Doubtful Fictions

The Scepticism of Humour in the English Literary Canon, 1379–1767

This book attempts an innovative exploration of the connection between humour and scepticism in the English literary canon. Defining humour as a capability, or better put, as a dunamis, it looks into its 'energeiaic' forms of actualisation in the English literary imagination from Chaucer to Sterne.

Translation, Adaptation, and Intertextuality in Hungarian Popular Music

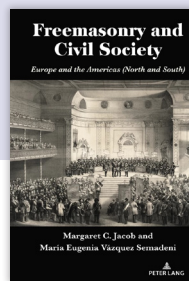

This volume undertakes a comprehensive examination of issues of translation, adaptation, and intertextuality in Hungarian popular music. Focusing on the period of state socialism, the authors provide various examples of how musicians – professionals and amateurs alike – borrowed songs from distant times and places, reinventing them in a new political, technological, and esthetic environment.

«Révolution socialiste» en Chine : gouvernance et discordances

Soucieux de gagner l'indépendance et l'autonomie du pays face au monde occidental et à l'URSS, le leader révolutionnaire Mao Zedong a mené, entre 1949 et 1976, une «Révolution socialiste» continue. Cet ouvrage observe les formes de l'autoritarisme maoïste en multipliant les angles de vue — arcanes du pouvoir de parti-État, opposition au sein du système, voix réfractaires des petites gens, etc. S'appuyant sur des sources inédites, l'auteur o_ re des plongées sur des personnages de second ou troisième rang peu connus de l'histoire de la Chine contemporaine, des éclairages sur une ville (Shanghai) plutôt que sur une histoire nationale, ainsi que sur une multitude d'acteurs ordinaires impliqués dans les divers moments maoïstes.

Philosophical and Translatological Wanderings in Moominvalley

Philosophical and Translatological Wanderings in Moominvalley explores the Moomin saga as double-address fiction. First, its philosophical hypotexts geared to adult readers are discussed. Then, the focus shifts to the Polish translation of selected language issues in the series to capture the implications of double address for translation studies.

What is Jihad?

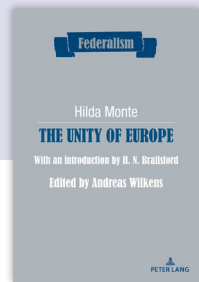

Toward a Theory of Jihad in Political Discourse

This book reveals to you the true meaning of Jihad in Islam. Our approach is based on the neurocognitive theory of meaning. This study is my attempt to give snapshots of how a scientific religious interpretation might look if we tried to do that. The whole point of a cognitive approach to religion is to aid us in gaining access to the conceptual network that the religious text is based on so that we can, in some extended sense of the term, understand the way we should understand it.

Mujer y suicidio en la literatura española y británica de la segunda mitad del siglo XIX

La mujer suicida se convirtió en una imagen recurrente en la imaginación decimonónica a lo largo de toda Europa, pues encapsulaba una ideología que subrayaba la fragilidad femenina y su tendencia a la locura a la vez que erotizaba y fetichizaba el cadáver como objeto artístico. La respuesta de las escritoras ante semejante estereotipación no se hizo esperar. Este trabajo analiza las representaciones literarias del suicidio femenino en la segunda mitad del siglo XIX en España y Gran Bretaña, prestando especial atención al modo en que las narrativas femeninas coincidieron en tratar este tema desde una óptica diferencial que hacía de este tema uno político por medio del que denunciar la desigual situación social de las mujeres y dismantelar el cliché en torno a la feminidad y la locura.

Beata Snieciowska
A Stab in the Ear

Poetics of Sound in Futurism and Dadaism

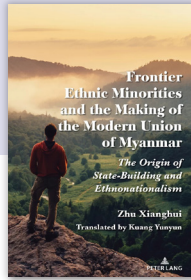

The Futurists produced most conspicuous, creative, and diverse figures of sound in the Polish avant-garde. The book is a comparative study of the Polish Futurists' works presented against the backdrop of European literary practices of the time (Dadaism, Italian and Russian Futurism) and the Polish literary tradition (folk poetry, Young Poland). S'nieciowska examines variations on symbolist "musicality," traces similarities between Polish Futurist word formation and Cubo-Futurist experimentation, compares Dadaist and Futurist concepts of onomatopoeia, analyses applications of Marinetti's "words in freedom." The study also deals with uses of glossolalia and echolalia as well as sound-semantic concepts that employ pure nonsense and parody.

Frontier Ethnic Minorities and the Making of the Modern Union of Myanmar

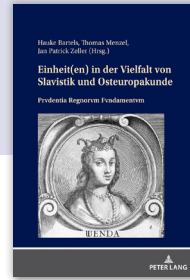

The Origin of State-Building and Ethnonationalism

The book establishes that the ethnic problems in Myanmar can be solved only if the Myanmar government and the ethnic minorities in the mountainous areas, that is the frontier peoples, foster a new relationship on the basis of economic development, equal political rights and respect for ethnic minorities.

The Acts of the Apostles

A Hypertextual Commentary

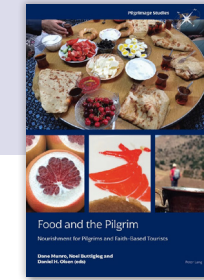

This monograph demonstrates that the Acts of the Apostles is a hypertextual reworking of the Letter to the Galatians. The strictly sequential dependence on Galatians explains numerous surprising features of Acts. Therefore, this monograph offers a new solution to the problem of the relationship between Acts and the Pauline and post-Pauline letters.
