This responds to your Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) request, which was received by this office on 5 February 2016 for "A digital/electronic copy of the NSA old security posters from the 1950s and 1960s." For purposes of this request and based on the information you provided in your letter, you are considered an "all other" requester. The specific statute applicable in this case is Section 6, Public Law 86-36 (50 U.S. Code 3605).

- Please include the case number provided above.

- NSA will endeavor to respond within 20 working days of receiving your appeal, absent any unusual circumstances.

You may also contact our FOIA Public Liaison at foialo@nsa.gov for any further assistance and to discuss any aspect of your request. A silhouette of a person, likely a woman, is shown from the back, holding a large, ornate silver platter. The platter is illuminated from below, creating a bright glow. On the platter, a small white card is placed, with the handwritten number "35-19-47" visible. The background is dark, with a circular light source behind the person's head, creating a halo effect.

Too many of us think sabotage as a wartime function of our enemies. Such an attitude is extremely naive. Sabotage can and does go steadily today although we are in a state of what passes for peace.

The probability, therefore, that the enemies of our country will promote the devastation by the sabotage as well as the grab for knowledge by the spy, is continually present. Thus we are always on guard against the threat of sabotage, the danger it poses to our work here.

You should be alert to acts of a suspicious nature you may observe near you. An unusual activity of employees which may notice should be reported at once to security authorities. Any damage done to our agency is, of course, damage to our country.

Loss of Comprom
Notify your supervisor immediately any loss, compromise, or suspected compromise of classified information that comes to your attention. You are likewise notified immediately upon your supervision that information comes to your attention which jeopardizes the extension of actual threatened espionage, or either directly or indirectly affect/effect the furtherance of the contract or project. Neither position, job title nor rank establishes a "need to know."

LOOSE TALK
Your obligation to security at your place of work does not end when you walk through the gate homeward bound each day.

Therefore, when you are away from work, at all times you must keep your knowledge of our operations entirely to yourself. This is particularly true when you are traveling or are among total strangers.

In public gathering places such as restaurants, bars, hotel lobbies, trains, buses and so on you must shun discussion of your activity at work.

Even when you are out socially with the "boys" or "girls", most or all of whom may work with you, you should NOT talk about your work at the office, in the shops, or in the yard.

A Message of Importance
The international communist conspiracy is waging an unceasing, battle to subvert the internal security of the United States. A major front of this diabolical offensive is the development of means by which America's classified defense information can be stolen or otherwise obtained.

It is imperative, therefore, that you be alert to this threat of espionage and diligently protect sensitive data in your control. Indifference to the interests of our country can only serve the interests of Soviet bloc agents who are continually testing us for weaknesses which they can exploit. Careless discussion of security matters should be avoided. Small bits of seemingly innocuous conversation pieced together by a clever espionage expert could reveal an important defense secret.

You hold a great trust from your fellow Americans which requires the highest degree of vigilance. We must never relax our guard against the menace of communism which is seeking to enslave us.

SECURITY GUARDS

The guard force and security patrol are the first bulwarks of security. They are the first line of defense against the intrusion of outsiders who have no legitimate business within our installations.

Neither newcomers nor old employees should make the mistake of taking the guards for granted. They are here to render service and to help you at any time. Our guards are operating actively and it is their duty to authorized persons whose duties clearly require such "access" in the interest of National defense.

Employees shall be granted "access" to classified information only on a "need to know" basis and then only to the extent of an equivalent clearance.

The fact that an employee (or the intended recipient) has a security clearance does not mean that he has "access" to classified information until his "need to know" has also been established.

Responsibility for determining whether a person's duties require that he possess or have "access" to classified information rests upon you when you have control of the

Need to Know
The requirement of "need to know" is the requirement of classification of classified information.

VIGILANCE UNVEILS ESPIONAGE

One hot morning in the summer of 1953, a fourteen-year-old newspaper delivery boy had just received fifty cents in change from a customer in an apartment building in Brooklyn, New York. While walking down the stairs, the change slipped from his hand and dropped on the staircase. When the newsboy looked down, he noticed that one of the nickels had split in half. Picking up the pieces he discovered that one of them contained a piece of microfilm.

The newsboy turned the hollow coin over to the police and was commended for his quick action. The New York Police gave the coin to the FBI and it eventually helped to lead to the downfall of the top Soviet agent in the United States: Colonel Rudolf Ivanovich Abel.

Notify your Office of Security immediately in the event that information comes to your attention which points to the existence of actual or threatened espionage, sabotage or subversion. Our national security depends upon your highest degree of vigilance.
