I. Basic Concept

I-1 Basic Concept for Supervision of High Speed Traders

High Speed Trading, in which financial instruments are ordered, modified and cancelled automatically at extremely high speed using algorithms (hereinafter referred to as the “HST” in Section I-1), is viewed as provider of liquidity to financial markets. It is also pointed out that increased liquidity and the resultant narrower bid/offer spread benefit general investors. On the other hand, there are various concerns over HST, such as stability and efficiency of financial markets, fairness among investors, price formation based on medium- to long-term corporate value, vulnerability of systems, etc.

Given the concerns above, aiming to create a robust market in Japan where various investors can participate without concern, the Financial Services Agency (FSA) supervises High Speed Traders by staying informed of High Speed Traders’ HST activities and ensuring that their business operations are appropriate while facilitating the traders to practice their functions appropriately.

It is therefore important for supervisory bureaus to require High Speed Traders to fully comply with legal and regulatory requirements, such as the development of an appropriate structure/system for business operation management to execute High Speed Trading business in a fair and appropriate manner, by keeping up to date on the status of High Speed Traders’ business operations via periodic hearing interviews, etc. and cumulating/analyzing various information provided by High Speed Traders to facilitate them in a timely manner to take voluntary actions for ensuring the appropriateness of business operations.

On the other hand, High Speed Traders are not Financial Instruments Business Operators, etc. (defined as financial business operators and registered financial institutions; the same shall apply hereinafter). Thus, it may be too extreme to require them to develop a structure/system as rigorous as Financial Instruments Business Operators, etc. Supervisory bureaus shall incorporate this in the supervision of High Speed Traders.

Also refer to Section I-1 of the “Comprehensive Guidelines for Supervision of Financial Instruments Business Operators, etc. (hereinafter referred to as the “Comprehensive Guidelines”)” for the basic concept relating to the supervision of High Speed Traders.

I-2 Purpose of Establishment of Guideline for Supervision

In order to enable the Japanese economy to achieve sustainable development, it is important to accelerate a shift of funds “from savings to investment,” which means a shift in emphasis from indirect financing to direct financing and market-based indirect financing. To promote the shift, it is essential that financial authorities design appropriate institutional frameworks and properly motivate High Speed Traders who could influence market stability, etc. to strengthen their internal control while bearing in mind the appropriate risk management.

In order to conduct daily supervisory processes under these circumstances, we decided to work out concepts concerning supervision, supervisory viewpoints and methods of supervision, etc.

This Guideline was compiled with due consideration of the actual state of High Speed Traders so that it can be applied to various cases, and the requirements of the supervisory evaluation points specified in the Guideline shall not be uniformly applied to all High Speed Traders.

Accordingly, when applying this Guideline, it is necessary to bear in mind that even if a High Speed Trader does not literally meet the requirements of all evaluation points, the case shall not be judged inappropriate insofar as there is no problem from the viewpoint of protecting public interests and investors; it is necessary to avoid applying the Guideline in a mechanical and uniform fashion. On the other hand, it should also be borne in mind that even if a High Speed Trader formally fulfills all the functions concerning evaluation points, the case could be deemed to be inappropriate from the viewpoint of protecting public interests and investors.

Local Finance Bureaus (including the Fukuoka Local Finance Branch and the Okinawa General Bureau. The same shall apply hereinafter), as well as relevant divisions of the FSA, shall implement supervisory processes regarding High Speed Traders that operate in their districts of jurisdiction based on this Guideline.

II. Points of Attention in the Conduct of Administrative Processes Regarding the Supervision of High Speed Traders

II-1 Mutatis Mutandis Application of the Comprehensive Guidelines

Provisions in Section II of the Comprehensive Guidelines (excluding II-1-5 and II-6) shall apply mutatis mutandis for points of attention in administrative processes for the supervision of High Speed Traders (for List of Formats replace terms and phrases as necessary). Additionally, the following points shall be considered.

II-2 Internal Delegation

(1) Consultation with the FSA Commissioner

The directors-general of Local Finance Bureaus (including the directors-general of the Fukuoka Local Finance Branch and the Okinawa General Bureau. The same shall apply hereinafter.) shall hold prior consultations with the FSA Commissioner with regard to the following matters when they conduct delegated supervisory processes concerning High Speed Traders.

In addition, directors-general shall report the results of the deliberations made by their bureaus and express the opinions thereof in the consultations.

- (i) Refusal of registration under Article 66-53 of the Financial Instruments and Exchange Act (hereinafter referred to as the “FIEA”)
- (ii) Administrative dispositions, including orders to improve or suspend business operation, or rescission of registration under Article 66-62, Article 66-63(1) or (3) or Article 66-64 of the FIEA
- (iii) Dismissal of officers of High Speed Traders (for foreign corporations, limited to officers stationed in business or administrative offices in Japan or representatives in Japan) under Article 66-63(2) of the FIEA
- (iv) Dispositions necessary for investigation under Article 187 of the FIEA

(2) Reporting to the FSA Commissioner

When the directors-general of Local Finance Bureaus conduct delegated supervisory processes regarding High Speed Traders, they shall complete the relevant processes and then report to the FSA Commissioner on the following matters.

- (i) When a High Speed Trader under the jurisdiction of the FSA has obtained registration from a Local Finance Bureau under Article 66-50 of the FIEA, the director-general of the said bureau shall immediately send the original of the registration application and attached documents to the FSA Commissioner.
- (ii) When the directors-general of Local Finance Bureaus have received reports based on Article 66-61(1) of the FIEA, they shall immediately send a copy thereof to the FSA Commissioner.

(3) Re-delegation to Directors-General of Local Finance Offices, etc.

Of the processes delegated to the directors-general of Local Finance Bureaus under Article 43-2-3 of the Order for the Enforcement of the Financial Instruments and Exchange Act (hereinafter referred to as the “FIEA Enforcement Order”), the directors-general may re-delegate the following processes to the director-general of Local Finance Offices that have jurisdiction over the regions where the head offices of the applicants and High Speed Traders are located as well as to the heads of the Otaru and Kitami Branch Offices.

- (i) Administrative processes regarding the receipt of applications for registration as specified under Article 66-51(1) of the FIEA
- (ii) Administrative processes regarding the receipt of notifications based on Article 66-54 (1) and (3), Article 66-60 and Article 66-61(1) of the FIEA
- (iii) Administrative processes regarding the receipt of documents submitted under Article 66-59

III. Supervisory Evaluation Points and Various Administrative Procedures

III-1 Governance

To realize a robust financial market in which various investors can participate without concern, it is important that High Speed Traders themselves shall endeavor to develop the necessary control environment for legal and regulatory compliance and operate business, recognizing the need to manage various risks appropriately.

Therefore, in conducting daily supervisory administrative processes, it is necessary to examine what the desirable status of governance by a High Speed Trader is and take supervisory actions, from the viewpoint of whether its management team's checking of the execution of its business is conducted effectively and whether the monitoring and control of the management team is conducted effectively.

Section III-1 of the Comprehensive Guidelines shall apply mutatis mutandis to the examination of governance and supervisory actions, considering the business, characteristics, size, complexity, etc. of High Speed Traders. Additionally, the following points shall be considered.

III-1-1 Officers of High Speed Traders

(1) Major Supervisory Viewpoints

Whether the High Speed Trader appropriately takes into consideration the following eligibility requirements in the decision-making process regarding proposals for the appointment of its officers (officers who are subject to dismissal order based on Article 66-63(2) of the FIEA; hereinafter referred to as "Officers" in Section III-1-1).

- (i) A person who does not meet any of the ineligibility criteria (Article 29-4(1)(ii)(a) to (i) of the FIEA) and who did not meet any of them at the time of registration.
- (ii) A person who has not violated laws and regulations regarding High Speed Trading business operations or related business operations, or a person who has not been subjected to administrative actions taken based on laws and regulations.
- (iii) A person who has not engaged in an illegal or markedly inappropriate act regarding High Speed Trading business operations under particularly grave circumstances.

(2) Supervisory Method and Actions

In cases where an officer of a High Speed Trader is deemed to meet the ineligibility criteria specified under any of Article 29-4(1)(ii)(a) to (i) of the FIEA, or is found to have done so at the time when the officer obtained registration under Article 66-50 of the FIEA, or where an officer of a High Speed Trader is deemed to meet the ineligibility criteria specified under any of Article 66-63(1)(iii) or (v) of the FIEA, supervisors shall consider taking actions such as ordering the dismissal of the said officer based on Article 66-63 (2) of the FIEA.

In addition, they shall hold an in-depth hearing regarding the decision-making process concerning the proposal for the appointment of the said officer and, when necessary, require the submission of a report based on Article 66-67 of the FIEA. Furthermore, supervisors shall consider taking actions such as issuing an order for business improvement, if the High Speed Trader's control environment for governance is deemed to have a serious problem and the action is deemed to be necessary and appropriate, from the viewpoint of protecting public interests and investors.

III-1-2 Adequate Staffing for Properly Conducting High Speed Trading Business Operations

(1) Major Supervisory Viewpoints

Supervisors shall examine whether High Speed Traders are adequately staffed to properly conduct High Speed Trading business operations and whether the structure/system necessary to perform the operations are established, in light of the requirements of Section III-3-1-3.

(2) Supervisory Method and Actions

The requirements specified in III-3-1-3 of this guideline are part of a comprehensive set of elements that should be taken into consideration when supervisors examine whether a High Speed Trader is adequately staffed to properly conduct its business operations. Even if an officer or an employee is deemed to not meet the requirements, it should not automatically lead to the conclusion that the High Speed Trader is not adequately staffed. The important thing is, first and foremost, that High Speed Traders strive to ensure on their own responsibility that they are adequately staffed, in light of those requirements and other elements.

However, supervisors shall hold in-depth hearings regarding the High Speed Trader's thoughts on staffing and the selection process concerning the proposed appointments of officers and employees, etc., in cases where a High Speed Trader is deemed to have failed to take those elements into consideration sufficiently in the selection process, and where it is deemed to be necessary and appropriate for the protection of the public interests and investors to hold such hearings. In addition, they shall require the submission of reports based on Article 66-67 of the FIEA when necessary.

Supervisors shall consider taking actions such as issuing an order for business improvement under Article 66-62 of the FIEA, in cases where the High Speed Trader's control environment for governance is deemed to have a serious problem as a result of the examination of the submitted report, and where the action is deemed to be necessary and appropriate from the viewpoint of protecting public interests and investors.

Furthermore, when the High Speed Trader is deemed to not be adequately staffed to properly conduct High Speed Trading business operations, as a result of the examination of the submitted report, supervisors shall consider taking necessary measures, including issuing an order for business suspension based on Article 66-63(1) of the FIEA.

It should be noted that if the High Speed Trader is an individual person, supervisors shall examine the qualifications of the person from the above viewpoints, and judge whether the staffing level for appropriate HST business operations is sufficient and take necessary actions as with the case of corporate entities.

III-2 Appropriateness of Business Operations

III-2-1 Development of Operational Control System

Sections III-2-1, III-2-2, III-2-7 to 9, and III-2-11 of the Comprehensive Guidelines shall apply mutatis mutandis pursuant to the examination regarding the appropriateness of business operations of High Speed Traders and resultant supervisory actions. In addition, in accordance with the content, characteristics, size and complexity of the business operations of High Speed Traders, supervisors shall conduct examinations and take actions considering the following.

III-2-1-1 Establishment of Internal Rules, etc.

Article 336(i) of the Cabinet Office Ordinance on Financial Instruments Business, etc. (hereinafter referred to as the “FIB Cabinet Ordinance”) requires High Speed Traders to develop internal rules, etc. to operate their HST business properly and take measures, such as training programs, so that employees comply with such internal rules, etc.

Supervisors shall examine the measures taken by High Speed Traders, keeping in mind the following.

- (i) whether High Speed Traders have established internal rules, etc. appropriately, considering their business, characteristics, size, complexity, etc.
- (ii) whether High Speed Traders, recognizing that compliance with internal rules, etc. is part of company-wide legal and regulatory compliance responsibility, also take measures for officers and employees, such as training programs, in accordance with Section III-2-1(1), which shall apply mutatis mutandis pursuant to Section III-2-1 of this guideline

III-2-1-2 Control Environment for Prevention of Abnormal Operations, etc.

In relation to electronic information processing systems and other equipment associated with HST (hereinafter referred to as the “HST System”), Article 66-57(i) of the FIEA requires High Speed Traders to operate HST business so that they will not be recognized as insufficient in preventing a situation where financial markets cannot function fully due to abnormal operations and other reasons in using their HST System (hereinafter referred to as “Abnormal Operation”). Further, Article 336(ii) of the FIB Cabinet Ordinance requires High Speed traders to take measures to manage the HST System adequately to remain in compliance with Article 66-57(1) of the FIEA.

In this connection, the supervisory viewpoints described in Section III-2-8(1) of the Comprehensive Guidelines, which apply mutatis mutandis to Section III-2-1 of this HST Guideline, shall also apply. Supervisors shall also consider the following points.

- (i) whether High Speed Traders have adopted in their HST System a mechanism that does not execute unexpected orders or orders that may cause disruptions in financial markets (hereinafter referred to as “Abnormal Orders”); for example, a regular monitoring mechanism to prevent Abnormal Orders, by setting appropriate levels of hard and soft limits aligned with the types and size of intended trades

- (ii) whether there is a mechanism built in the HST System that promptly prevents disruptions of financial markets if Abnormal Orders are placed; for example, a mechanism to handle Abnormal Orders appropriately in accordance with the types, size, etc. of trades, such as a function to cancel Abnormal Orders to market (so-called “kill switch”)
- (iii) whether the High Speed Trader has established a function appropriately managing the operational environment for the mechanisms described in (i)-(ii) above, for example:
 - A. whether the High Speed Trader endeavored to enhance and maintain a rigorous management system related to the Abnormal Operation and Abnormal Orders through human resource allocation, including the selection of employees to make programs for transaction system and system administrators, training programs for officers, and periodic inspections of trading system management
 - B. whether at the stage of program installation, the High Speed Trader confirms the adequacy of the HST System’s data processing capability before moving to the operation stage, for example, by conducting a system test with an expectation of an increase in data to process, etc.
 - C. whether the High Speed Trader has developed a framework in which internal control department staff, etc. who can make appropriate decisions on setting, triggering and canceling hard limit, soft limit and kill switches can get involved appropriately and whether the framework functions properly
 - D. whether a contingency plan exists for the Abnormal Operation, such as large-scale abnormal orders, and is disseminated to officers and employees thoroughly

III-2-1-3 Control Environment for Prevention of Unfair Trading, etc.

Article 337 of the FIB Cabinet Ordinance requires High Speed Traders to take, without fail, necessary and appropriate prevention measures against unfair trades, including trades based on corporate-related information, market manipulation, etc.

In this connection, supervisors shall keep in mind the following.

- (i) whether the related High Speed Trader endeavors to enhance and maintain a rigorous management system related to unfair trading through human resource allocation, including the selection of employees in charge of investment decision making and employees to make programs for transaction systems, training programs for officers, and periodic inspections of trading system management
- (ii) whether the High Speed Trader has established a structure/system to prevent the buying and selling of securities utilizing corporate-related information, where the corporate-related information obtained by the traders is appropriately managed; for example, a system in which officers and employees, etc. who obtain corporate-related information will report to the internal control department, which will take measures such as placement of restrictions on trading the related shares
- (iii) whether the High Speed Trader has established and effectively utilizes trading criteria regarding market manipulation, etc., for example, as follows:
 - A. in order to ensure fairness as to High Speed Trading, whether the High Speed Trader has established criteria specifically for single-name stocks, considering the stocks’ historical price changes, the High Speed Traders’ trading share as to the stocks, the status of trading by specific staff members in charge, etc.; and whether the trader selects stocks properly by installing a mechanism to the HST System to ensure stocks are selected based on the criteria

B. whether the High Speed Trader has established specific criteria for screening single-name stocks, and appropriately manages trading, such as, through necessary measures to exclude unfair trades, including market manipulation (e.g., inquiries to the staff in charge of order, cautioning, and termination of trades)

C. whether the High Speed Trader's internal control division, etc. ensures the effectiveness of selection criteria, screening criteria and implemented measures by verifying the consistency against actual status and making revisions as necessary

III-2-2 Supervisory Method and Actions

When supervisors have recognized an issue of supervisory concern regarding the control environment for operational and financial issues of a High Speed Trader, through daily supervisory administration and the reporting of problematic conduct, they shall identify and keep track of the status of voluntary improvement made by the High Speed Trader, by requiring the submission of reports based on Article 66-67 of the FIEA.

When the High Speed Trader is deemed to have a serious problem from the viewpoint of protecting public interests and investors, the supervisors shall take actions, including issuing an order for business improvement based on Article 66-62 of the FIEA.

When the High Speed Trader is deemed to have committed a serious and malicious violation of law, the supervisors shall consider necessary actions, including the issuance of an order for business suspension based on Article 66-63(1) of the FIEA.
