1) Introduction and Definitions

This Candidate Privacy Notice (“Privacy Notice”) explains how the TEL Companies in Europe (which includes Tokyo Electron Europe Limited (TEEL), (Tokyo Electron Limited Magnetic Solutions (TELMS) and Tokyo Electron Israel Limited (TEY))” (henceforth referred to as “the Company”, “we,” “our,” or “us”) handles your Personal Data and can include Personal Data about others where you share their Personal Data with us as part of our attraction, application, recruitment and selection process, henceforth referred to as “recruitment”.

“Personal Data” means any information about an individual from which that person can be identified. It does not include data where the identity has been removed (anonymous data). There are ‘special categories’ of more sensitive personal data which, for example, includes information about your racial or ethnic origin and your health, which we shall call “Sensitive Personal Data” in this Privacy Notice.

The Company entities responsible for the collection and use of your Personal Data for the purposes described in this Privacy Notice are listed above. It details how we collect your Personal Data, why we collect it, and with whom we may share it. Where you provide Personal Data about others directly to us, you must obtain that individual’s express consent and you have an obligation to provide them with a copy of this notice before doing so, such as your referees.

This Privacy Notice also discloses your Personal Data rights. It applies to all of your Personal Data, including Personal Data stored electronically or in hard copy.

- Why we collect your personal information;
- What information is collected; and
- How it is processed within the recruitment process.

Throughout this Privacy Notice we use the term “processing” to cover all activities involving your Personal Data, including collecting, handling, storing, sharing, accessing, using, transferring and disposing of the information.

Our HR systems are protected to ensure that unauthorised or unlawful processing of personal information, accidental loss or destruction of, or damage to, personal information does not occur.

Where we share information with other parties located outside your country, as a minimum, the Company will require that such personal information is protected as required by the laws of the country where you work. All recipients of the Personal Data are contractually obliged to comply with applicable laws or regulations, including having a valid EU Personal Data cross-border transfer mechanism in place to receive EU personal data, which can include an “adequacy” determination by the European Commission and/or executing EU Standard Contractual Clauses with us.

For more information about our cross-border transfers of your Personal Data, please contact us using the information as described in Section 9 below.

The Company also requires its third party suppliers or recipients of Personal Data to guarantee the same level of protection as it would provide. We will require that these recipients protect the confidentiality and security of your Personal Data that are shared with them. These third parties must contractually agree that they will not use or disclose your Personal Data for any other purposes than necessary to provide us with services, perform services on our behalf or directly to you, or to comply with applicable laws or regulations.

6) Your Rights

You have a right to request to see the information the Company holds about you. You can also request changes to be made to incorrect information. You can also request that we erase your Personal Data when it is no longer needed for the purposes for which you provided it, restrict how we process your Personal Data to certain limited purposes, or object to our processing of your Personal Data where our processing of your information is based solely on our legitimate interests. In certain circumstances you may be able to request that we send a copy of your Personal Data to a third party of your choice.

You also have the right to lodge a complaint with a supervisory authority if you consider that the processing of your personal data infringes applicable law.

To exercise any of these rights, or if you have any queries about this notice or your Personal Data generally, including questions about accessing your Personal Data or correcting it, you should contact the Company's HR Department in the first instance using the details contained in Section 9 below.

We need to make you aware that even where you exercise a right detailed above, we may not be able to comply with that request if an exception in law applies. Where this is the case we will notify you and explain why we're unable to meet your request.

As this document is updated, the latest version will be posted on our site.

7) Processing Conditions

The Company's entitlement to process your Personal Data is governed by a number of processing conditions. This processing will always be fair and lawful and will at all times comply with the principles of applicable privacy laws in the country where you have applied to be employed.

This means that we may rely on more than one of these conditions in order to process elements of your Personal Data throughout the recruitment process.

- The Company will process your Personal Data for the administration of your application. It is in our legitimate interests to decide whether to appoint you to a role since it would be beneficial to our business to appoint someone to that role.
- We also need to process your Personal Data to decide whether to enter into a contract of employment or services with you.
- The Company will also process your Personal Data where it is required by law or regulation, such as carrying out a right to work check. Furthermore the Company processes your Personal Data for the legitimate interest to ensure compliance requirements.
- During the course of your application it may also be necessary for the Company or its suppliers to process your Sensitive Personal Data as per the detail in section 2 and Appendix 1 of this Privacy Notice. This processing will be carried out with your express consent which is captured as part of the recruitment process.
- If required by the local law we will ask for your consent.

Whenever the Company processes your personal data we do so on the basis of a legal basis or justification for that processing. Processing of special categories of data is always justified on the basis of an additional lawful condition. In the majority of cases, the processing of your personal data will be justified on one of the following bases:

- The processing is necessary for compliance with a legal obligation to which the Company is subject; or
- Where there is no legal obligation we will process your data where the processing is necessary for the performance of a contract to which you are a party or in order to take steps at your request prior to entering into such a contract;
- Where the above two grounds do not apply we may process your personal data where the processing is necessary for the legitimate interests pursued by the Company, except where such interests are overridden by your interests or fundamental rights and freedoms which require protection of personal data.

We may process your personal data for the purpose of legitimate interests pursued by a third party, except where such interests are overridden by your interests or fundamental rights and freedoms which require protection of personal data (for example to meet the security requirements of our customers.)
