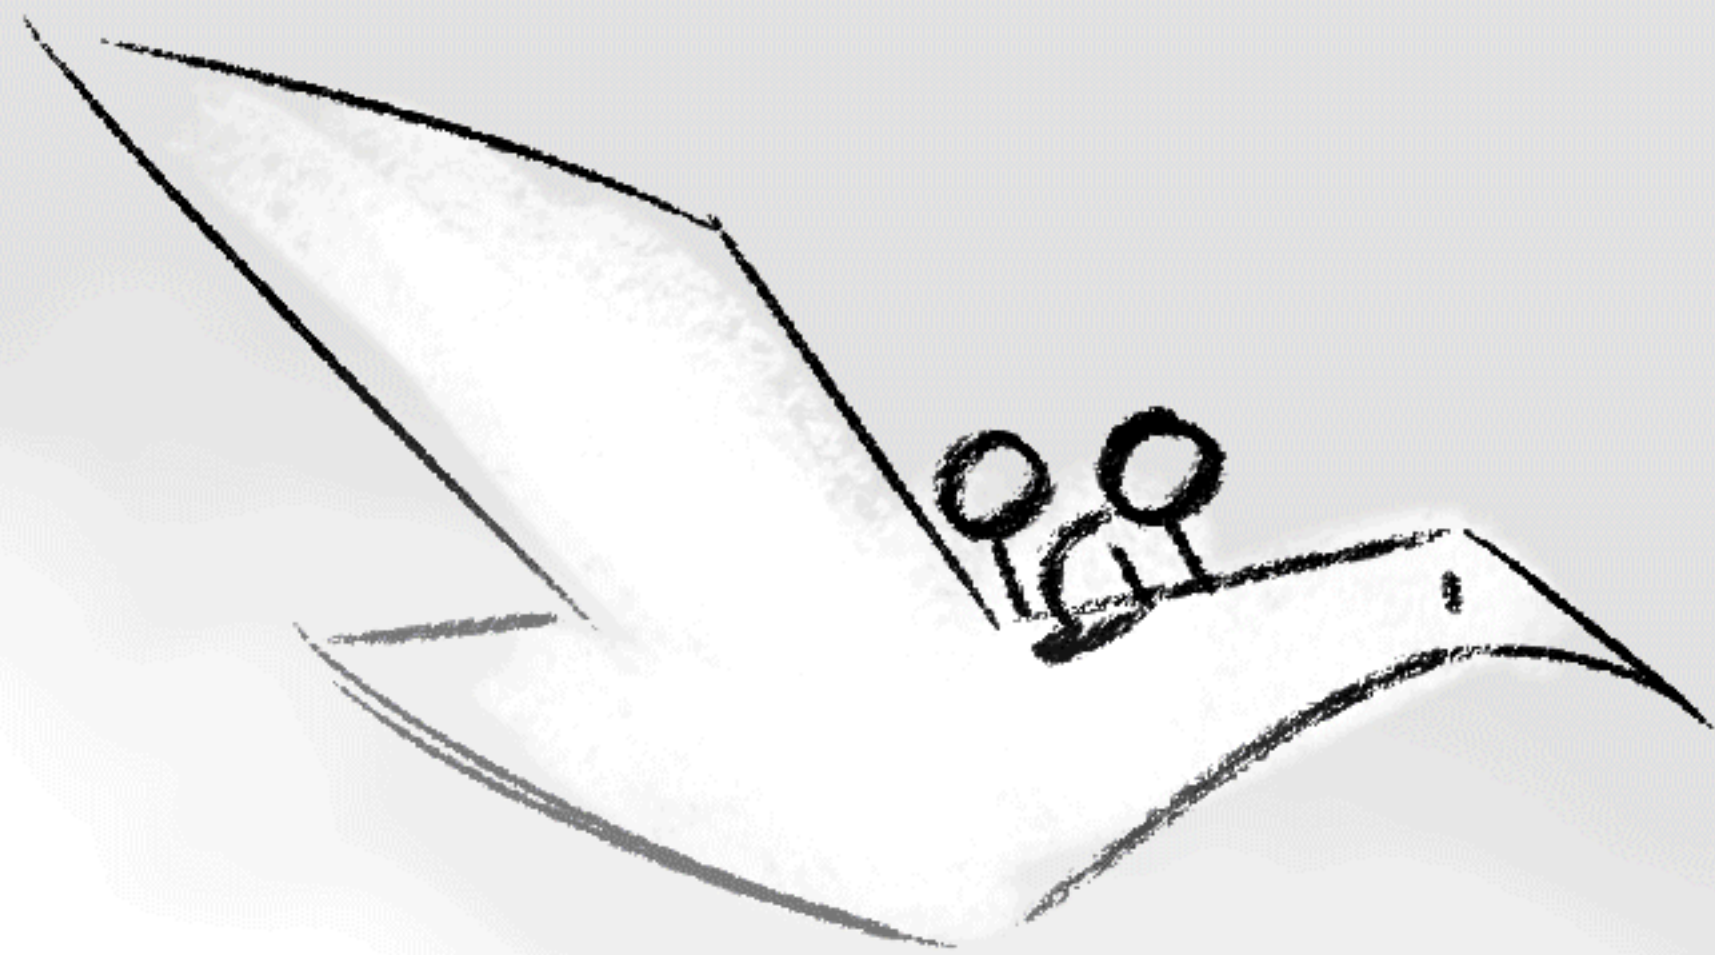

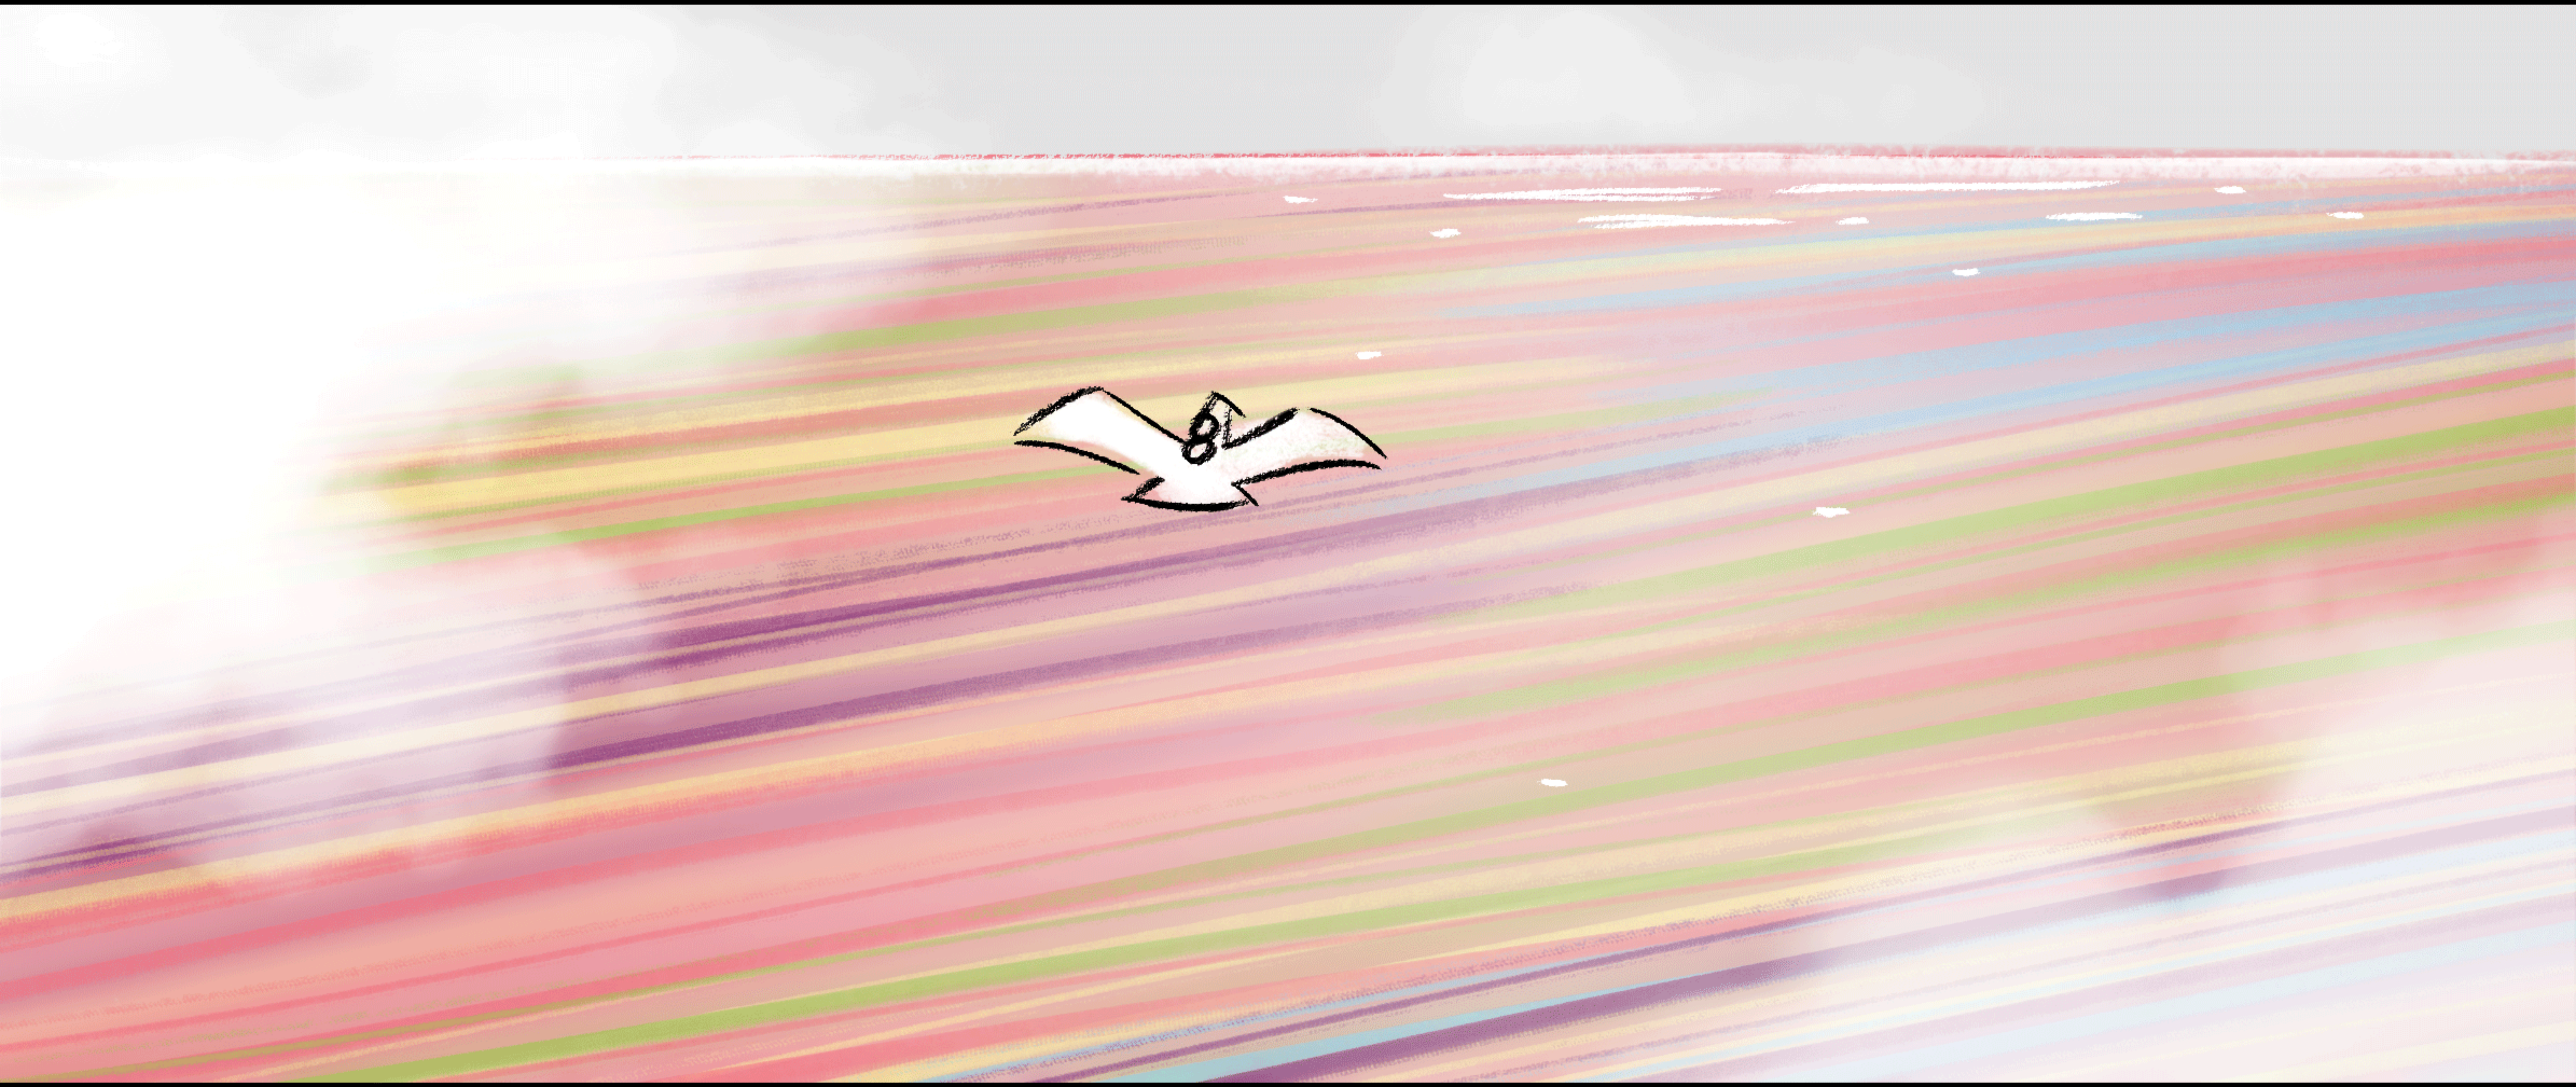

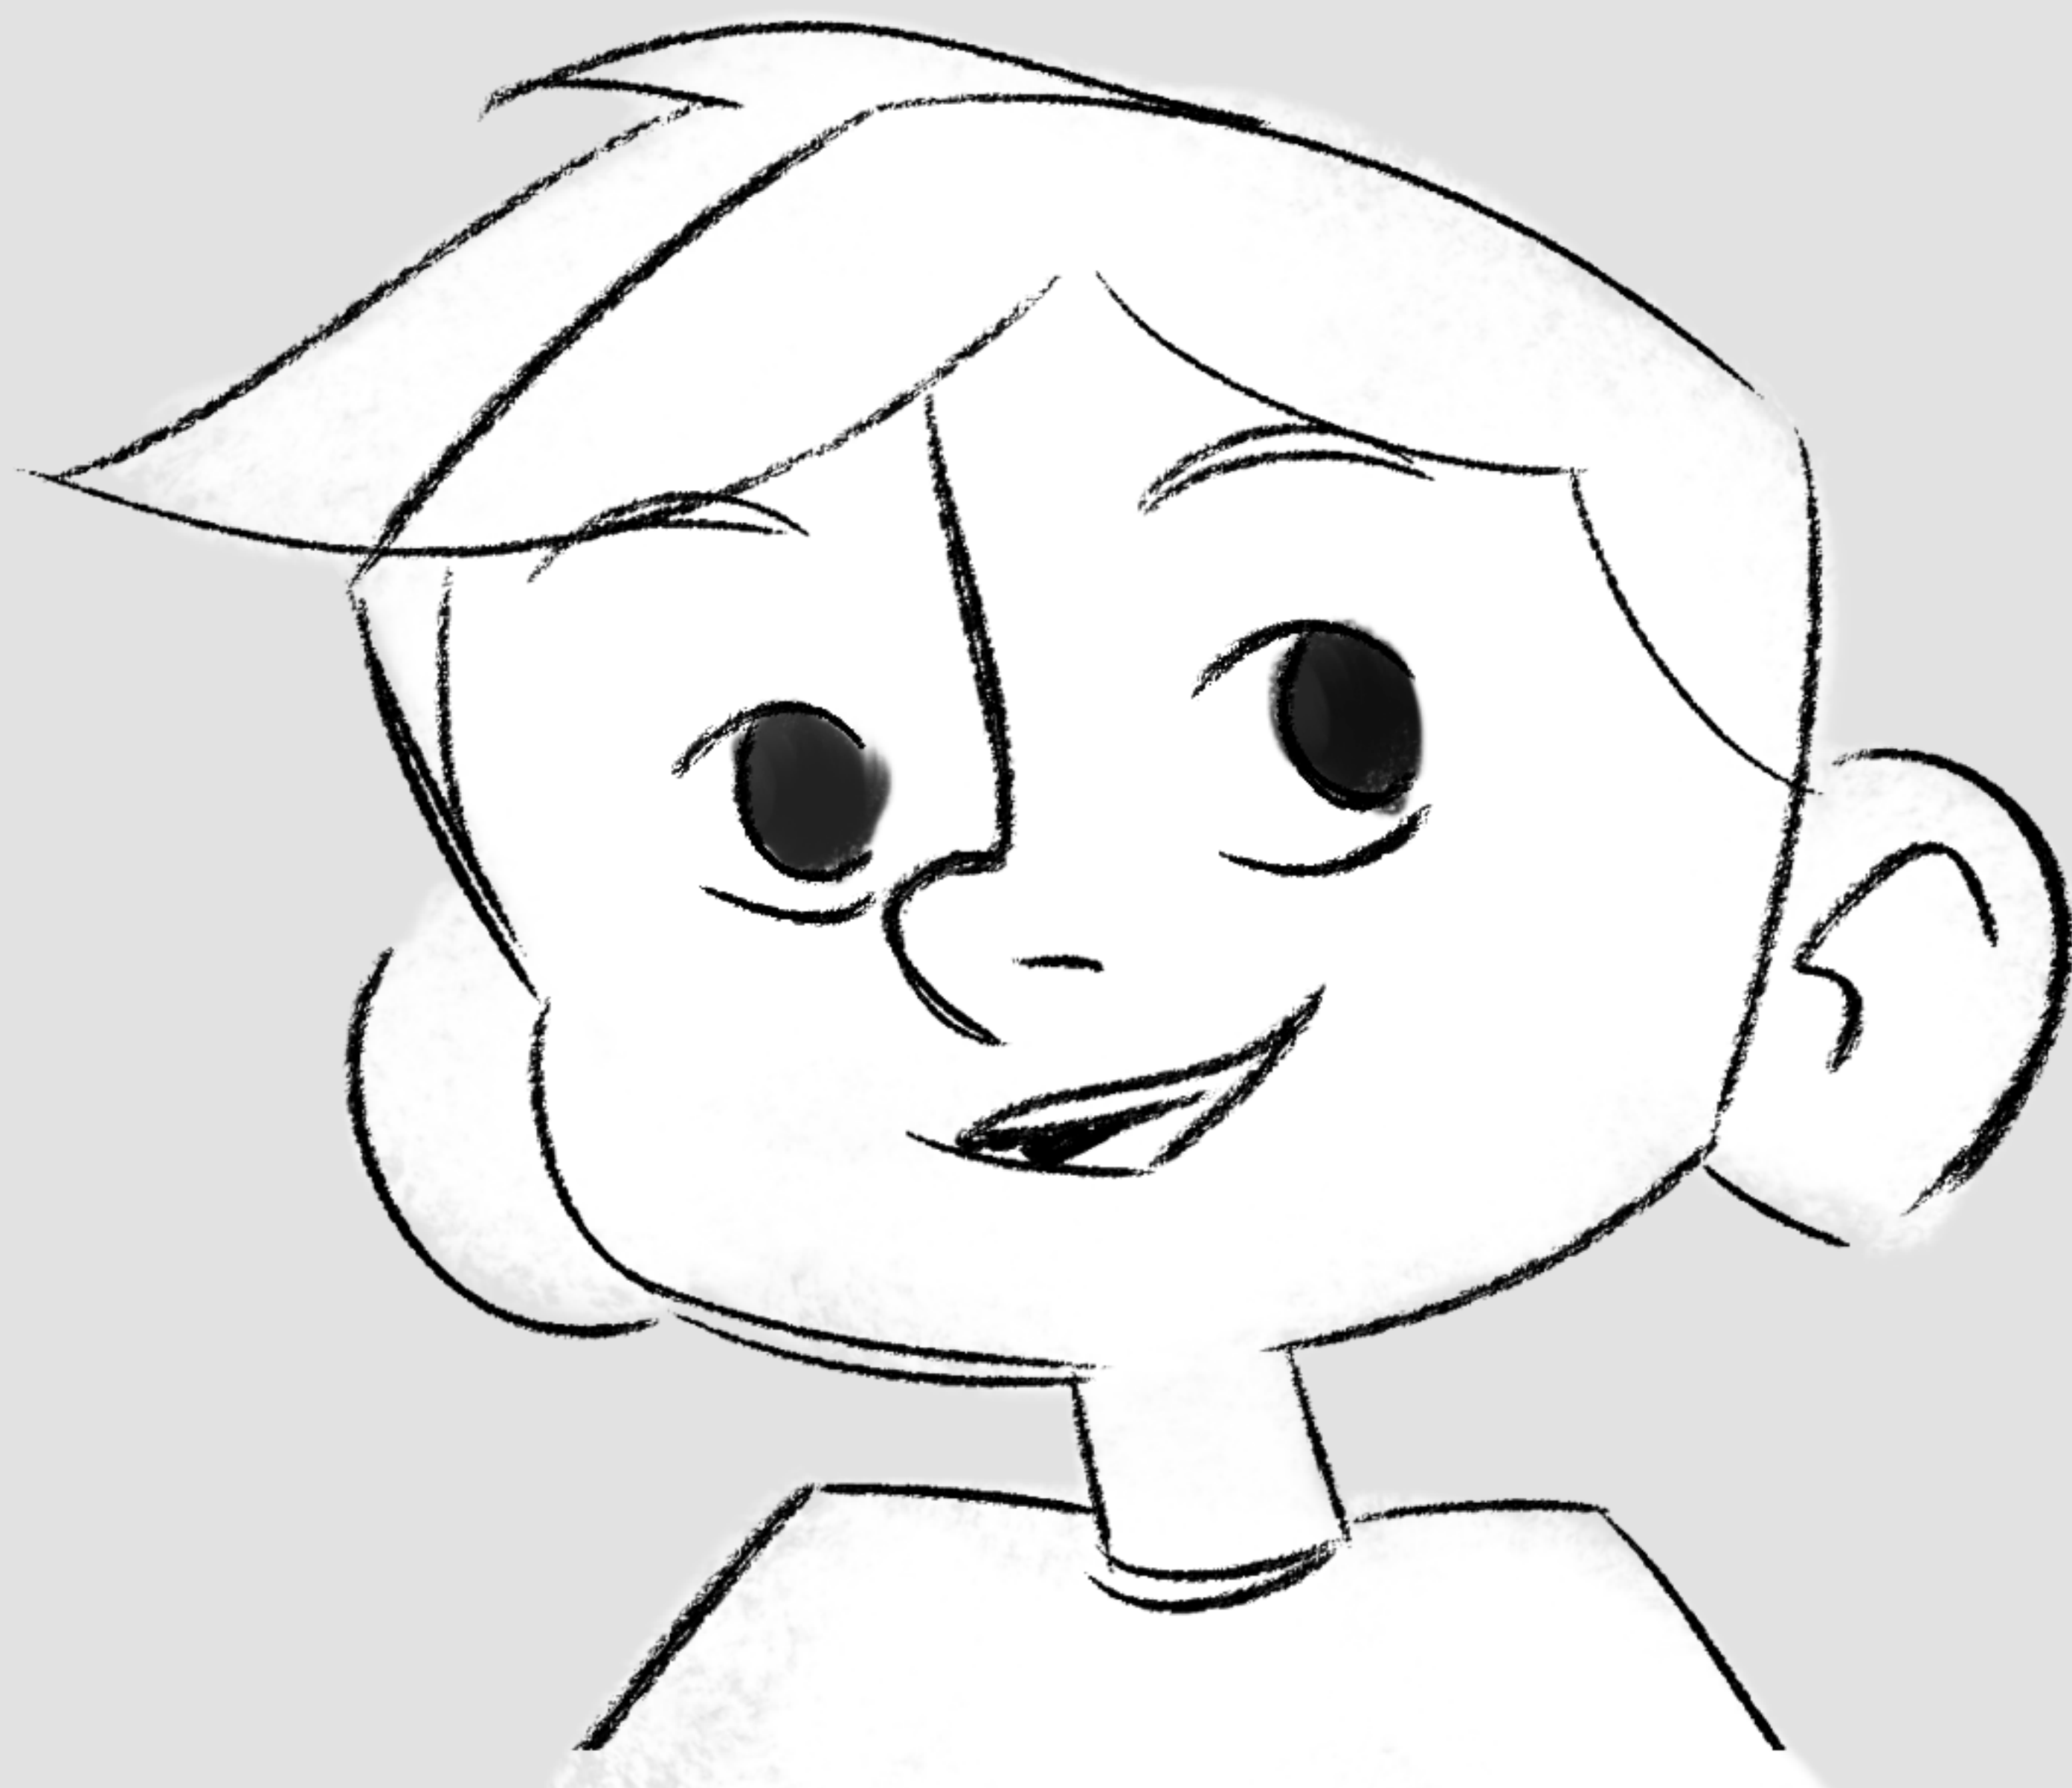

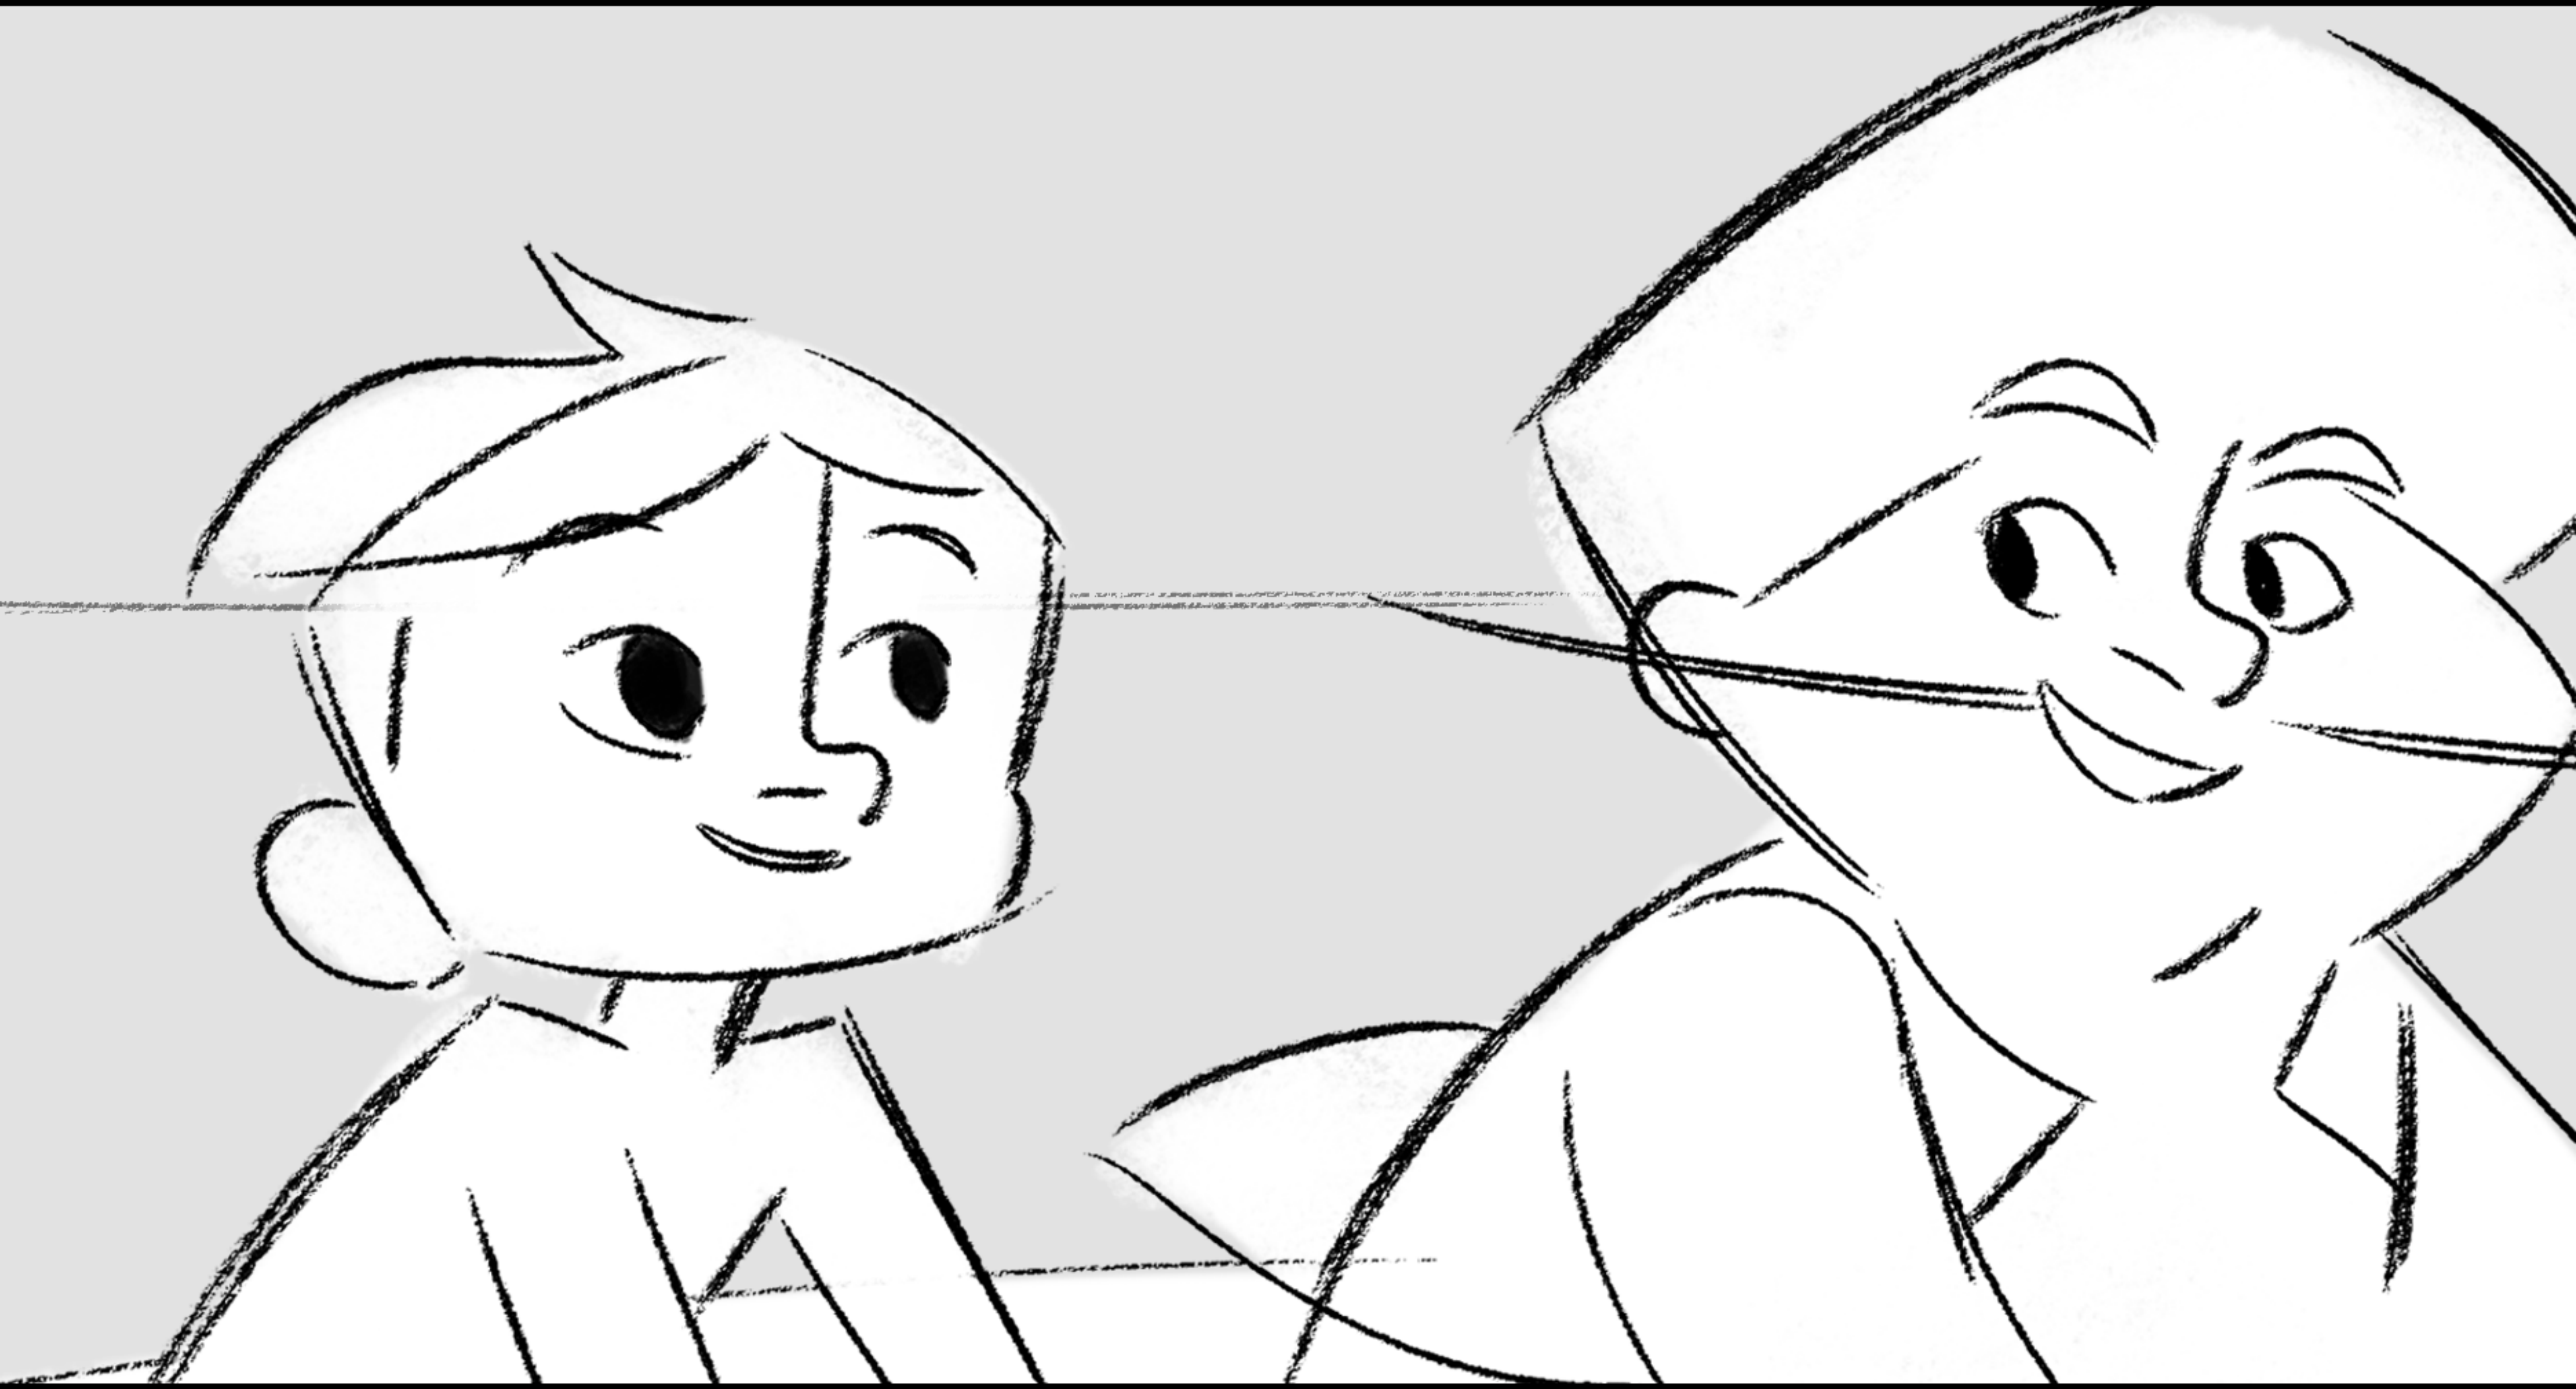

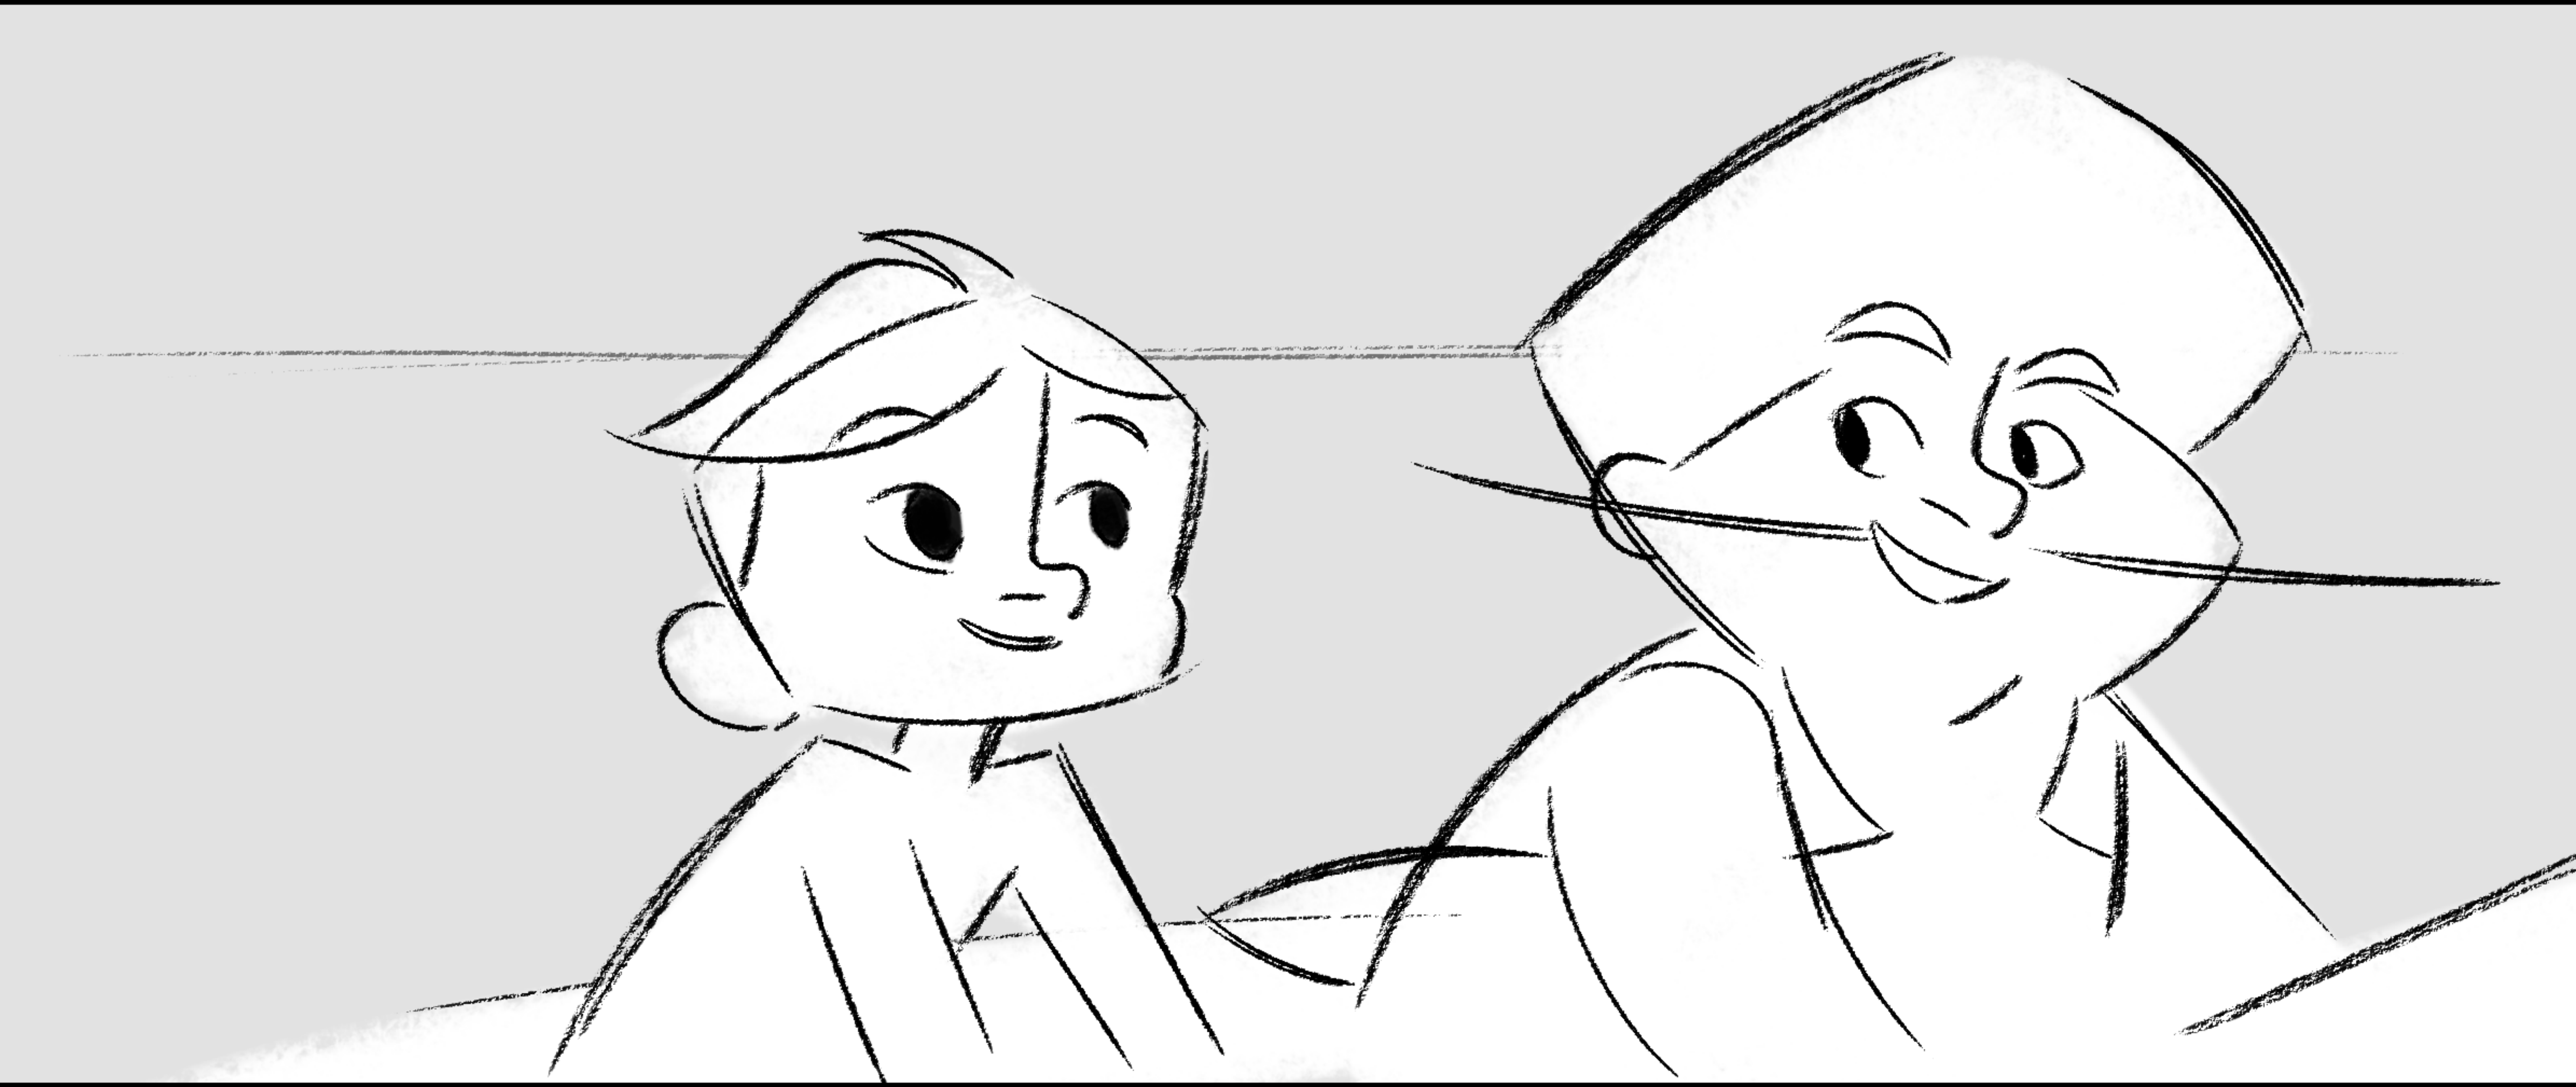

IFF: The ocean of the streams of story.

IFF: The ocean of the streams of story.

IFF: The ocean of the streams of story.

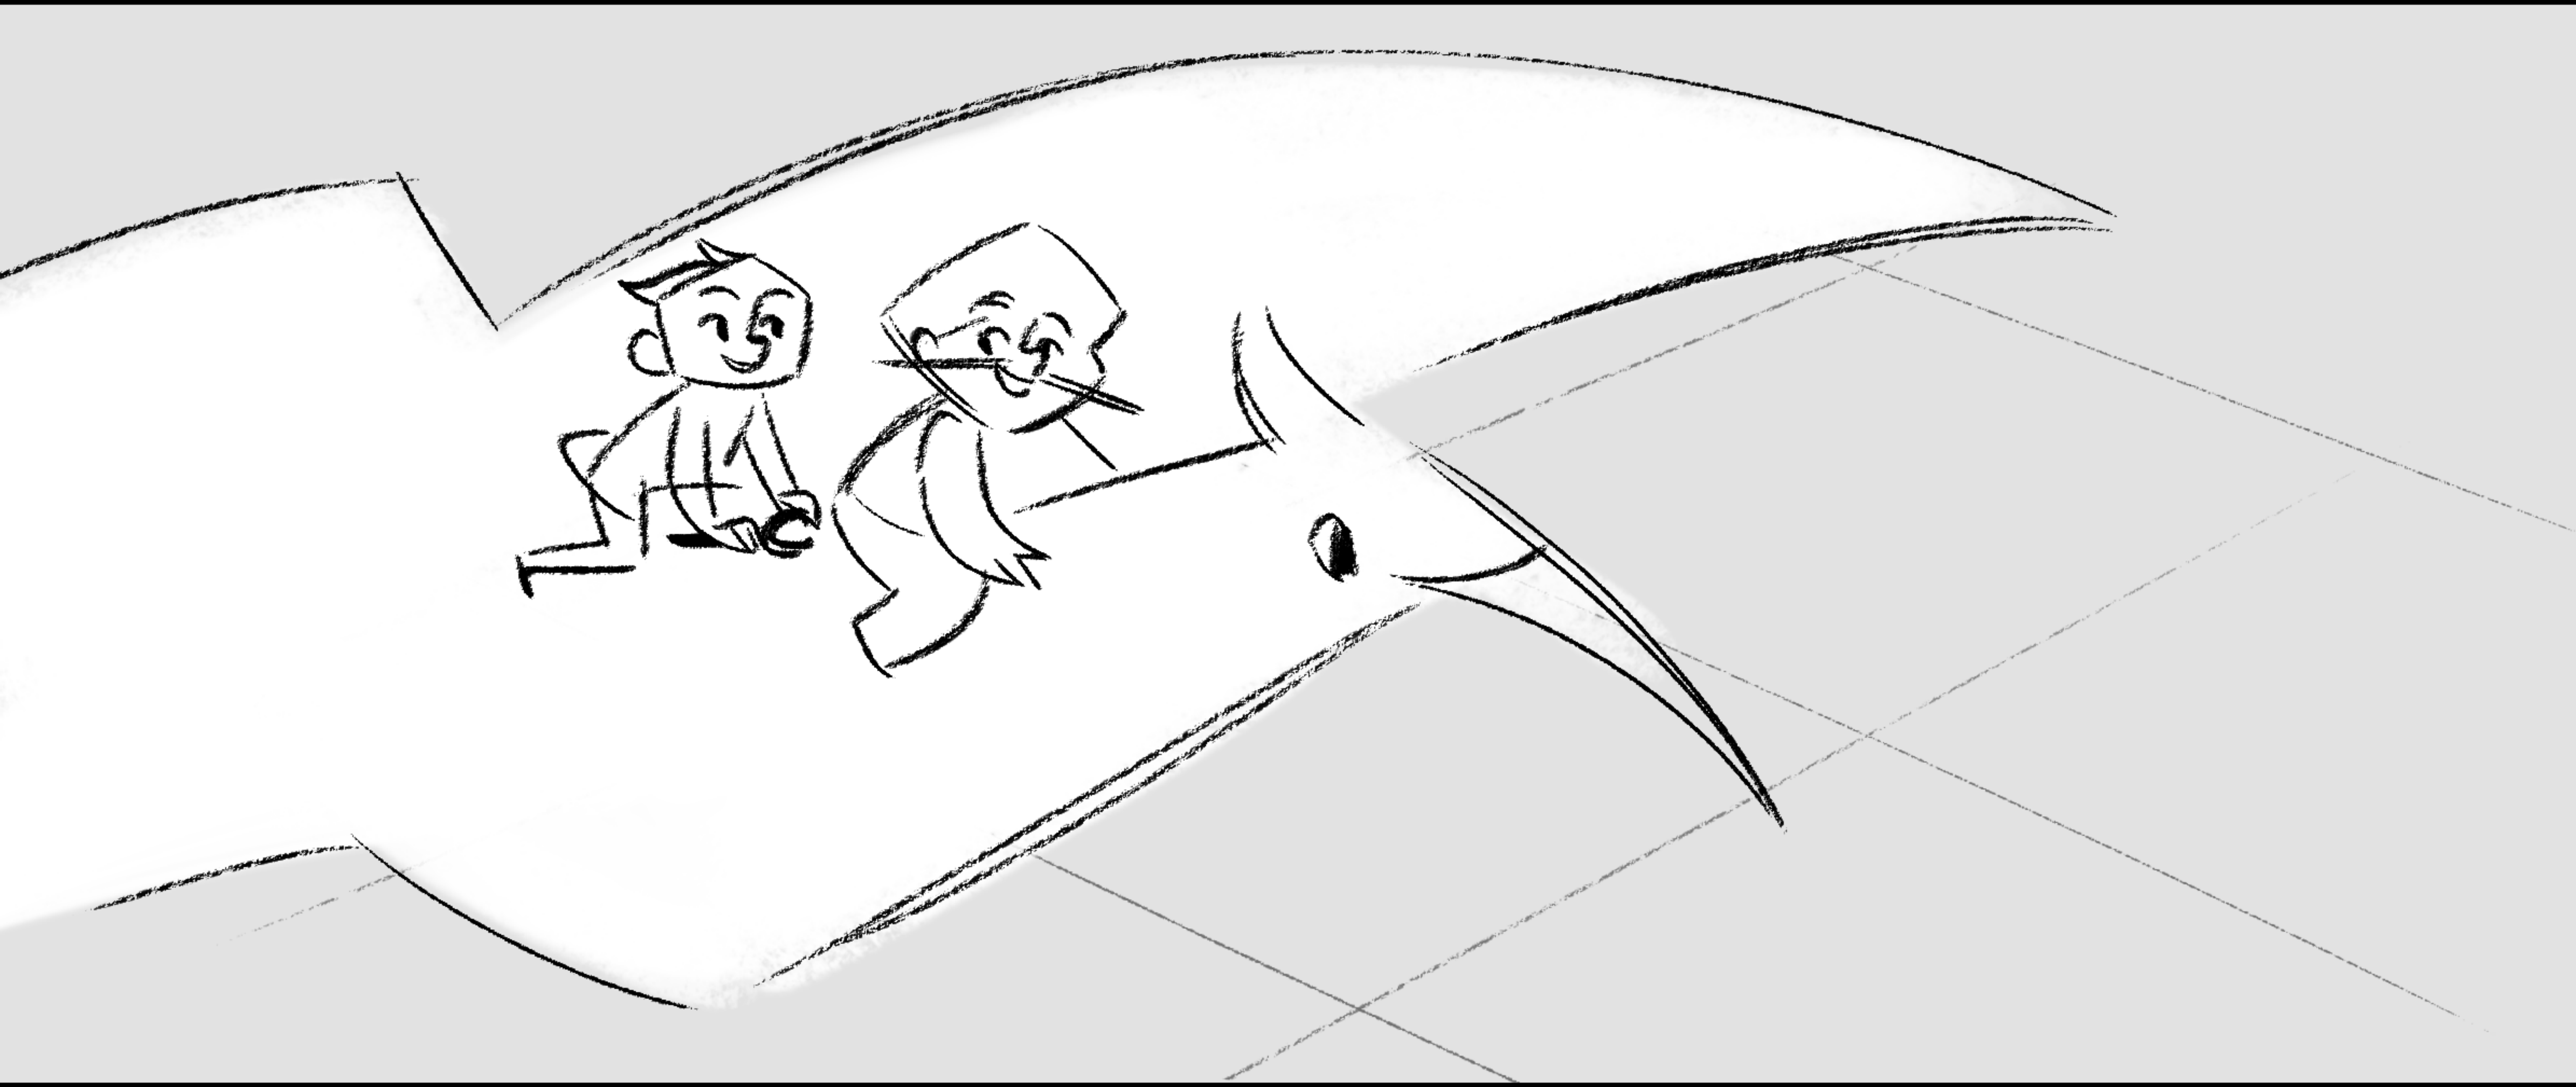

IFF: The ocean of the streams of story.

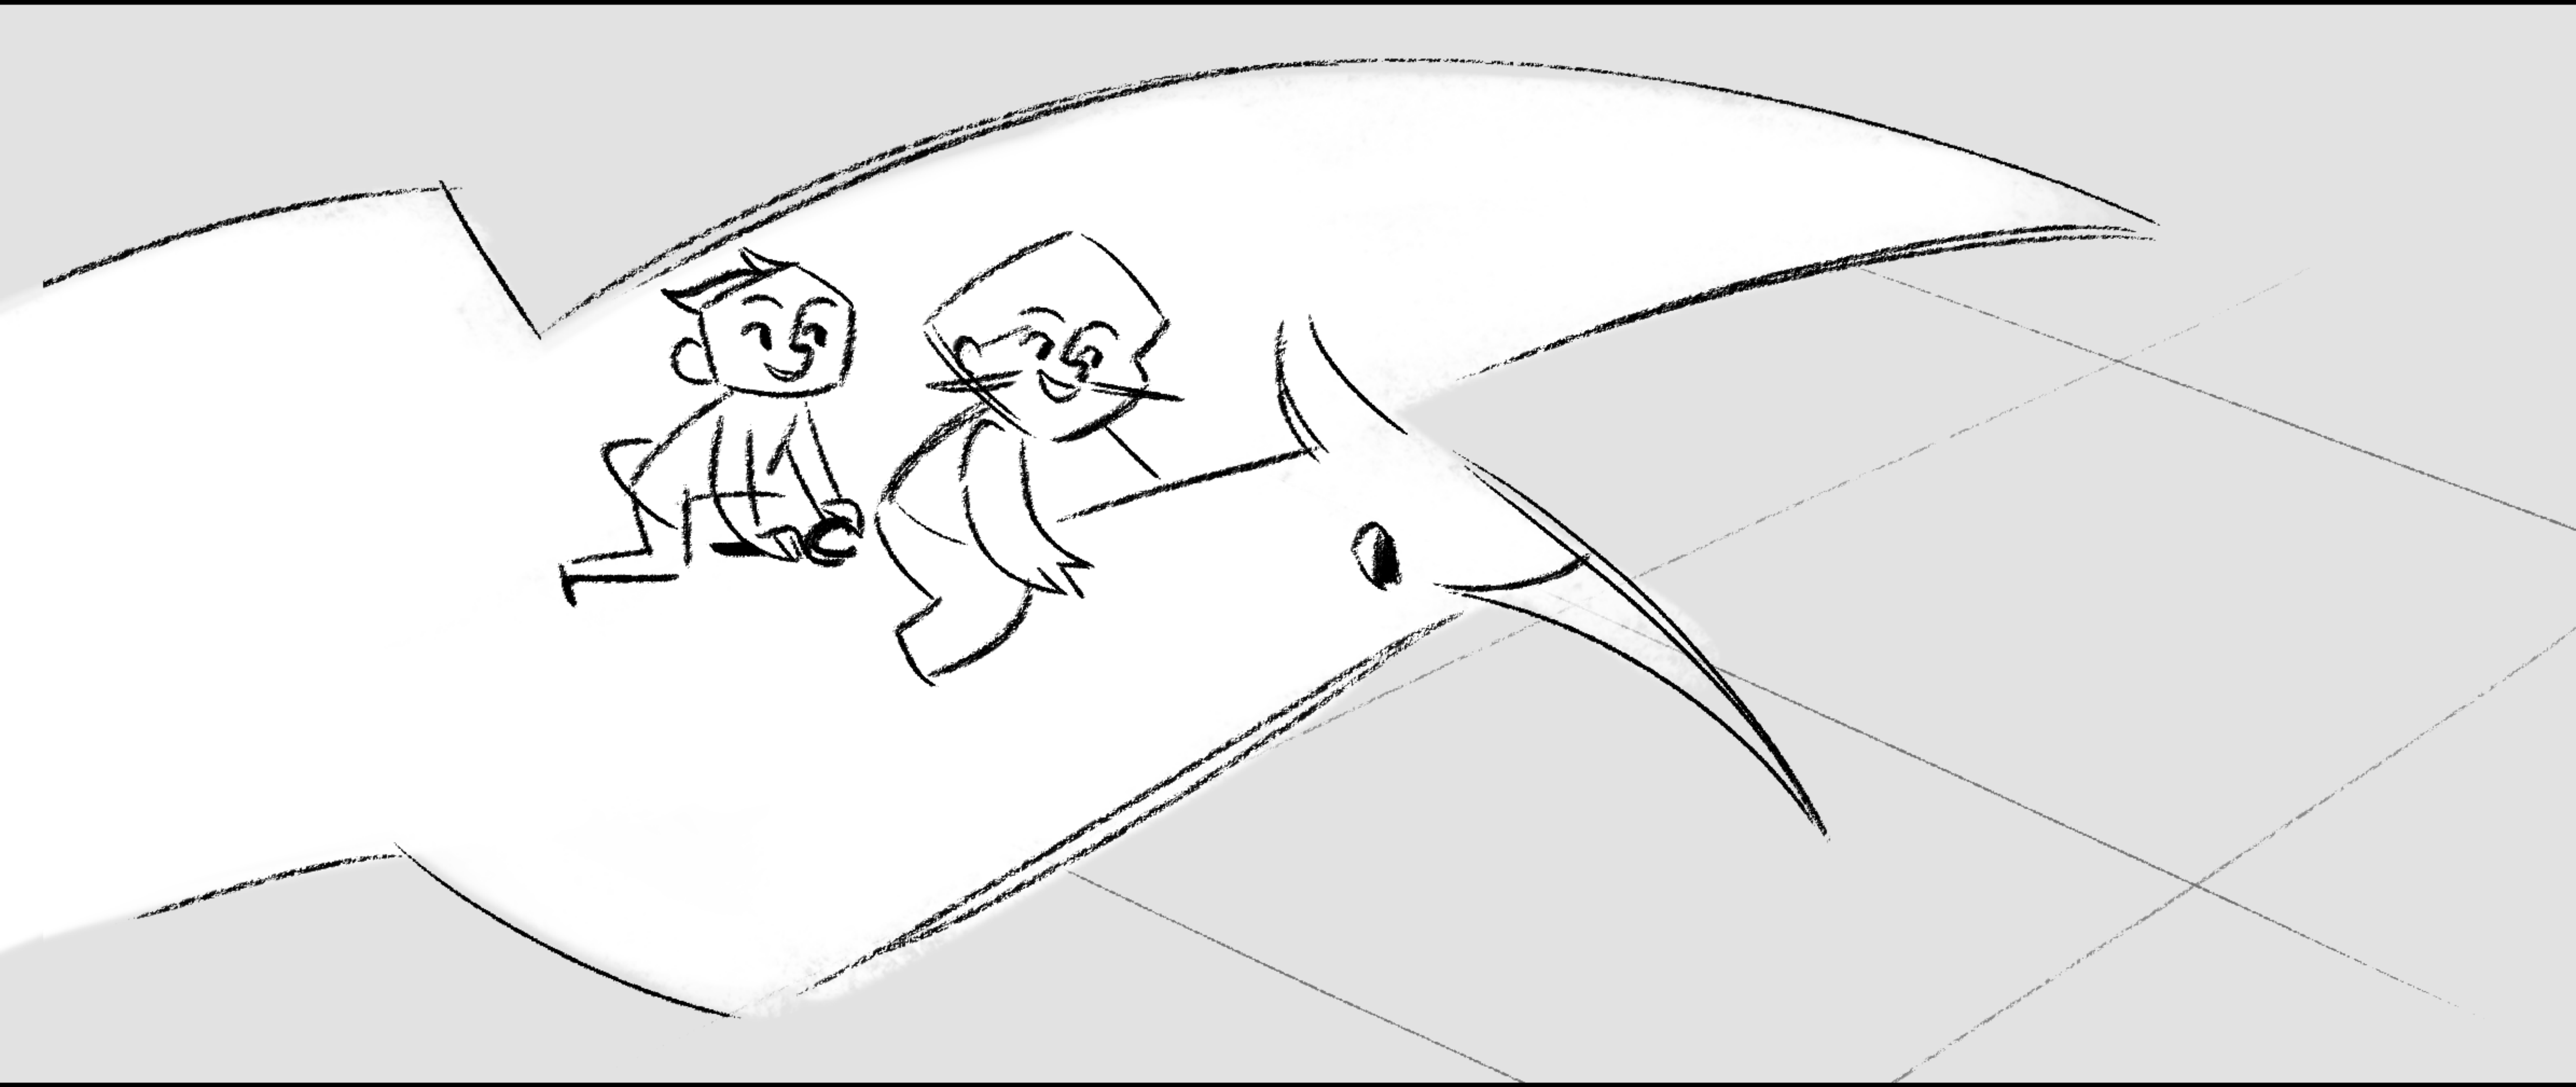

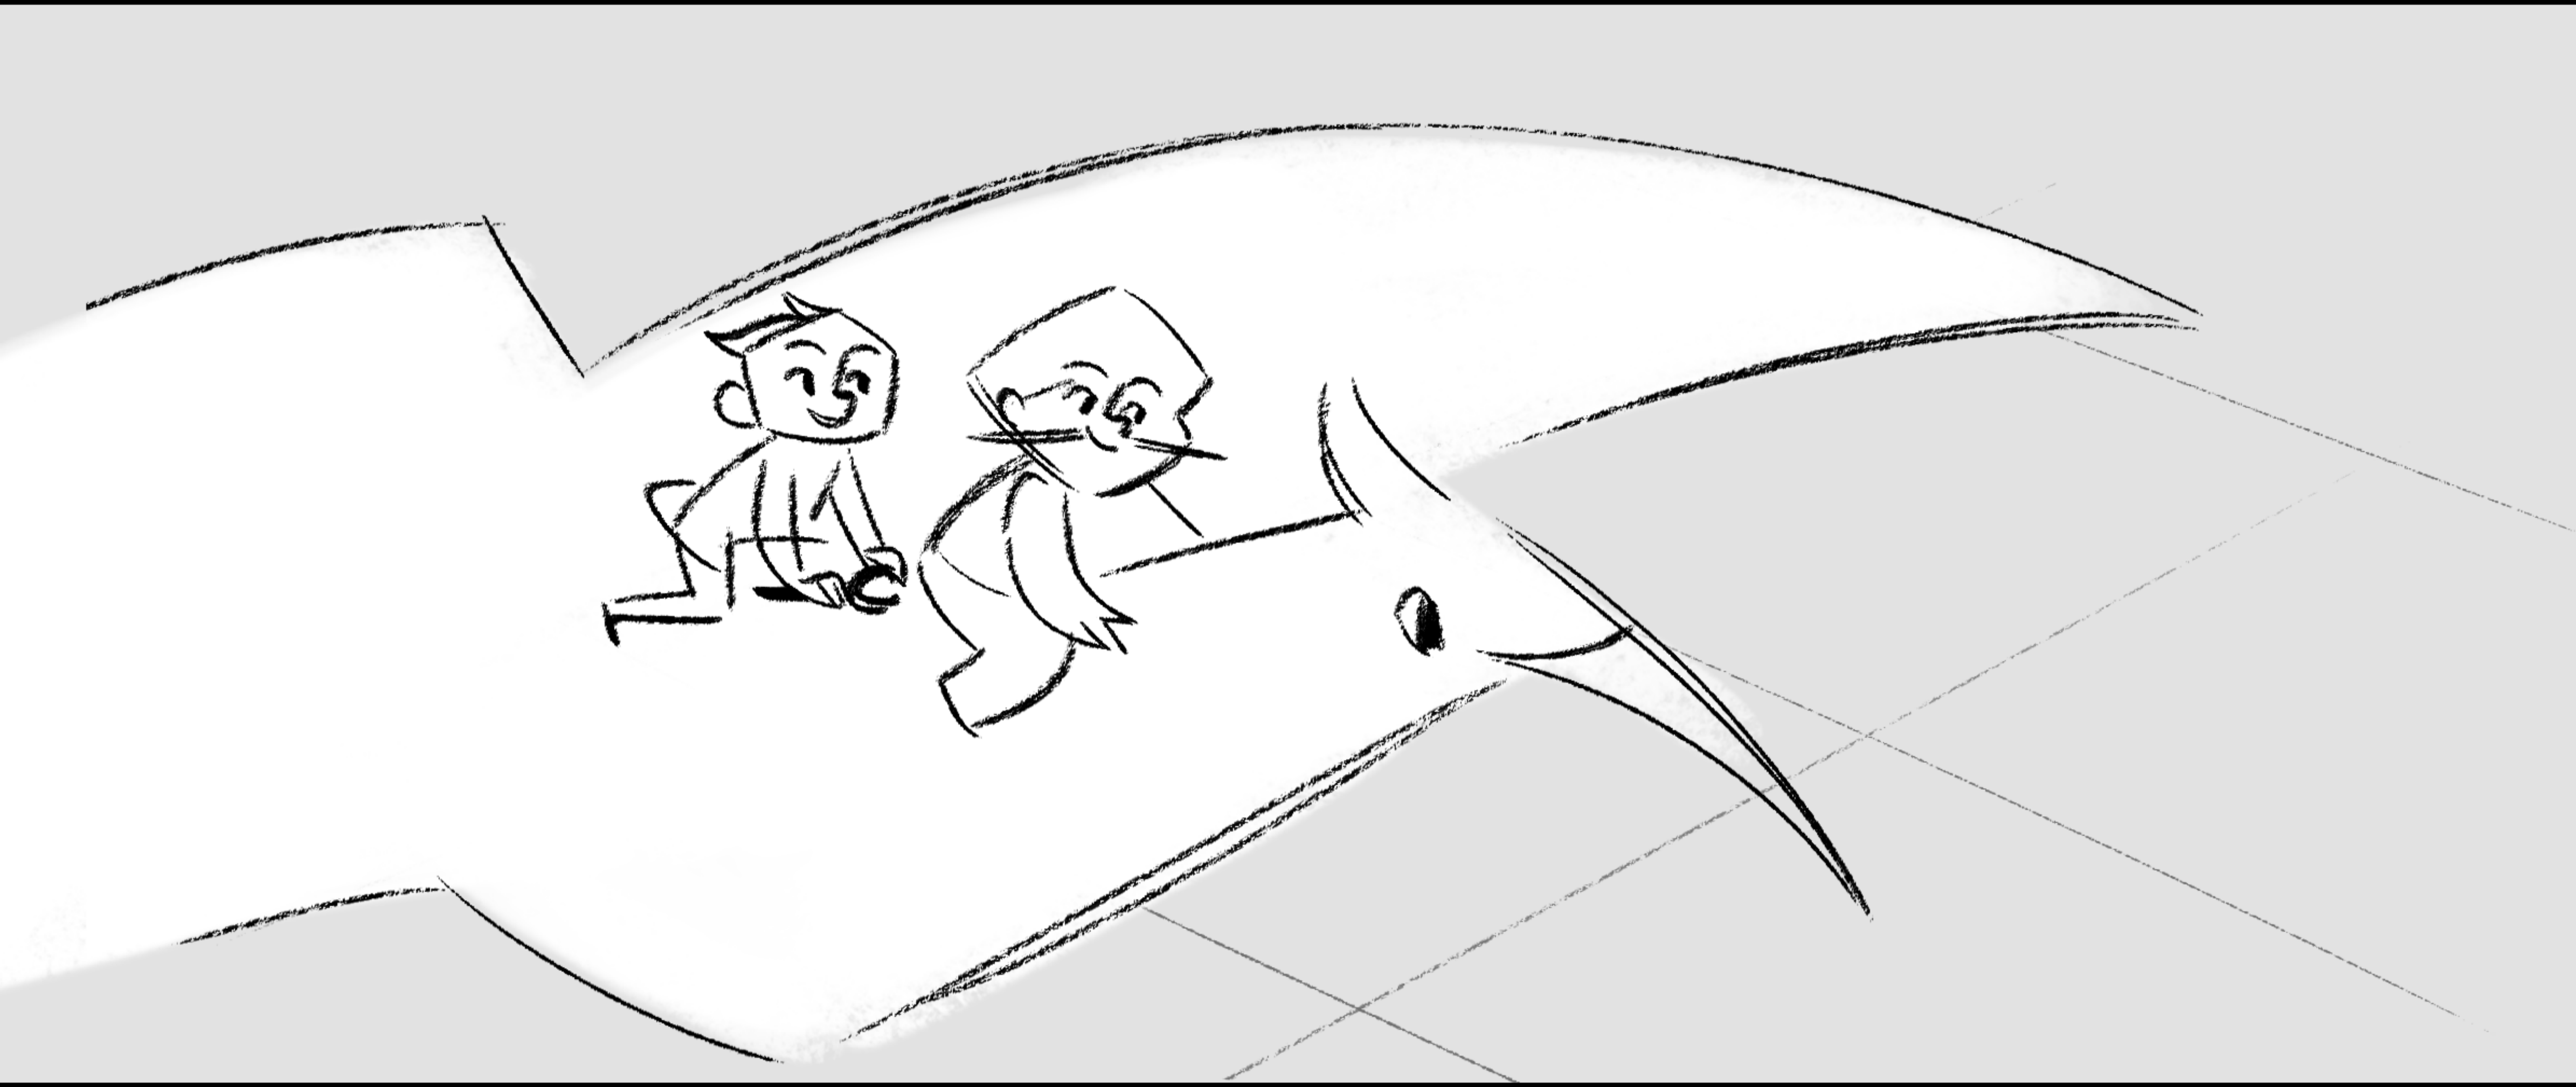

IFF: Wasn't it

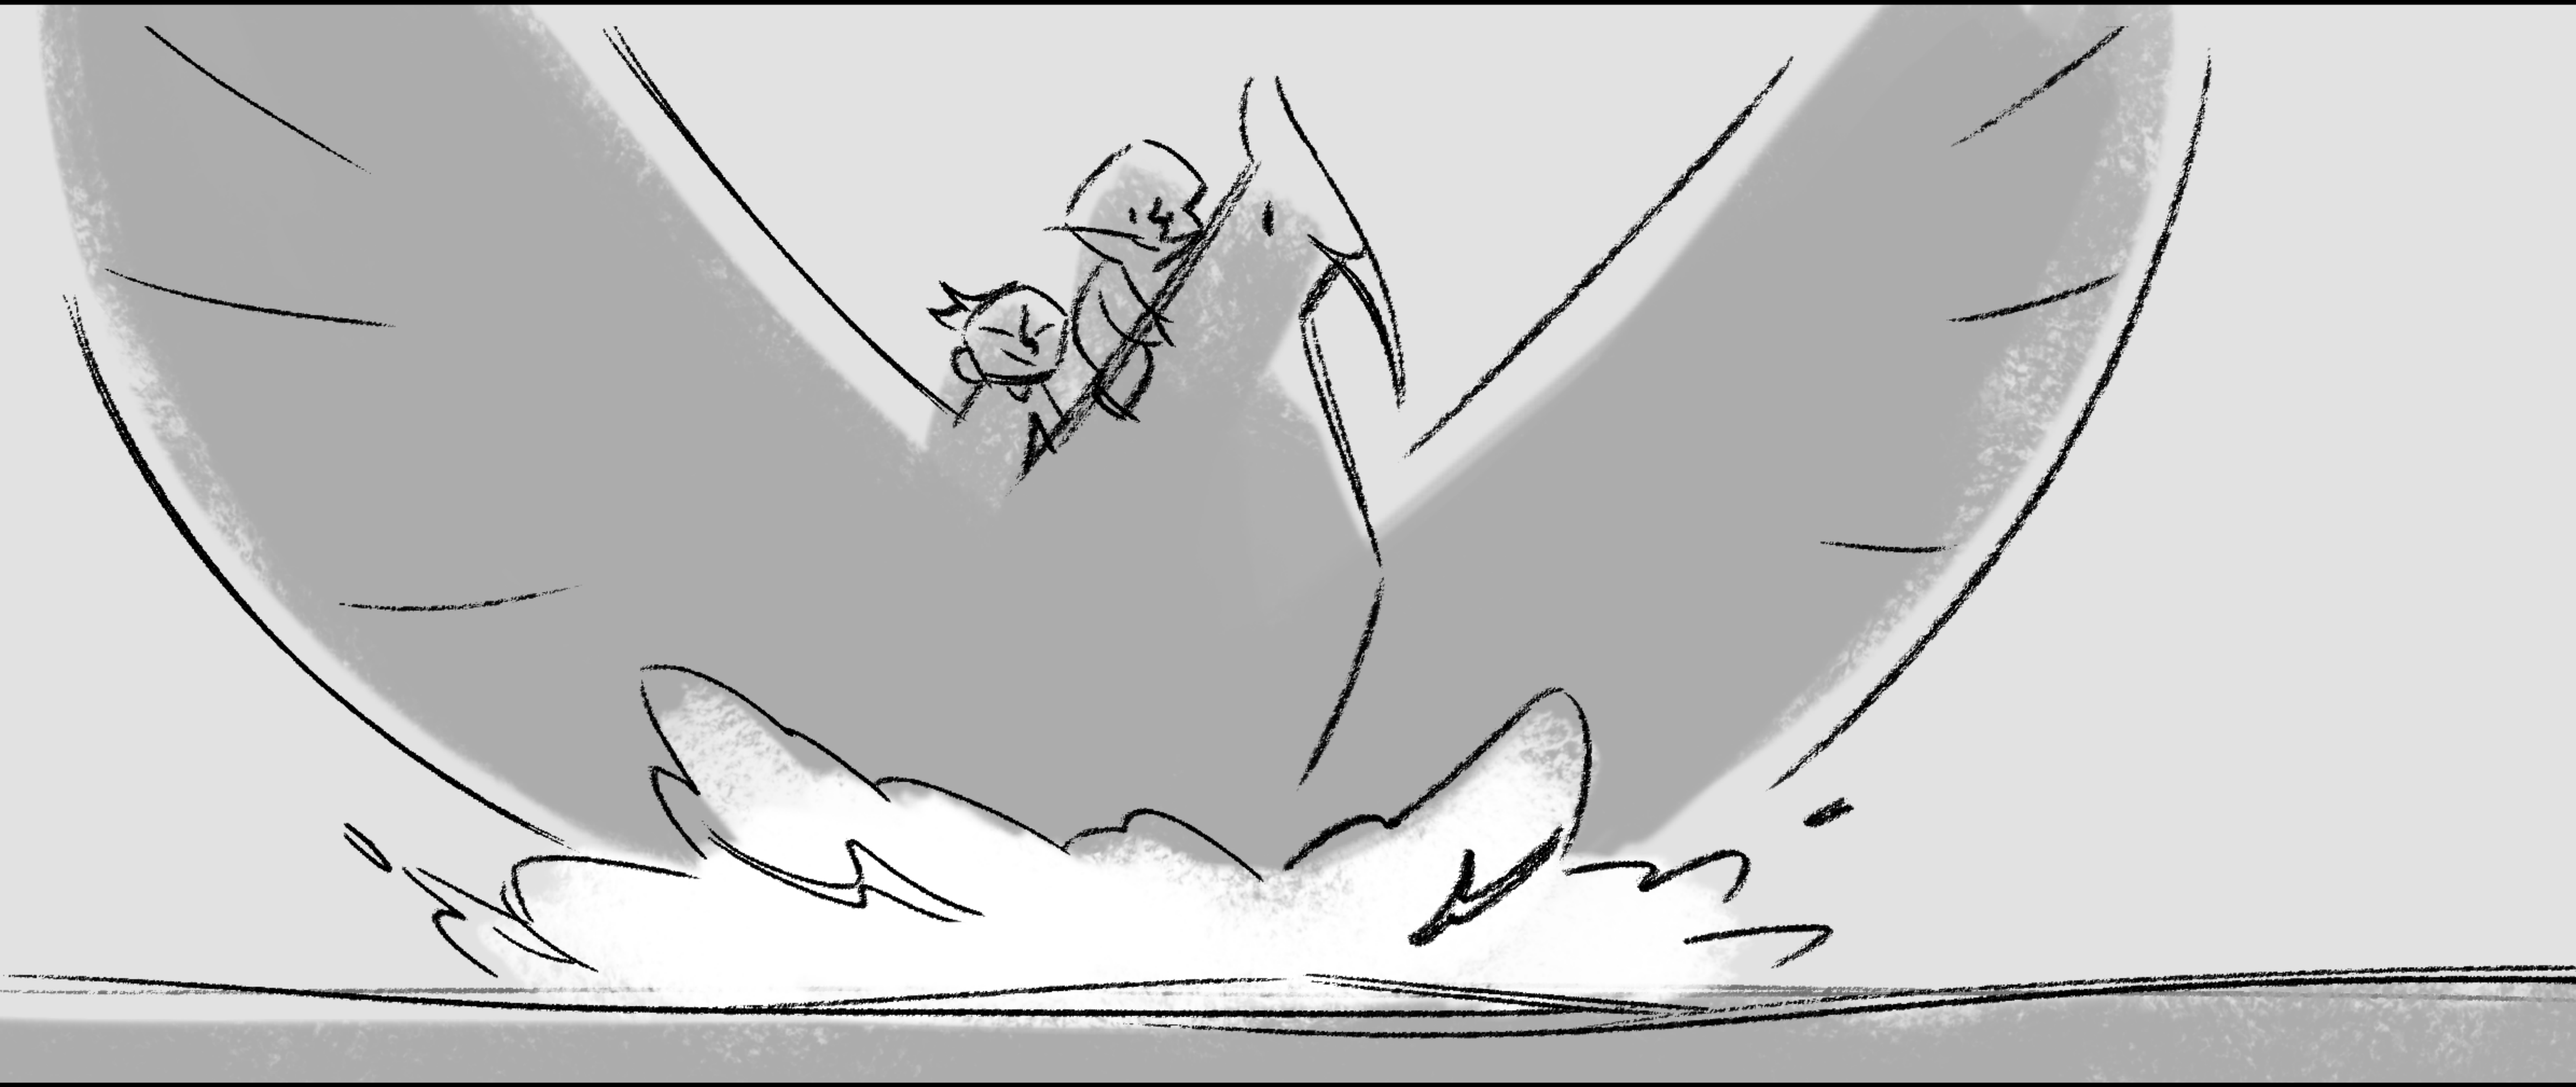

worth travelling so far and fast to see?

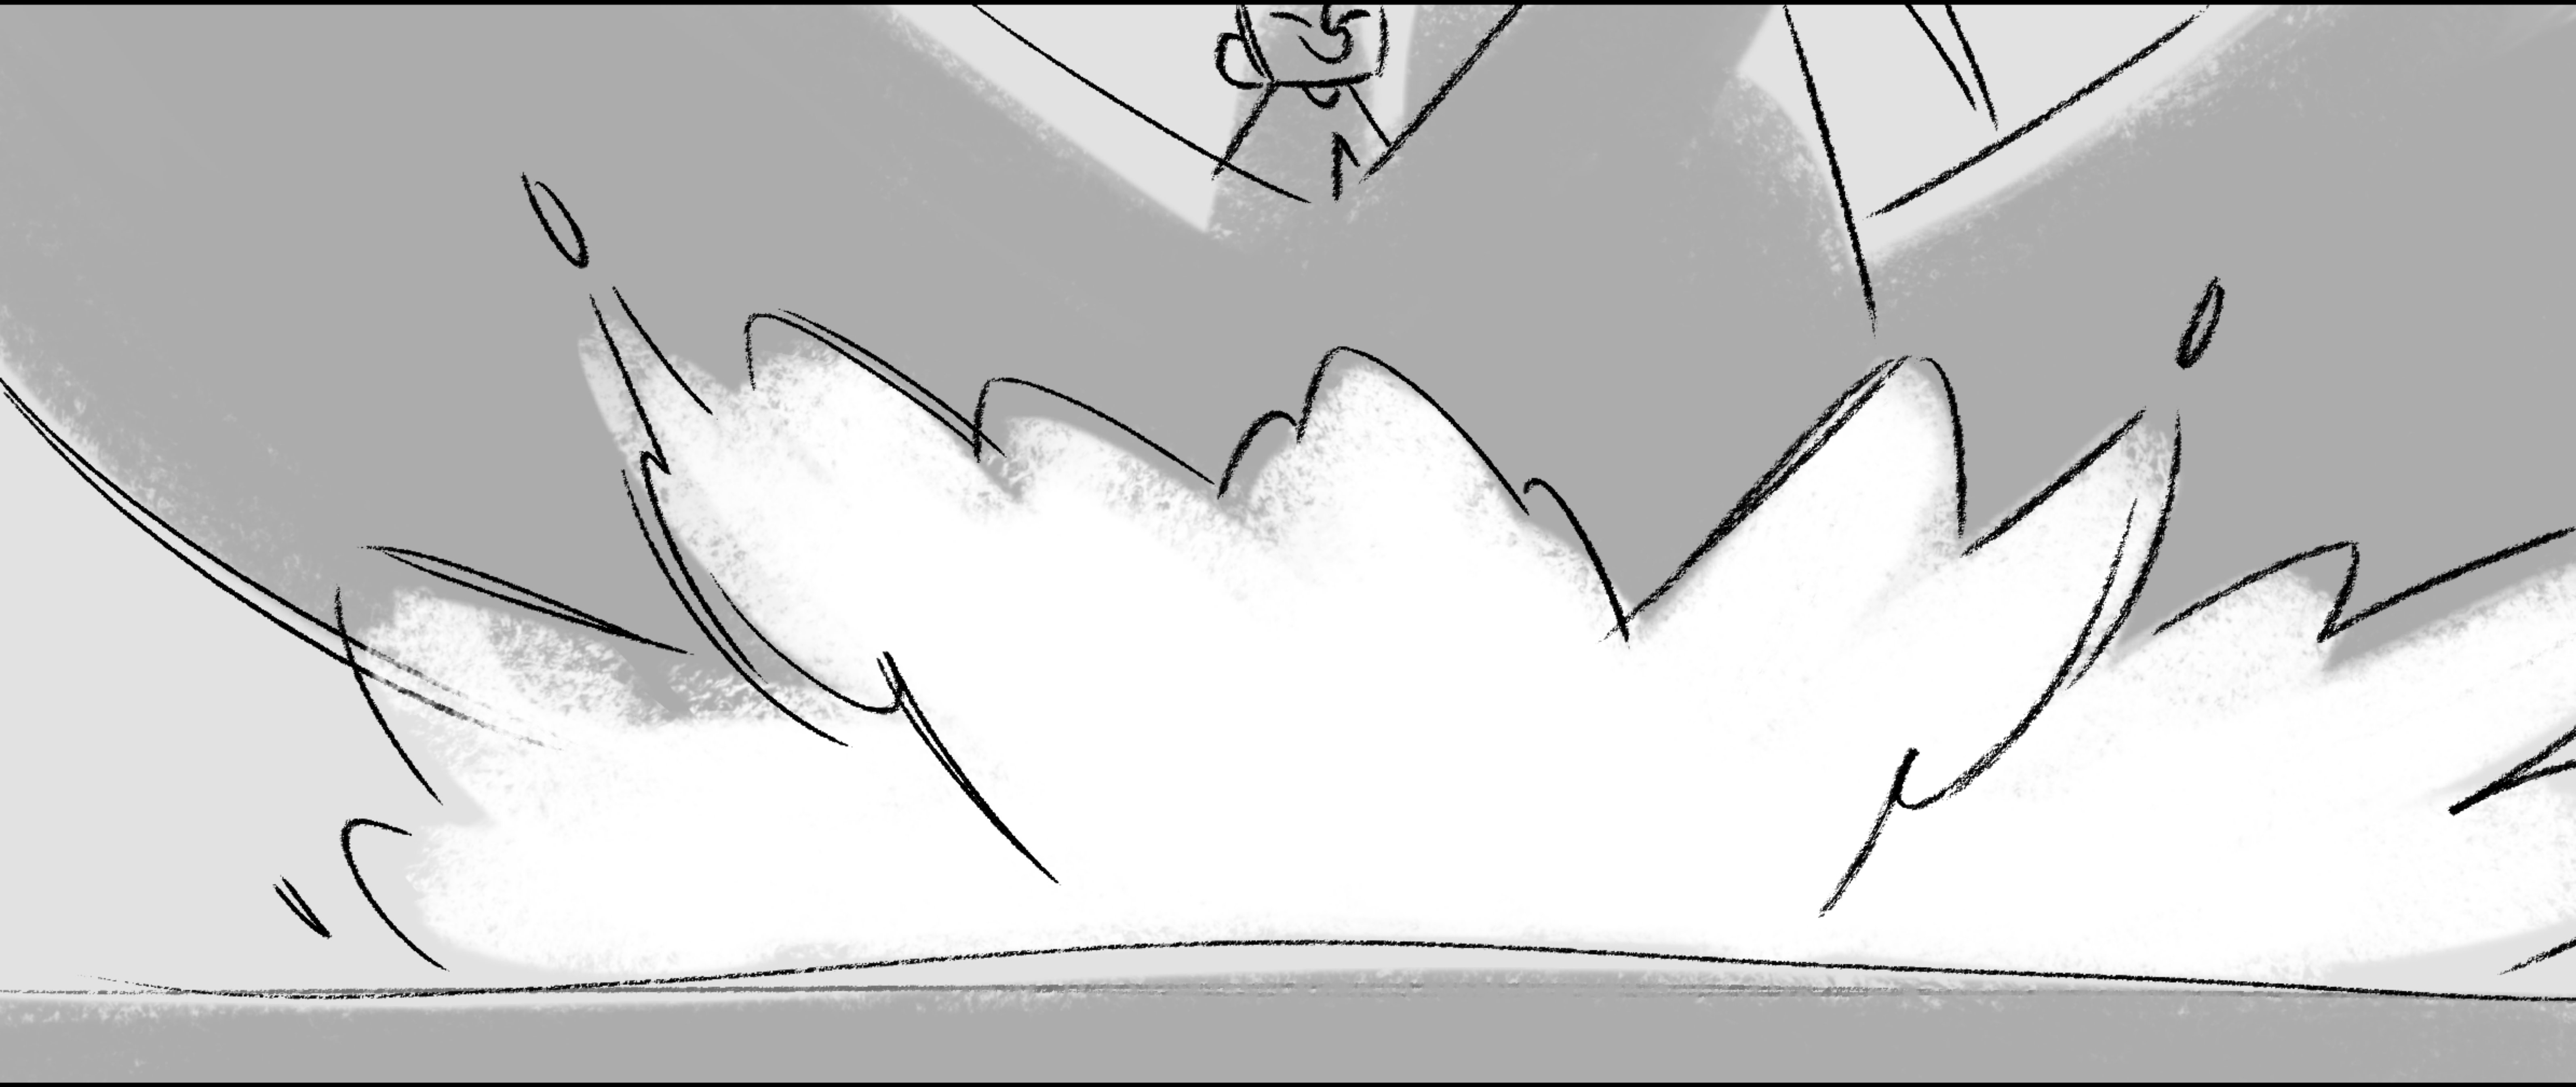

worth travelling so far and fast to see?

SPLASH

