Face-to-face with the Chief Executive - Aspirations of youth for an international city

No more fresh air? Is medical care adapting to society's changing needs? Is another financial crisis looming? Is Hong Kong an intellectual hub?

Over 700 students, including those joining online from cities around the globe such as Shanghai, Beijing, London, Vancouver, and New York, shared their aspirations for maintaining Hong Kong's status as an international city with The Honourable Donald Tsang, Chief Executive of Hong Kong SAR.

The "Scaling New Heights - Addressing the Chief Executive's Policy" seminar was organised by The General Education Unit and the "GO HK GO" campaign. It provided a valuable opportunity for HKU students to discuss the future directions of Hong Kong with the Chief Executive and express their aspirations for the Policy Address.

LegCo By-election candidates field questions from Hong Kong's future leaders

The first Legislative Council By-election Forum, jointly organised by the Students' Union and the Politics and Public Administration Association, was held in early November at Loke Yew Hall. The forum comprising eight candidates attracted over a thousand students who were eager to voice their opinions and questions.

HKU - attracting and retaining top talent in Hong Kong

In recent years, the Hong Kong Government has repeatedly made known its plan to develop Hong Kong into an education hub. This is considered a very important policy for better positioning Hong Kong in the worldwide competition for the top talent.

In line with this policy, HKU has been constantly increasing its intake of full-degree students from outside Hong Kong, and mainly from China in the last few years. The number of non-local undergraduates has increased from 180 in 2003-4 to 678 in 2006-7. Competition for such places has been extremely competitive particularly in the mainland. In 2007, HKU has received more than 11,000 applications for 246 places. All the students admitted by HKU have extremely impressive records.

To our delight, not only that these outstanding students choose HKU as the university of their choice, our graduation survey in fact shows that close to 40% of the non-local graduates in 2006 have chosen to stay and work in Hong Kong (39% mainland and 38% overseas). They are mainly working in finance, business and engineering. In addition, 9% have continued their study in Hong Kong and 4.3% elsewhere.

As an academic institution, one of HKU's missions is to develop the best talent for Hong Kong and China. The outstanding non-local students who choose to work in Hong Kong have become contributing members of the Hong Kong workforce. Even if they return to their homeland in future, we believe their education and work experience in Hong Kong will enable them to make significant contributions to their homeland and help build closer economic and social ties between their homeland and Hong Kong.

Furthermore, the presence of non-local students has vastly enriched the campus experience at HKU. There has been tremendous positive interaction between local and non-local students in the classroom, group projects, halls and student societies. They also learn from each other's study and living styles.

Our statistics suggest that the Hong Kong Government's policy to develop Hong Kong into an education hub is a right one. It should allow tertiary institutions to admit more non-local students both at the undergraduate and post-graduate levels. To make this happen, it should also provide extra resources to remove constraints such as the severe lack of hostel places.

Barefoot on the path to supporting children

A journey of a thousand miles begins with a single step

Close to 100 alumni and students hiked barefoot in a thirty-minute walk from Haking Wong Podium to The Peak in support of the underprivileged children, allowing them to continue their education in rural areas of Mainland China.

The hike was organised by the China Education Association, HKUSU, which would like to extend its programme to gain wider community support. The "Shoes-off Walkathon" has received donations of HK$50,000. Any support will be most welcome. Details: <http://www.hku.hk/hkusucec/>

Antarctica, Here We Come!

“All of us should protect this fragile and unique environment before it is too late.”

Earlier this year, five university students from Hong Kong, including three from HKU, embarked on a once-in-a-lifetime trip to Antarctica.

While enjoying the spectacular beauty of nature, they also experienced first-hand the importance of preserving Antarctica and protecting the environment for future generations.

Tang Chin-cheung, also Chairman of Greenwoods, HKUSU, reports on this exceptional trip. “Since 1979, over 20 per cent of the polar ice cap, including the icebergs on which the wildlife of the Antarctic depends, has melted because of global warming... Antarctica is a zone for peace, science and natural reserve. It does not belong to any nation and is shared by all peoples of the world. We all must protect this fragile and unique environment before it is lost forever.”

A HKU Rising Star

Breakthrough research into the anomaly in tumour recurrence rates in liver graft transplants by HKU student, Kendrick Shih Hoi-dik (施愷迪) and his mentor Dr Kwan Man 萬鈞 (PhD 1998), won a Rising Star award at the recent International Liver Transplantation Society's (ILTS) International Congress and symposium held in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil.

The Rising Star is conferred annually to the six brightest and best combinations of youth and wisdom working in the clinical and basic science of liver transplantation research. This winning pair from HKU was the only team from Asia.

A lack of suitable liver donors in Hong Kong means most liver transplants involve grafts from living donors, usually relatives. However, there is a higher rate of tumour recurrence in liver transplant patients who receive grafts from living donors than those receiving cadaveric organs.

Using rat models, Shih was able to discover the gene IP10 and how it affects cancer cells.

"We found in a laboratory setting that if you put cancer cells in IP10, it will grow arms and move faster. It moves at about 10 times the normal rate. This makes the cancer cells spread faster," Shih said.

Dr Kwan explained that Shih's finding had important implications for the future of living donor liver transplants as strategies could be developed to suppress the growth of IP10 and so minimise tumour recurrence.

"Remarkable" is how Shih's supervisor Lo Chung-mau 盧寵茂 (MBBS 1985; MS 1998), Chin Lan-hong Professor in Hepatobiliary and Pancreatic Surgery, described his achievement. "Most students just want to graduate and become doctors as soon as possible. But Kendrick was willing to make this sacrifice and take a year out."

This award brings international attention not only to the advances in liver transplantation research being made at HKU, but also to a young man who has his sights firmly set on working in Hong Kong after graduation.

Celebrating 40 Years of Social Innovation

Distinguished Alumni Lecture Series 2007

To celebrate its 40th anniversary, the Faculty of Social Sciences invited eminent Social Scientists to address students and friends in a series of four lectures on the themes of social innovation and global citizenship.

“The New Challenges Facing Social Scientists”

Dr Rosanna Wong 王荔鳴 (BSocSc 1975; Hon DSocSc 2003), Executive Director of the Hong Kong Federation of Youth Groups, explored the challenges at the forefront of public opinion and policy making in the 21st century. She encouraged aspiring “Societists” to seize every learning opportunity and to equip themselves with knowledge, creativity, networking and problem-solving skills.

“Innovations within the Hong Kong Police Force in Response to Social Change”

Mr Tang King-shing 鄧竟成 (MIPA 2002), Commissioner of Police, examined the transformation of the Hong Kong Police Force over the past 40 years, from an authoritarian quasi-military force to a modernised customer-orientated police service team. “The police are the people; the people are the police,” he emphasised.

“On Becoming a Global Citizen”

Mr. Alex Fong 方志偉 (BSocSc 1978), Chief Executive Officer of Hong Kong General Chamber of Commerce, shared perspectives from the different vantage points in his career on how he had seen the world change China over the past three decades. He also shared his thoughts on how China is going to change the world in the coming decades.

“Dialogue with Mr Joseph Yam”

The concluding session of the Distinguished Alumni Lecture Series was delivered by Mr Joseph Yam 任志剛 (BSocSc1970), Chief Executive of Hong Kong Monetary Authority. The Lecture was mainly an open dialogue between the speaker and the audience, with Professor Richard Wong, Deputy Vice-Chancellor, HKU as the moderator.

New Pro-Vice-Chancellor for Teaching and Learning

Professor Amy Tsui 徐碧美 (BA 1971; DipEd 1972; MA 1979), Chair Professor of the Faculty of Education, has been appointed the new Pro-Vice-Chancellor for Teaching and Learning at The University of Hong Kong, and will be in charge of teaching and learning issues, as well as quality assurance of the education experience related to the curriculum reform.

This Pro-Vice-Chancellorship is a newly created post to address the strategic priorities and developments ahead, especially those associated with the 4-year degree structure and curriculum reform of the University.

Professor Tsui studied English literature and linguistics in HKU, and obtained her PhD in Linguistics from the University of Birmingham. She taught at the National University of Singapore and the Chinese University of Hong Kong before joining HKU in 1990. She has held a number of positions within the University, including the Chairman of the Steering Committee on 4-year Undergraduate Curriculum. Professor Tsui has distinguished academic achievements, experience and knowledge in curriculum reform, as well as deep understanding of the local education system.

"The four-year undergraduate curriculum reform is a once-in-a-life time opportunity for us to critically reflect on the total learning experience that is afforded to our students, and to deliberate on how we can not only help students to develop intellectual capabilities and professional skills, but also nurture the core values of a responsible global citizen," Professor Tsui said.

The First Chinese Winner of the Guy Medal

HKU Honorary Professor Howell Tong 湯家豪 is the first Chinese to win the distinguished Guy Medal in Silver of the Royal Statistical Society, UK. The award recognises his contributions in non-linear time series modelling. Professor Tong was formerly a Pro-Vice-Chancellor (2002-2004), Chair Professor of Statistics (1999-2004) and the Founding Dean of Graduate School (1998-2002). He won a Chinese National Natural Science Prize (Class II) in 2000.

HKU 1

To many people in Hong Kong, "HKU" is synonymous with excellence. A loyal graduate holds this notion dear to her heart and, to ensure that the University retains the unique, prestigious license plate "HKU 1", she supported the University's bid for the "HKU 1" vehicle registration mark at a government public auction with a generous donation. The funds raised at the auction are used to support the government's poverty fund. By supporting her alma mater, this loyal graduate also contributes to eradicating poverty in society.

Croucher Senior Research Fellowships 2007

Three HKU professors received the prestigious Croucher Senior Research Fellowship awards: (from 2nd left) Professor Wang Zidan 汪子丹 of the Department of Physics, Professor Leung Suet-yi 梁雪兒 (MBBS 1986; MD 1998) of the Department of Pathology and Professor Chye Mee-len 蔡美蓮 of the Department of Botany. Kernie Hui 許珮茵 (1st left), a PhD candidate in microbiology, was awarded the Croucher-Butterfield Studentship for her research into the strain of H5N1 avian influenza.

Eileen Chang: A Hong Kong Legend

張愛玲的香港傳奇

The University of Hong Kong (HKU) has been the cradle of some of the greatest creative and artistic minds in the region. With its deeply-rooted tradition in liberal arts education with an international perspective, the University has helped shape the colourful cultural landscape of Hong Kong today. Many of its alumni, in particular acclaimed Chinese author Eileen Chang, have woven into the cultural fabric of this dynamic and ever-changing city by embarking on a journey that helped build the cultural heritage and identity of Hong Kong.

百年港大，一代又一代的莘莘學子，綻放光華。從一九一一年到今天，許多文人雅士艱苦奮鬥，締造個人卓越的成就、建立文化傳承的楷模。他們，都是港大人文精神的火炬，當中包括一代文壇才女張愛玲。

「幾千里路，兩年，新的事，新的人。戰時香港所見所聞，唯其因為它對於我有切身的、劇烈的影響，當時我是無從說起的。」

《燼餘錄》張愛玲

“Thousands of miles, two years, new things, new people. My experience in wartime Hong Kong has imposed on me an intimate and powerful influence, of which I was not aware at the time.”

— From The Ashes, Eileen Chang

Eileen Chang was born in Shanghai in 1920. She was admitted to HKU's Faculty of Arts in 1939 where she excelled academically. Having completed just two years of studies at HKU, Chang was forced to suspend her studies and return to Shanghai when the Japanese occupied Hong Kong. However, the two years she spent in Hong Kong were critical to her later emergence as a legend in the world of literature.

During the war-torn years, when Hong Kong was under Japanese occupation, Hong Kong provided Chang with a haven for nurturing her creativity. Within two years of returning to Shanghai, Chang entered her golden age of writing and published a series of short stories dedicated to the people of Shanghai. Her major works include Love in a Fallen City, Golden Cangue, Ashes of Eaglewood-The First Burner, Ashes of Eaglewood-The Second Burner, Romances, Written on Water. Her first work in English, Chinese Life and Fashion, was published in 1943. By this time, Chang had emerged as a new star on the literary scene.

Chang's work is filled with references to locations in Hong Kong, including Mid Levels, Babington Path, Po Shan Road, The Repulse Bay Hotel – and particularly HKU. Chang's stories largely reflect her life at HKU and her personal feelings towards Hong Kong during this period.

Chang achieved excellent results at HKU, especially in English, Chinese literature and history. “The Arts Faculty prides itself on producing graduates who are able to communicate well in the languages and cultures of China and the West,” said Professor Kam Louie, Dean of HKU's Faculty of Arts. “We are proud of Eileen Chang's legacy. Like all arts graduates, she was bilingual and bicultural. Her writing is proof of her highly creative and critical mind.”

Eileen Chang's student record.

張愛玲1920年生於上海，1939年入讀香港大學文學院，選修中文及英文科，卻因1941年日戰爆發，香港淪陷，被逼停學回上海。但在無情戰火的洗煉下，張愛玲在兩年多的大學生涯裡，仍能堅毅不屈的學習。

張愛玲在港大唸書期間，成績優異並獲何福獎學金及另一捐贈獎學金(Nemazee Donor Scholarship)，最終卻因戰事無法完成學位。大學生涯，都在漫天火光中驚心動魄的度過，經歷「從未有過的這樣的冬天」，她於《燼餘錄》中，便寫下1941年炮火圍城下的港大生活。香港為張愛玲奠下奮發的台階，唸港大一年級時，她曾投稿上海《西風》雜誌的徵文比賽，題目為《我的天才夢》，獲特別獎，也是第一次公開發表的處女作。

香港華洋雜處積極向上的氛圍，提供了滋養張愛玲創作心靈的土壤。1942年她由香港返回上海後的頭兩年，是創作的巔峰，發表她一生最重要的作品如《傾城之戀》、《金鎖記》、《沉香屑第一爐香》、《沉香屑第二爐香》，兩年間迸發創作熱情，寫了十篇短篇小說及廿九篇散文，分別收錄於《傳奇》中短篇小說和《流言》散文集內，她更於1943年首次發表英文小說“Chinese Life and Fashion”，(後改寫為《更衣記》)，在文壇蕪露鋒芒，當中不少作品，瀟灑香港風情——港島半山、巴剎頓道、淺水灣酒店、寶珊道、香港大學校園和宿舍，寄寓了張愛玲的香港情懷，兩年的大學生涯，締結了張愛玲和香港的半生緣。其後她孜孜不倦努力創作，撰寫中英文小說、散文、電影劇本等，造就不朽的成就。

《色，戒》· 港大

李安導演的電影《色，戒》，成為全球的焦點，原著為張愛玲同名短篇小說，當中也寄寓了張愛玲大學經歷戰爭期中所思所感。寫作是張愛玲表演筆墨的舞台，《色，戒》電影描述一群愛國青年在香港組成話劇團，募款抗戰，部份場景取於香港大學陸佑堂及大學本部大樓，期間得到港大職員、學生及校友仗義協助安排場地及設施，更於電影中當臨時演員。

“Lust, Caution” at HKU

Ang Lee's film "Lust, Caution" is inspired by Eileen Chang's short story of the same name. It is set in wartime Shanghai, and tells the story of a group of revolutionary students, who plot to assassinate a rogue politician within the Japanese-backed Chinese government. The story reflects Chang's personal experience during the war years. Part of the movie was shot on location at HKU's Loke Yew Hall and in the classrooms of Main Building. HKU students, staff and alumni helped with the set design. Some also participated in the film as extras.

《色，戒》慈善首映

《色·戒》慈善首映禮已於九月二十二日舉行，為「港大人文基金」籌募經費，用以開展港大新聞及傳媒研究中心之「公共文化計劃」。出席首映禮的嘉賓包括香港大學校長徐立之教授、李安導演、Salvatore Ferragamo 及安樂電影公司代表、各贊助人等。

《色·戒》以抗戰時期的上海為背景，描寫一群愛國學生密謀暗殺偽政府情報頭子的故事。電影由李安執導，梁朝偉、湯唯及王力宏主演，榮獲今屆威尼斯電影展最高榮譽的金獅獎項。

“Lust, Caution” Charity Premiere

Ang Lee's latest spy thriller, “Lust, Caution”, which recently won the top Golden Lion award at the Venice Film Festival and seven of the 44th Golden Horse Awards in Taiwan, is based on a short story by Eileen Chang.

The “Lust, Caution” charity premiere was held on the evening of September 22, 2007. Proceeds from the gala will benefit the “HKU Culture and Humanities Fund” and are specifically earmarked for the “Project for Public Culture”, a pioneering programme established by HKU's Journalism and Media Studies Centre.

The event attracted many luminaries, including Director Ang Lee himself, as well as two of the stars of “Lust, Caution”, Teng Wei and Leehom Wang.

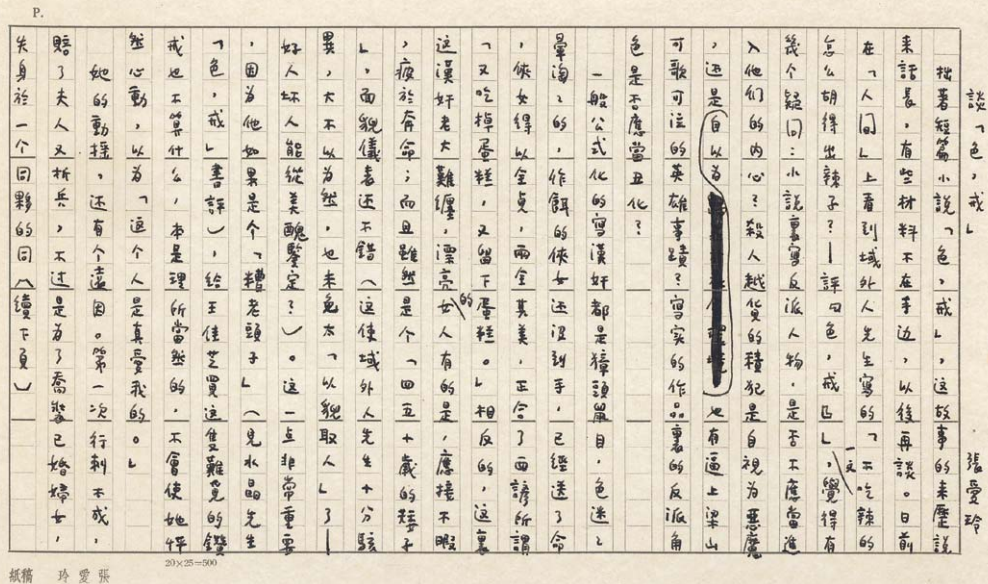

HKU Vice-Chancellor, Professor Lap-Chee Tsui, was present at the gala ceremony to thank all patrons, various parties and supporters of HKU including Ang Lee and Salvatore Ferragamo who presented the event.

香港傳奇

香港經驗的延伸，為張愛玲奠下根基，她作品中流露的華麗與蒼涼，感染後人，繼《色，戒》慈善首映後，港大新聞及傳媒中心的「公共文化計劃」舉辦「張愛玲的香港傳奇(1939-41)」公開展覽，展期由十月十五日至十一月五日，展覽由《瞄》雜誌、港大人文基金贊助支持。

展覽首次公開展示她大學時期的香港經驗，展品包括張愛玲珍貴《談色，戒》初稿、港大的學生記錄、從沒發表之個人

筆記，以及不同版本的個人著作、英文小說、相片、個人證件等。張愛玲遺產監管人宋以朗也表示希望透過是次展覽，以港大的公共文化計劃，作為一個交流平台，把張愛玲的珍貴資料、文學價值和奮鬥精神，傳承下去。

港大推動「公共文化」，希望大學與社區有所互動，因此特別於十月廿二日，舉行「龍應台解讀張愛玲大師班」，邀請百多名中學生和龍應台教授一起研讀張愛玲書寫四一年戰火下港大學生背景的《燼餘錄》，希望藉此激起中學生對文學和思想的興趣。

於十一月五日展期最後一天，「公共文化計劃」與港大圖書館合辦《城西書話》講座，由宋以朗主講：「閱讀張愛玲——三十事、物、情」，細道有關張愛玲的三十項事、物、情，包括她的生活軼事、文學、電影、親屬情誼等，並輔以珍貴圖片、書信及手稿資料，當日逾二百公眾人士出席。

三星期以來，展覽吸引逾八千觀眾，有日本遊客，以日文留言；有的由澳洲來港，匆匆趕到港大看展覽，不少看過張愛玲的手稿真跡後，都說有股莫名的「激動」、「感動」，有的回家後把張的作品一看再看，在文字世界中和張愛玲神交，從她的香港傳奇中，來一趟文學探索之旅。

兩年的香港經驗，造就了張愛玲的文壇傳奇，走過半世紀，張愛玲和母校香港大學，藉此再續半生緣，讓人文的薪火，永遠燃點下去。

Eileen Chang: A Hong Kong Legend (1939-1941)

The life and works of Eileen Chang have sparked much interest since Ang Lee's film "Lust, Caution" was released. In response to this interest, an exhibition entitled "Eileen Chang: Hong Kong Legend (1939-1941)" was hosted by HKU's Journalism and Media Studies Centre (JMSC) between October 15 and November 5, 2007. The exhibit was sponsored by Muse magazine and the HKU Culture & Humanities Fund.

The exhibit showcased some of Chang's work, including the handwritten manuscript of On Lust, Caution as well as various translations of her books. Also on display were Chang's student records, photographs of the author and some of her personal documents.

Roland Soong, administrator of Chang's estate, thanked the JMSC's Project for Public Culture (PPC) for organising the exhibit, adding "there is a lot more to the literary value and personality of Eileen Chang still unpublished, and I am grateful to the PPC for providing a platform for some of this information to reach the public".

JMSC Professor Lung Ying-tai also hosted a reading workshop on Chang's essay From the Ashes for approximately 120 secondary school students from Hong Kong. The aim of the event was to increase knowledge and appreciation of Chang's literary work among young students.

To mark the end of the three-week exhibition, the JMSC also co-hosted a presentation with the HKU Libraries' Reading Club on November 5. At the event, Roland Soong presented a slide-show of thirty more treasures from the acclaimed Chinese writer, including his personal memories, some of Chang's possessions, as well as valuable manuscripts, photographs and letters of the author. Over 200 people attended the event.

By the time the exhibit wrapped up, over 8,000 visitors – including HKU students and colleagues, school children, journalists and members of the public – had come to learn about Eileen Chang and how her days at HKU were so central to shaping her literary development.

張愛玲遺產監管人宋以朗熱心支持港大公共文化計劃，慷慨借出張愛玲的原稿及個人物品作展覽用途。

Eileen Chang's original manuscripts and personal documents were shown at the HKU exhibit courtesy of Mr Roland Soong, administrator of the Chang's estate. Mr Soong, who attracted a lot of media attention, is an ardent supporter of the Public Culture Project.

Visitors attended the exhibit from countries as far afield as Australia and Japan. "It is delightful to read Eileen Chang's timeless writing," commented one visitor. Almost all local newspapers covered the exhibit, as well as major TV stations.

"Eileen Chang is justifiably regarded as one of the greatest and most influential Chinese novelists and prose writers of the 20th century," said Perry Lam, Editorial Director of Muse.

We hope that a new generation of students will learn from Chang's persistence, and share her passion for a rich cultural life, and regard her as a role model in years to come. 🍀

曾經接受過你多少注視，
如今立在我的書桌上
每一次投視就是隔着時空的相逢：
時間磨透於忍耐
黃色還諸小雞雛
青色還諸小碧梧
言語終還於沉寂

永樂大鐘 (並序)

當小鑼和小鈸爭鳴，
你是靜止的天河，
沉默於時間的夜空。
你像唐古拉山脈，
把瞿塘峽的咆哮
收入各拉丹冬的冰川。
像一條大江，澎湃奔湧間凝結，
波聲驟停如出擊的騎兵
六百年前突然勒馬。

中文學院畢業生王麗瓊、胡燕青與一群港大畢業生主動發起編輯一本名為《港大·詩·人》的新詩集，作為送給母校及中文學院八十周年的賀禮。新詩集由港大人文基金資助，選錄三十一位港大校友九十多首現代詩，分享他們跟香港及港大一起走過的日子。

校友為紀念中文學院創立八十周年，特發起籌募運動，成立基金，推行「駐校作家及校內新文學獎計劃」，藉以提高本校學生對新文學的興趣和認識。此計劃將每年邀請一位華人作家為學院「駐校作家」，到學院訪問兩個月作公開演講、專題研討等活動。

《港大·詩·人》新書發布文化沙龍「我和我最愛的一首詩」於十月四日舉行。

《港大·詩·人》現已於商務印書館發售，詩集所有賣書收益將資助香港大學中文學院「駐校作家及校內新文學創作獎基金」。要使計劃延續，須仰仗各位校友及中文學院的友好捐款支持。校友的捐款更可申請「何鴻燊校友挑戰計劃」配對撥款，令基金倍增。為鼓勵校友支持是項計劃，每位認捐達港幣$300或以上的校友，可獲贈《港大·詩·人》一本。請到以下網址瀏覽詳情及下載表格：www.hku.hk/hkuf/culturefund/poetrybook

白先勇與港大結 崑曲緣

「現在的大學生是明清年代的名士，沒有大學生的觀眾，崑曲是沒有前途的。」

白先勇

—— 零零二年白先勇教授在陸佑堂作崑曲演講，請來年輕的崑劇演員示範演出，因而觸發了籌辦《青春版牡丹亭》的意念，而當日演出「驚夢」的小生俞玖林，亦成為青春版的男主角。

今年五月，白教授再來港大演講，而他領導的《青春版牡丹亭》則在北京演出第一百場，巡演地域包括兩岸四地及遠至美

國西岸，觀眾達十五萬人次，重新喚起大眾對崑曲文化的認識及興趣。

更重要的是，白教授為「香港大學崑曲研究發展中心籌備計劃」主持啟動儀式，並擔任藝術總監兼名譽主席，這項計劃乃全球首個全面的崑曲研發計劃。崑劇涵蓋文學、歷史、音樂、

舞蹈和美學，是中華文化的結晶，更獲聯合國教科文組織選為「人類口述和非物質文化遺產代表作」。

在是次研發計劃下，港大與國家大劇院、中國藝術研究院暨蘇州崑劇院共同主辦，北京大學協辦「面對世界—崑曲與《牡丹亭》國際學術研討會」，已於今年十月在北京舉行。同時，由白先勇教授策劃製作的青春版《牡丹亭》一連公演三場，作為國家大劇院落成紀念演出劇目之一。

中國當代著名作家王蒙先生及于丹等就青春版《牡丹亭》與世界文化作專題演講。白教授指出：「過去三年，『青春版牡丹亭』掀起了海內外的崑劇熱，以『美』與『情』感動了年輕人的心，啟動了中國文藝復興的契機。」

50 Years On

One day when I was young, that wonderful morning in May ...

Chow Shew-ping 周肇平

*Chair of Orthopaedics and Traumatology
(MBBS 1968; MS 1988)*

Yes, it was 50 years ago when I was studying at secondary school in Hong Kong. I was living very near the University, and during weekends I would sneak into the table tennis room on the ground floor of Loke Yew Hall for a few games with my friends.

We would then proceed to the Lily Pond, lie down on the grass lawn under one of the willow trees and gaze towards the harbour (yes, we could see the harbour from the Lily Pond in those days) and the distant hills (yes, no pollution at all).

Every now and then, I would see some elegant people walking down along the University path, looking like the high gods of Olympus, and I said to myself: "One day, I am going to become one of them."

Professor Chow Shew-ping:

Many years later, I became a Chair Professor at this University. The road to this honour had not been easy, but most gratifying.

When I joined the medical school of my alma mater in 1973, I was expected to become a good surgeon, and research was regarded only as an incidental personal interest. For indeed it was mesmerising to be able to perform the most difficult operations, to invent new procedures, or to detect obscure diseases.

But having done good clinical work, all of us would also like to “show it off” at international meetings—not just for ourselves, but also for the University, and for Hong Kong. I began to perform animal experiments in the mid 70s and this was regarded as quite advanced for a clinical teacher in Hong Kong.

When I further developed my laboratory to handle histology, electron-microscopy, electrophysiology and tissue banking, my academic status became consolidated, not only at this University, but also in the region and internationally.

But alas, the past ten years or so have been quite trying for all clinical teachers as we were expected to metamorphose into molecular and genetic scientists also. This has not been helped by the additional burden of administrative duties loaded on all teachers, resulting from the different assessment exercises from the University Grants Committee (UGC) and other authorities. In my own case, taking up the Deanship, and then the Pro-Vice-Chancellorship*, resulted in a substantial change of my career pathway, the former post proving most rewarding, but rather disturbing for the latter.

What happened to me during the past forty years reflects what happened to our University as a whole, evolving from a tertiary teaching institution to a research-led university, and from regional prominence to international excellence. This again is a condensed reflection of the historical development of universities throughout the whole world in the past nine hundred years.

The earliest university models were founded during the medieval period in the twelfth century Italy and France. Under the influence of Christianity, scholars learnt Latin and travelled extensively to different parts of Europe to be entertained and to gain a “global” perspective.

*Every now and then, I would see some elegant people walking down along the University path, looking like the high gods of Olympus, and I said to myself:
“One day, I am going to become one of them.”*

* Dean of Medicine (1995-1998); Pro-Vice-Chancellor (2000-2001)

This model lasted several centuries, only momentarily interrupted by Napoleon with the introduction of some “Nationalistic features”. John H Cardinal Newman (Oxford 1852) stressed that the “Idea of a University” must be centralised on “Liberal Education” for “character formation” of its students.

However, by the end of the nineteenth century, Humboldt and Althoff of Germany proclaimed that universities were places not only for transmission of knowledge, but also for the creation of knowledge, and established centres of research at universities. This concept was echoed in North America by A Flexner (1930) who envisioned universities as an “organism” combining education and research.

After the Second World War, the American model of universities rapidly became the standard, with undergraduate education along the British line of Liberal Studies and postgraduate studies along the German line of research and vocational training.

Research also became increasingly linked to the community as resources were in abundance outside universities. Clarke Kerr in “The Use of Universities” stated that American universities should go beyond liberal studies and technology development and integrate with community. The term “Multiversity” was created.

With the arrival of the twenty-first century, integration with the community is no longer adequate as globalisation, a clash of civilisations, the even larger environmental issues, and the more basic question of sustainability are posing new challenges to universities. Paul Kennedy in his “Preparing for the Twenty-first Century” perceived that the new challenge was a race between education and disaster, and university education may be the most important.

To rise up to this challenge, almost all great universities have to re-examine the following important issues:

- Vision vs expected role
- Traditional strength vs future developments
- Globalisation vs local relevance
- Teaching vs research vs service
- Knowledge vs character formation
- Elitist approach vs grass-roots approach

Faced with such global movements and the rapid emergence of China on the international stage, this University has to re-examine its position.

The University of Hong Kong was established ninety-six years ago to serve Hong Kong and China. This it has indeed done so admirably, mainly in the domain of the economic growth of Hong Kong and indirectly transforming the economy of China. Hong Kong's role as the financial hub of this region has to continue.

In the future, however, I wish that Hong Kong, together with the surrounding region and with the wisdom of the international community, can solve our environmental problems and transform South China into the "Chinese Riviera". In doing so, it has to reach deep into the basic issues of sustainability, of humans being part of nature, and of harmonising the human heart with the rhythm of nature. Thus, Hong Kong has to rise to the call at the cultural level and ensure an environment conducive to the interaction of East and West.

True globalisation means the understanding of different cultures and then going beyond them, sometimes a rather painful process for the individual and the nation. Those of our generation who had gone through Confucianism, Christianity, the Beatles, existentialism, democracy, and then back to Oriental wisdom will fully understand this.

The University of Hong Kong should be able to play a pivotal role in such historical and geographical encounters and develop a "habitual vision of greatness" as advocated by Whitehead. Almost all the great universities recognise this. Harvard, for example, has recently just come short of "requiring" all students to have a year's international experience by declaring that it is "highly desirable". It is because of this reason that our University must strengthen its liberal studies in our undergraduate education.

The "3+3+4" new curriculum reform will provide an unprecedented opportunity to ensure that students from the science stream will be exposed to the arts and humanities—and vice-versa.

In each of the subject disciplines, broader issues have to be brought in and more elective modules should be built in to allow flexibility for diversity. For instance, in the area of medicine that I am most familiar with, the revision of the mission statement in 1996 introduced the concept of "health" rather than concentrating only on "medical problems". This had led to the inclusion of the School of Chinese Medicine in the Medical Faculty.

The curriculum reform in 1997 also created a breathing space for student's individual needs. I am sure this spirit will find its different forms in different faculties.

On the other hand, to ensure that these could be successfully achieved, we have to face the dilemma that our strengths in the science and professional disciplines must remain world-class as the present resource and funding model in Hong Kong is heavily tilted towards such more “tangible” areas. In the long run, however, I am optimistic that community resources in support of the arts and humanities will play a more significant role. The success of our Centre for Buddhist Studies is a good example.

I hope our government will have the wisdom to realise what D Bell stated, that “the quality of the university reveals the quality of its society, and also predicts a society’s potential and development over the next twenty to thirty years”. The wisdom of our University motto: “Sapientia et Virtus” still holds true these days, and will still be our guiding light for the next one hundred years.

I recently bought my retirement residence in Pokfulam, just next to the Sandy Bay University staff quarters. I have become so used to the shouts of the students and the sights of my medical school that they will accompany me for the rest of my days. I also want to witness its future developments and be part of it.

I still remember the silhouette of a senior professor slowly walking down Sassoon road one day during sunset. As I gazed, that figure grew taller and taller until my eyes were blurred with tears. Yes, it is this dedication to wisdom and virtue that is the most beautiful of all things. It will be my fortune and honour to follow in their footsteps. 🍷

*“And one day when I get really old,
a wonderful morning in May,
I shall tell you, HKU,
I loved you,
one day when I was young.”*

香港大學畢業生議會 Convocation

A statutory body of
The University of Hong Kong comprising all graduates and teachers

Dear Fellow Members,

As the statutory body for the University's graduates and teachers, Convocation has a unique role in the University family: to foster a closer relationship with our alumni and provide a bridge between the University and the community.

Convocation has been in existence since 1958, and has performed its role well over the years. But we can only continue to do this with the support of the 88 alumni groups and our alumni in general, which number well over 120,000 in Hong Kong and elsewhere.

This is an exciting time for the University which has embarked on a major development programme to put its name firmly among the top universities of the world. We in Convocation look forward to contributing to this endeavour, and to mustering our combined strengths and talent to support the University in its quest for excellence. The 100th anniversary is of course just around the corner.

To rise to the challenges ahead, Convocation will need the support of fellow alumni who can contribute in whatever way they can, especially in time and effort. You are welcome to join one of our sub-committees, University Affairs, Alumni Affairs or Community Affairs, or seek election to the Standing Committee itself at some point. If you are ready to help, please let us know.

Convocation held its annual Ordinary General Meeting on June 28, with several new members being elected to the Standing Committee, and a few others re-elected.

A hearty welcome to all of them and a sincere thanks for their commitment.

The Politics of Heritage Conservation

“Heritage conservation is not about the preservation or display of history, but is about the interpretation of historical significance based on different values identified.”

After the Ordinary General Meeting, Professor David Lung 龍炳頤, Professor of Department of Architecture and founding director of the Architectural Conservation Programme at HKU, shared with the audience his personal journey in heritage conservation.

Some 30 years before the recent public protests concerning the Star Ferry and Queen’s Pier, Professor Lung had advocated the preservation of the former railway station terminus in Tsim Sha Tsui where, today, only the Clock Tower remains. More recently, he assisted Macao and Kaiping in Guangdong in applying for UNESCO World Heritage status.

Professor Lung defines the value of heritage conservation in terms of economic and cultural aspects. He believes heritage should move up on the political agenda as it deserves more support, otherwise heritage will disappear and it will be too late to re-create it. He ended the talk with a critique of the conservation policy in Hong Kong and how the people of Hong Kong can become involved in the preservation of its heritage.

The audience was captivated by the informative and insightful talk till late in the evening.

Professor David Lung assisted Kaiping, Guangdong, in successfully applying for UNESCO World Heritage status.

尊師重道 三十七年後的謝師宴

To Serve with Love

A group of HKU alumni from the early 70s paid tribute to a charismatic and caring teacher, Professor Edward Chen 陳坤耀 (BA 1967; MSocSc 1971), by establishing the “Edward K Y Chen Distinguished Lecture Series”. The Lecture Series aspires to demonstrate the fine traditions of great respect and appreciation for teachers and mentors (“尊師重道”) for generations to come.

On June 15, Professor Chen, then President of Lingnan University, returned to his alma mater to give the Inaugural Lecture on “From the NIES to the BRICS: Development Theory Revisited”. From a graduate teaching assistant at HKU in 1967, Professor Chen became the Director of the Centre of Asian Studies in 1979 and Chair Professor in 1986.

Wisdom and humour were in abundance when Chen’s students, The Hon Henry Fan 范鴻齡 (BA 1969), Mr Antony Leung 梁錦松 (BSocSc 1973), The Hon Frederick Ma 馬時亨 (BA 1973), Miss Janet Wong 王榮珍 (BSocSc 1980), and Dr Wan Kam-ming 尹錦銘 (BSocSc 1990; MSocSc 1992; MSocSc 1993), engaged in dialogue with their former teacher. Topics ranged from deflation, the US dollar peg and China’s stock market, to how to stay young and maintain a loving marriage.

Together we build a better Hong Kong – HKUGA 31st anniversary dinner

On June 2, 2007, HKUGA successfully hosted its 31st anniversary dinner which can be summarised by 3Gs: Great food, Great speaker and Great event.

The Hon Leung Chun-ying 梁振英, Convenor of the Executive Council, was the guest of honour. Looking back on the past ten years, he commented on three major changes that affect Hong Kong. First, there was a smooth handover of sovereignty. Second, China is becoming more important than ever to Hong Kong, both economically and politically. Third, continued globalisation forces Hong Kong people to realise that they compete with the rest of the world in almost every aspect.

Mr Leung suggested that, with China's strong economy supporting it, Hong Kong could still be prosperous in the short run. However, he believes it is time for Hong Kong to capitalise on its own uniqueness and not to rely solely on previous strengths. He would like to see the government take a more active role and move away from its previously held laissez-faire policy.

The speech sparked heated discussions among the participants and Mr Leung took many challenging questions from guests such as Mr Lam Sum-chee, one of Hong Kong's first-generation investment advisors and analysts. While the dinner officially ended at 10:30pm, many guests stayed on to chat and mingle until the restaurant closed.

A Celebration of Brotherhood in Ricci Hall

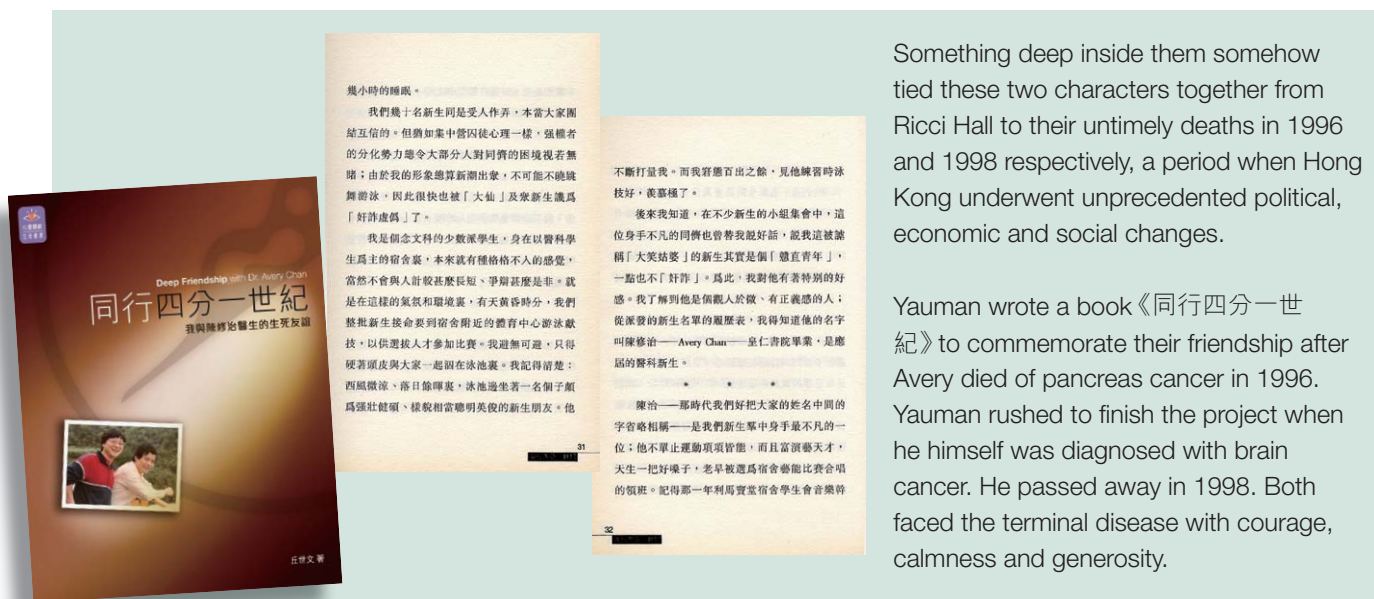

同行四分一世紀 For You Are With Me
City Hall September 1, 2007

Presented by Ricci Hall Old Boys' Association (RHOBA) with assistance from Chung Ying Theatre Company and the Development & Alumni Affairs Office, HKU.

For You are With Me is a play that describes a friendship which originates from Ricci Orientation 1971, a friendship of two very different personalities Chan Sau-chee, Avery 陳修治 (MBBS 1977), a medical student, and Yau Sai-man, Joseph 丘世文 (BA 1974), nicknamed Yauman, who studied comparative literature.

A play by Chung Ying Theatre Company directed by Mr Ko Tin-lung 古天龍 (CertEd 1981) "For You Are With Me"《同行四分一世紀》 was staged in City Hall Theatre from August 25 to September 3, 2007.

Something deep inside them somehow tied these two characters together from Ricci Hall to their untimely deaths in 1996 and 1998 respectively, a period when Hong Kong underwent unprecedented political, economic and social changes.

Yauman wrote a book《同行四分一世紀》to commemorate their friendship after Avery died of pancreas cancer in 1996. Yauman rushed to finish the project when he himself was diagnosed with brain cancer. He passed away in 1998. Both faced the terminal disease with courage, calmness and generosity.

The September 1 evening was a performance exclusively reserved for RHOBA. The auditorium was overwhelmed by over 400 Riccians and families, ranging from the senior in 1940s Dr Stanley Ho to the latest in 2000s, and 60 current students of Ricci Hall. Among the guests were Professor Lap-Chee Tsui and Mrs Tsui, Wardens of Ricci Hall since 1970, namely Rev Fr Alfred Deignan, Rev Fr John Russell, Rev Fr Robert Ng and current Warden Rev Fr John Coghlan.

It was a reunion of alumni, students and members of Ricci family, including Mrs Ruth Chan, wife of Avery and Mrs Teresa Yau, wife of Yauman, commemorating friendship of Riccians, recounting Hong Kong's memories and history, and exploring the meaning of life through the stories of Avery and Yauman.

HKU Beijing Alumni Network

On May 10, the Vice-Chancellor met alumni in Beijing for dinner at the Beijing American Club 北京美洲俱樂部. The dinner was arranged by the Beijing Alumni Network convenors Mabel Kwan 錢關月嫦 (BA 1986) and her husband Daniel Tsen 錢錦華 (BScEng 1987). Participants included graduates from the 70s, 80s and 90s, with the youngest graduate from 2006. Most are currently working in Beijing, but some alumni flew specially from Chengdu to join the occasion. Alumnus Thomas Tso 曹萬泰 (BSocSc 1975; MSocSc 1984), Director of the HKSAR's Office in Beijing, also joined the cocktail reception.

Everyone enjoyed the panoramic and breathtaking views of Beijing and the fine Chinese dining, while they learned about the latest developments of their alma mater from Professor Tsui.

HKUAA, United Kingdom

Professor Ian Holliday, Dean of Faculty of Social Sciences, visited London and gave a talk at the Imperial College to update alumni about HKU's centennial campus and its Global Vision Project. Professor Holliday and members of HKUAA UK had a dinner gathering after the talk.

To celebrate the 10th Anniversary of the HKSAR, HKUAA UK sponsored an HKU team to participate in the Annual London Dragon Boat Festival organised by the Hong Kong Economics and Trade Office on July 1. With the participation of many young, energetic alumni, the team snapped up third place in the Race.

On July 7, the Vice-Chancellor met alumni in London for UK Alumni Dinner after receiving an Honorary Degree from the University of Aberdeen on July 5. Over 40 alumni travelled from different parts of the UK to gather for the dinner, including executive committee members and new members. # Lifelong Friendships

Jimmy Lo 盧志明 (BSc 1969; CertEd 1978) & mentee Leo Lau 柳學義 (BSc(CSIS) 2005)

When Leo Lau first registered for the mentorship programme, he thought he would just meet a 'senior' friend for a year. However, he later realised that the friendships he forged could last a lifetime.

"As my mentor and his other mentees still gather from time to time and newcomers join each year, we are just like a tree with branches that grows every year. The culture and fine tradition of HKU can be passed on to current and future HKU students."

Amy Ho meets her mentee group regularly, and strong bonds have developed among the members. "I hope these friendships will strengthen with time, and that we can all look to each other for inspiration in times of success and for help in times of need."

Sonia Chan 陳小娟 (BA 1998)

Through working with the Global Hope Network, an international humanitarian organisation, Sonia Chan has served in Afghanistan, Sri Lanka, Bosnia and Jordan, to name but a few places. She was excited to find many friends with a similar passion when she worked at the organisation's headquarters in Geneva.

Dr Nicolas Yeung 楊澍人 (BScEng 1971; DipManStud 1974; MBA 1981) & mentee Hilman Tse 謝銳聰 (BEng year 2 student):

Dr Nicolas Yeung and Hilman Tse share a passion to serve. After the completion of Ming De Lou 明德樓, a joint project with HKU Civil Engineering students in Guanxi (featured in "A Passion to Serve", Spring Issue 2006), Dr Yeung continued to support education projects in Mainland China. In September last year, Hilman, on his own initiative, joined his mentor for a trip to Rongshui County. During the trip, a new memorandum was signed for the building of Ge Wu Lou (格物樓), a six-storey dormitory for schoolgirls at the Rongshui Vocation School.

Victor Chow 周學信 (BSc 1970) & mentee Yung Dick-sun 翁狄樂 (BEcon&Fin year 2 student)

Yung Dick-sun is currently studying in California under the HKU Worldwide Exchange Programme. He is grateful for the kind assistance provided by his mentor Victor Chow there and has learnt a great deal from him. Here they travelled together to Napa Valley.

Tony Yen 嚴元浩 & mentee Pan Ying-shi 潘穎施 (LLB 2003; MCL 2006)

「每次要做什麼決定的時候，他總會先徵求我的意見。在聊天的時候，無論我的想法是對還是錯，是成熟還是幼稚，他都會全神貫注地聽。他那肯定的眼神讓我很有自信地把我的想法完整的表達出來……一直以來我總覺得自己是內地來的窮學生，總是特別不自信。正是因為Tony的肯定和支持，我有了更多的勇氣去適應新環境。」

For six months last year, Wong Ka-man joined the Management Associate Program offered by Taishin International Bank. The training took place at the bank's headquarters in Taipei. Here, she is seen with two Taiwanese colleagues in the trading centre of the corporate banking unit checking Reuters and Bloomberg graphs. "The most valuable experience is to work with people from different cultures," she said. "They are very friendly and always help to correct my Mandarin pronunciation."

Serving in the Mainland

From the China Education Committee (CEC) to the Institute for Integrated Rural Development (IRD)

In 1994, an undergraduate study group sowed the first seeds of community service in rural Hunan. And, over the last 13 years, it continues to sow and now reap the fruits of its labours.

A group of undergraduate students from the 1990s, including Cherry Tung 董穎儀 (BSocSc 1996), Ho Wing-chung 何榮宗 (BSW, 1994), Kemmiss Pun 潘愛儀 (BA 1996), Alan Sze 施育曉 (BEcon, 1995; MPhil, 2000), Teny Yau 邱佩華 (BA 1996; MA 1998), Harriet Sin 冼約芬 (BA 1997), Ng Chi-wai 伍智威 (BSc 1995), Hung Fai 洪輝 (BEng 1996), Maggie Cheng 鄭美琪 (BA 1997), Chester Yung 翁錦秀 (BA, 1996), formed the China Education Committee (中國教育小組) in 1995.

They made their first visit to Baojing County in Hunan (湖南保靖縣) in 1995. With the generous support of Mr Tian Jiaping (田家炳先生), the group launched its first major project – Azure (春天的第一片雲) and started to rebuild a school that was considered to be “in a very dangerous condition”.

After graduation, the same group of alumni maintained their bond with Baojing County, and formed the Institute for Integrated Rural Development (IRD) (沃土發展社) in 2002. Under the guidance of Hung Ching-tin 洪清田 (BSocSc 1975) and Lui Ping-keung 呂炳強 (BA 1972), the Institute provides for student bursaries, teacher training and support, health care and cultural projects in Baojing and adjacent counties in Hunan Province. Every year, these alumni together with donors and volunteers, visit the project sites a couple of times. They also set up an office in Baojing to monitor the use of the funds and the proper implementation of the projects. In 2006, over 20,000 students benefited from the scheme.

Enquiries: admin@harvest.org.hk or Mabel at 2736 7383.

Harriet Sin visited Baojing in 1995, 2003 and 2005 to follow up with the projects previously launched.

Maggie Cheng, Harriet Sin and Teny Yau met a group of curious and enthusiastic students in their first visit to Baojing in 1995.

The China Education Committee, renamed the China Education Association, remains a student association. Each year, a new generation of students continues with the same mission. The programme has now extended to support secondary school students under the newly introduced “One-to-One Scholarship Subsidy Programme”.

To Wai-ping 杜蔚平 (BA 1979)

To Wai-ping (2nd right) spent most of his university years in the library rather than the classroom. He sat in the library for most of the day, meeting friends and reading.

In those days, the Student Union Building was located next to the Main Library, so it was easy to go back and forth, to eat and study with friends.

When the University Libraries invited alumni to participate in the Stanley Ho Alumni Challenge, Mr To responded with a generous gift, offering his support to an institution that was once like a second home.

Dr Kam Sheung-woo 甘尚武 (BA 1938) and his memoirs

Raised in Hong Kong and admitted to HKU in 1934, Dr Kam Sheung-woo felt at odds with his classmates who did not share his attitude towards the Japanese occupation of China. His passion and beliefs led him to join the defence force in Chongqing, China's wartime capital, after graduation. Although he endured devastating air raids and put his life on the line, Dr Kam has never regretted his decision.

After the war Dr Kam furthered his studies in the US and later joined the commercial sector in Malaysia. He still resides in Malaysia and is the president of the HKU Alumni Association, Malaysia.

His most recent publication, 《世紀巨變 九十回顧——從陳濟棠秘書到執掌大馬南順》，tells of the reality of Hong Kong during the Second World War.

甘尚武博士在香港長大並於1934年入讀港大。求學時眼見同學對日本侵華反應冷淡，他非常反感，畢業後遂決定到重慶加入抗日隊伍。戰時重慶遭遇非常猛烈的空襲，雖然常在生死邊緣，但直到今天，甘博士仍無悔當年的決定。

抗日成功後，他選擇返回香港並到美國留學。畢業後加入商界，輾轉到了馬來西亞掌管大型企業。甘尚武博士現定居於馬來西亞，並擔任港大馬來西亞校友會會長。最近甘博士更出版《世紀巨變 九十回顧——從陳濟棠秘書到執掌大馬南順》，帶領我們經歷一次抗戰史實。

「一九九六年，方召慶女士和女兒安生一起在港大接受名譽博士學位，相信大家記憶猶新……方氏家族一共有十六位成員是港大校友，這個數字當然未有包括他們的另一半。作為港大校長，我很高興能夠見證香港大學是名副其實的香港人才搖籃，還有港大對方家以及其他數以萬個香港家庭所產生的影響力。」

「母親的書法與她的畫一樣，有鮮明的獨創風格。她既有天賦，又勤奮，她的握筆剛勁有力，落筆一氣呵成，所寫的字了無脂粉之氣。母親特別讚賞王羲之、曹操、李白、杜甫、蘇軾、王維等古人的文采。看過母親的字畫的人都說，她的作品，蘊藏著一種生命力，給人一種積極喜悅的感覺。」
